The order how the Psalter is appointed to be read.

THe Psalter shall be read through once every Moneth, and because that some Monethes be longer then some other bee: it is thought good to make them euen by these meanes.

To euery Moneth as concerning thys purpose, shall be appoynted.xxx.dayes.

And because January and Marche hath one day aboue the sayde number, and Februarye which is placed betwene them both, hath onely.xxviii.dayes, February shall borow of eyther of the monethes of January and Marche one day, and so the Psalter which shalbe read in Februarye, must be begon the last day of January, and ended the first day of March.

And whereas May, July, August, October, and December hath.xxxi. dayes a peece, it is ordered that the same Psalmes shall be reade the last day of the Moneth which were read ỹ day before, so that the psalter may be begon agayne the first day of the next Moneth ensuing.

Now to know what Psalmes shall be read euerye daye, loke in the Kalender the number that is appointed for the Psalmes, and then finde the same number in this Table, and vpon that number shal you see what Psalmes shall be sayde at Morning and Euening prayer.

And where the C.xix. Psalme is deuided into.xxii. portions, and is ouerlong to be read at one time: It is so ordered, that at one time shal not be read aboue foure or fyue of the sayd portions, as you shall perceyue to be noted in this Table.

And here is also to be noted, that in this Table, & in all other partes of the Seruice, where any Psalmes are appointed, the number is expressed after the great English Bible, which from the.ix. Psalme, vnto the cxlviii. Psalme (following the diuision of the Hebrues) doth vary in numbers from the common Latin translation.

This also is to be noted, that whensoeuer there be anye proper psalmes or Lessons appointed for any feast moueable or vnmoueable, there the Psalmes and Lessons appointed in the Kalender, shall be omitted for that time.

A Table for the order of the Psalmes to be sayde at morning and Euening prayer.

The Order where Morning and Euening prayer, shall be vsed and saide.

The Morning and Euening prayer shall bee vsed in the accustomed place of the Church, Chappell, or Chauncell, except it shall be otherwise determined by the Ordinarie of the place, and the Chauncels shall remaine as they haue done in times past.

And here is to be noted, that the Minister at the time of the Communion and at all other times in his ministration, shall vse such ornaments in the Church as were in vse by authoritie of Parliament in the seconde yeare of the raigne of king Edwarde the vi.

At the beginning both of Morning prayer, and likewise of Euening prayer, the Minister shall reade with a lowde voyce some one of these sentences of the scriptures. And then he shall say that which is written after the saide sentence.

AT what tyme soeuer a sinner doth repent him of his sinne, from the bottome of his hart: I will put all his wickednes out of my remembrance (sayth the Lorde.) Eze. 18.

I doe know mine owne wickednes, and my sinne is alwayes against mee. Psal. 51.

Turne thy face away from our sinnes (O Lorde) and blot out all our offences.

A sorrowfull spirite is a sacrifice to God, despise not (O Lorde,) humble and contrite harts. Psal. 51.

Rent your hartes, and not your garments, and turne to the Lord your God, because he is gentle and mercifull, he is pacient, and of much mercy, and such a one as is sorie for your afflictions. Joel. 3.

To thee, O Lorde, belongeth mercie and forgiuenes, for wee haue gone away from thee, and haue not harkened to thy voyce, whereby we might walke in thy lawes, which thou hast appointed for vs. Dani. 9.

Correct vs, O Lorde, and yet in thy iudgement, not in thy furie, least we should be consumed and brought to nothing. Jere. 2.

Amende your lyues, for the kingdome of God is at hande. Math. 4.

I will go to my father, and say vnto hym: father I haue sinned against heauen and against thee, I am no more worthy to be called thy sonne. Luc. 15.

Enter not into iudgement with thy seruaunts, O Lorde, for no flesh is righteous in thy sight. Psal. 143.

If we say that we haue no sinne, we deceyue our selues, and there is no truth in vs. 1. Johh. 1.

DEarely beloued brethren, the Scripture moueth vs in sundry places, to acknowledge and confesse our manifolde sinnes and wickednes, and that we should not dissemble nor cloke them before the face of almightie God our heauenly father, but confesse them with an humble, lowly, penitent, and obedient heart, to the intent that we may obtaine forgiuenes of the same, by his infinite goodnes and mercie. And although we ought at all times, humbly to knowledge our sinnes before God, yet ought we most chiefly so to do, when we assemble and meete togither, to render thankes for the great benefits that we haue receiued at his hands, to set forth his most worthy praise, to here his most holy worde, and to aske those things which be requisite and necessarie, as well for the body as the soule. Wherefore I pray and beseech you as many as be here present, to accompanie mee with a pure hart and humble voyce, vnto the throne of the heauenly grace, saying after mee.

A generall confession to be said of the whole congregation after the minister kneeling.

ALmighty and most mercifull father, we haue erred and strayed from thy wayes like lost sheepe. We haue followed to much the deuises and desires of our owne harts, we haue offended against thy holy lawes. We haue left vndone those things which we ought to haue done, and we haue done those things which wee ought not to haue done, & there is no health in vs, but thou O Lord haue mercy vpon vs miserable offenders. Spare thou them O God, which confesse their faults. Restore thou them that be penitent, according to thy promises declared to mankind, in Christ Iesu our Lord. And graunt, O most mercifull father, for his sake, that we may hereafter liue a godly righteous and sober life, to the glory of thy holy name. Amen.

The absolution to be pronounced by the minister alone.

ALmighty God the father of our Lord Iesus Christ, which desireth not the death of a sinner, but rather that he maye turne from his wickednesse and liue, and hath giuen power and commaundement to his ministers, to declare and pronounce to his people being penitent, the absolution and remission of their sinnes, he pardoneth and absolueth all them that truely repent, and vnfaynedly beleue his holy Gospell. Wherefore we beseech him to graunt vs true repentance, and his holy spirit, that those things may please him which we doe at this present, & that the rest of our life hereafter may be pure and holy, so that at the last we may come to his eternall ioy, through Iesus Christ our Lorde.

The people shall answere.

Amen.

Then shall the minister begin the Lordes prayer with a loude voyce.

BRITISH MUSEUM

OUr Father which art in Heauen, halowed be thy name: Thy kingdome come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heauen. Giue vs this day our daylie bread. And forgiue vs oure trespasses, as we forgiue them that trespas against vs. And leade vs not into temptation. But deliuer vs from euill. Amen.

O God, make ſpede to ſaue vs.

O Lord make haſte to helpe vs.

Prieſte.

Glory be to the father, and to the ſonne, and to the holy Ghoſt.

As it was in the begynnynge, is nowe, and euer ſhalbe: worlde without ende. Amen.

Prayſe ye the Lord.

Then ſhalbe ſayd or ſonge, this Pſalme folowyng.

O Come let vs ſynge vnto the Lorde, let vs hartelye reioyce in the ſtrengthe of oure ſaluation.

Let vs come before hys preſence with thankes geuynge, and ſhewe our ſelues glad in him with pſalmes.

For the lord is a great God, and a great kyng aboue all Gods.

In hys handes are all the corners of the earthe, and the ſtrengthe of the hylles is hys alſo.

The Sea is his, and he made it: and his handes prepared the drye land.

O come, let vs worſhyppe, and fall downe, and kneele before the Lorde our maker.

For he is the Lorde our God, and we are the people of hys paſture, and the ſhepe of hys handes.

To day if ye wil heare his voyce, harden not your hartes, as in the prouocation, and as in the day of temptation in the wildernes.

Glory be to the father. &c.
As it was in the begynning. &c.

Then ſhalbe redde two leſſons diſtinctly with a loude voyce, that the people maye heare. The firſte of the olde Teſtamente, the ſeconde of the newe, lyke as they be appoynted by the Kalender, except there be proper leſſons aſſygned for that daye, the Miniſter that readeth the Leſſon ſtandyng, and turnyng hym ſo, that he may beſt be heard of all ſuche as bee preſente. And before euery leſſon, the miniſter ſhall ſay thus. The firſte, ſeconde, third, or fourthe Chapter of Geneſis, or Exodus, Matthew, Marke, or other booke, as is appoynted in the Kalender. And in the ende of euery Chapter, he ſhall ſaye:

Here endeth ſuch a Chapter, of ſuch a Booke.

And (to the ende the people may the better heare) in such places where they do synge, there shall the lessons bee songe in a playne tune / after the manner of distinct readyng / and lykewyse the Epistle and Gospell.

The third for ayde agaynst al perils/as hereafter folowed/whiche twoe last Collectes shalbe dayely sayde at Euening Prayer without alteration.

The second Collect at Euening prayer.

O God from whom all holy desyres, all good counsayles, and all iuste workes do proceede, geue vnto thy seruantes that peace which the worlde cannot geue, that both oure heartes maye be set to obeye thy commaundementes, and also that by thee, we being defended from the fear of our enemyes, may passe our tyme in rest and quietnes, through the merites of Iesus Christ our Sauiour. Amen.

The third Collect for ayde agaynst all perils.

LIghten oure darkenes we beseche thee, O Lorde, and by thy greate mercy defend vs from al perils and daungers of this nyght, for the loue of thy onelye sonne our Sauiour Iesus Christ. Amen.

In the feastes of Christemas/The Epiphany/Saint Mathie/Easter, The Ascension, Pentecost/Saint John Baptist/Saint James/Saint Bartholomewe/Saint Mathewe/Sayne Symon and Jude, Sainte Andrewe/and Trinity Sunday/shalbe song or sayd immediatlye after Benedictus, thys confession of our Christen fayth.

WHosoeuer wyl be saued: before al thynges it is necessary that he holde the Catholike fayth.

Whyche fayth, excepte euerye one do kepe pure and vndefyled: wythout doubt he shal perysshe euerlastingly.

And the Catholyke fayth is thys, that we worshyp one God in Trinitie, and Trinity in vnitie.

Neyther confounding the persons, nor deuyding the substaunce.

For there is one persone of the father, another of the sonne, and another of the holy Ghoste.

But the godheade of the father, of the Sonne, and of the holy ghoste, is all one, the glory equall, the maiestye coeternall.

Such

Suche as the Father is, suche is the Soonne, and suche is the holye Ghoste.

The Father vncreate, the Soonne vncreate, and the holye Ghoste vncreate.

The Father incomprehensible, the Sonne incomprehensible, and the holy Ghost incomprehensible.

The Father eternal, the Sonne eternal, and the holy Ghost eternall.

And yet they are not three eternalles, but one eternal.

As also there bee not three incomprehensibles, nor three vncreated, but one vncreated, and one incomprehensible.

So lykewyse the Father is almyghty, the sonne almyghty, and the holy Ghost almyghty.

And yet they are not three almightes, but one almyghty.

So the father is God, the sonne is God, and the holye Ghoste is God.

And yet are they not three Gods, but one God.

So lykewyse the father is Lord, the son is lord: & ỹ holy ghost is Lord.

And yet not three Lordes: but one Lord.

For lyke as wee be compelled by christian veritie, yea to acknowledge euerye Person by him selfe to be God and Lord.

So are we forbydden by the Catholyke religion, to saye there bee three Gods, or three Lordes.

The father is made of none, neither created nor begotten.

The sonne is of the father alone, not made, nor created, but begotten.

The holy Ghost is of the father, and of the sonne, neither made, nor created, nor begotten, but proceding.

So there is one Father, not three Fathers, one Son, not three Sons, one holy ghost, not three holy Ghostes.

And in thys Trinitie none is afore or after other, none is greater nor lesse then another.

But the whole three persons be coeternal together, and coequal.

So that in all thynges, as is aforesayde, the vnitie in Trinitie, and the Trinitie in vnitie, is to be worshypped.

He therefore that wilbe saued, must thus thinke of the Trinitye.

Furthermore, it is necessary to euerlastynge saluation, that he also beleue ryghtly in the incarnation of our Lord Jesus Chryst.

For the ryght fayth is, that we beleue and confesse, that oure Lord Jesus Chryst the sonne of God, is God and man.

God of the substaunce of the father, begotten before the worldes, and man, of the substance of hys mother, borne in the world.

Perfecte God and perfecte manne, of a reasonable soule, and humayne flesh subsistynge.

Equal to the father as touching hys godheade, and inferiour to the father touching hys manhode.

who although he be God and man, yet he is not two, but one Chryste.

One, not by conuersion of the Godheade into flesh, but by taking of the manhode into God.

One altogether, not by confusion of substance, but by vnity of person.

For as the reasonable soule and flesh is one man, so God and man is one Chryst.

who suffered for oure Saluation, descended into hell, rose again the thyrd day from the dead.

He aſcended into heauen: he ſytteth on the ryght hand of the father, god almyghty, from whence he ſhall come to iudge the quicke and the dead.

At whoſe commynge all men ſhall ryſe agayne with theyr bodies: and ſhall geue accompt for theyr owne workes.

And they that haue doon good, ſhall goe into lyfe euerlaſtyng: and they that haue done euill, into euerlaſtyng fyre.

This is the Catholike fayth, whiche excepte a man beleue faythfully, he can not be ſaued.

As it was in the begynnyng, is nowe and euer ſhalbe, world without ende. Amen.

¶ Thus endeth the Order of Mornyng and Euenyng Prayer, through the whole yeare.

Neither reward vs after our iniquities.

Let vs pray.

O Lorde merciful father that despisest not the sighing of a contrite heart, nor the desyre of such as be sorowful: mercifully assiste our prayers, that we make before thee in al our troubles and aduersities, whensoeuer they oppresse vs, and graciously heare vs, that those euils euils, which the craft and subtiltie of the Deuill or man worketh against vs, be brought to naught, and by the prouidence of thy goodnesse, they may be dispersed, that we thy seruants, being hurt by no persecution, may euermore giue thankes vnto thee, in thy holy Church, thorowe Jesus Christ our Lorde.

O Lorde, arise, help vs, and deliuer vs, for thy names sake.

O God, we haue heard with our eares, & our fathers haue declared vnto vs, ℣ noble worke ℣ thou didst in their dais, & in the old time before them.

O Lorde, arise helpe vs, and deliuer vs for thine honour.

Glorie be to the Father, and to the sonne, and to the holy ghost.

As it hath bene from the beginning, is nowe, and euer shall be, worlde without ende. Amen.

From our enimies defende vs, O Christ.

Graciously looke vpon our afflictions.

Pittifully beholde the sorrowes of our hart.

Mercifully forgiue the sinnes of thy people,

Fauourably with mercie heare our prayers.

O sonne of Dauid, haue mercie vpon vs.

Both nowe and euer vouchsafe to heare vs, O Christ.

Graciously heare vs, O Christ.

Graciously heare vs, O Lord Christ.

The Versicle.

O Lorde let thy mercy be shewed vpon vs.

The Answere. As we do put our trust in thee.

Let vs pray.

WE humbly beseech thee O father, mercifullye to looke vpon our infirmities, and for the glory of thy names sake, turne from vs all those euils that we most righteously haue deserued. And graūt that in all our troubles we may put oure whole trust and confidence in thy mercie, and euermore serue thee in holynes and purenes of liuing to thy honour and glorie, through our onely mediatour and aduocate Jesus Christ our Lorde. Amen.

After the end of the Collect in the Letanie, which beginneth with these words: We humbly beseech thee O Father. &c. shall follow this Psalme to be saide of the Minister, with the answere of the people.

LOrde, thou art become gracious vnto thy lande, thou hast turned away the afflictions of thy seruaunts.

2 Thou hast taken awaye all thy displeasure, and turned thy selfe from thy wrathfull indignation.

3 For if (thou Lorde) hadst not helped vs, it had not failed, but our soules had bene put to silence.

4 But when we saide, our feete haue slipped, thy mercie, O Lord, hath helped vs vp.

5 In the multitude of the sorrowes that we had in our hartes, thy comfortes haue refreshed our soules.

6 Our soules wayted still vpon the Lorde, oure soules hanged vpon his helpe, our hope was alwayes in him.

7 In the Lordes worde did we reioyce, in Gods worde did we comforte our selues.

8 For the Lorde saide: call vpon me in the time of trouble: and I will heare thee, and thou shalt praise mee.

9 So when we were poore, needie, sickly, and in heauines, the Lorde cared for vs, he was our help, and our Sauiour according to his worde.

10 In our aduersitie and distresse he hath lift vp our heades, and saued vs from vtter destruction.

11 He hath deliuered our soules from death, he hath fed vs in the time of dearth, he hath saued vs from the noysome pestilence.

12 Therefore will we offer in his holy temple: the oblation of thankesgiuing with great gladnes, we wil sing and speake praises vnto the Lord our Sauiour.

13 We will giue thanks vnto the Lord, for he is gracious, and his mercie endureth for euer.

14 The Lorde is full of compassion and mercie, long suffering, plenteous in goodnes and pittie.

15 His mercie is greater then the heauens, and his gracious goodnes reacheth vnto the cloudes.

16 Like as a father pittieth his owne children: euen so is the Lorde mercifull vnto them that feare him.

17 Therefore will we praise thee, and thy mercies (O God) vnto thee will we sing, O thou holy one of Israell.

18 We will sing a new song vnto thee, O God, we will praise the Lord with psalmes of thankesgiuing.

19 O sing praises, sing praises vnto our God, sing praises, sing praises vnto our King.

20 For God is the king of the earth, sing praises with vnderstanding.

21 We will magnifie thee O God oure king, we will praise thy name for euer and euer.

22 Euery daye will we giue thankes vnto thee, and praise thy name for euer and euer.

23 Our mouth shall speake the prayses of the Lorde, and let all flesh giue thankes vnto his holy name for euer and euer.

24 Blessed be the Lord God of Israel for euer, and blessed be the name of his maiestie worlde without ende. Amen. Amen.

A prayer for the Queenes Maiestie:

Graunt hir in health and wealth long to lyue: strength hir that she may vanquish and ouercome al hir enimies. And finally, after this lyfe, she may attaine euerlasting ioye and felicitie, through Iesus Christ our Lorde. Amen.

Almightie and euerlasting God, which onely worketh great marualles, sende downe vpon our Bishops and Curates, and all congregations committed to their charge, the healthfull spirite of thy grace, and that they may truely please thee. Poure vpon them the continuall dewe of thy blessing. Graunt this, O Lorde, for the honour of our aduocate and mediatour Iesus Christ. Amen.

O Lorde GOD, which for the sinne of man diddest once drowne all the worlde, except eight persons, and afterward of thy great mercie diddest promise neuer to destroy it so againe, wee humbly beseech thee, that although wee for oure iniquities haue worthily deserued this plague of raine and waters, yet vpon oure true repentaunce, thou wilt sende vs such seasonable weather, whereby we maye receiue the fruites of the earth in due season, and learne both by thy punishment to amend our lyues, and for thy clemencie to giue thee praise and glorie, throwe Jesus Christ our Lorde. Amen.

O God heauenly Father, whose gift it is, that the raine doth fall, the earth is fruitful, beastes increase, and fishes doe multiplie: Beholde, we beseeche thee, the afflictions of thy people, and graunt that the scarcitie and dearth (which we do now most iustly suffer for our iniquitie) maye throwe thy goodnesse be mercifully turned into cheapnesse and plentie, for the loue of Jesu Christ oure Lorde, to whome with thee and the holy ghost, be praise for euer. Amen.

O Almightie GOD, king of kings, and gouernour of all thinges, whose power no creature is able to resist, to whome it belongeth iustly to punishe sinners: and to be mercifull vnto them that truely repent. Saue and delyuer vs (we humbly beseeche thee, from the handes of oure enimies, abate their pride, asswage their malice, and confounde their deuises, that wee being armed with thy defence maye be preserued euermore from all perilles to glorifie thee, which art the onely giuer of all victorie, throwe the merites of thy onely sonne Jesus Christ our Lorde. Amen.

In the time of any commen plague or sickneſſe.

ALmightie God, which haſt giuen vs grace at thys time with one accord, to make our common ſupplications vnto thee, and doeſt promiſe that when two or three bee gathered in thy name, thou wilte graunt their requeſtes: fulfill now O Lorde, the deſires and peticions of thy ſeruauntes, as may be moſt expedient for them, graunting vs in this world knowledge of the truth, and in the worlde to come, life euerlaſting. Eccle. 18

11. a.

IN the begynning God created heaue and earth. The erth was voyde and empty, & darkenes was vpon the face of the depe, and the spirite of God moued vpon the face of the waters. And God sayde: let there be made lyght, and ther was light made. And God sawe the lyght, that it was good. And God made a diuision betwene the lyght and darkenesse. And God called the light, day: and ye darknesse, called he night. And ye euening and the morning, was made one day. And God sayd: lette there be a fyrmament betwene ye waters, & let it make a deuision betwen waters & waters. And God made the fyrmamente, and sette a diuision betwene the waters whiche were vnder the fyrmamente, and the waters that were aboue the fyrmament: And it was so. And God called the fyrmament, Heauen. The euenyng also and the morninge was made the second daye. And God sayd: let the waters vnder heauen be gathered together into one place, that ye dry lande may be sene. And so it came to passe. And God called the drye lande, Earth: and gatheryng together of waters called he the seas. And GOD sawe that it was good. And God sayd let the earth bringe forth grene herbe, which may engendre seede: and fruitfull tre, yeldyng fruite after his kind, whose seede may be in it selfe vpon the earth: And it came so to passe. And the earth brought forth grene herbe, makynge seede after hys kynde: and tree yeldynge fruyte, whose seede was in it selfe after hys kynde. And GOD sawe that it was good. The euenyng also and the morninge was made the third day. And God sayd: let ther be made lyghtes in the fyrmamēt of heauen, and let them make a difference betwene the day and the nyght: and let them be vnto sygnes, and vnto appointed seasons: and vnto dayes, and vnto yeares: And let them be vnto lyghtes in the fyrmament of heauen: that they may geue lyght vpō the earth. And so it came to passe. And God made two great lyghtes: a greater lyght to rule the daye, and a lesse lyghte to rule the nyghe: (And he made) starres also: And God set them in the fyrmamente of heauen, that they myght geue light vpon the earth, and that they myghte rule the daye, and the nyghte, and to make a difference betwene the lyghte and the darkenesse. And God sawe that it was good. The euenyng also & the morning was made ye fourth day. And God sayd: let the waters bring forth mouyng creature that hath lyfe, and foule that may flye vpon the erth. in the face of the firmament of heaue. And God created great whales, and euery lyuyng and mouynge creature, whych the waters brought forth after theyr kynde: and euery fethered foule after their kinde. And God sawe that it was good. And God blessed them, sayinge: Growe and increace, & fil the waters of the sea, and let fetheredde foules be multiplied in the earth. The euening also and the morninge was made the fyfte daye. And God sayd: let the earth bring forth liuinge creature after his kind: cattell, wormes and beast of the earth, after his kinde; & so it came to passe. And God made the beast of the earth after hys kind. And God saw that it was good. And god sayde: let vs make man in our ymage, the heauens, and of the earth, when they were created: in the day when the

it was in the earth: and euery herbe of Lorde God had not caused it to rayne the tree of knowledge of good, and of Apo. 2. b euyll, was in the middes of ỹ garden.

And out of Eden there went forth a ryuer to water the garden.
And from thence it was deuided, and became into foure heades. The name of one is * Pison: The same is it that Ecc. 24 compasseth the whole lande of Hav-lah, where there is golde: and the gold of ỹ land is good: There is also Bdellium, and the Onix stone. The name of the second ryuer, is Gihon: the same is it that compasseth the whole lande of Ethiopia. The name of the thyrde ryuer is Hidekel, and it goeth toward the eastsyde of Assiria. And ỹ fourth ryuer is Euphrates.

The Lord God also toke Adam, & C put him into the garden of Eden, that he might dresse and kepe it. And the Lorde God commaunded Adam saying: Eatyng, thou shalt eate of euery tree of the garden, but as touching the tree of knowledge of good and euell, thou shalt not eate of it: Els in what daye soeuer thou eatest thereof, thou shalt dye the death. And agayne the Lorde God sayd: It is not good that Adam should be alone: I wyll make hym an helpe, which may be presente with him. And so out of the grounde shope the Lord God euery beast of the feild, and euery foule of the ayre, and brought it vnto man: that he myght se hym selfe therfore named the names vnto al cattel, & foule of the ayre, and to euery beast of the feilde. And for mā caused a slumber to fall vpon Adam,

and

and he slepte. And he toke one of hys ribbes, & closed vp the flesshe in steade therof. And ỹ rib which the lord god, Eccl.17. had take from man * made he a womã, Co.11 and brought her vnto man. ¶ The.iii. Chapter.

¶ BVt the serpente was subtyller then euerye beast of the fyelde, which the lord God made: And he sayd vnto the woman: yea, hath the Lord God said: ye shal not eate of euery tre of the gardē? And ỹ womã said vnto the serpent: we eate of the fruite of the tre of the garden, but as for the fruite of the tre whiche is in the mids of the garden, God hath saide: ye shall not eate of it, neyther shall ye touche Co.11 it, lest haply ye dye. And * the serpente sayd vnto the woman: ye shal not dye the death, but God dothe knowe that the same daye that ye eate therof your eies shal be opened, & ye shalbe euē as gods, knowing good and euil. And so Eccl.15 the * woman (seyng that the same tree ¶ was good to eate, & lusty to the eies, & that the same tree was pleasant to get wisedome) toke of the fruite thereof, and dyd eate, & gaue vnto her husband being ẅ her, which did eate also. And the eies of thē both were opened, and they knew that thei were naked. And they sowed fig leues together, & made them selues aperns. And they hard ỹ voyce of the Lorde God, walkinge in the garden in the coole of the day. And Adam & his wife hyd thē selues from the presence of the Lord God, among the trees of the garden. And the Lord God called Adam & sayde vnto hym: where art thou? which sayd: I heard thy voice in the garden, & was afraid, because I was naked: & hyd my selfe. And he said: who told the that ỹ wast naked? hast thou not eatē of the same tree, concerning the which I cōmaun ded thee that thou shouldest not eate of it? And Adam sayd: The woman whom thou gauest to be with me, she gaue me of the tre, & I dyd eate. And the Lord God saide vnto the woman: why hast thou done this? And ỹ woman sayd: yonder serpent begyled me, & I dyd eate. And the Lorde God ℭ sayde vnto the serpente: because thou hast done this, thou arte cursed aboue all cattel, and aboue euery beast of the felde. Upon thy belly shalt thou goo, and dust shalte thou eate all the dayes of thy lyfe: I wyll also putte enmitie betwene the and the woman, be- Collo.2. twene thy sede, and her sede: * The same shall treade downe thy head, and thou shal treade vpon his hele. But vnto the womã he saide: In multyplying wyll I multiplye thy sorowe and thy conceauyng: In sorowe shalt thou bring forth children: & thy lust shall pertayne to thy husband, and he shal haue the rule of the. Unto Adam he sayd: Because thou hast herkened vnto the voyce of thy wyfe, and hast eaten of the tree (concernyng ỹ which I commaunded the, sayinge: Thou shalt not eate of it) cursed is ỹ ground for thy sake. In sorowe shall thou eate of it, al the dayes of thy lyfe. Thorne also & Thistle shal it cause to growe vnto the, & thou shalt eate the herbe of the felde: In the swcate of thy face shalt thou eate bread, til thou be turned againe into the grounde for out of it wast ỹ take, in as muche as thou * art dust, and into dust shalte Job.34. thou be turned agayn. And Adam cal led his wifes name Heua, because she was mother of al liuinge. Unto the same Adam also and to his wife did ỹ ¶ Lord God make lethern garmētes, & clothed thē. And ỹ lord god said: Behold yonder mā hath bene euen as one of vs, that he might knowe good & euil. And now least haply he put forth his hand, and take also of the tre of life, and eate, and liue for euer. And the Lorde G O D sente them forthe from the Gardenne of Eden, to dresse the grounde that he was taken oute of.

And so he droue out man, and at the east syde of the garden of Eden, he set of a shakyng swerde, to kepe the way of the tree of lyfe.

The sonnes of Noah going fourth of the Arke, were Sem, Ham, and Japheth. And Ham truly is the father of Chanaan. These are the thre sones of Noah, & of them was the whole earth ouerspred. And afterward were the kynreds of ỹ Cananites spred abrod. The border of the Cananites was from Sidon, as thou cõmest to Gerer vntyll Gazan, and as thou goest vnto Sodoma, and Gomorre, and Adama, and Zeboym, euen vnto Lesa. These are the children of Ham in their kynreds, in their tonges, countries, and in their nacions. Vnto Sem also the father of all the children of Eber (and elder brother of Japheth) there were children borne. The children of Sem: Elam and Assur, Arphachsad, & Lud, and Aram. The children of Aram: Uz & D Hul, Gether and Mas. * Arphachsad 1 Par. 1a

Iaketan begate Almodad and Saleph, Hazarmaneth and Jetah, and Hodozan and Uzal & Dickla, Obal also and Abimaell, and Scheba, and Ophir, & Hauila, and Iobab. All these were the children of Iaketan. And their dwelling was from Mesa, as thou goest vnto Sephar a mounte of the east. These are the children of Sem after their kynreds and tonges in their landes and nacions. And so these are the kynreds of the children of Noah, after their generations in their peoples, & of these were the nacions deuided in the erth, after the flud.

The.xiiii. Chapter.

A AND it chaunced in the dayes of Amraphaell kyng of Sinhar, Arioch kyng of Ellasar. Kedorlaomor kyng of Elam, & Thydeal kyng of the nacions, & they made warre with Bera, kyng of Sodome, & with Birsa kyng of Gomorra, and with Sineab kyng of Adama, & with Semeabar king of Zeboim, and with the kyng of Bela: The same is Zoar. All these were ioyned together in the vale of Siddym, where the salt sea is. For twelue yeare were they subiecte to Kedorlaomor, and in the thirtene yeare rebelled: But in the fourtene yeare came Kedorlaomor and the kynges that were with him, & smote the Gyauntes of Asteroth Karnaim, and the Susims in Ham, and the Emims in the playne of Kariathim, & the Horyms in mount Seir vnto the playne of Pharā, whiche bordreth vpon the wylderneſſe. And they returnynge, came to En Mispat, which is Cades B and smote all the countie of the Amalechytes, and also the Amorites that dwelt in Hazezon Thamar. And ther went out the kynge of Sodome and the kyng of Gomorra, and the kynge of Adama, and the kynge of Zebotim, and the kyng of Bela which is Zoar. And they stroke batell with theym in the vale of Siddym, that is to saye, with Kederlaomor, the kyng of Elā, and with Thydeal kyng of Nacions, and & Amraphaell kyng of Sinhar. and with Arioch kynge of Ellasar: foure kynges agaynste fiue. And the vale of Siddim was ful of slyme pittes. And the kyng of Sodome & Gomorra fled, and fell there: And they that remayned, fled to the mountayne. And they taking al the goodes of Sodome and Gomorra, and all theyr vytayles, went theyr way. And they caried away Lot also. Abrams brothers son, and his goodes, (for he dwelled at Sodome) and departed. And there came one that had escaped, and tolde Abram the Hebrew whyche dwelled in the okegroue of Mamre the Amorite, brother of Escholl and brother of Aner, whiche were confederate wyth Abram. When Abram harde that hys brother was taken, he harnessed hys freshe younge men, borne in his owne house, three hundred and eyghtene, & folowed on them vntyll Dan: And he was set in aray vpon thē by night, he and his seruauntes, and smote thē and pursued them vnto Hoba (which lyeth on the left hand of Damascus) and recouered all the goodes, and also brought agayne his brother Lot, and his goodes, the wemen also and the people. After that he returned agayne from the manslaughter of Kedorlaomor, and of the kings that were with D him, came the kyng of Sodome forth to mete him in the playne valey, whiche is the kynges dale. And Melchi sedech kyng of Salem broughte forth bread and wyne: For he was ỹ Priest of the most hyghest God, and blessed hym, saying: Blessed be Abram vnto the hygh God, possessor of heauen and earth. And blessed be the hye G O D which hath delyuered thyne enemies into thy hande. And Abram gaue him tythes of all. And the kynge of Sodome sayde vnto Abram: Geue me the soules, and take the goodes to thy selfe. And Abram answered the kyng of Sodome: I haue lift vp my hande vnto the Lord the hye God possessor of heauen and earth, that I wyll not take of all that is thine, so muche as a threde or shoulatchet, lest thou shouldest saye: I haue made Abram ryche: Saue onely that whyche the younge men haue eaten, and the partes of the men whyche went wyth me, Aner, Escholl, and Mamre whyche shall take theyr partes.

The .xv. Chapter.

A After these thinges wer done, the word of the Lord came vnto Abram in a vision, saying: Feare not Abram, I am thy defence, & thy reward shalbe exceadyng great. And Abram sayde: Lorde God what wylt thou geue me when I go childlesse, and the childe of the stewardshipp of my house is this Eleazer of Damasco? And Abram sayde: See, to me thou hast geuē no seed: lo, a lad borne in my house is my heyre. And beholde, the word of the Lord came vnto hym sayinge: He shall not be thyne heyre, but one ỳ shall come out of thyne own body shalbe thine heyre. And he brought hym oute and sayde: loke vp vnto heauen, and tell the * starres, yf thou be able to number them. And he said vnto hym: * Euen so shall thy sede be. And Abram * beleued the Lorde, and that counted he to hym for ryghteousnes. And agayne he sayde vnto hym: I am the Lorde that brought the out of Ur of the Caldees, to geue the this lande, and that thou myghtest possesse it. And he sayde: Lorde God, whereby shall I knowe that I shal possesse it? He answered vnto him: Take an heyfer of three yere olde, and a she goate of three yeare olde, and a three yeare olde ram, a turtyldoue also and a ponge pigeon. He toke therfore all these vnto hym, and deuided them in the myddes, and layde euery pece, one agaynst another. But the foules deuyded he not.

C And when the byrdes fell on the cartases, Abram droue them away. And when the sunne was downe, there fel a slumber vpō Abram. And lo, a darke and great feare fell vpon hym. And he sayde vnto Abram: knowe thys of a suretye, that thy * sede shalbe a straunger in a lande that perteyneth not vnto them. And shal serue them, and they shall entreate them euyll. * iiii. hundred yeares. But the nation whom they shall serue, wyll I iudge. And afterwarde shall they come out with greate substaunce. And thou shalte go vnto thy fathers in peace, and shalt be buryed in a good olde age. But in the fourth generation they shall come hyther agayne, for the wyckednes of the Amorites is not yet full. And it came to passe that when the sunne went downe, there was a darke cloude: beholde, there was a smokyng furnesse, and a fyrebrande goynge betwene the sayde peces. In that same daye the Lord made a couenaunt with Abram sayinge: vnto thy * sede haue I geuen thys lande, from the ryuer of Egypte, euen vnto the great ryuer the ryuer of Euphrates, the Kenites, ỳ Kenizites and the Cadmonites, the Hethites, & the Pherezites, and the Giauntes, the Amorites also, and the Cananites, the Gergesites, and the Iebusites.

The .xvi. Chapter.

Sarai Abrams wyfe bare hym no childzen. But she had an handemayde an Egiptian, Hagar by name. And Sarai sayde vnto Abram: Beholde, the Lorde hath restrayned me, that I can not beare. I praye thee go in vnto my mayde, peraduenture I maye be edified by her. And Abram obeyed the voyce of Sarai. And Sarai Abrams wyfe toke Hagar her mayde the Egyptian (after Abram hadde dwelled .x. yeare in the lande of Canaan) and gaue her to her husband Abram to be hys wyfe. Whiche when he went in vnto Agar she conceaued. And when she sawe that she had conceaued, her maistresse was despysed in her eyes. And Sarai sayd vnto Abram: Thou doest me wrong: I haue geuen my mayde into thy bosome. Whyche seynge that shee hath conceaued, I am despysed in her eyes, the Lord iudge betwene the and me. But Abram sayde to Sarai: beholde, thy mayde is in thy hande, do with her as it pleaseth thee. And when Sarai fared foule with her, shee fled from the face of her. And the Aungell of the Lorde founde her beside a fountayne of water in the wyldernes: euen by the well that is in the waye to Sur. And he sayde: Hagar Sarais mayde, whence whence comest thou, and whyther wylt thou go? She sayd: I flee from the face of my maistresse Sarai. And the Aungell of the Lorde sayde vnto her: returne to thy maistresse agayne, and submit thy selfe vnder her handes.

¶ And agayne, the Aungell of the Lord sayd vnto her: In encreasynge I will encrease thy seede, and it shall not be numbred for multitude. And the Lordes Aungell said vnto her: se, thou art with chylde and shalte beare a sonne, and shalte call hys name Ismaell: because the Lord hath heard thy tribulation. He also wyll be a wylde man, and his hande wyll be agaynst euerye man, & euery mans hand agaynst him. And he shal dwell in the presence of al hys brethren. And she called the name of the Lorde that spake vnto her: thou God lokest on me: for she sayde: Haue I not sene here the backe partes of hym that seeth me? Wherefore the well was called the well of hym that lyueth, and seeth me. And it is betwene Cades and Bared. And Hagar bare Abram a sonne, and Abram called hys sonnes name whiche Hagar bare vnto hym, Ismaell. And Abram was. lxxx. vi. yere olde, when Hagar bare hym Ismaell.

AND there came two aungels to Sodome at euen. And Lot sat at the gate of Sodome. And Lot seing them, rose vp to mete thē: and he bowed hym selfe to ỹ ground with his face. And he said my Lords, turne in I pray you into your seruantes house, and tarye all nyght & wash your fete, and ye shall ryse vp early to go on your wayes. Which said: nay, but we wyll byde in the streates all nyght. And he in maner dyd euen compell them violentlye. And they returnyng in vnto hym, entred into hys house, and he made them a feast, & dyd bake swete breade, and they did eate. And before they went to rest, the men of the citie (euen the men of Sodom) compassed the house rounde aboute, both old and yonge, all the people fro all quarters. And they callynge vnto Lot, sayd vnto hym: Where are the mē which cam into the this nyght? bring them vnto vs, and we wyll knowe them. And Lot went out at the doores vnto them: and shut the doze after him and sayd: nay for Goddes sake brethē do not so wickedly. Beholde I haue two doughters which haue knowen no man, them wyll I bryng out now vnto you: and do with them as it semeth good in your eyes. And they saye: He came in as one to soiorne and wyll be now a iudge? we wyll surely deale worse with the, thē with them. And they preased sore vpon the man, euen Lot: and came to breake vp the doze but the men putte forth theyr hand, and pulled Lot into the house to them, and shut to the doze. And ỹ men that were at the doze of the house, wer smote with blyndnesse both smal and great: so that they fainted and coulde not find the doze. And whan the morning arose, the angels caused Lot to spede him, saying: Stād vp, take thy wife and thy two daughters at hand, lest thou perish in the syn of the citie. And as he prolonged the time, ỹ men caught both him, his wife, & his two daughters by the hands, the Lord beynge mercyfull vnto hym: and they brought him forth, and set him without the citie. It fortuned when they had brought them out, he saide: Saue thy life, and loke not behynd the, neither tary thou in this plain countrey. Saue thy self in the mountayne, least thou perysshe. And Lot sayde vnto them: Oh nay Lord: behold thy seruant hath found grace in thy syght, & thou hast magnified thy mercy which thou hast shewed vnto me, in sauyng my lyfe. Behold, I cannot be saued in the mountain lest some misfortune fall vpon me, and I dye: Behold, here is a citie by to flee vnto, euen yonder litteil one: Oh let me be saued there: is it not a litle one, and my soule shal lyue? And he said to him: Se I haue receiued thy requeste as concernynge this thing, that I wil not ouerthrow this citie for thee, whiche thou haste spoken. Haste thee, and be saued there for I can do nothyng till thou be com thither. And therfore the name of the citie is called Zoar. And the Sunne was now risen vpon the earth, when Lot was entred into Zoar. Then the Lorde rained vpon * Sodome & Gomorra, brimston & fire from the Lord out of heaven, and ouerthrewe those cities, and all the region, and all that dwelled in the cities, and that grewe vpon the earth. But Lots wyfe looked behynde her, and was turned into a pillar of salt. Abraham risyng vp early, got hym to the place where he stoode before the presence of God, and lookyng towarde [illegible]dome and Gomorra, and toward [illegible]he land of that contrey, he loked: a[illegible]behold, the smoke of the countreye [illegible]rose as the smoke of a fornace. And it hapned that when God destroyd the cities of that region, he thought vpon Abraham, & sent Lot * out from the middes of the ouerthrowing, when he ouerthrewe ỹ cities wher Lot dwelled. And Lot departed out of Zoar, and dwelled in the mountaines with his .ii. daughters, for he feared to tary in Zoar, but dwelled in a caue, he & his .ii. daughters. And the elder said vnto ỹ yōger: Our father is old, and there is not a man in the earth to come in vnto vs, after the maner of the world. Come, we wil make our father dronkē with wyne, and lye with hym, that we may saue seede of our father. And so they made their father drōken wyth wine that night. And ỹ elder daughter went & lay with her father: and he perceiued it not, neither whan she lay down, neither when she rose vp. And on the morow it hapned, that the elder said vnto the yonger: Behold, yesternight laye I with my father. Let vs make him drōk with wine this night also, and go thou & lie with him, that we may rayse vp seede of our father. And they made theyr father drunke with wyne that nyght also. And the yonger arose & lay with him. And he perceiued it not: neither when she lay down, neither whē she rose vp. Thus wer both the daughters of Lot with chylde by theyr father. And the elder bare a sonne, & called his name Moab The same is the father of the Moabites vnto this day. And the yōger bare a sonne also, & called his name Ben Ammi. The same is the father of the childzen of Ammon vnto this day.

None of vs alſo ſhal forbid the his ſepulchre, but thou B mayſt bury thy dead therin: Abraham ſtode vp, and bowed him ſelf before ỹ people of the lande, of the chyldren of Heth. For Ephron dwelled among the children of Heth. And Ephron ỹ Hethite anſwered Abrahã in ỹ audience of the childrẽ of Heth, & of all ỹ went in at the gates of his cite, ſaying: Not ſo my Lord, heare me: The field geue I thee, & the caue that therin is, geue I the alſo: and euen in C the preſence of the ſonnes of my people geue I it thee: bury thy dead. Ephron anſwered Abraham, ſaying vnto hym: My lord hearken vnto me: The land is worth .iiii. hundred ſicles of ſiluer: what is that betwixt the and me? bury therefore the dead. After this dyd Abraham bury Sara his wife in the double caue of the field, that lyeth before Mamre: The same is Hebron in the land of Chanaan. And so both the field and the caue that is therein, was made vnto Abraham a sure possession to bury in, of the sonnes of Heth.

A Braham was old and stricken in dayes, & the Lord had blessed hym in all thynges. And Abraham sayd vnto his eldest seruaunt of his house, which had the rule ouer all that he had: Put thy hand vnder my thigh, and I wyl make the sweare by the Lorde God of heauen, and God of the earth, that thou shalte not take a wyfe vnto my sonne of the daughters of Chanaan, amõg which I dwel. But thou shalt go, vnto my contrey & to my native land, & take a wife vnto my sonne Isahac. But the seruant said vnto him: Peraduẽture the woman wyll not agree to come with me vnto this lande: shall I bryng thy sonne agayne vnto the lande whyche thou camest out of? To whom Abraham answered: Beware that thou bryngest not my sonne thyther agayne. The Lorde god of heauen which toke me from my fathers house, and from the lande where I was borne, and which spake vnto me, and that sware vnto me, saying: Vnto thy sede will I geue this lande, he shall sende hys Ge. 15. d angell before thee: and thou shalt take a wyfe vnto my sonne from thence. Neuertheles yf the woman wyl not agree to folowe thee, then shalt thou be without daunger of this my othe. Only bryng not my sonne thyther agayn. And the seruant put his hande vnder the thigh of Abraham his master, and sware to him as concernynge that matter. And the seruaunte tooke tenne Camels of the Cameles of his maister, and departed: and had of all maner of goodes of his maister with hym, and went to Mesopotamia, vnto the citie of Nahor. And made hys camels to lie downe without the citie B by a welles syde of water, at euen: about the tyme that women come oute to drawe water: And he sayd: Lorde god of my maister Abraham, sende me good spede this day, and shewe mercy vnto my master Abraham. Lo I stãde here by the well of water, & the daughters of the men of this citie come out to drawe water: Now the damsell to whome I shall saye, Stoupe downe thy pitcher I praye thee, that I maye drinke, If she say Drinke, and I wyl geue thy camels drinke also: the same is she that thou haste ordeined for thy seruant Isahac: yea and therby shal I know that thou haste shewed mercye on my maister. And it came to passe yer he had left speaking, Behold, Rebecca came oute, the daughter of Bethuell, son to Milca, the wife of Nahor Abrahams brother, & her pitcher vpon her shoulder. The damsell was very fayre to loke vpon, & yet a mayde and vnknowne of man. And she wẽt downe to the well, and fylled her pitcher, and came vp. And the seruaunt rannyng vnto her, said: Let me suppe a lyttle water of thy pitcher, and she said: Drink my Lord. And she hasted and let downe her pitcher vppon her C arme, and gaue hym drynk. And whẽ she had geuen him drinke, she sayd: I wyll draw water for thy camels also, vntill they haue dronke inough. And she powred oute her pytcher into the trough hastily, and ran agayne vnto the well to fet water, and drew for all his camels. And the man wondred at her: But held his peace, to wete whether the Lorde had made his tourneye prosperous or not. And it fortuned as the Camelles had lefte drynkyng, the man toke a golden earynge of halfe a sicle weyght, and two bracelettes for her handes, of .x. sicles weyghte of golde, and sayd: whose daughter arte thou? tell mee I praye thee, is there rowme in thy fathers house for vs to lodge in? She answered hym: I am the daughter of Bathuel the sonne of Milca, whiche she bare vnto Nahor: and said moreouer vnto him: we haue litter and prouander ynough, and also rowme to lodge in. And the man bowed hym selfe, and worshypped the Lorde God and sayde: blessed be the Lorde God of my master Abraham, which ceaseth not to deale mercifully and truly with my master and hathe brought me the waye to my masters brothers house. And the damsell ran and tolde them of theyr mothers house these thinges. And Rebecca hadde a brother called Laban. And he ran out vnto the man, euen to the wel: for assone as he had seene the earinges and the bracelettes in hys systers handes (and hearde the woordes of Rebecca his sister, saying: thus saieth the man vnto me) he went oute vnto the man. And lo, hee stode with the camels by the well syde. And hee sayde: come in thou blessed of the Lorde: wherefore standest thou without? I haue dressed the house, and made rowme for the camels. And than the man came into the house: and he vnbridled the camels and (Laban) brought litter and prouander for the camels, and water to washe his fete, and the mennes feete that were with hym, and sette meate before him to eate. But hee sayde, I will not eate vntil I haue sayd mine arande. And he sayd, saye on. And hee sayde: I am Abrahams seruaunt, and God hath blessed my mayster oute of measure, that he is become great, and hath geuen him shepe, and Oxen, syluer and golde, menne Seruauntes, and mayde Seruauntes, caamelles, and asses. And Sara my maysters wyfe bare hym a sonne, when shee was olde, and vnto hym hath hee geuen all that hee hath. And my master made me sweare, sayinge, thou shalte not take a wyfe to my sonne amonge the daughters of the Canaanites, in whose lande I dwel. But thou shalt goe vnto my fathers house, and to my kynred, and take a wyfe vnto my sonne. And I sayde vnto my mayster: peraduenture the wyfe will not folowe mee? And hee aunswered mee: The Lorde before whoume I walke, will sende hys aungel wyth thee, and prosper thy iourney, and thou shalte take a wyfe for my sonne, of my kynred, and of my fathers house. Then shalte thou bee giltelle of my curse. whan thou commeste vnto my kynred. And if they geue the not one, thou shalte bee giltelle of my curse.

And so I came thys daye vnto the well, and sayde: O Lorde, the God of my master Abraham, yf it be so nowe that thou makest my iourney whiche I goe, prosperous: beholde, I stande by thys well of water, and when a virgyn commeth forth to drawe water, I saye to her: geue mee (I praye thee) a little water of thy pitcher to drynke, and she say to me, drinke thou, & I wyl also draw for thy Caamels: that same is the wyfe whom the Lord hath prepared for my maysters sonne. And before I hadde made an ende of speakyng in myne hearte: behold, Rebecca came forth, and her pytcher on her shoulder, and she went downe vnto the well and drewe water. And I sayd vnto her: geue me drynke I praie thee. And shee made haste, and tooke downe her pitcher frome of her, and sayde: drinke, and I wyll geue thy camels drynke also. And I dranke, and she gaue the Caamelles drynke also. And I asked her, saying, whose daughter art ye? She answered: the daughter of Bathuell Nahors sonne, whō Milca bare vnto hym. And I putte the earynge vppon her face, and the bracelettes vppon her handes. And I bowed myselfe, and worshypped the Lorde, and blessed the Lorde GOD of my master Abraham, whyche hadde brought me the ryghte waye, to take my maysters brothers daughter vnto hys sonne. Nowe also yf ye wil deale mercyefullye and trewlye wyth my Mayster, tell mee: and yf not, tell mee also, that I maye tourne mee to the ryght hand, or to the left. Then aunswered Laban and Bathuell, saying,

This sayinge is proceaded euen oute of the Lorde, we cannot therefore say vnto thee, eyther good or bad, beholde Rebecca is before thee, take her and go, that she maye be thy masters sonnes wyfe, euen as GOD hath saide: And when Abrahams seruaunt herd theyr woordes, hee woorshypped the Lorde flatte vpon the earthe. And the seruaunte toke foorth ieweiles of syluer, and ieweiles of golde, and raymente, and gaue theym to Rebecca. And vnto her brother, and to her mother, he gaue giftes: and they dyd eate and drynke, bothe hee and the menne that were wyth hym, and taryed all nyghte. And when they rose vppe in the morninge, hee sayde: iette me departe vnto my master. Her brother and her mother aunswered: iette the damsell abyde wyth vs a whyle, and it bee but euen x. dayes, and than shal she go. G He sayde vnto theym: hynder me not, beholde: the Lorde hath prospered my iourney. Sende me awaye therefore, that I maye go vnto my master. And they sayde: wee will call the damsell, and enquyre at her mouthe. And they called foorth Rebecca, and sayde vnto her: wylte thou go with this manne? And shee aunswered I wyll goe. So they iette Rebecca theyr syster gooe, and her nurse and Abrahams Seruaunt, and his menne. And they blessed Rebecca, and sayde vnto her, thou Gen.22c arte our syster, growe vnto thousande thousandes, and thy seede possesse the gate of theyr enemyes. And Rebecca arose, and her damsels, and sette theim by vppon the camels, and went theyr waye after the manne. And the Ser- Ge.16.d uaunt toke Rebecca, and wente hys waye. And Isahac was commynge frome the waye of the well of the liuynge and seynge me: for he dwelte in the South countrye, and Isaac was gone out to praye in the feld at the euētyde. And he lyfte vppe hys eyes and sawe the camels comminge. And Rebecca lyfte vppe her eyes: and when shee sawe Isahac, shee lyghted of the camell, and sayde vnto the seruaunte: what manne is thys that commeth walkynge agaynste vs in the fyelde? And the seruant sayd: It is my mayster. Therefore she tooke her cloake, and put it aboute her: and the seruant told Isahac all thynges that he hadde done. And Isahac broughte her into his mother Saras tent, and toke Rebecca, and she became his wyfe, and he loued her: and so Isahac receaued cōfort after his mother.

ABraham proceaded further, A and tooke hym a wyfe called Ketura: whyche bare hym Simram, and Iecksan, and Medan, and Midian, and Iesbacks, & Suah, Iecksan begatte Seba, and Dedan. And the sonnes of Dedan were Assurim, Letusim, and Leummim. And the sonnes of Midian: Epha, and Epher, Hanoch, and Abda, and Elida. All these were the chylderne of Ketura. And Abraham gaue all his gooddes vnto Isahac. But vnto the sonnes of the concubines whiche Abraham had, he gaue gyftes: and sent them awaye frome Isahac his sonne, (whyle he yet lyued) eastward vnto the lande of Kedes. And these are the dayes of the yeares of Abrahams life which he liued: an hundred and. lxxv. yeare: and then fell sycke and dyed, in Ge.25. a good lustye age, (when he hadde lyued ynough) and was put vnto his people. And hys sonnes Isaac and Ismaell buryed hym in the double caue, in the feld of Ephron, sonne of Zoar the Hethite, beside ỹ plain of Mamre which fielde Abraham bought of the soonnes of Heth: where Abraham was buryed, and Sara his wyfe. It fortuned after the death of Abraham, that God blessed Isahac his sonne, and Isahac dwelled by the welle of the lyuyng, and seyng me. B

And these are the generations of Isahac Abrahams sonne: Abraham begat Isahac. And Isahac was .xl. yere olde when he tooke Rebecca to wyfe, the daughter of Bethuel, the Sirian of Mesopotamia, and syster to Laban the Sirian. And Isahac made intercession vnto the Lord for his wyfe because she was barayne: and the Lorde was intreated of hym, and Rebecca his wyfe conceyued, and the childzen strone together within her. Therfore she said: if it shold go so to passe what healpeth it that I am with chylde? wherfore she went to aske the Lorde. And the Lord said vnto her: There are two maner of people in thy wombe, Rom.9.c and two nations shalbe deuided oute of thy bowels, and the one nation shal be myghtier then the other, and the * elder shalbe seruant vnto the yonger. Therfore when her time was come to be deliuered: Behold, there were two twinnes in her wombe. And the boyes grew, and Esau became a cunnynge hunter, and a tiller of the earthe. But Jacob was a perfect man, and dwelled in the tentes. Isahac loued Esau, because he dyd eate of his venyson, but Rebecca loued Jacob. Jacob sod potage, and Esau came frome the fielde, and was faynt: and Esau sayd to Jacob: Fede me I pray the, with that redde potage for I am fayntie. And therfore was his name called * Edom. ¶ The .xxvi. Chapter.

A AND there cam a dearth in the lande, passyng the first derthe that was in the days of Abraham. And Isahac went vnto Abimelech kyng of the Philistins, vnto Gerar. And the Lord appered vnto him, and sayd: Go not downe into Egypt, but abyde in the land, whiche I shall shewe vnto the: soiorne in this lande, and I wyll bee with thee, and wyll blesse thee, for vnto thee, and vnto thy sede, I will geue all these * contreys. And in thy sede shall all the nations of the earth bee blessed, because that Abrahā Ecc.44b harkened vnto my voyce, and kepte myne ordynaunces, my commaundementes, my statutes and my lawes. B And Isaac dwelled in Gerer. And the men of the place asked hym of his wyfe, and he sayd: She is my syster: Ge.12.c for he feared to say: She is my wife, and, 20.d lest that men of the place should haue killed hym because of Rebecca which was beautiful to the eie. And it happened, after he had ben ther long time, þ Abimelech kyng of the Philistians, loked out at a windowe, and sawe Isahac sportynge wyth Rebecca, hys wife. And Abimelech called Isahac, and sayd: She is of a suretie thy wife and wyy saydest thou, She is my syster ster? To whom Isahac answered: I thought that I myght peraduenture haue died for her sake. Abimelech said why hast thou don this vnto vs? one of the people myght lyghtly haue lien by thy wyfe, and so shold est thou haue brought sinne vpon vs. And so Abimelech charged all his people, saying: he that toucheth this man or his wife shall dye the deathe. Isahac sowed in that land and founde in that same yere an hundred bushels: and the Lord blessed him, and the man waxed mightye, and went forth and grew, tyll he was excedyng great, for he had possession of sheepe, of oxen, and a myghtye housholde, and therefore the Philystians had enuy at him, for the Philystyans stopped and fylled vppe with earth al the welles whych his fathers seruaūtes dygged in hys father Abrahams tyme. And Abimelech sayd vnto Isaac: get thee from vs, for thou art mightier then we a great deale. Therefore Isahac departed thence, and abode in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there. And Isaac returnynge, digged again the welles of water which they digged in the dayes of Abraham hys father, whith the Philistians had stopped after the deathe of Abraham, and gaue them the same names which his father gaue theym. Isahacs seruauntes digged in ✠ valley, & found a wel of liuing water. And the herd men of Gerar did stryue with Isahacs herd menne, sayinge: the water is oures. Then called he the well * Esech, because they stroue wyth hym. And they digged a nother well, and stroue for that also. And he called the name of it Sitena. And than he departed thense, and digged an other welle, for the whyche they strouc not: therefore called he it * Rehoboth, saying: The Lord hath nowe made vs roome, that we may encreace vpon the earth. And he wente vp thense, to Beer Sheba. And the Lord appered vnto hym the same nyght, and sayd: I am the god of Abraham thy father: Feare not, for I am with the, & wyl bicsse the, & multyplye thy sede for my seruaunt Abrahams sake. And he builded an altar there, and called vpon the name of the Lord, and pitched his tent. And there Isahacs seruauntes dygged a welle. Then came Abimelech to hym frome Gerar: and Ahusath his frende, and Phicol his chief captain. And Isahac sayd vnto them: Wherfore come ye to me, seyng ye hate me, and haue put me away from you? Whiche answered: In seeynge, we sawe that the * Lorde was with thee, and we said: Let there be nowe an othe betwixt vs, euen betwixt vs and thee, and lette vs make a bonde with thee, that thou shouldest doo vs no hurte, as we haue not touched thee, and as we haue doone vnto the nothing but good, and sent the away in peace: for thou arte nowe the blessed of the lord. And he made them a feast, and they dyd eate and drinke. And they rose vp betimes in the morynng, and sware one to another: and Isahac sent them away. And they departed from hym in peace. And that same daye it hapned, that Isahacs seruantes came and tolde hym of a well, which they had digged: and sayd vnto hym: we haue founde water. And he called it * Sheba. And the name of the citie is called * Beer Sheba vnto this day. Esau was. xl. yere olde, and he toke a wyfe called Judith, the daughter of Bery an Hethite, and Basmath the daughter of Elon an Hethite also, whiche wer disobedient vnto Isahac and Rebecca.

And Esau went into the field, to catche venevson and to bryng it. ✝ And Rebecca saide vnto Jacob her son, saying: Beholde I haue herd thy father talkyng with Esau thy brother, and saying: Bryng me venevson, and make me meate, that I maye eate, and blesse the before the Lorde, afore my death. Now therfore my son, heare my voyce in that which I cōmaunde the: get the to the flocke and bring me thense two good kydds that I may make meate of theym for thy father, such as he loueth. And thou shalt bring it to thy father, that he may may eate, and that he blesse the before his death. Then sayde Jacob to Rebecca his mother: Beholde, Esau my brother is a roughe manne, and I am smothe. My father shal peraduenture fele me, and I shall seme vnto him as though I went about to begyle hym, and so shall he bryng a curse vpon me, & not a blessyng: and his mother saide vnto hym: Vpon me bee thy curse my sonne, onely heare my voyce, and go & fetch me them. And Jacob went and fet them, and brought them to his mother. And she put the meate & bread which she had prepared, in the hande of her sonne Jacob. when he came to his father, he sayd: My father. And he answered, here am I, who arte thou my sonne? And Jacob sayde vnto his father: I am Esau thy eldest sonne, I haue done accordyng as thou badest me: Vp and syt, and eate of my venyson, that thy soule may blesse me. And Isahac sayde vnto his sonne: Howe commeth it, that thou hast found it so quickely my sonne? He answered: The Lorde thy God brought it to my hand. Then said Isahac vnto Jacob. Come nere, and lette me fele thee my sonne, whether thou be my sonne Esau or not. Than went Jacob to Isahac his father, and he felt and sayde: The voyce is Jacobs voyce, but the handes are the handes of Esau. And he knewe hym not, because his handes wer rough as his brother Esaus handes, and so he blessed hym. And he asked hym: Arte thou my son Esau? and he sayd: That I am. Then sayde he: Bryng me, and lette me eate of my sonnes venevson, that my soule maye blesse the. And he brought him, and he eate: and he brought hym wyne also, and he dranke. And his father Isahac sayd vnto hym, Come nere, and kysse me my sonne. And he went vnto him, and kissed him. And he smelled the sauour of his raiment, and *blessed him and sayde: See the smell of my sonne is as the smell of a fielde, whiche the Lorde hath blessed. God geue thee of the dewe of heauen, and of the fatnesse of the earth, and plentie of corne and wyne. People bee thy seruaunts, and nations bowe vnto the. Be Lord ouer thy brethren, and thy mothers children bowe vnto thee. Cursed be he that curseth thee, and blessed bee he that blesseth thee. It hapened, that as soone as Isahac had made an ende of blessynge, and Jacob was scarce gone out of the presence of Isahac his father, then cam Esau his brother from his huntyng, and had made also meat, and brought it vnto his father, & sayd vnto his father: Lette my father arise, and eate of his sonnes venevson, that thy soule may blesse me. Then hys father Isahac sayde vnto hym: Who art thou? He answered: I am thy eldest sonne Esau. And Isahac was greatly astonied out of measure, and sayde: Whyche is he, and where is he then, that hath hunted venevson, and hathe brought it me? I haue eaten of al, before thou camest, and haue blessed him and he shall bee blessed. When Esau hearde the woordes of his father, he cryed out greatly and bytterly, above measure, and sayde vnto his father: Blesse me also my father. Who answered: Thy brother came wyth subtilte,

And as he loked about, behold, there was a wel in the feld, and three flockes of sheepe laye there by, (for at that well were the flockes watered) and there was a greate stone vppon the welles mouthe, and thyther were all the flockes brought, and they rouled the stone from the welles mouthe and watred ỹ sheepe, and put the stone againe vpon the welles mouthe vnto his place. And Jacob said vnto them: brethren whence be ye? and they sayd: of Haran are wee. And he sayde vnto theym: knowe ye Laban the sonne of Nahor? They sayde, we knowe hym. And he saide vnto them: is he in good healthe and they sayde: he is in good healthe, and behoulde, hys daughter Rahell commeth with the sheepe. And

And as soone as Jacob sawe Rahell, the daughter of Laban his mothers brother, and the sheepe of Laban hys mothers brother, hee wente and rowled the stone from the welles mouth, and watered the flock C of Laban hys mothers brother. And Jacob kissed Rahell and lyfte vp his voyce, and weapte: and Jacob tolde Rahell, that hee was her fathers brother and Rebeccas sonne. Therefore ranne she and tolde her father. And it happened when Laban hearde tell of Jacob hys systers sonne, he ranne to mete hym, and embraced hym, and kyssed hym: and broughte hym to hys house. And he tolde Laban al the matter. To whom Laban sayd: wel, thou arte my bone and my flesh. And hee abode wyth hym the space of a month And Laban sayde vnto Jacob, though thou bee my brother, shouldest thou therfore serue me for nought? tell mee what shall thy wages bee? Laban had two daughters, the eldest called Lea, and the yongest Rahell. Lea was tender eyed, but Rahell was beawtyfull and well fauoured. And

And Jacob wente in vnto her: and Bilha conceaued and bare Jacob a sonne.
Than sayde Rahell. God hath geuē sentence on my syde, and hath also hearde my voyce and hath geuen me a sonne. Therfore called she him. Da.
And Bilha Rahels mayde conceaued agayne, and bare Jacob an other sonne. And Rahell sayde: with godly wrestlinges haue I wrestled wyth my syster, and haue gotten the vpper hand. And she called his name Nephthali. When Lea sawe that she hadde

And Zilpha Leas mayde bare Jacob an other sonne. Than sayde Lea: happy am I, for the daughters wil call mee blessed. And called his name Asser.
And Ruben went oute in the dayes of the wheate haruest, and found mādragoras in the feldes, and broughte thē vnto his mother Lea. Than sayd Rahel to Lea: geue me thy sonnes mādragoras. To whom Lea answered: It is not ynough that thou hast takē away my husband, but wouldest take away my sonnes mandragoras also? Thā said Rahel: well, let hym sleepe with thee thys nyght, for thy sonnes mandragoras. And Jacob came from the feldes at euen, and Lea went out to mꝛe him, and saide: come into me, for I haue bought thee with my sonnes mandragoras. And he slept with her that night. And God heard Lea, that she conceaued and bare vnto Iacob the v. sonne. Than sayd Lea: GOD hath geuen me a reward, because I gaue my maidē to my husbād, and she called him Issachar. And Lea conceaued yet again, & bare Iacob ẏ sixt son. And Lea sayde: God hath endued me wꝛ a good dowꝛy. Now wil my husbande dwell with me, because I haue borne him vi. sōnes: & called his name Ge. 34 d Zabulō. After that she bare a daghter D & called her name Dina. And god remēbred Rahel, he hearde her, & made her fruitful: so that she conceaued and bare a son, and said: God hath takē awaye my rebuke. And she called hys name Ioseph, saying: The Lord giue me yet another sonne. And assoone as Rahel hadde borne Ioseph, Iacob said to Labā: send me awaye ẏ I may goe vnto mine owne place & countrye, giue me my wiues and my childrene, for whō I haue serued the, & let mee go: for thou knowest what seruice I haue done the. To whō Labā answered: yf I haue foūd fauor in thy sight (for I suppose that the Lorde hath Ge. 29. a blessed me for thy sake) appoint what thy reward shall be, and I will geue it the. But he sayde vnto him, thou knowest what seruice I haue done thee, & in what taking thy cattel haue bene vnder me: For it was but little that thou haddest before I came, and now it is increased into a multitude: and ẏ lord hath blessed the for my sake E But nowe when shall I make prouision for mine owne house also? And he sayde: what shall I then geue the? And Iacob answered: thou shalt geu me nothinge at all, yf thou wylte doo thys one thyng for me, and then wyll I turne agayne and feede thy sheepe, and kepe them. I wyll goe about all the shepe this day & seperate frō them all the shepe that are spotted and of diuers colours, and all blacke sheepe among the lambes: and the partie, and the spotted among the kiddes: and the same shalbe my reward. So shal my ryghteousnes answere for me to morowe, and shall come for my reward before thy face: and euerye one that is not speckled and partye amonge the goates, and blacke amonge the sheepe, the same shall be theft with mee. And Laban sayde: Goe to, woulde God it myght bee accordinge to thy sayinge. Therfore he toke out the same day the he goates that were partie and of diuers coloure, and all the shee goates that were spotted and partie coloured and all that had whyte in theym, and all the blacke amonge the sheepe, and put thē in ẏ keping of his sōs, and set three dayes iourney betwyxt himself and Iacob. And so Iacob keapte the rest of Labans shepe. Iacob toke roddes of greene popular, of Hasell, and of the chestnut trees, and pilled white strakes in them, and made the whyte F appere in the roddes. But they that were whole: remayned greene: and thus was it made a variable coloure. And put the roddes which he had pilled, euen before the sheepe, in the gutters and waterynge troughtes, when the sheepe came to drynke: that they shoulde conceaue when they came to drinke. And the sheepe conceaued before the roddes, and broughte foorthe lambes straked, spotted, and partie. And Iacob parted the lambes, and G turned the faces of the shepe towarde spotted thynges, and toward al maner blacke, that was among the sheepe of Laban: namelye puttinge hys owne flockes by thē self, and not with putting them with Labans sheepe. And it fortuned that in euerye rammynge tyme of the stronger shepe, Iacob laied the roddes before the eyes of the shepe in the gutters: namely, that hee might make them conceaue before the roddes. But when the shepe were feble, he put them not in. And so the febler were Labans, and the stronger Iacobs. And the man encreased exceedinglye, and had a greate flocke, mayd seruauntes, and manne seruauntes, camels, and asses.

A ¶ The.xxxi.Chapter.

And God cam to Laban the Sirian in a dreame by nyghte, and sayde vnto him: Take hede that thou speake not to Jacob oughte saue good. And Laban ouertooke Jacob: and Jacob had pitched his tent in the mounte. And Laban with his brethrē pitched their tent also vpon the mount Gilead. And Laban sayde to Jacob: Why hast thou this done to steale away my hart, and cary away my doughters, as though they hadde ben taken captiue with the swerde? Wherfore, wentest thou away secretly vnknowne to me, and dydst not tell me, that I myghte haue brought thee on the waye with myrth, syngyng, tymbrell and harpe, & hast not suffred me to kisse my childrē, and my daughters? And now though thou wētest thy way, because thou longest after thy fathers house, yet wherefore haste thou stolne my goddes? Jacob answered, and sayde to Laban: Because I was afrayde, and thoughte thou wouldest haue taken away thy daughters from me.

But

But (wher as thou laiest theft to my charge) with whom soeuer thou fyndest thy Goddes, let hym dye here before our brethren. Seke that thyne is by me, and take it to thee. But Jacob wist not that Rahel had stolen them Then went Laban into Jacobs tent and into Leas tent, and into the two maidens tentes: but found them not. Then went he out of Leas tent, and entred into Rahels tent. And Rahel had taken the images, and put theym in the Camels straw, and sat downe vpon them. And Laban serched al the tent: but found them not. Then sayde she to her father: My lord, be not angry that I can not ryse vp before the, for the custome of women is come vpon me. So searched hee, but founde not those Idolles. And Jacob was wrothe, and chyde with Laban. Jacob also answered and sayd to hym: what haue I trespassed, or what haue I offended, that thou folowedst so after me? Thou haste searched all my stuffe, and what hast thou founde of all thy houshold stuffe? put it here before thy brethren & myne, that they may iudge betwixt vs both. Behold, this .xx. yere haue I bene with thee, thy shepe and thy goates haue not ben bareyn, and the rammes of thy flocke haue I not eaten. what soeuer was torne of beastes, I brought it not vn to the, but made it good my selfe: Of my hand diddest thou require, euē as it that was stolne by daye or nyghte. By daye the heate consumed me, and the frost by nyghte, and my sleepe departed from myne eies. Thus haue I ben .xx. yeare in thy house, and serued the .xiii. yeres for thy .ii. daughters, and .vi. yeres for thy shepe, and thou hast chaunged my reward .x. tymes. And excepte the God of my father, the God of Abraham, and the feare of Isahac had ben with me: surely thou haddest sent me away now all emptie. But God beheld my tribulation, and the labour of my hands and rebuked the yesterday. Laban answered and sayd vnto Jacob: These daughters are my daughters, & these children are my chyldren, and these shepe are my shepe, & all y thou seest, is myne. And what can I doo thys day vnto these my daughters, or vnto theyr chyldren whiche they haue borne? Now therefore come on, and let vs make a bonde, I & thou, which may be a witnesse betwene thee and me. Then toke Jacob a stone, and set it vp an ende, and Jacob sayde vnto his brethē: Gather stones. And they tooke stones, and made an heape, and they dyd eate there vppon the heape. And Laban called it * Jegar Sahadutha: but Jacob called it Gilead. (either of them accordyng to the propertie of his own language.) Then said Laban: * This heape is * witnesse betwene the and me this day: therefore is it called Gilead. (that is a heape of witnesse) and * Mizpah. For he sayde: The Lorde loke betwene me and thee, when we are departed one from an other: If thou shalt vexe my daughters, or shall take other wiues beside my daughters. Here is no man with vs: behold God be witnes betwixt the & me. And Laban said moreouer to Jacob: behold, this heape and this marke whyche I haue sette here betwixt me and the: This heape bee witnesse and also this marke that I will not comme ouer this heape to thee, and thou shalte not come ouer this heape, and this marke vnto me: to do any harme. The God of Abraham, the God of Nahor, and the god of theyr fathers be iudge betwixt vs. And Jacob sware by the feare of his father Isahac. Then Jacob dyd sacrifice vpon the mount, and called his brethren to eate breade. And they dyd eate bread, and taried all nyght in the hyll. And early in the morning Laban rose vp, and kyssed his chyldren, and his daughters, and blessed them: and Laban departyng, went vnto his place agayne.

¶ The .xxxii. Chapter. J

BVt Jacob went forth on his iourney. And the angelles of God cam, and met hym. And when Jacob sawe theim, he sayde:

But Jacob was greatly afrayed, and wyſte not whiche waye to turne hym

And Jacob ſayde agayne: O God of B swered: they are the chyldren whiche God hath geuen thy seruaunte. Then came the maydens fourthe, and theyr chyldrē, and did their obeysaunce. Lea also with her chyldren came, and dyd theyr obeysaunce. And laft of all came Joseph and Rahell, & dyd their obeysaunce. And he sayde: what is all the droue whiche I met? He answered: that I may fynde grace in the syght of my Lorde. And Esau saide: I haue ynough my brother, kepe that thou haft vnto thy selfe. To whom Jacob answered: oh nay, but yf I haue founde grace in thy syght, receaue my present of my hande: for I haue seene thy face Hell,15d *as though I had sene the face of god: and thou haft had a good wyl toward C me. Oh take my bleſſynge that is brought thee, for God hath had mercy on me. (Geuynge me all thynges,) and I haue ynough. And so he compelled hym, and he toke it. And he sayde: let vs take our iourney, and go, I will go before thee. Jacob answered hym: my Lord thou knowest, that the chyldren are tender, and the ewes and kyne with yonge vnder myne hande, whyche yf men shoulde ouerdryue but euen one daye, all the shepe wyll dye. Oh let my Lorde go before his seruaunte, and I wyll dryue fayre and softlye, accordynge as the cattell that goeth before me, and the chyldren be able to endure: vntyll I come to my Lorde vnto Seir. And Esau sayd: let me yet leaue some of my folke with thee. And he answered, what needeth it? (Thys one thynge onely D haue I nede of:) Let me fynde grace in the syghte of my Lorde. So Esau went hys waye agayne that same day vnto Seir. And Jacob toke his iourney towarde Sucoth, and buylte hym an house and made boothes for hys cattell. And therefore is it, that the Bothes name of the place is called *Suchoth. And Jacob came to Salem a citie of Sichem, whyche is in the lande of Canaan, after that he was come from Mesopotamia, and pytched before the citie: and boughte a parcell of grounde (where he pytched his tent) of the children of Hemor, Sychems father, for an hundred peces of money. And he made there an aulter, and called vpon the myghtye God of Israell.

DIna the daughter of Lea *whiche she bare vnto Jacob, A Gen.30 wente oute to see the daughters of the lande. Whom whē Sichem the sonne of Hemor the Hevite, Lorde of the countrey, sawe, he toke her, and laye with her, and forced *her: and hys harte laye vnto Dina 2 Re.13 the daughter of Jacob. And he loued that damsell and spake kyndlye vnto her, and Sychem spake vnto hys father Hemor, saying: get me thys mayden vnto my wyfe. And Jacob heard that he had defyled Dina hys daughter, hys sonnes beynge with their cattell in the felde, and he helde his peace, vntyll they were come. And Hemor the father of Sychem wente oute vnvnto Iacob, to comen with hym. And when the sonnes of Iacob commynge oute of the fyelde hearde it, it greued them: and they wer not a lytle wroth, because he had wrought folye in Israell, in that he hadde lyen with Iacobs daughter, whiche thynge ought not to be done. And Hemor cōmuned B with them, saying: the soule of my son Sichem longeth for youre daughter: geue her hym to wyfe, and make mariages with vs: and geue your daugh ters vnto vs, and take our daughters vnto you: and ye shall dwell with vs, and the land shall be before you, dwell and do youre busynes, and haue youre possessions therin. And Sichem sayd vnto her father, and her brethren, let me fynd grace in your eies, and whatsoeuer ye appoynte mee, that will I geue. Axe frely of me both the dowry and gyftes, and I wyl geue accoꝛding as ye saye vnto me, so that ye geue me the Damsell to wyfe. But the sonnes of Iacob aunswered to Sichem and Hemor hys father, talkynge amonge them selues deceitfully, because he had defiled Dina their sister, and they said vnto them: we can not do thys thyng that we shoulde geue our syster to one that is vncircumcysed, for that were a shame vnto vs. But in this will we consent vnto you: If ye wil be as we C be, and al the men children among you be circumcised, than will we geue our daughters to you, & take your daughters to vs: and wyll dwell with you, and be one people. But and if ye wyll not harken vnto vs to be circumcised, then will we take oure daughter, and go oure wayes. Theyr woꝛdes pleased Hemor and Sichem hys sonne.

And the younge man deferred not for to do the thinge, because he had a lust to Iacobs daughter: he was also most set by of all that were in hys fathers house. Then Hemor and Sichem his sonne went vnto the gate of their citye, and communed with the men of theyr citie, sayinge: these men are vnsayned towarde vs, and dwell in the lande, and do theyr occupation therin, and in the lande is roume ynough for them: we wyll take theyr daughters to wyues, and geue them our daughters. Only herein wyll they consente vnto vs for to dwell with vs, and to be one people: yf all the men chyldren that are amonge vs be circumcised as they are. Shall not theyr goodes and theyr substaunce and all theyr cattell be oures, onely yf we consente vnto them: For they will dwell with vs.
And vnto Hemor and Sichem hys D sonne harkened all that went oute of the gate of hys cytye. And all the men chyldren were circumcysed whatsoeuer went out at the gates of hys citye. And it happened the thyrde daye (when it was paynefull to them) two of the sonnes of Iacob, Simeon and Leuy, Dinas brethren, toke ey-ther of them hys ✦ swearde and went Gen. 49a into the Citye boldelye, and slewe all Iudi. 9, a that was male, and slewe also Hemor and Sichem hys sonne with the edge of the swearde: and toke Dina out of Sichems house and went their way.
And the sonnes of Iacob commynge vppon the dead, spoyled the Citie, because they had defyled their syster: and toke theyr shepe, oxen, and theyr asses, and whatsoeuer was in the citye, and also in the feldes. And all theyr good-des, and all theyr chyldren, and theyr wyues toke they captyue, and made hauocke of all that was in the house.
But Iacob saide to Simeon and Le-ui: ye haue troubled me, and made me stynke before the inhabitoures of the lande, before the Cananits & the Phe-rezite: And I beyng fewe in number, they shal gather them selues together agaynste me and slaye me, and so shall I and my houshe be destroyed. And they answered: sholde they deale with our syster as with an whore?

face of Esau thy brother. Then sayde Jacob vnto hys housholde and to all all that were with hym: put away the straunge goddes that are among you, and be cleane, and chaunge youre garmentes, for we wyll aryse and go vp to Bethell: and I will make an altare ther vnto God, which heard me in the daye of my tribulation, and was with me in the waye which I wente. And they gaue vnto Jacob al the straunge goddes which they had in their hand, and all theyr earynges which were in their eares, and Jacob hid them vnder an oke which was by Sichem. And when they departed, the feare of God fell vpō the cities ꝙ were round about them. And they dyde not folowe after the sōnes of Jacob. So came Jacob to Lus which is in the lande of Canaan, the same is Bethel, he and al the people that was with hym. And he buylded there an aulter, and called the place: The god of Bethel: because that God appered vnto him ther, whē he fled frō the face of hys brother. But * Deborа Rebeccas norse, died: & was burged beneth Bethel vnder an oke, and the name of it was called the oke of lamentation. And God appeared vnto Jacob agayne after he came oute of Mesopotamia, and blessed him, and God sayd vnto hym: thy name is Jacob, notwtstanding ꝙ shalt be no more called Jacob, but Jsraell shalbe thy name. And he called his name Jsrael. And God sayde vnto hym: I am God almyghty, growe & multiply, people, & a multitude of people shall spryng of the, yea, and kinges shall come oute of thy loynes. And the lande which I gaue Abraham & Jsahac, will I geue vnto thee, and vnto thy sede after thee wil I geue that land also. And so god departed vppe from hym in the place where he had talked with hym. And Jacob sette vp a marke in the place wher he talked with him: euē a marke of stone, and powred a drinke offering thereon, and powred also oyle theron, and Jacob called the name of the place wher God spake vnto him, * Bethel. The sonnes of Silpha Leas mayd, Gad and Aser. These ar the sōnes of Jacob which were borne hym in Mesopotamia. And he sayd vnto them: heare I praye you thys dreame whiche I haue dreamed: Beholde we were byndynge sheues in the fyelde: and loo, my sheefe arose, and stode vpryght, and youres stode rounde about, and made obeysaunce to my sheue. To whom hys brethren sayde: shalt thou be oure kynge in dede? or shalte thou in dede haue dominion ouer vs? And they hated him yet the more, because of hys dreames and of hys wordes. And C he dreamed yet another dreame and tolde it his brethren, sayinge: behold I haue had one dreame more: me thought the sunne & the moone and xi. starres made obeysaunce to me. And when he hadde tolde it vnto hys father and hys brethren hys father rebuked him, and sayde vnto hym: what is thys dreame whyche thou haste dreamed? shall I and thy mother, and thy brethred come to fall on the grounde before the? And hys brethren hated him, but hys father noted the saying. Hys brethren also wente to kepe theyr fathers sheepe in Sychem, and Israell sayd vnto Joseph: do not thy brethren kepe in Sichem? come, and I wyll sende thee to theym. He answered 1.Re.3 here am I. And he sayde vnto hym: goo and see whether it be well with thy brethren and the shepe, and bryng me worde agayne. And so he sente hym oute of the dale of Hebron, and he wente to Sichem. And a certayne man founde hym, and beholde he was wandrynge oute of hys waye in the fyelde, and the man asked hym: what sekest thou? He answered: I seke my brethren, tell me I praye thee where they kepe shepe. And the man sayde, they are departed hence, for I herde them saye: lette vs goo vnto Dothan. Thus wente Joseph after hys brethren, and founde them in Dothan.

And they sate them downe to eate breade: And as they lyft vp their eyes and loked aboute, there came a companye of Israelytes from Gilead, and theyr cammelles laden with spycerye, baulme, and myrre, and were goynge downe to carye it into Egypte. IT fortuned at that time that Judas wet downe from hys brethren and gate hym to a man called Hira of Odollam: and there he sawe the

And she conceaued againe, and bare a sonne and called hym Onan. And shee conceaued agayne, and bare yet a sonne, whom she called Sela: and he was at Chesyb when she bare him. And Judas gaue Er hys eldest sonne, a wyfe, whose name was Thamar. And Er Judas eldeste sonne was wycked in the syghte of the Lorde, and the Lorde slewe hym. And Judas sayde vnto Onan: go into thy brothers wyfe, and marye her, that thou mayest stryre vp sede vnto thy brother. And when Onan perceaued that the sede should not be hys, therefore when he wente into his brothers wyfe, he spylled it on the grounde: and gaue not sede vnto hys

Then sayde Judas to Thamar hys daughter in lawe, remayne a wydow at thy fathers house, tyll Sela my sonne bee growne: for he sayde: Lest peraduenture he dye also, as hys brethren dyd. And Thamar went and dweit in her fathers house. And in processe of tyme, the daughter of Sua Judas wyfe dyed.
C Then Judas when he had left mournyng, went vnto hys shepe sherers to Thimnath, he and hys frende Hira of Odollam. And one told Thamar, saying: beholde, thy father in lawe goeth vp to Thymnath, to sherre hys shepe.

And Judas sent the kyd by hys frende of Odollam, for to receaue hys pledge agayne from the wyues hande: But he founde her not. Than asked he the men of the same place sayynge: where is the whore that sat openly by the waye syde? They aunswered: there was no whore here. He came therefore to Juda agayne, and sayde vnto hym: I cannot fynde her, and also the men of the place sayd, that there was no whore there. And Juda sayde, let her take it to her, lest we be shamed. Behalde I sent the kyd, and thou hast not founde her. And it came to passe that after .iii. monethes, one

And said also, loke whose are this seale, bracelet and thys staffe. And Juda knewe them and sayde, shee hath bene more righteous than I, because I gaue her

And it fortuned that when she trauayled, the one put out hys hand, and the mydwyfe toke and bounde a red threde about it, sayinge: thys is come out first. And it chaunsed, that he plucked hys hande backe agayne, and behold hys brother came oute. And she sayde: wherefore haste thou rent a reute vpon the? and called hys name, Pharez. Afterwarde came out his brother that had the red threde aboute hys hande, and hys name was called Zarah.

I Oseph was brought vnto Egipte A and Putiphar a Lorde of Pharaos (and hys cheife steward an Egyptian) boughte hym of the Ismaelites, whiche had broughte hym thyther. And God was with Joseph, & he became a luckie man, continuynge in the house of his master the Egyptian. And hys mayster sawe that God was wyth hym, and that God made all that he dyd to prosper in his hand. And Joseph founde grace in his masters sight, and serued him. And made hym ruler of his house, and putte all that he had in his hande. And it fortuned from the tyme that he had made hym ruler ouer hys house, and ouer al that he had, the Lorde blessed the Egyptians house for Josephs sake: and the blessynge of the Lorde was vpon all that he had: in the house, and in the fielde. And therefore he lefte all that B he had in Josephes hande, and loked vppon nothynge that was with him, saue onely on the breade whych he did eate. And Joseph was a goodlye person, and a well fauored. And it fortuned after this, that hys masters wyfe cast her eyes vpon Joseph, and sayde: come lye with me. But he refused, and sayde to hys masters wyfe: Behold my master weteth not what he hath in the house with me, and hath committed all that he hath to my hand There is no man greater in the house than I, neyther hath he kepte anye thynge from me, but onelye thee, because thou art hys wyfe. Howe than can I do this greate wyckednes, and syn against God? And after this maner spake she to Joseph daye by daye: but he harkened not vnto her, to slepe nere her, or to be in her compante. And C it fortuned on a certayne conueniente day, that Joseph entred into the house to do his busines: and there was none of the housholde by, in the house. And she caught him by the garmente, saying: come slepe with me. And he lefte his garment in her hand and fled and got hym oute. And it chaunced when she saw that he had left his garment in her hande, and was fled out. (And she not regarded) she called vnto the men of her house, and told them, sayinge: See, he hath brought in an Hebrewe vnto vs to do vs shame: for he cam into me, for to haue slept with me: and I beganne to cry with a loud voyce. And when he heard that I lift vp my voyce and cryed, he left his garment with me, and fled away, and got hym out. And she laid vp his garment

And she tolde him with these wordes sayinge: The hys Hebrewes seruaunte whiche thou haste brought vnto vs, came into me to doo me shame, but as soone as I lift vp my voyce and cryed he lefte hys garmente with me, and fled oute. When hys mayster (beynge to lyght of credence) heard these wordes of hys wyfe, whych she told hym, saying: after thys maner dyd thy seruaunte to me, he waxed wroth. And Ia.104 the master toke Joseph and put hym in a pryson euen into the place where the kynges pryssonners laye bounde, and there continued he in prison. But the Lord was with Joseph, and shewed hym mercye, and gote hym fauoure in the sight of the Lorde of the pryson. And the keper of the pryson committed to Josephs hande all the pryssoners that were in the pryson house. And whatsoeuer was done ther, that dyd he. And the keper of the pryson loked vnto nothinge that was vnder hys handes, seing that the Lord was with him. For whatsoeuer he did, the Lorde made it to prosper.

AND it chaunced after thys, A that the butler of the king of Egypt, and his baker had offended theyr Lorde the king of Egypte. And Pharao was angrye agaynst hys two officers: agaynst the cheife butler, and the cheife baker: and put them in warde, in his cheife stewardes house: euen in the prison & place where Joseph was bounde. And the cheife stewarde gaue Joseph a charge with them, and he serued them. And they continued a season in ward. And they dreamed either of theym in one nyghte: both the butler and the baker of the kynge of Egypte, whych were bounde in the pryson house, eyther of them hys dreame: & eche mans dreame of a sondry interpretation. When Joseph came in vnto theym in the mor- B nynge, and loked vpon them: behold, they were sad. And he asked Pharaos officers that were with him in his maysters warde, sayinge: wherefore loke ye so sadly to daye? They answered hym: we haue dreamed a dreame, and haue no manne to declare it. And Joseph sayde vnto them: Do not interpretinges belonge to God? yet tell me. And the cheife butler tolde hys dreame to Joseph, and sayd vnto him: In my dreame me thought, ther stode a vyne before me, and in the vine were three braunches, and it was as thoughe it budded, and her blossomes shote forth: and the grapes thereof, waxed rype. And I had Pharaos cup in my hande, and tooke of the grapes, and wronge them into Pharaos cup, and deliuered Pharaos cup in hys hande. And Josephes sayde vnto hym: thys C is the interpretation of it. The three braunches are three dayes: for within three dayes shall Pharao lyfte vp thine head, and restore the vnto thine office agayne: and thou shalte deliuer Pharaos cuppe into hys hande, after the olde maner, wherein thou waste wonte to geue hym drynke. But if thou thinke on me with them, when thou arte in good ease, shew mercy (I praye thee) vnto me: and make mention of me, to Pharao, and bring me out of thys house. For I was stolen oute of the land of the Hebrewes, and here also haue I done nothyng at al, wherfore they should haue put me into this dongeon. When the cheefe baker sawe that the interpretation was good, he sayde vnto Joseph: me thoughte also in my dreame, that I had thre wicker D basketes on my head. And in the vppermost basket: there was of all maner bakemeates, for Pharao. And the byrdes dyd eate them oute of the basket that was vpon my head. And Joseph answered and sayde: thys is the interpretation therof. The three baskettes are thre dayes, for this day three dayes shall Pharao take thy heade from the, and shall hange the on a tre, and the byrdes shall eate the fleshe fro Mat. 14. the. And it came to passe the thirde daye which was Pharaos birth day that he made a feaste vnto all hys seruauntes. And he lifted vp the head of the cheefe butler, and of the cheefe baker among hys seruauntes. And he restored the cheefe butler vnto his butlershyp agayne: whyche also reached the cup into Pharaos hande: but he hanged the cheefe baker: euen as Joseph had interpreted vnto them. Neither did the cheefe butler remēbre Joseph, but forgat hym.

I AND it fortuned after twoo yeares, that Pharao dreamed and beholde, he stode by a ryuers side, and there came out of the ryuer seuen goodlye kyne and fat fleshed, and fedde in a medowe: and seuen other kyne came vppe after them out of the ryuer, euill fauoured, and leane fleshed, and stode by the other kyne vppon the brinke of the ryuer. And the euill fauoured and leane fleshed kyne dyd eate vp the well fauoured and fatte kyne: and Pharao awoke. And he slept agayne, and dreamed the second tyme. And beholde, seuen eares of corne grewe vppon one stalke, ranke and goodlye: and agayne seuen thinne eares blasted with the east wynde, sprange vp after theym: the seuen thinne eares deuoured the seuen ranke and full eares: and Pharao awaked: and see, it was a dreame.
And when the morning came his spirite was troubled. And he sente and B called for all the south sayers of Egypt, and all the wyse menne thereof, and Pharao tolde theym hys dreame: but ther was none of them that could interprete it vnto Pharao. Than spake the cheefe butler vnto Pharao, saying: I do remembre my fautes this daye. Pharao beyng angrye wyth his seruauntes, put in warde, in the cheefe stewardes house, both me, & the cheefe baker. And we dreamed both of vs in one night, and eche mannes dreame of sondrye interpretation. And ther was with vs a yonge manne, an Hebrewe borne, seruaunt vnto the cheefe Steward: To whom whan we told them he declared our dremes, to vs accordig to eyther of our dreames. And as hee declared them vnto vs, euen so it came to passe. For he restored me to mine office agayne, and hanged him. Pharao sent therefore, and called Joseph: and they brought hym hastely out of prison. And he shaued him selfe, and chāged hys rayment, and came into Pharao. And Pharao sayde vnto Joseph: Psa. 10
I haue sene a dreame, and no man can C interprete it, and I haue heard saye of the, that as soone as thou hearest a dreame, thou canst interprete it. Joseph answered Pharao, saying: Not I, but God shall geue Pharao an answere of peace. And Pharao said vnto Joseph: In my dreame me thought I stode by a riuers side, and ther came oute of the riuer seuen fat fleshed, and well fauored kyne, and fed in the medowe. And then seuen other kyne came vppe after theim, poore and verye euyll fauouredde, and leane fleshedde: suche as I neuer sawe in all thys lande of Egypte, they were soo euyll fauoured. And they seuen leane and euell fauoured kyne dyd eate vp the furst seuen fatte kyne. And when they they had eaten them vp, a man coulde not perceaue that they had eaten thē: but they were still as euell fauored as they were at the begynnynge: and I awoke. And I sawe agayne in my dreame, and beholde seuen eares sprāg out of one stalke, full and fayre: and seuen other eares agayn wythered thin and blasted with ỹ east wind, sprange vp after them: and the thin eares deuoured the seuen good eares. And I haue tolde it vnto the sothe sayers, but there was no manne that coulde tell what it meaneth. And Joseph aunswered Pharao: bothe Pharaos dreames are one, and GOD hath shewed Pharao what he is about to doo.

The seuen good kine, are seuen yeres: and the seuen good eares, are seuen good yeares also, and it is but one dreame. Lykewyse, the seuen thinne D and euill fauored kine that came oute after them, are seuen yeares: and the seuen emptie, and blasted eares, shalbe seuen yeares of hunger. This wherby I haue sayde vnto Pharao is it that God is aboute to do: and sheweth it vnto Pharao. Behold there come seuen yeare of great plenteousnes throughe oute all the lande of Egypte.

And agayne, there shall arise after them, seuen yeares of hunger. And also the plenteousnesse shalbe forgotten in the lande of Egypte, and the hunger shall consume the lande: neyther shall the plenteousnes be knowen in the lande, by reason of that hunger that shall come after, for it shalbe exceadyng greate. And as concernyng that the dreame was doubled vnto Pharao the second tyme, beholde the thinge is certaynely prepared of GOD, and GOD wyll shortely brynge it to passe. Nowe therefore, lette Pharao, prouyde for a manne of vnderstandynge and wysedome, and sette hym ouer the lande of Egypte. And lette Pharao doo thys also, that he make offycers ouer the lande, and take vppe the fyfthe parte of the lande, of Egipte, in the seuenth plentyous yeares, and let them gather all the foode of these good yeres, that come, and lay vp corne vnder the hande of Pharao, that there may be foode in the Cities, and there let them kepe it: that there maye be founde in store in the lande, agaynste the seuen yeares of hunger, whyche shall come in the lande of E- E gypte: that the lande perysshe not thorowe hunger. And the sayinge pleased Pharao and all his seruauntes.

Then sayde Pharao vntohis seruantes: where shall we fynde such a man as thys is, in whome is the spirite of GOD? And Pharao sayde vnto Joseph: for as muche as GOD hath shewed the all thys, there is noo man of vnderstandynge or of wysedome lyke vnto the. Thou therefore shalte be ouer my house, and accor- Psa. 104 sayde agayne vnto Joseph: beholde, I haue set the ouer all the lande of Egypte. And he toke of hys ryng from hys hande, and putte it vpon Joseph hande, and arayed hym in clothe of raynes, and put a goldenne chayne aboute hys necke, and sette hym vppon the best charette that he hadde, saue one. And they cryed before hym: bowe the knee: And Pharao made hym ruler ouer all the land of Egipt.

And Pharao sayde vnto Joseph: I F am Pharao, without the shall noo man lyfte vp hys hande or foote in all the lande of Egypte. And he called Josephes name Zayhnath Paena. And he gaue hym to wyfe Aseath the doughter of Putiphar, preest of On. Than wente Joseph abroade in the lande of Egypte. And he was thyrtie yeare olde when he stode before Pharao kynge of Egypte. And Joseph departynge from the presence of Pharao, went thorowe oute all the lande of Egipt. And in the seuen plenteous yeares they made sheues, & gathered vp al the foode of the seuen plenteous yeares, whyche were in the lande of Egypte, and layed vppe the same in the cities. The foode of the fyeldes that grewe rounde aboute euerye cytye, layde hs vpps in the same.

And

And Joseph layde vp corne in store, lyke vnto the sande of the sea, in multitude oute of measure, vntyll he lefte numbryng: For it was without number. And vnto Joseph were borne two sonnes (before the yeres of hunger came) whiche Ainath the doughter of Putiphar preaste of On, bare vnto him: And Joseph called ℣ name of the firste sonne ✱Manasse, for God (sayd he) hath made me forget all my labour and all my fathers housholde. The name of the seconde called he Ephraim: for God (sayd he) hath caused me to growe in the lande of my trouble. And when the seuen yeres of plenteousnes that was in the lande of Egypt were ended, then came the seuen yeres of ✱dearth accordyng as Joseph had sayde. And the dearth was in all landes: but in all the lande of Egypte was there yet foode. And when the lande of Egipte also beganne to hunger, the people cryed to Pharao for breade. And Pharao sayde vnto all the Egiptians, go vnto Joseph, and what he sayeth to you, that doo. And the dearthe was thorowoute all the lande. And Joseph opened all that was in the Cities, and solde vnto the Egyptians: For the hunger waxed sore in the lande of Egypte. And all countreys came to Egypte to Joseph for to bye corne: because that the hunger was so sore in all landes.

Israell sayde: wherefore delte yee soo

Take of the best fruites of the lande in youre vesselles, and bringe the man a presente, a curtesie of bawme, and a curtesie of honey, spices, and myrre, nuttes, and almondes. And take double money in youre hande: and the money that was brought agayne in your sackes, take it agayne with you, least peraduenture it was some ouer sighte. Take also your brother with you, and arise, and go agayne to the man: & God almightie geue you mercye in the sight of the man, that he maye delyuer you youre other brother, and this Ben Jamin: And I shalbe robbed of my childe, as I haue ben. Thus toke they the present, and twise so muche more money in theyr hand, with Ben Jamin, and rose vp, went downe to Egypte, and stoode before Joseph. When Joseph sawe Ben Jamin with them, he sayd to the ruler of his house: bringe these men home, and slay and make redy, for these men shall dyne with me at none. And the man did as Joseph bad: and brought them vnto Josephes house, When the men were brought into Josephs house, they were afrayde, & sayd because of the money that came in our sackes mouthes, at the firste time, are we brought in, that he may picke a quarell with vs, and to laye sumthing to oure charge, and to bringe vs in bondage, and our asses also. Therfore cãe they to the man that was the ruler ouer Josephs house, and communed with hym at the dore of the house, and sayde: Oh Sir, we came downe hyther at the first tyme to bye foode: and as we came to an inne, it happened that we opened oure sackes: and beholde, euerye mannes money was in hys sacke with full weyghte: and we haue brought it agayne in our hand, and other money haue we brought also in oure handes, to bye foode: but we cannot tell who put our money in our sackes. And he sayde: peace be vnto you, feare not: youre GOD and the GOD of youre father, hath geuen you that treasure in youre sackes, I had youre money. And he brought Symeon oute to theym, and the man ledde them into Josephs house, and gaue them water to washe theyr feete and gaue theyr asses prouender: And they made ready theyr present against Joseph came at noone, for they heard saye that they shoulde eate bread ther. When Joseph came home, they brought the present into the house to him whyche was in theyr handes, and fell flatte on the ground before hym. And he welcomed them curteously, saying, is youre father that olde manne whyche ye told me of, in good health? and is he yet aliue? thei answered: thy seruaunt our father is in good health, and is yet alyue. And they bowed downe theyr heades and made obeysaunce. And he lyfte vp his eyes, beheilde his brother Ben Jamin, hys mothers sonne, and sayde: Is thys youre yonger brother of whome yee sayde vnto me? And he sayd: God be mercyfull vnto the my sonne. And Joseph made hast (for hys hart did melte vpon his brother) and sought wher to wepe, and entred into hys chamber, and wepte there. And he washed his face, and came out, and refrayned hym selfe, and sayde: set bread on the table. And they prepared for hym by hymselfe and for them, by thẽ selues, & for the Egiptians whych dyd eate wyth hym, by them selues: because the Egyptians may not eate bread with the Hebrewes, for ẏ is an abhomination vnto the Egyptians. And they satte before hym: the eldest accordynge vnto the age, and the yongest accordynge vnto his youth: and the men maruayled amonge them selues. And they brought rewardes vnto theym from before hym: but Ben Jamins parte was fyue tymes soo much as anye of theyrs. And they drinking were dronke with him.

A AND he commaunded the ruler of hys houſe, ſaynge: fyll the mennes ſackes wyth foode, as muche as they can carye, and put euerye mans money in his ſacke mouth, and putte my ſyluer cup in the ſackes mouth of the yongeſt and hys cozne money alſo. And he dyd accozdynge to the wozde that Joſeph had ſayd. And in the mozynge allone as it was light, the men were let goo, they and theyr alles. And when they were out of the citie and not yet farre aſwaye, Joſeph ſayd vnto the ruler of his houſe: vp and folowe after the me, and whan thou doeſt ouertake theim, thou ſhalte ſaye vnto them: wherefoze haue ye rewarded 'euyll for good? is not that the cuppe in the whyche my Lozde drynketh, and foz the whyche he prophecyeth? ye haue euyll done that ye haue done.

B And whan he ouertoke theym, he ſaid the ſame wozdes vnto them. And they anſwered hym: wherfoze ſaith my Lozde ſuche wozdes? GOD fozbyd that thy ſeruauntes ſhould do ſo: beholde, the money which we founde in oure ſackes mouthes, we broughte agayne to the out of the lande of Canaan: howe then ſhould we ſteale out of thy Lozdes houſe, eyther ſiluer oz golde? with whomſoeuer of thy ſeruauntes it be founde, let hym die, and, we alſo will be my Lozdes bondmen. And he ſayde: nowe alſo let it be accozdynge vnto youre wozdes, he with whom it is found, ſhalbe my ſeruant: and ye ſhall be harmeleſſe. And attonce euerye manne tobe downe hys C ſacke to the grounde, and euerye man opened hys ſacke. And he ſearched, and beganne at the eldeſt, and lefte at the yongeſt: And the cuppe was found in Ben Jamins ſacke. And Juda and hys brethren came to Joſephes houſe, foz he was yet there: and they fell befoze hym on the grounde. And Joſeph ſayde vnto theym: what dede is thys whyche ye haue done? wote yee not that ſuch a man as I can prophe- ſye? Then ſayde Juda: what ſhal we ſaye vnto my Lozde? what ſhall we D ſpeake, oz what excuſe can we make? God hath founde out the wyckednes of thy ſeruauntes. Beholde both we and he with whom the cup is founde, are my Lozdes ſeruauntes. And he anſwered: God fozbyd that I ſhoulde do ſo, but the manne with whome the cuppe is founde, he ſhalbe my ſeruant. And go ye in peace vnto youre father. Then Juda wente vnto hym, and ſayde: Oh my Lozde, let thy ſeruaunt ſpeake a wozde in my Lozdes eares, and be not wroth with thy ſeruaunt: foz thou arte euen as Pharao. My Lozd aſked his ſeruaunt ſaying: haue ye a father oz a brother? And we anſwered my Lozde: we haue a father that is olde, and a younge lad whyche he begat in hys age: and the brother of Gen. 42. E the ſayde lad is deade, and he is all that is lefte of that mother: and hys father loueth hym. And thou ſayeſt vnto thy ſeruauntes: bryng him vnto me, that I maye ſet myne eye vpon hym. And we anſwered my Lozd, that the lad coulde not goo from hys father, foz yf he ſhoulde leaue hys father, he were but deade. Than ſayedſt thou vnto thy ſeruauntes: except youre yongeſt brother come with you, Ge. 43, a loke that ye ſe my face no moze. And F when we came vnto thy ſeruaunt our father, we ſhewed hym what my lozd hadde ſayde: And oure father ſayde vnto vs: goo agayne, and bye vs a litle foode. And we anſwered: we cannot go downe: Neuertheleſſe yf oure yongeſt brother goo with vs, then wyll we go downe, foz we maye not ſee the mans face, except our yongeſt brother be with vs. And thy ſeruaunte our father ſayde vnto vs: yee knowe that my wyfe bare me twoo ſonnes. And the one went oute from me, and I ſayde: of a ſuretye he is Gen. 37. tozne in peces, and I ſawe hym not ſence. And ye take thys alſo from me. Ioseph: God hath made me Lorde of that, hys brethren talked with hym: and the tydynges came vnto Pharaos Pharao spake vnto Ioseph: say vnthou also shalte commaunde theim.

Thys doo ye: take Charettes with you out of the lande, of Egypte, for youre children and for youre wyues: and bringe youre father, and come.
Also regarde not youre stuffe, for the

And the children of Israell dyde F

And

And he gaue vnto eche of them chang of rayment: but vnto Ben Jamyn he gaue three hundred peces of siluer and fyue chaunge of rayment. And vnto his father he sent after the same manner ten asses laden with good oute of Egypte, and ten shee asses laden with corne, breade and meate: for his father by the waye: So sente he his brethren awaye to departe. And hee sayde vnto theym: see that ye fall not oute by the waye. They departed therefore from Egypt, and came into the land of Canaan vnto Jacob theyr father, & tolde hym, sayinge: Joseph is yet alyue, and is gouernoure ouer all the Lande of Egypte, And Jacobs hart wauered, for hee beleued theym not. And they tolde hym all the wordes of Joseph, which he had sayde vnto them. And when he sawe the charettes, whiche Joseph had sent to cary hym, the spyrite of Jacob theyr father reuyued. And Israell sayde: I haue ynoughe, that Joseph my sonne is yet alyue: I wil go and see hiimere that I dye.

The.xlvi. Chapter.

ISrael toke hys iourney with all that he had, and came vnto Beer Sheba, and offred offringes vnto the God of his father Isaac. And God spake vnto Israell in a vision by nyght, sayinge: Jacob Jacob, And hee aunswered: here am I. And he sayde: I am God the God of thy father, fear not to go downe into Egipt For I wyll there make of the a great people: I wyll goe downe wyth thee into Egypte, and I wyll also bryngе thee agayne, and Joseph shall put hys hande vppon thyne eyes. And Jacob rose vppe from Beer Sheba. And the sonnes of Israell caryed Jacob theyr father and theyr childzen, and theyr wyues in the charettes whiche Pharao hadde sent to carye hym. And they toke theyr cattell, and the gooddes whiche they had gotten in the land of Canaan, and came into Egypte, both Jacob and all his seede wyth him: his sonnes, and hys sonnes sonnes wyth hym: hys daughters, and hys sonnes daughters, and all hys seede brought he wyth him into Egypte. And Israell sayde vnto Joseph: Nowe am I content to dye, in somuche as I haue seene thee, and because thou arte yet alyue. And Joseph sayde vnto his brethren, and vnto his fathers house: I wyll goe vppe, and shewe Pharao, and tell hym: My brethren and my fathers house whiche were in the lande of Canaan are come vnto mee, and they are sheepeheardes (for they were menne of cattell) and they haue brought theyr shepe, & theyr oxen, and all that they haue. And yf it chaunce that Pharao call you, and aske you, what your occupation is: ye shal answere, thy seruauntes haue beene men occupyed about cattel, from our childhoode vnto thys tyme wee and oure fathers, that yee maye dwell in the lande of Gosan. For euerye sheepe keaper is abhomination vnto the Egyptians.

I Oseph came therefore and tolde Pharao, and sayde: my father and my brethrenne, theyr sheepe and theyr oxen, and all that they haue are come oute of the lande of Canaan: and beholde, they are in the lande of Gosan. And Joseph toke of the hynmoste of hys brethrenne: euen fyue menne, and presented theym vnto Pharao. And Pharao sayde vnto hys brethren: what is youre occupation?

And they answered Pharao: shepeherdes are thy seruauntes, both we and also oure fathers. They sayde moreouer vnto Pharao: for to sogeourne in the lande are wee come, for thy seruauntes haue not pasture for theyr shepe, so sore is the famyshment in the lande of Canaan. Nowe therefore lette thy seruauntes dwell in the lande of Gosan. And Pharao sayde vnto Joseph: thy father and thy brethren are come vnto thee. The lande of Egypte is before thee: In the beste place of the lande make bothe thy father and thy brethrenne dwell: euen in the land of Gosan lette them dwell: Moreouer, yf thou knowe any man of actiuitie among thē, make thē rulers ouer my cattell. And Joseph brought in Jacob hys father, and sette hym before Pharao. And Jacob blessed Pharao. And Pharao sayde vnto Jacob: howe olde arte thou? And Jacob sayde vnto Pharao: the dayes of my pylgremage are an hundreth and thyrtye yeares. Fewe and euyll haue the dayes of my lyfe beene, and haue not attaynted vnto the yeares of the lyfe of my fathers, in the dayes of theyr pylgrymages. And Jacob blessed Pharao, and wente oute from hym. And Joseph prepared dwellynges for hys father, and hys brethrenne, and gaue theym possessyons in the lande of Egypte, in the beste of the lande euen in the lande of Ramesses, as Pharao hadde commaunded. And Joseph made prouysion for hys father, hys brethrenne, and all hys fathers houlholde wyth breade, euen as yonge chyldrenne are fedde. Ther was noe breade in all the lande, for the dearthe was exceadynge sore: soo that the lande of Egypte, and the lande of Canaan, were famyshed by the reason of the greate dearthe. And Joseph brought together all the money that was found in the land of Egipt and of Canaā, for the corne which they bought: and he layd vp the money in Pharao house. When money failed in the lande of Egypte and of Canaan,

all the Egyptians came vnto Joseph and sayde: geue vs breade: wherefore sufferest thou vs to dye before thee whan oure money is spente? Than sayde Joseph: bryng your catteil, and D I wyll geue you for youre catteil, yf yee bee without money. And they brought theyr catteil vnto Josephe: And Josephe gaue theym breade for horses and sheepe, and oxen, and asses, and fedde them with breade for theyr catteil that yeare. But when that yere was ended, they came vnto hym the nexte yeare, and sayde vnto hym, wee wyll not hyde it from my Lorde how that oure money is spente, my Lorde also hadde oure catteil and beastes, neyther is there oughte leste in the syght of my Lorde, but euen oure bodyes and our landes. Wherefore letteste thou vs dye before thyne eyes, and the land to go to nought? Bye vs and our landes for bread: and both we and our landes wil be bound to Pharao. Only geue vs sede, that we may lyue and not dye, and that the lande goe not to E waste. And so Joseph bought all the lande of Egypte for Pharao. For the Egyptians sold euery manne his land because the derth was sore vpō thē & so the land becam Pharaos. And he appointed the people vnto ỳ cities, frō one syde of Egypt vnto the other: only the land of the Priestes bought he not. For the Priestes had an ordinaunce of Pharao, that they shoulde eate that whyche was appointed vnto them: which Pharao hadde geuen theim, wherefore they solde not theyr landes. Then Joseph sayde vnto the folke: Beholde, I haue boughte you this daye, and your lande for Pharao. Take there breade, and sede, and sowe land. And of the encrease, ye shal geue the fyfte parte vnto Pharao, and fower F partes shall be youre owne, for the sede of the field and for you, and them of youre housholdes, and for youre chyldren to eate. And they answered: Thou hast saued oure lyues.

Lette vs fynde grace in the syght of my Lorde, and wee wyll bee Pharaos seruantes. And Joseph made it a lawe ouer the lande of Egypte vnto this day: that Pharao shoulde haue the fyfte part, except the lande of the Priestes onely, which was not Pharaos. And Israell dweit in Egypt: euen in the countrey of Gosan. And they had their possessions therin, and grew and multiplied exedingly. Moreouer Jacob liued in the lād of Egypt. xvii. yeres, so that the hole age of Jacob was G an hundred and. xlvii. yere. When the tyme drewe nye, that Israell muste dye, he sent for hys sonne Joseph, and sayde vnto hym: If I haue founde grace in thy sight, Oh, put thy hande vnder my thygh, and deale mercyfully and truelye wyth me, that thou burye mee not in Egypte, but I wyll lye wyth my fathers, and thou shalte carye me oute of Egypte, and burye mee in theyr buryall. And hee aunswered: I wyll do as thou haste sayde. And he sayde: sweare vnto me, and he sware Ge. 25. d vnto hym. And Israell worshypped towarde the beds head.

¶ The. xlviii. Chapter. A

After these deedes it happened, that a messenger sayd vnto Joseph: thy father is sicke. And he toke with hym hys two sonnes Manasses and Ephraim. Then was it sayde vnto Jacob: beholde thy sonne Josephe commeth vnto thee. And Israell toke hys strengthe vnto hym, and satte vpon the bed, and Jacob sayde vnto Josephe: G O D almyghtye appered vnto me at Luz Ge. 28. c in the land of Canaan, & blessed mee, and said vnto me: behold, I wil make the growe, and will multiplye thee, & wil make a greate number of people of the: and wyll geue this lande vnto thy seede after the, vnto an euerlastynge possession. And nowe thy two sonnes Manasses and Ephraim, whyche were borne vnto thee in the land of Egypte, before I came to thee into Egypte, are myne: euen as Ruben and Simeon are myne. B whan I came from Mesopotamia, Ge. 35.c Rahel * dyed vpon my hande in the lande of Canaan by the waye: when there was but a fields brede to come vnto Ephath. And I buried her ther in ỹ way to Ephrath. The same is Be thlehem. And Israel beheld Josephes sonnes and sayde: what are these? Joseph sayd vnto his father, they are my sonnes which GOD hath geuen me here. And he sayde: oh bringe them to me, and let me blesse theym. And the C eyes of Israell were dym for age, soo that he could not wel se. And he bro ght them to hym, and he kysled them, and embraced them. And Israel sayde vnto Joseph: I had not thoughte to haue sene thy face, and yet lo, GOD hath shewed it me and also thy seede.
And Joseph toke them away frō hys lappe, and worshypped on the ground before hym. Then toke Joseph theim both: Ephraim with his ryght hande toward Israels left hand, and Mana-sses with his left hand toward Isra-ells ryght hande, and broughte theym vnto hym. And Israell stretched oute hys ryght hand, and layde it vpon Ephraims head, whyche was the yon-ger, and hys left hand vppon Manasses heade, guyding hys handes wisely for Manasses was the elder. And hee blessed Joseph and sayde: God before whome my fathers Abraham and Issahac did walke, God which hath fed me al my lyfe long vnto this day, and the aungell whiche hath deliuered me from all euyll, blesse the laddes: & lette my name be named in theym, and the name of my fathers Abraham, and Issaac, and that they maye growe into a multytude in the middes of the earth.
When Joseph sawe that hys father layde his right hand vpon the head of Ephraim, it displeased him. And hee lifted vppe his fathers hande, to haue remoued it from Ephraims head vnto Manasses head: and Joseph sayde D vnto hys father: Not so my father, for thys is the eldest. Put thy right hand vpon his head. And his father would not but sayde: I knowe wel my son, I knowe it well. He shalbe also a people and shalbe greate: But his yonger brother shalbe greater then he, and his sede shalbe full of people. And he blessed them that daye, and sayde: In thee let Israell blesse and saye: God make thee as Ephraim before Manasses.
And Israell sayde vnto Joseph: be-

Now therfore let me go and burye my father, & than will I come again. And Pharao sayd, Go and burye thy father, accordyng as he made thee to sweare. And Joseph went vp to burie his father, and with hym went all the seruantes of Pharao that were the elders of his

These ar the names of Ge.46 the children of Israell, whyche came to Egypt with Jacob: euery man cam with his houlehold: Ruben, Simeon, Leui, & Juda, Isachar, Zabulō & Beniamin, Dan, Nephtali, Gad, & Aser. All the soules that came out of the loynes of Jacob, were lxx. But Joseph was in Egypt alredy. And Joseph dyed, & all his brethren, & all that generation. And the * children of Israell grewe, encreased encreased, and multiplied, and waxed exceadyng myghtie: and the lande was full of them. But there rose vp a newe king in Egypt, which knew not Ioseph. And he said vnto his folke: Behold, the people of the children of Israell, are greater and myghtyer than we. Come on, lette vs playe wyselye with them, lest they multiply, and lest it happen that (yf there chaunce anye warre) they ioyne them selues vnto our enemies, and fighte agaynste vs, and so get them out of the land. Therfore dyd they set taskemaysters ouer them, to keepe them vnder with burthens. And they buylt vnto Pharao, treasure cities, Phithon, and Ramesen. But the more they vexed them, the more they multiplied & grewe, so that they abhorred the chyldren of Israell. And the Egyptians held the children of Israell in bondage without mercye. Therefore was their lyfe bytter vnto them in that cruell bondage, in clay and bryck, and all maner of worke in the fieldes. For all their bondage wherin they serued them, was full of tyrannye. And the kynge of Egypte sayde vnto the mydwyues of the Hebrues womenne, of whiche, the ones name was Sephora, and the other Phua, when ye do the office of a mydwyfe to the woman of the Hebrues, and se in the bryth tyme that it is a boye, ye shall kylle it. But if it bee a daughter, it shall lyue. Not withstãdynge, the mydwyues feared God, & dyd not as the kynge of Egypt commanded them: but saued the men children. And the kynge of Egypt called for the mydwyues, and sayd vnto thẽ, why haue ye delte on this maner, and haue saued the men children. And the mydwyues answered Pharao, that the Hebrewes women are not as the women of Egypte: for they are lustye women, and are deliuered ere the mydwyues come at them. And God therfore delte well with the mydwyues. And the people multiplied and waxed very myghty. And it fortuned because the mydwyues feared God, he made them houses. And Pharao charged all his people, sayinge: All ẏ men children that are born cast into the ryuer, & saue the mayd children alyue.

The.ii. Chapter.

A Nd there went a man of the house of Leui, & toke a daughter of Leui. And the wife conceiued and bare a sonne. And whẽ she saw that it was a proyze childe, she hyd him thre monethe. And when she coulde no longer hyde hym, shee toke a basshette of bulrusshes and daubed it wyth slyme and pytche, and layed the childe therein, and putte it in the flagges by ẏ ryuers brinke. And shee had compassion on it, and sayde, it is one of the Hebrues chyldren. Then sayde hys sister vnto Pharaos daughter: shall I go and cal vnto the a nurse of the Hebrewes wemen, to nurse the the child? Pharaos daughter answered her: Go, and the mayd ran and called the childes mother. To whõ Pharaos daughter sayde: Take this childe awaye, and nurse it for mee, I will reward thee. And the woman toke the childe, and nursed it vpye. The childe grewe, and she brought it vnto Pharaos daughter, and it was made her son, and she called the name of it, Moyses: because (sayd she) I toke him oute of the water. The. iiij. Chapter.

MOyses aunswered and sayde: A See, they wyll not beleeue mee, nor hearken vnto my voyce, but wyll saye: The Lorde hath not appeared vnto thee. And the Lord sayde vnto hym: what is that whyche is in thyne hande? he aunswered, a Rodde. And he sayde: Caſt it on the grounde, and he caſte it on the grounde, and it became a serpente: and Moyses fledde frome the syght of it. And the Lorde sayd vnto

And the Lorde sayd furthermore vnto hym: Thruſte thyne hande into thy bosome: and he thruſte hys hande into hys bosome: and whan he tooke it out agayne, beholde his hande was leaprous euen as snowe. And he said: Put thyne hande into thy bosome agayne. And he put hys hande into his bosome agayne, & plucked it oute of hys bosome: and beholde, it was turned agayne as his other flesh. And thou wouldest not lette hym go: beholde, I wil slee thyne eldest sonne. And it chaunced by the waye in the ynne, that the Lord met him, and would haue killed him. And Zephora tooke a stone, and cut away the foreskin of her sonne, and fel at his feete, and sayde: a blouddy husband art thou vnto me: Then he let hym goo. And she sayde a blouddy husbande, because of the circumcision. Then sayd the Lorde vnto Aaron: goo meete

And Moyses tolde Aaron al the woords of the Lord whych had sent him, and all the tokens whyche he had charged hym wythall. So went Moyses and Aaron, and gathered all the elders of the children of Israel. And Aaron tolde all the woordes whyche the Lord had spoken vnto Moyses, and did the miracles in the syght of the people, and the people beleued. And whē they hard that the Lord had visited the children of Israell, & had loked vpon theyr tribulatyon, they bowed theyr heade, and worshypped.

MOyses and Aaron wente in afterwarde, and tolde Pharao, I thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israell: Lette my people goo, that they may kepe holye daye vnto me Ihe in the wildernesse. Moses and Aaron dyd as the Lorde commaunded them, euen so dyd they. Moyses was then. lxxx. yeare olde, and Aaron was. lxxxiii. when they spake vnto Pharao. And the Lord spake vnto Moses & Aaron sayinge: If Pharao speake vnto you, saying: Shew a wonder, thou shalt say vnto Aaron: take thy rod & caste it before Pharao, that it may be a serpent.

And the fysshe that is in the ryuer shall dye, and the ryuer stynke: and it shall greue the Egyptians to drynke of the water of the riuer. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, say vnto Aaron: Take thy staffe and stretche out thyne hande ouer the waters of Egypte, ouer theyr streames, ouer theyr ryuers and ponds, and all pooles of water, whych they haue, that they maye be bloudde: and that there maye be bloode thorough oute all the lande of Egypte: bothe

And the Lorde dyd accorto to the sayinge of Moyses. And the Frogges dyed oute of the houses, out of the courtes and fieldes.

And they gathered them together vppon heapes, and the lande stanke of theym. But when Pharao sawe that he hadde reste geuen hym, he hardened hys hearte, and hearkened not vnto theym, as the Lorde hadde sayde. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: saye vnto Aaronne: Stretche oute thy Rodde and smyte the duste of the lande, that

For Aaron stretched oute his hande, and with hys rod, he smote the duste of the earth, whych turned to lyce in menne and beaste, so that all the duste of the lande tourned to lyce, thorowoughout all the lande of Egypt. And the enchaunters assayed lykewyse wyth theyr enchauntementes to bring forth lyce: but they could not And the lyce were both vpon menne and beastes. And Pharao sente, and beholde, there was not one of the cattell of the Israelites dead. And the heart of Pharao was hardened that he wolde not lette the people go. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses and Aaron: Take youre hands full of ashes out of the fornels, and Moyses shall sprynkle it vp into the ayre, in the syght of Pharao, and it shall turne to dust in all the land of Egypte: that there may be swellynge sores with blaines bothe on man and beast thorowe out all the lande of Egypt. And as many as feared the worde of the Lorde among the seruantes of Pharao, made their seruants & their beastes flee into the houses: but he that regarded not the worde of the Lorde, left his seruauntes and his beastes in E

Praye ye vnto the Lord: for it is much that there should be thunders of God, and hayle. I wyll lette you go, and ye shall tarye no longer. And so the flax and the barleye were smitten: for the barley was shot vp, and the flaxe was boulled: but the wheate and the rye were not smitten: for they were late sowen. And Moses went out of the citie from Pharao, and spreade abrode his handes vnto the Lord: and the thunder and hayle ceassed, neyther rayned it vpon the earth. And when Pharao saw that the rayne and the hayle and thunder wer ceassed, he sinned agayn: and hardened his heart, he and his seruantes. And the hert of Pharao was hardened: neyther would he lette the childzen of Israell goe, as the Lorde had sayd, by the hand of Moyses.

And Moses and Aaron were brought agayne vnto Pharao, and he sayde vnto them: Go, and serue the Lorde your God. Who are they that shall go? And he went oute from Pharao with an angry countenaunce. And the Lord said vnto Moses: Pharao shall not heare you, that my wonders may be multyplyed in the lande of Egipt. Eate that ye eate not thereof rawe nor sodden in water, but rost with fier: the heade, feete: and purtenaunce therof. And ye shall let nothing of it to remayne vnto the morowe. That which remayneth of it vntyll the morowe, shall ye burne with fire. Of this maner shall ye eate it: with your loynes girded, & your shooes on youre feete, and youre staues in youre handes. And ye shall eate it in hast: for it is the Lords passe ouer: for I will passe thorowe the lande of Egypt, this same nighte, and will smyte all the fyrste-borne in the lande of Egypte both of man & beaste, and vpon all the goodes of Egipt will I the Lorde do execution. And the blonde shalbe vnto you a token in the houses wherein ye are. And when I se the blonde, I will passe ouer you, and the plague shall not be vpon you to destroye you, when I smyte the lande of Egypte. And thys day shalbe vnto you a remembraunce: and ye shall kepe it holy vnto the Lord: euen thoroughout youre generations shall ye kepe it holy daye, that it be a custōe for euer. ✱ Seuen dayes shall ye eate vnleuened breade: and the fyrst day ye shall put away leuen out of your houses. For whosoeuer eateth leuened breade from the fyrst day vntyll the seuenth daye, that soule shalbe plucked oute from Israell. ✱ The fyrst daye shalbe an holye conuocation, and the seuenth daye shalbe an holy conuocation vnto you. There shalbe no maner of worke done in thē, saue about that onely whyche euerye man must eate, that onely maye ye do. And ye shal obserue vnleuened breade. For this same daye haue I brought your armies out of the lande of Egypt, therfore ye shal obserue thys daye, and all youre chyldren after you, by a custome for euer. ✱ The fyrste moneth and the fourteth day of the moneth at euen, ye shal eate sweate breade, vnto the .xxi. day of the moneth at euen agayne. Seuen dayes shall there be no leuened bread found in youre houses. And whosoeuer eateth leuened breade, that soule shalbe roted out from the multitude of Israell: whether he be a stranger or borne in the lande.

Ye shall eate nothynge leuened: but in all in all youre habitations shall ye eate D swete breade. Moyses called for the elders of Israel, and sayd vnto them: chose out and take you to euery house-holde of you a shreepe, and kylle it for Passeouer. And take a bunche of hysope, and dyppe it in the blood that is in the basyn, and strike the vpper post and the two syde poastes with the bloode, that is in the bason: and none of you go oute at the doze of his house vntyll the mornyng. For the Lorde wyll go aboute to smyte the Egyptians. And when he seeth the bloode vppon the vpper dooze poste, and on the two syde poostes: he wyll passe ouer the dooze, and wyll not suffer the destroyer to comme into youre house to plague you. Therefore shall ye obserue this thyng, that it be an ordinaunce bothe to thee and thy sonnes for euer. And when ye bee come into the lande whych the Lorde will geue you, accordyng as he hath promysed, 4 d ye shal kepe this seruice. * And when youre chyldren aske you what maner of seruice is thys ye do? ye shal saye: It is the sacrifice of the Lordes passeouer, whyche passed ouer the houses of the chyldren of Israell in Egypt, as he smote the Egyptians, and saued oure houses. And the people bowed theym selues, and worshypped: And

Exo.22. Num.8c Luke.2d

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, saying: * Sanctyfie vnto me all the first borne that open all maner matrynces amonge the chyldren of Israell, aswell of man as of beastes: for it is myne. And Moses sayde vnto the people: thynke on this daye in which ye came out of Egypte, oute of the house of bondage: for thorow a mighty hand the Lord brought you out from thēce. There shal no leuen bread be eaten. This daye come ye out in the moneth when corne beginneth to ripe. Whē the Lorde hath brought the into the lande of the Cananites, Hethites, Amorites, Heuites, and Jebusites: which he sware vnto thy fathers, that he woulde geue the a lande wherein mylke and hony floweth, thou shalte kepe this seruice in this same moneth. Seuen dayes thou shalte eate sweate breade: and in the seuenth daye, it is the feast of the Lorde. Swete breade shalbe eaten seuen daies, and ther shal no leuened breade be sene, nor yet leuē with the, in all thy quarters. And thou shalt shewe thy son in that daye, sayinge: thys is done, because of that which the Lord did vnto me, when I came oute of Egypt. And it shalbe a sygne vnto the vpon thine hande, and for a remembraunce betwene thyne eyes, that the Lordes lawe may be in thy mouth. For in a strong hand the Lorde brought the out of Egypte. Kepe therfore this ordinaunce in his season, from yere to yere. And it wyll come to passe that the Lord shal bring thee into the lande of the Cananites, which he sware vnto the, and to thy fathers: and shall geue it the: And thou shalt appoint vnto the Lord al yt openeth the matrice. And euerye caste thynge that firste dothe open the matrice of a beast whiche thou haste: yf they be males, they shalbe the Lordes. And euerye firste gendred of an asse, thou shalte redeme with a lambe: yf thou redeme hym not, ỹ shalte breake hys necke. All the first borne amonge thy children also, shalte thou bie oute. And when thy sonne asketh the to morowe, sayinge: what is this? thou shalt saye vnto him: with a mightye hande the Lorde brought vs oute of Egypte, oute of the house of bondage. And when Pharao was loth to lette vs go, the Lord slew al the first borne in the land of Egypt: aswell the firste borne of man as of beast. Therefore I sacrifice vnto the Lorde all the males that open the matrice, and all the first borne of my children I redeme. This shalbe a token vpon thine hande, and a remembraunce betwene thine eyes, that the Lorde brought vs oute of Egypte, thorowe a myghty hande.

Exo.23. 32.33 Ge.15,d Exo.3.c. Deu.5.b

It came to passe that whan Pharao had let the people goo, GOD caryed them not thorowe the waye and land of the Philistines whiche was the morenie waye: but God sayde: leaste the people haply repent whan they se warr: and so turne agayne to Egypte: But God led the people aboute thorowe the waye of the wylderneſſe of the red sea. And the children of Israell wente vppe harnessed oute of the lande of Egypte. And Moyses toke the bones of Joseph wyth hym: for he made the children of Israell sweare, sayinge: GOD wyll surely vysyte you, and ye shall take my bones away hence with you. * And they toke their iourney iourney from Sucoth: and abode in Etham: in the edge of the wyldernes.

14.c And the Lorde went before them by 10.b daye in a piller of a cloud, to lead them 4.c the waye: and by nyghte in a pyller of 9d fyre to geue thē lyght, that they might go both by day and by nyghte. The pyller of the cloude departed not by day, nor the piller of fyre by nyght, out of the syght of the people.

The.xiiii.Chapter.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Speake vnto the chyldren of Israell, that they turne and remaine before Pi Hiroth, betwene Migdoll and the sea, 35b ouer agaynste Baalzephon: and before that shall they pytche by the sea.
For Pharao wyll saye of the children of Israel: they are tangled in the land, the wildernes hath shut them in. And I will harden Pharaos herte. that he shall folowe after you: and I will get me honoure vpon Pharao and vpon all hys hoste, the Egiptians also shall knowe that I am the Lorde. And they B dyd euen soo. And it was tolde the kynge of Egypt that the people fled.
And the harte of Pharao and of hys seruantes turned agaynst the people.
And they sayde: why haue we thys done, that we haue let Israell go oute of our seruice? and he made ready hys charettes, and toke hys people with hym, and toke fyre hundred chosen charettes, and all the charettes of Egypte and captaynes vppon euery one of them. And the Lorde hardened the harte of Pharao kyng of Egypt, and he folowed after the thyldren of Is raell. But the chyldren of Israell 135 went out with an hye hande, and the Egiptians folowed after them: and al the horses and charettes of Pharao and his horsemen, and his hoste, ouer-C toke them abydyng by the sea, beside Pi hiroth before Baalzephon. And when Pharao drew nye, the children of Israell lyft vp theyr eyes, and be-holde the Egiptians folowed after 14.b them: and they were sore afrayed: and the chyldren of Israell cryed out vnto the Lorde. But they sayde vnto Moses: because there were no graues in Egypt, haste thou therefore brought vs away for to dye in the wyldernes? wherefore haste thou serued vs thus, for to carye vs oute of Egypte? Dyd not we tell thee thys in Egypte, sayinge lette vs be in reste, that we maye serue the Egyptians? For it had bene better for vs to haue serued the Egiptians, thē for to dye in the wildernes.
And Moyses sayde vnto the people: feare ye not: stande styll, and beholde 2Pa.20c howe the Lorde shall saue you thys daye. For ye that haue sene the Egiptians thys daye, shall see them nomore for euer. The Lord shal fyght for you, and ye shall holde your peace. And the D Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: wherfore cryest thou vnto me? speake vnto the chyldren of Israell that they goo forwarde. But lifte thou vp thy rod, and stretch out thy hende ouer the sea, and deuyde it a sunder: and let the chyldren of Israell go on drye grounde thorow the myddest of the sea. And beholde, I wyll harden the heart of the Egiptians that they maye folowe them.
And I wyll gette me honoure vpon Pharao, and vpon all hys hoste, and vppon hys charettes, and vppon hys horsemen. And the Egyptians shall knowe that I am the Lorde when I haue gotten me honoure vpon Pharao, vpon hys charettes, and vpon hys horsemen.
And the aungell of God which went E before the hoste of Israell remoued, and began to go behinde them. And ye cloudden pyller that was before the face of them, began to stande behynde them, and came betwene the hoste of the Egyptians, and the hoste of Israeell. It was also a darke cloude, and gaue lyght by nyght: and al the nyght longe the one came not at the other.
And Moyses stretched fourthe hys hande ouer the sea: and the Lorde ca-ryed awaye the sea by a verye stronge Easte wynde all that nyghte, and made the sea drye lande, and the waters were deuyded. And the chyldren of Israell went out into the myddest F of the sea, vpon the drye ground. And the waters were a wal vnto them, on the ryghte hande, and on theyr lefte hande. And the Egyptians folowed & went in after them to the myddest of the sea, euen all Pharaos horses, and charettes, and hys horsemen. And in Iud.9.a the morninge watche, the Lorde * loked vnto the hoste of the Egyptians out of the fyrye and clowdy piller: and troubled the hoste of the Egyptians, and toke of hys charette wheles and caryed them away violently. So that the Egipcians sayde: Let vs flee from the face of Israell: for the Lorde fighteth for them agaynst the Egipcians.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: stretch out thyne hande ouer the sea, that the waters may come agayne vp-on the Egpycians, vpon hys charets, G and vpon his horsemen. And Moises stretched fourth hys hande ouer the sea, and it came agayne to hys course earely in the morninge: and the Egipcians fled agaynst it. And the * Lorde Sap 19d ouerthrew the Egiptians in the mids of the sea: and the water returned and couered the charets and the horsemen, and al the hooste of Pharao that came into the sea after them, so that there remayned not one of them. But the chyldren of Israell walked vpon drye lande * thorowe the middest of the sea: Esa.11d and the waters wer a wall vnto them on the ryghthande of them, and on the lefte. * Thus the Lord deliuered Is-1.mac.4a raell the selfe same daye oute of the hande of the Egyptians: and Israell sawe the Egypcians dead vpon the sea shyde. And Israell sawe that myghtye power whiche the Lorde shewed vp-on the Egypcians: * and the people psa.105d feared the Lord, and beleued the Lord, and hys seruaunt Moyses.

¶ The.xv. Chapter.

A THen Moyses and the chyldren of Israell sange this songe vn-Exo.15c to the Lord, and sayde: * I will synge vnto the Lorde: for he hath triumphed gloriously, the horse and hym Esa.12a that rode vpon hym, hath he ouerthro-psa.118c wen in the sea. * The Lorde is my strength and prayse, and he is become my saluation. He is my God, and I wil glorify hym, my fathers god, & I will exalte hym. The Lorde is a man of warre. The Lorde is hys name.
Pharaos charettes and his hoste hath he caste into the sea. Hys chosen captaines also are drowned in the red sea, the depe waters haue couered theym: they sunke to the botome as a stone.
Thy ryghte hande Lorde, is become glorious in power: thy ryghte hande Lorde hath all to dashed the enemye.
And in thy great glory thou hast ouer throwen them that rose vp agaynste thee: thou sentest fourthe thy wrathe whiche consumed them euen as stubbell. Thorowe the wynde of thy nostrels the water gathered together, the flowdes stoode styll as an heape, and the depe water congeled together in the hearte of the sea. The enemye B sayde: I will folowe on them: I will ouertake theym, I wyll deuyde the spoyle, I wyll satisfye my lust vpon them, I wyll drawe my sword, mine hand shall destroy them. Thou blew-dest with thy wynde, the sea couered them: they sanke as leade in the migh-tye waters. Who is lyke vnto the O Lorde amonge gods: who is lyke the, so glorious in holynesse, fearefull in prayses, dewynge wonders? Thou stretchedst out thy right hand, the erth swalowed them. Thou in thy mercye hast caryed thys people whiche thou deliuerdest: and hast brought them in thy strength vnto thy holy habitacio.
The nacions heard and were afrayd, sorowe came vppon the Philistines.
Then the dukes of the Edomytes were amased, and the myghtiest of the Moabites, tremblynge came vppon theym: all the inhabiters of Canaan waxed faynt harted. C Let feare and drede fall vpon them in the greatenes of thine armye, let them be as stil as a stone, till * people passe thorowe, O Lorde: while this people passe thorow which thou hast gotten.
Thou shalt brynge them in, and plant them in the mountayne of thine enhe-ritaunce: the place Lorde whiche thou hast

haſt made for to dwel in: the ſanctuary O Lord, which thy handes hath prepared. The Lorde ſhall raygne euer & alway. For Pharaos horſe wente in with his charettes and horſemen into the ſea, and the Lord brought the waters of the ſea vpon them. But the chil dren of Iſraell went on dry land in ỹ myddeſt of the ſea. And Mir Iam a prophetiſſe the ſiſter of Aaron, toke a timbrell in her hande, and all the women came out after her with timbrels 9.5 a and daunced. And Mir Iam ſang be fore them: Syng ye vnto the Lorde: for he hath triumphed glorioully: the horſe and ryder hath he ouerthrowen in the ſea. And ſo Moyſes brought Iſrael from the red ſea, and they went out into the wilderneſs of Sur. And they went thre dayes long in the wilderneſſe, and founde no waters. And when they came to Mara, they coulde not drynke of the waters of Mara: for they were bytter: therefore the name of the place was called, Mara, (that is to ſaye bytternes.) And the people 15.d murmured agaynge Moyſes, ſaying: 18.a what ſhall we drynke? And he cried vnto the Lord: and the Lorde ſhewed hym a tree, whiche when he had caſte into the water, the waters wer made ſwete. There he made them an ordeynaunce and a lawe, and there he pro-28f ued him, and ſayde: If thou wylt harken vnto the voyce of the Lorde thy God, and wylt do that which is right in his ſyghte, and wylte geue eare vnto hys cõmaundementes, and kepe all his ordeynances: then wil I put none of theſe diſeaſes vpon thee whiche I brought vpõ the Egipcians: for I am the Lorde that healeth thee.

and they abode there by the waters.
And they toke theyr iorney frõ Elim: and all the whole company of the chilas much as they gather in dayly. And Moyſes and Aaron ſayde vnto all the chyldren of Iſraell: at euen ye ſhall knowe that it is the Lorde, whiche brought you out of the land of Egipt: and in the morning ye ſhall ſe the glorye of the Lorde, becauſe he hath heard youre grudgynges agaynſt the Lord. And what are we that ye haue mur-

At euen ſhal the Lord geue you fleſh to eat, & in the morning bread ynough: for the Lorde hath hearde youre mur-muringes which ye murmure againſt hym: for what are we? your murmudren of Iſraell, they loked towarde the wilderneſs: and beholde the glorye of the Lorde appeared in the cloude. And the Lorde ſpake vnto Moyſes, ſaying: I haue heard the murmuryng of the chyldren of Iſraell. Tell them therfore and ſaye: at euen ye ſhall eate fleſhe, and in the morninge ye ſhalbe fylled with bread, and ye ſhall knowe that I am the Lorde your God.

Nu.11g And at euen the * quayles came and co

And in the moꝛnynge the deẅe laye

And Moyſes ſayde vnto theym: thys geuen you to eate. This is the woꝛde which the Lozde hath commaunded: gather it euerye man foꝛ hym ſelfe to eate: a gomer full foꝛ a man, accoꝛding to the number of you: and take euerye man foꝛ them whyche are in hys tent.

And the childꝛen of Iſraell did euen ſo: and gathered ſome moꝛe, ſome leſſe: and when they dyd mete it with a go-much, remayned nothing ouer, & vnto him ỹ had gathered litle, was there no of woꝛmes and ſtanke, and Moyſes was angrye with theim. And they foꝛ hys eatynge. And aſſone as the heate of the ſunne came, it melted. And the ſixte daye they gathered twyſe ſoo muche bꝛeade, two gomers foꝛ one man: and all the rulers of the multy-tude came and tolde Moſes. He ſayde vnto theym: thys is that whiche the Lozde hath ſayd: to moꝛowe is the reſt of the holy Sabboth vnto the Lozde: bake that which ye wyll bake, & ſethe that ye will ſethe: and that whych remayneth, laye it vp till the moꝛnynge.

And they layde it vp till the moꝛning, as Moſes bad: and it ſtanke not ney-

And Moyſes ſayde: that eate this day: foꝛ it is the Sabboth vnto the Lozde: to day ye ſhall not finde it in the field.
Sixe dayes ſhall ye gather it: and in the ſeuenth daye whiche is the Sabpeople in the ſeuenth daye foꝛ to ga-

Lozde ſayde vnto Moyſes: hoẅ long geuen you a Sabboth, therefoꝛe he geueth you the ſixt day bꝛeade, foꝛ two reſted the ſeuenth day. And ỹ houſe of Iſraell called it manna. * And it was like vnto Coꝛiander ſede, white: and Nu. the taſte of it was like vnto wayfers

And Moyses sayd vnto Iosua: chose vs out men, & go fight with Amalech: and to morowe I wil stand on the top of the hill, and the rod of God shalbe in my hand. Iosua did as Moyses bad him, and fought with

And Aaron and Hur, stayed vp hys handes, the one on the one syde, and the other one the other side. And hys handes remayned stedie vntil the goyng downe of the sunne. And Iosua discomfyted Amalech and hys people, with the edge of the sweard. And the Lorde sayd vnto Moyses: write this for a remembraunce in a boke, and cõmitte it vnto the eares of Iosua: for

The .xviii. Chapter.

IEthro the priest of Madiam, Moses father in lawe, hearde of all that God hadde done for Moses, and for Israell hys people: & that the Lorde hadde brought Israel oute of Egypte. * Therefore he toke Zephora Moses wyfe, (after he had sent her backe) and her two sonnes: of whyche the one was called * Gerson, for he sayde: I haue bene an alient in a straunge lande. The name of the other was Eliasar: for the God of my father (sayde he) was mine helpe, and deliuered me from the sweard of Pharao. And Iethro Moses father in lawe came with his two sonnes, and hys wyfe, vnto Moses into the wyldernesse: wher he abode by the mount of God. And he sayde vnto Moses: I thy father in lawe Iethro, am come to the, and thy wyfe also, and her two sonnes with her. And Moyses went B out to mete his father in law and dyd obeysaunce, and kyssed hym, and eache asked other of hys health: & they came into the tente. And Moyses tolde hys father in lawe, all that the Lorde had done vnto Pharao, and to the Egyptians, for Israels sake: and all the trauayle that had happened theym by the waye, and howe the Lorde deliuered them. And Iethro reioysed ouer all the goodnesse whiche the Lord had done to Israel, and because he had deliuered thē out of the hand of the Egiptians. And Iethro sayd: blessed be the lord whych hath deliuered you out of ỹ hand of ỹ Egiptians, and out of the hand of Pharao: which hath also deliuered his people frō the captyuitie of the Egyptians. Nowe I know that the Lorde is greater then all goddes: for in the thynge whereby they dealte cruelly with them, are they themselues perysshed. And Iethro Moses father in law offred burnt offrynges, & sacrifices vnto God. And Aaron and all the elders of Israell came to eate breade with Moyses father in lawe before God. And it chanced on the morow, that Moses sat to iudge the people, and the people stode about Moyses frome morynge vnto euen. And when Moses father in lawe sawe all that he dyd vnto the people, he sayde: What is this that thou doest vnto the people? why sittest thou thy self alone and all the people stande about the frō morynge vnto euen? And Moyses sayd vnto his father in law: Because the people come vnto me to seke councell of GOD: whenne they haue a matter, they come vnto me, & I iudge betwene euery man and his neighbor: and shewe them the ordinaunces of God, and hys lawes. And Moses father in lawe sayd vnto hym: It is not well that thou doest. Thou both weryest thy selfe, and this people that is

Be thou vnto the people to godward, that thou mayst bryng the causes vnto God, and thou shalt teache them ordinances, and lawes, and shew them the way, wherin they must walk, and the D worke that they must do. Moreouer, thou shalt seke out among all the people, men of attiuitie, and such as feare God: true men, hatyng couetousnesse: and make them heads ouer the people captaines ouer thousandes, ouer hundredes, ouer fiftie, and ouer tenne: and let them iudge the people at all sesons Deu. 1.c And euery * great matter that happeneth, let them bryng vnto the, but let them iudge all small causes them selues: and so shal it be easier for thy self, and they shall beare with the. If thou shalt doo this thing, (and God charge thee withall) thou shalt be able to endure, and yet the people shall come to theyr place in peace. And so Moyses obeyed the voyce of his father in law, and dyd all that he had sayd: and chose actiue men out of all Israel, and made them as heades ouer the people: namely captaynes, ouer thousandes, ouer hundredes, ouer fyfty, and ouer tenne. And they iudged the people at all seasons, but brought the hard causes vnto Moses: and iudged all small matters them selues. And Moses let hys father in law depart, and he went into hys owne lande.

All the wyſe harted menne therefore, and they that wrought for the habitatyon, made ten curtaynes of white twined ſilke, ye-low ſilke, purple, and ſcarlette: wyth pictures of brodered worke made hee them. The length of one curtain was xxviii. cubites, and the bredthe foure, and the curtaynes were all of one ſiſe. And he coupled fiue curtains by them ſelues, and other fiue by them ſelues. And toward the west ende of the tabernacle. (That is to say) at that end of the tabernacle whiche enclineth towarde the sea. He made sixe bordes, & two other boordes made he in the corners of the habitation, for eyther syde, & they were ioyned close benethe and aboue, with a clampe, and thus they dyde to both the corners. And there wer. viii. boordes, and sixtene sockets of syluer, vnder euery boorde two sockets. And

And he made the myddest barre to shoote thorow the boordes, euen frome the one ende to the other, and ouerlayde the boordes with gold, and made rynges of gold to thrust the barres thorowe, and couered the barres wyth golde. And he made an hangynge of yelowe sylke, purple scarlet, and whyte twyned sylke, euen with pictures made he it of broswdred woorke. And made therevnto fower pyllers of Sethim wood, and ouerlayd them with gold. Their knoppes were also of gold, and he cast for them fower sockets of syluer. And he made an hangyng for the tabernacle dooze: of yelow silke, purple, scarlet, and white twined silke of nedle woorke. And the Cherubines spreade oute theyr wynges aboue an hye, and couered the mercyseate therwith. And theyr faces were one to another: euen to the mercy seat ward were the faces of the Cherubines.

And he ouerlayde it with fyne golde, and made thereto a crowne of gold round about, and made thereto an whope of an hande breade, rounde aboute, and made vpon the whope a crowne of golde rounde aboute, and cast for it foure rynges of gold, and put the ringes in the foure cornors, that were in the foure feete thereof. Euen hard by the whope were the ryuers, into the ¶ whyche the barres were put, to beare the table withal. And he made the barres of Sethim wood, & couered them with golde to beare the table with all, and made the vessels (for the table) of pure golde: the dysshes, spones, flatte peeces, and pottes to poure withall. 25. And he made the candelsticke of pure golde: euen of one peece made he the candlestycke. For his fote, his shafte, his cuppes, his knoppes, & his flowers were of one peece. Sixe braunches proceding out of the sides therof, three oute of the one syde, and three oute of the other. And in one braunche three cuppes made like vnto almonds with knoppes and flowers. And in another braunch, three cups made like vnto almōds wt knops & flowers, & so throughout the syx braunches, that proceded oute of the candlestycke.

And vpon the candlesticke selfe were foure cuppes after the facyon of almondes wyth knoppes and flowres: vnder euerye two braunches a knop. And the knoppes and the braunches proceded out of it, and it was all one peece of pure thycke golde. And he made hys seuen lampes with the tonges and snuffers thereof, of pure gold. ¶ Euen of an hundred weighte of pure golde, made he it with all the vessells thereof. And he made the tens alter of Sethim wood. The length of it was a cubite, and the breadth a cubite for it was foure square, and two cubites hye, with hornes proceding out of it. And he couered it with pure gold bothe the toppe and the sydes thereof rounde aboute, and the hornes of it, and made vnto it a crowne of golde rounde aboute. And he made two rynges of golde for it, euen vnder the crowne thereof, in the two corners of it, and in the two sydes thereof to put barres in, for to beare it withall: and made the barres of Sethim wood, and ouerlayde them with golde. ¶ The .xxxviii. Chapt.

AND he made the burnte offeryng-alter of Sethim wood, ¶ Exo. 37. fyue cubites was the lengthe thereof, and fiue cubites the breadth: euen forwre square, and three cubites hye. And he made vnto it hornes in the foure cornors of it, proceadyng oute of it, and he ouerlayde it with brasse. And he made al the vessels of the alter: the cauldrones, shouels, basynes, flesshehokes and colepannes. All the vessels thereof made he of brasse. And he made a brasen gredyrē of networke vnto the alter, rounde aboute, alowe, beneth, vnto the myddes of the alter, & cast fowre rynges of brasse, for the fowre endes of the gredyren, to putte barres in. And he made the barres of Sethim wood, and couered thē wyth brasse, and put the barres into the ringes in the foure cornors of the alter, to beare it withall, and made the altarre holowe with in the bordes. And he ¶ made the lauer of brasse, and the foote of it also of brasse in the sight of them, that dyd watche at the doze of the tabernacle of witnesse. And he made the courte on the southsyde, and the hangynges of the courte were of whyte twyned sylke, hauyng an hundred cubytes. The pylers were twenty, and theyr brasen sockettes twentye. But the knoppes of the pyllers, and theyr whopes were of siluer. And on the Northesyde the hangynges were an hundred cubites. Theyr pyllers were xx. and their sockets of brasse xx. But the knoppes and the whopes of the pyllers were of syluer. On the west syde, were hangynges of fyfty cubites, ten pilers, and theyr ten sockets (of brasse.) But the knoppes and the whopes of the pyllers, were of siluer.

And

And toward the eaſt ſyde, were hangyngs of.l. cubites: the hangyngs of the one ſyde of the gate, were fyftene cubites longe, with thꝛee pyllers, and thꝛe ſockets. And of the other ſyde of the court gate, were hangyngs alſo of xv. cubites long, with thꝛe pillers and thꝛe ſockets. All the hanginges of the court round about, wer of white twined ſylke: but the ſocket of the pillers were of bꝛaſſe: and the knops and the houpes of the pillers were of ſiluer, & the coueryng of the heades was of ſiluer, and all the pyllers of the courte were houped about with ſyluer. This is the ſum of the habitation of wytnes, as it was counted accozding to the commaundement of Moſes foꝛ the office of the Leuites by the hande of Ithamar ſonne to Aaron the prieſt. And Bezaleel the ſonne of Uri the ſonne of Hur of the trybe of Juda, made all that the lozde commaunded Moyſes, and with hym was Aholiab ſonne of Ahiſamach of the tribe of Dan, a connynge grauer, and a woozker of nedle woozke in yealowe ſilke, purple, ſcarlet, and whyte twyned ſilke. All the golde that was occuppyed foꝛ al the woozke of the holye place was the golde of the waue offerynge, euen.xxix. hundzeth weyghte and ſeuen hundzeth and xxx. ſickles, accozding to the ſickle of the Sanctuary. And the ſũme of ſyluer that came of the multitud, was.v. ſkoze hundzed weyghte, and a thouſande ſeuen hundzed and.xxv. ſicles after the ſickle of the Sanctuary. Foꝛ euerye manne an halfe weight, euen halfe a ſickle after the ſickle of the ſanctuary, foꝛ al them that went to be numbzed from xx. yere olde and aboue, euen foꝛ vi. hundzethe thouſande and thꝛee thouſande and. v. hundzeth and.l. menne And of the.v. ſcoze hundzeth weyght of ſyluer, were cait the ſockettes of the Sanctuarye, and the ſockettes of the vayle, an hundzed ſockettes of the fyue ſcoze hundzed weyght an hundzed weyghte to euery ſockette. And of the thouſande ſeuen hundzethe and. xxx, ſickles, hee made knoppes to the pillers, and ouer layed the heades and whooped theym wyth Syluer. And the bꝛaſſe of the wau e ſkerynge was. xxx. hunderde weyght, and two thouſande and. iiii. hun dzede ſicles. And therewith he made the ſockettes to the dooze of the Tabernacle of wytneſſe, and the bꝛaſen altare, and the bꝛaſen gredyron foꝛ it, with all the veſſels of the altar, and the ſockets of the court round aboute, and the ſockets foꝛ the courte gate, and all the pynnes of the habitation, and all the pyns of the court round about.

The.xxxix. Chapter.

AND of the yelow ſilke, purple and ſcarlet, they made the veſtimentes of myniſtration to doo ſeruice in the holy place, and made the holy garmentes foꝛ Aaron, as the Lozde commaunded Moſes. And he made the Ephod of gold, yelow ſilke, purple, ſcarlet, and white twyned ſilk And they dyd beate the gold into thin plates, and cut it into wiers: to wozk it in the yelow ſylke, purple, ſcarlette, and in the fine white, with bꝛowdzed wozke. And they made two ſydes foꝛ it, to cloſe them vp by the two edges. And the bꝛowdzyng of the gyrdle that was vppon it, was of the ſame ſtuffe, and after the ſame wozke: of golde, yelow ſilk, purple, ſcarlette, and twyned whyte ſylke, as the Lozd commanded Moſes. And they wzought Onix ſtones cloſed in ouches of gold, and grauen as ſignettes are grauen with the names of the chyldzen of Iſraell, and put theym on the ſhoulders of the Ephod, that they ſhould be ſtones foꝛ a remembzance of the chyldzen of Iſraell, as the Lozde commaunded Moſes and and he made the brestlap of conning worke, and like the worke of the Ephod: euen of gold, yelowe silke, purple, scarlet and twyned white silke.

C It was .xiii. square: and they made the brestlap double, an handebreadth long and an handebreadth brode. And they filled it with .iiii. rowes of stones. The first rowe, a Sardios, a Topas, and * Smaragdus: the seconde rowe, a * Rubie, a Saphir, and a Diamond: in the third row, Ligurios, an Achat, and an Amatist: in the fourth rowe, a Turcas, an Onix, and a Jaspis. And they were closed in ouches of golde in their inclosers. And the .xii. stones were grauen as signettes with the names of the children of Israel: euery stone with his name, according to the twelue tribes. And they made vpon the brestlap two fastning cheines of wruthen worke and pure golde. And they made two hookes of golde and two golde rynges, and put the two rynges in the two corners of the brestlappe. And they put the two chaines of gold in the two rings, in the corners of the brestlap: and the two endes of the two chaynes they fastened in the two hokes and put them on the shoulders of the Ephod vpon the fore front of it. And they made two rynges of golde, and putte them on the two corners of the brestlappe vpon the edge of it whiche was on the inside by the Ephod. And they made two golden rynges, and put them on the two sides of the Ephod. beneth on the forside of it, and ouer against his felowe, aboue vpon the brodring of the Ephod, and they strayned the brestlappe by his rynges vnto the rynges of the Ephod, with a lace of yelowe silke: that it myght be vpon the brodrynge of the Ephod, and that the brestlap should not be lowsed from of the Ephod: as the Lord commaunded Moyses. And he made the tunicle vnto the Ephod of wouen worke, all together of yelowe silke, and there was an hole in the myddest of the tunicle, as the coler of a partlet, with a bande rounde aboute the coler, that it shoulde not rente. And in the tunicle they made hemmes with pomgranates, of yelowe silke, purple, scarlet & whit twyned silke. And they made lyttle belles of pure golde, and put them among the pomgranates rounde about vpon the edge of the tunicle: a bell and a pomgranate, a bell and a pomgranat rounde about the hemmes of the tunicle to minister in, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. And they made cotes of fyne whyte of wouen worke for Aaron and his sonnes, and a myter of fyne whyte, and goodly bonettes of fyne whyt, and linnen breches of twined whyte, and a gyrdell of twyned whyte, yelowe silke, purple and scarlet: euen of nedle worke, as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And they made the plate for the holye crowne of fyne gold, & wrote vpō it ✠ grauen worke the holines of the Lorde: and tyed vnto it a lace of yelowe silke to fasten it an hye vppon the myter, as the Lorde commaunded Moises. Thus was all the worke of the habitation and of the Tabernacle of witnesse finished. And the chyldren of Israell dyd accordyng to all that the Lorde had commaunded Moyses: euen so dyd they. And they brought the habitation vnto Moises: the tent and all hys apparell, buttons, boordes, barres, pyllers and sockets, the couerynge of rams skynnes red, and the couerynge of taxus skynnes, and the hangynge vayle, the arcke of witnesse & the barres thereof, and the mercyseate: the table and al the vessels thereof, and the shewbrcade: the pure candlestycke, wyth the lampes thereof: euen wyth the lampes to be prepared and all the vesselles thereof, and the oyle for lyght: the golden aultare, and the anoyntynge oyle, and the sweete sence, and the hangynge of the Tabernacle doore, and the brasen aultare with hys gredyron of brasse, hys barres, and all hys vesselles, the lauer and hys foote: the hangynges of the courte with hys pyllers and sockettes: the hangynge to the courte gate, and hys pynnes and coardes, and all the vessell of the seruyce of the habitation for the Tabernacle of witnesse:

the ministrynge beſtimentes to ſerue in the holye place, and the holy beſtimentes for Aaron the preaſte, and his ſonnes rayments to minister in accordyng to all that the Lorde commaunded Moyſes: euen ſo the chyldren of Iſraell made al the worke. And Moſes behelde all the worke, and ſee, they had done it euen as the Lord cõmaunded: euen ſo had they done, and Moyſes bleſſed them.

A AND the Lorde ſpake vnto Moyſes ſaying: In the fyrſt day of the firſt moneth ſhalte thou ſette vp the habitation and the Tabernacle of wytneſſe, and put therin the arcke of wytneſſe, and couer the arcke withe the vayle, and bryng in the table and apparell it accordyng to the order therof. And thou ſhalt annoynt the aulter of burntofferyng and al hys veſſels, and ſanctifie the aulter, that it maye be an aulter moſte holye. And thou ſhalt anoynte alſo the lauer and his fote, and ſanctifie it. And thou ſhalt bryng Aaron and his ſonnes vnto the doore of the Tabernacle of witnes, and waſh them with water. And thou ſhalt bryng hys ſonnes, and clothe them with garmentes, and anoynt them as thou dyddeſt annoynt theyr father, that they maye miniſter vnto me. For theyr anoyntyng ſhalbe an euerlaſtynge preaſthode vnto them throughout theyr generations. * And Num.
Mooſes dyd accordyng to all that the Lorde commaunded hym: euen ſo dyd he. Thus was the Tabernacle rea- C

And Moyſes reared vp the Tabernacle and faſtened hys ſockettes, and ſette vp the borders thereof, & put in the barres of it and reared vp hys pillers, and ſpred abrode the tente ouer the habitation, and put the couerynge of the tente an hye aboue it: as the Lorde commaunded Moiſes. And he toke the teſtimonye, and put it in the arke, and ſet the barres to the arke, and put the mercy-ſeat an hie vpon the arke, and brought the arke into the habitation, and hanged vp the vayle, and couered the arke of witneſſe, as the Lord commaunded Moyſes. And he put the table in the tabernacle of wytneſſe in the northe-ſyde of the habitation, (but withoute the vayle) and ſet the breade in order before the Lorde, euen as the Lord had commaunded Moſes. And he put the candelſticke in the tabernacle of witneſſe ouer agaynſte the table towarde the ſouthſide of the habitation, and ſet vp the lampes before the Lorde: as the Lorde commaunded Moyſes. And he put the golden aulter in the tabernacle of wytneſſe before the vayle and brent ſwete cenſe theron, as the Lorde commaunded Moyſes. And he hanged vp the hangyng at the doore of the habitacion, and ſet the burntofferynge aulter by the entrynge in of the habitation of the tabernacle of wytneſſe, and offered burntofferinges and meateofferynges theron, as the Lorde commaunded Moyſes. * And he ſet the lauer be- E

And

And he reared vp the courte rounde and set vp an hangynge at the courte

Moyses coulde not enter into the tafylled the habitation. (Foz the cloude had couered all.) And when the cloud

And the pzeastes Aarons sons, shall bzynge the blood, and spzynkle it rounde aboute vpon the aulter, that is by the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And then shal he slay the burntofferyng, and hewe him in peces. And the sonnes of Aaron the pzieste shal put fyze vpon the aulter, and put woode vpon the fyze. And the pzeastes Aarons sonnes shall lay the partes (euen the heade and the fat) vpon the woode that is on the fyze in the aulter. But the inwardes and the legges thereof shall he washe in water, and the pzeast shall burneall on the aulter, that they maye be a burntsacrifyce foz a sweete odour vnto the Lozd. And if his sacri- C

And the pzestes Aarons sons shall sprinkle the blood rounde about vpon the aulter. And it shalbe cut in peces: euē with hys head and his fat, and the pzeast shal put thē vpon the wood that lyeth vpon ỹ fire on the aulter. But he shall washe the inwardes and the legges with water and the pzest shall bzing al together, & burne it vpon the aulter foz a burntoffring of a swet sauour vnto the lozd. Yf the burntoffring foz the sacrifice of the Lozd be of the foules, he shal bzing hys sacrifice of ỹ turtildoues oz of the yonge pygeons. And the pzeaste shall bzyng it vnto the aulter, & wzyng the necke a sūder of it, and burne it on the alter. But the blood therof shal runne out vpon, by the syde of the alter. And he shal plucke away hys croppe with his fethers, & cast them beside the alter on the easte part in the place of asshes.

And he shall breake the wynges of it, but plucke them not a sundre. And the preaste shall burne it vpon the aulter, euen vpon the wod ẏ is vpon the fire, that it maye be a burntesacrifice for a swete sauour vnto the Lorde.

A THye soule that will offer a meate offerynge vnto the Lorde, the same offerynge shall be of fyne floure, and he shall poure oyle vpon it, and put frankencens theron, and shall bryng it vnto Arons sonnes the preastes. Yf thou bryng also a meateofferynge that is baken in the ouen, let it bee a sweete cake of fyne floure myngled wyth oyle, or an vnleucued wafer anoynted with oyle. Yf thy meateofferyng be baken in the fryinge pan, it shalbe of swete floure myngled with oyle: And thou shalt mynce it small, and power oyle theron, that it may be a meateofferynge. And if thy meateofferynge be a thynge broyled vpon the gredyron, then let it be of floure myngled with oyle.

And thou shalt bring the meatoffring (that is made of these thynges) vnto the Lord, and shalt delyuer it vnto the preaste that he maye offer it vpon the aulter, and the preaste shall take of the meateofferynge a memoriall, and shall

It is a thynge moste holye of the offerynges of the LORDE. All the meatcoffrynges which ye shall bryng vnto the Lorde, shalbe made withoute leuen. For ye shall neyther burne leuen nor honye in anye offerynge of the Lorde, Notwithstandyng ye shall bring the firstlyngs of them vnto the Lord: but they shall not come vppon the aulter for a swete sauoure. * All the meate offrynges also shalte thou season with salte: neyther shalte thou suffer the salte of the couenaunte of thy God to be lackyng from thy meatoffering: but vpon all thyne offerynges thou shalle bryng salte. And if thou offer a meatofferyng of the first rype frutes vnto the Lord, thou shalt offer for the meatofferynge of thy first frutes, eares of corne dryed by the fyre, and corne beaten as meale. And thou shalte put oyle vpon it, and laye frankencens theron, that it maye be a meatoffering. And the preast shall burne parte of the beated corne and part of that oyle with all the frankencens, for a remembraunce. And it shall be a sacrifice vnto the Lorde.

This

A Thys is the lawe of treſpaſſe offringe: it is mooſt holy. In the place where they kill the burntoffring, ſhall they kyll the treſpaſſeoffrynge alſo, & his bloud ſhall he ſprynkle rounde aboute vpon the alter. All the fat therof ſhall they offre: the roumpe and the fatte thereof that coucreth the inwardes, and the two kydneyes, and the fat that is on them, and vpon the loynes: and the aboundaunce that is on the liuer ſhalt thou take awaye with the kydneyes, and the prieſt ſhall burne them vppon the alter, to be a ſacrifice vnto ✠ Lorde: for it is a treſpaſſe offrynge. All the males amonge the prieſtes ſhall eate thereof in the holy place, for it is moſt holy. As the ſinne offryng is, ſo is the treſpaſſeoffryng, one lawe ſeruеth for both, and it ſhalbe the prieſtes that reconcyleth therewith. And the prieſte that offreth any mans burntoffrynge, ſhall haue the ſkynne of the burntoffrynge whiche he hath offred. And all the meate offring that is baken in the ouen, and that is dreſſed vpon the gredyren, and in the frying pan, ſhalbe the prieſtes that offreth it. And euery meateoffrynge that is myngled with oyle, and that is dry, ſhall pertayne vnto all the ſonnes of Aaron, and one ſhall haue as muche as another.

B Thys is the lawe of the peaceoffring, whan it is offred vnto the Lorde. If he offre it to geue thankes, he ſhall bryngе vnto hys thankeoffring ſwete kakes mingled with oyle, and ſwete wafers, annoynted with oyle, and kakes mingled with oile of fine flour fryed. He ſhall bryng hys offerynge vppon kakes of leuened bread, for his peaceoffringes, to geue thankes: and of all the ſacrifyce he ſhall offre one for an heueoffrynge vnto the Lorde, and it ſhalbe the prieſtes that ſprynckeled the bloude of the peaceofferynges. And the fleſhe of the thankeoffrynge in his peaceofferynges ſhalbe eaten, the ſame day that it is offred. And let hym lay vp nothynge of it vntyll the morowe. But if he offre his ſacrifyce by reaſon of a bowe, or of hys owne freewyll, it ſhalbe eaten the ſame daye that he offereth hys ſacrifyce. And yf ought remayne vntyl the morowe it may be eaten: but as muche of the offered fleſhe as remayneth vnto the thyrde day, ſhalbe burnt with fire. And if anye of the fleſhe of hys peaceofferyngеs be eaten in the thirde day, then ſhall he that offereth it, obtayne no fauoure, neyther ſhall it be reckened vnto hym, but ſhalbe an abhomination. Therefore the ſoule that eateth of it ſhall beare hys ſynne. C And the fleſhe that toucheth anye vncleane thynge ſhall not be eaten, but burnte with fyre: and all that be cleane, ſhall eate the fleſhe. But yf anye ſoule eate of the fleſhe of the peaceofferyng that pertayneth vnto the Lorde, hauynge hys vncleannеſſe vppon hym: the ſame ſoule ſhall peryſhe from amonge hys people. Moreouer, the ſoule that doth touche anye vncleane thynge, that is of the vncleannеſſe of man, or of anye vncleane beaſte, or any abhomination that is vncleane: and then eate of the fleſhe of the peaceofferynge whyche pertayneth vnto the Lorde that ſoule ſhall peryſhe from his people. maye be waued for a waue offerynge before the Lorde. And the prieſt ſhall burne the fatte vpon the alter, and the breſt ſhalbe Arons and hys ſonnes.
And the right ſhoulder ſhall ye geue youre peaceoffrynges. The ſame that by a ſtatute for euer in theyr generacy-one. This is the lawe of the burntof-frynge and of the meatoffryng, and of the ſacrifice for ſynne and treſpaſſe, for conſecration, and for the peaceof-frynge: whyche the Lorde commaunded Moſes in the mounte of Synai, when he commaunded the chyldren of Iſrael to offre their ſacrifices vnto the Lord in the wildernelle of Sinai.

¶ The.viii. Chapter.

AND the Lorde ſpake vnto Moyſes ſaying: take * Aa-Exo. 28. ron and hys ſonnes with hym, and the veſtures and ỹ annoynting oyle, and a ponge ore for ſinne, and two rammes, and a baſket with ſweete breade: and gather thou all the congregation together vnto the dore of the tabernacle of wytneſſe.
And Moſes did as the Lord commaū ded hym, and the people were gathered together vnto the doore of the tabernacle of witneſſe.

And Moyſes ſayde vnto the congregation: this is the thing which the Lord commaunded to be done. And Moſes brought Aaron and his ſon-nes, and waſſhed theym with water and put vpon him the albe, and gyrded him with a gyrdle, and put vpon him the tunicle, (of yealowe ſycke) and put the Ephod thereon, whych he gir ded with the brodered gyrdell that was in the Ephod, and bounde it vnto hym therewith. And he putte the breſtlappe thereon and put in ỹ breſtlap, Urim & Thumin. And he put the mytre vpon his head, and putte vpon the myter (euen vpon the fore front of hys face) the golden plate or the holye crowne, as the Lorde commaunded Moyſes. * And Moſes toke the anoyntyng oyle, and annoynted the ta- 8 Exo. bernacle, and all that was therin, and ſanctifyed them, and ſprynckled thereof vppon the auiter ſeuen tymes, and annoynted the alter, and all his veſſels, the lauer and his foote, to ſancty-fie them (with the otle.) And he pow red of the annoyntynge oyle vpon Aa rons head, and anoynted him, to ſanctifie him. And Moſes brought Aarons ſonnes, and put albes vpon them and gyrded theym with gyrdels, and put bonetes vpon their heades: as the lorde commaunded Moſes. * And he brought the ponge ore for ſinne. And C Aaron and hys ſonnes put their han- Exo. des vppon the heade of the ponge ore that was for ſin. And Moyſes ſlewe him, and toke of the bloud, whiche he put vpō the hornes of the alter round about with his fynger, and purified it, and powred the bloud vnto the bot-tome of the alter, and ſanctified it, and reconcyled it. And he toke all the fatte that was vpon the inwardes, and the aboundaunce of the liuer and the two kydneyes, and theyr fat, and Moyſes burned it vpon the auiter. But the ponge ore and his hide, his fleſhe and hys dong, he burnt with fire without the hooſt as the Lorde commaunded Moyſes. And he brought the ram for the burntoffrynge, and Aaron and his D ſonnes put theyr handes vpon the head of the ram, which Moyses killed, and sprynkled the bloude vpon the aulter rounde aboute, and Moises cutte the ram in peces and burnt the heade, the peces and the fatte, and wasshed the in wardes and the legges in water, and Moses burnt the ram euery whyt vp on the alter, for a burnt sacrifyce that it myghte be a swete sauoure, and an offeryng vnto the Lord, as the lord 29. commaunded Moses. ✱ And he broughte the other ram, namelye the ram of consecration (of the priestes) and Aaron and hys sonnes put their han-des vpon the head of the ram: whyche Moyses slewe, and toke of the bloude of it, and put it vpon the typpe of Aarons ryght eare, and vpon the thombe of his right hande, and vpon the great E too of his righte fote. And Moyses brought Aarons sonnes, and putte of the bloude (of the ram) on the typpe of the ryght eare of them, and vppon the thombes of their right handes, and vp on the great tooes of their right feete, and Moses sprynkled the bloud vpon the alter rounde aboute. ✱ And he toke 29. the fatte and the roumpe, and all the fat that was vpon the inwardes, and the aboundaunce of the lyuer, and the two kydneyes with theyr fat, and the ryght shoulder. And out of the basket of swete breade that was before the Lorde, he toke one swete cake of oyled bread, and one wafer, and putte them on the fat, and vpon the right shoulder and put altogether vpon Aarons han-des, and vpon his sonnes handes, and waued it a waueoffrynge before the Lord. And Moses toke them from of F theyr handes, and burnt them vppon the alter, euen vpon the burntoffringe alter: for it was the sacrifice of consecration, for a swete sauoure and a sacrifice vnto the Lorde. ✱ And Moses 29. toke the breast & waued it for a waue offryng before the Lorde, for it was of the ram of the consecratiō, and it was Moses parte, as the Lord commaunded Moyses. And Moses toke of the annoyntynge oyle, and of the bloude whyche was vpon the alter, and sprin kled it vpon Aaron and vpon hys vestimentes, vppon hys sonnes and on hys sonnes vestymentes with hym, and sanctifyed Aaron, hys vestures & his sonnes, and hys sonnes vestures with him. And Moses sayd vnto Aaron and hys sonnes: boyle the flesshe in the doore of the tabernacle of witnesse, and there ✱ eate it with the breade that is in the basket of consecration, as I G commaunded, saying: Aaron and hys Exo. 29. sonnes shal eate it: and that which remayneth of the breade, shall ye burne with fyre. And ye shall not departe from the doore of the tabernacle of wit nesse seuen dayes, vntill the dayes of youre consecration be at an ende. For vii. dayes shal he fill youre hande as he dyd thys day: euen so the Lord hath commaunded to doo, to reconcile you withall. Therefore shall ye abyde in the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse daye and night, seuen dayes long: and kepe the watche of the Lorde and ye shall not dye: for soo I am commaunded. And so Aaron and his sonnes did all thynges which the Lord comman ded by the hande of Moyses.

¶ The. ix Chapter.

AND it forturned that in ℔ viii. B day, Moses called Aaron and his sonnes, and the elders of Israell: and said vnto Aaron: take the a calfe, a yong one out of the droue, for sinne, and a ram for a burntoffringe: bothe without blemisse, and bryng thē before ℔ Lord. And vnto the children of Israell thou shalt speake, sayinge: take ye an he goate for sinne, and a calfe and a lambe both two of a yeare olde, without blemyshe for a burntsa-crifie, and an oxe and a ram for peace-offrynges, to offre before the Lorde, & a meateoffryng mingled with oyle for to daye the Lorde will appeare vnto you. And they brought that (whyche B Moyses commaunded) before the tabernacle of wytnesse, and all the congregation came and stoode before the Lord. And Moyses saide: this is the thinge which the Lord commaunded that ye should do: and the glory of the Lorde shall appeare vnto you.

✱ And

Hebr.5.a and.7.d * And Moyses sayde vnto Aaron: go vnto the aulter and offer thy sacrifyce for synne, and make an attonment for thee and for the people: and thou shalt offer the offerynge of the people, to reconsyle them, as the Lorde commaunded. Aaron therefore wente vnto the aulter, and slewe the calfe whiche he had for synne. And the sonnes of Aaron brought the blood vnto hym, and he dypte hys synger in the blode and put it vpon the hornes of the aulter, and powred the blood vnto ỹ botome of the aulter. But the fat and the two kydneyes and the aboundaunce of the lyuer of the synneofferynge, he burnt vppon the aulter as the Lorde commaunded Moises. The flesshe and the hyde he burnt with fyre without the hoste. And he slewe the burntof-

Leui.4.b ferynge, * and Aarons sonnes brought vnto hym the blood, whiche he sprynkled rounde aboute vpon the aulter. And they brought the burntofferynge vnto hym with the peces thereof, and the heade: and he burnte it vppon the aulter, and dyd washe the inwardes and the legges, and burnte them vpon the burnt offeryng on the aulter. And then he brought the peoples offeryng, takynge the goate that the people had for the sacrifyce of synne, and slewe it and offered it for synne, as he dyd the fyrst. And brought the burntoffering, Leui. 2.a and offered it as the maner was * and brought the meateofferyng, and fylled hys hande therof, and burnte it vpon the aulter, beside the burntsacrifyce of the mornynge. He slewe also the oxe and the ram for the peaceoffryng, that the people hadde for them selues: and Aarons sonnes brought vnto him the bloode whyche he sprynkled vpon the aulter rounde aboute, and toke the fat of the oxe and of the ram, the rumpe, and the fat that coureth ỹ inwardes, and the kydneyes and the aboundance of the lyuer: and they put the fatte vpon the brestes, and he burnt the fat vpon the aulter: but the brestes and the ryghte shoulders Aaron waued for a waue offerynge before the Lorde, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses.

And Aaron lyft vp hys hand ouer the people, and blessed them, & came downe from offeringe of the synneofferynge, burntofferinges and peaceofferinges. And Moyses and Aaron wente into the tabernacle of witnesse & came out, and blessed the people, and the glorye of the Lord appeared vnto all the people. * And ther came a fire out from be- 2 Ma. fore the Lorde and consumed vpon the aulter, the burntofferyng, and the fat. Which when all the people sawe they gaue thankes, and fel on theyr faces.

The.x. Chapter.

And * Nadab and Abihu, the sonnes of Aaron toke eyther of them his censor, and put fire therin, and put sence therupon, and offered straunge fyre before the Lorde * whiche he cõmaunded them not, and there went a fyre oute from the Lord, and consumed them, and the dyed before the Lorde. Then Moyses sayde vnto Aaron: thys is it that the Lorde spake, saying: I wyll be sanctified in them that come nye me, and before all the people I wyll be glorifyed. And Aaron helde hys peace. And Moyses called Misael and Elsaphan the sons of Oziell the vncle of Aaron, and sayd vnto them: come on, carye youre brethren from the holye place oute of the hoste. And they went to them, and caryed thẽ in theyr albes out of the hoste, as Moyses had sayde. And Moyses sayde vnto Aaron, and vnto Eleazar, and Ithamar hys sonnes * vncouer not youre heades, neyther rente youre clothes, leaste ye dye, and leaste wrath come vpon al the people. But let your brethren the hole house of Israell bewepe the burnynge which the Lorde hath kyndled. And goo not ye oute from the doze of the tabernacle of witnesse, leaste ye dye: for the annoynting oyle of God is vpon you. And they dyd as Moyses sayde. And the Lorde spake vnto Aaron, saying: Thou shalt not drynke wyne and strong drynke, thou and thy sonnes that are with the: when ye go into the tabernacle of witnesse, leaste ye dye. Let it be a lawe for euer throughout your generatiõs,

and that ye maye (haue knoweledge to) put difference betwene holye and vnholye, betwen vncleane and cleane, and that ye maye teach the childzen of Israell, al the statutes whych the lozd hath spoken vnto them by the hand of Moses. And Moses sayde vnto Aaron and vnto Eleazar and Ithamar hys sonnes that were lefte: take the meateoffrynge that remayneth of the sacrifyces of the Lozde: & eate it without leuen beside the alter: for it is most holy: ye shall eate it in the holye place, because it is thy duetie and thy sonnes duetie of the sacrifices of the Lozd: for so I am commaunded. And the waue brest and heueshoulder shall ye eate in a cleane place: thou and thy sons and thy doughters with the. For they be thy duetie and thy sonnes duetie geuē out of the peaceoffrynges of the chyldzen of Israell. The heueshoulder & the wauebreast shall they bzynge in with the sacrifyces of the fat, to waue it before the Lozde, and it shalbe thine and thy sonnes with the: by a lawe for euer as the Lozde hath commaunded. And Moyses soughte the goate that was offred for sinne, and see, it was burnte. And he was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar the sonnes of Aarō whyche were left alyue, saying: wherfore haue ye not eaten the synne offerynge in the holye place, seynge it is most holy: and God hath geuen it you to beare the sinne of the congregation, to make agrement for them before the Lozde? Behold the bloud of it was not bzought in within the holy place. Yee shoulde haue eaten it in the holy place as I commaunded. And Aaron sayde vnto Moyses: beholde, this day haue I offered theyr synne offerynge and theyr burntofferynge before the Lozd, and it is chaunced me after thys maner. And yf I had eaten the sacrifyce to daye, should it haue bene accepted in the sight of the Lozd? And whē Moses hearde that, he was content.

¶ The .xi. Chapter.

AND the Lozd spake vnto Moses and Aaron, and sayd vnto them: speake vnto the childzen of Israell, & say * these are the beastes whiche ye shall eate, amonge all the catteil that are on the earth: whatsoeuer parteth the hoofe, and deuydeth it into two clawes, and chaweth cudde amonge the beastes, that shall ye eate. Neuerthelesse, these shall ye not eate, of them that chawe cud, and deuydeth the hooses: as is the camell, whyche chaweth cud, but he deuydeth not the hoofe, therefore is he vncleane vnto you, euen so the coney whyche chaweth the cud but deuideth not the hoofe he is therefore vncleane to you. And the hare though he chaweth the cudde yet because he deuydeth not the hoofe, he is therefore vncleane to you. And agayne, the swyne, though he deuyde the hoffe in to two clawes, yet he chaweth not the cud. He is vncleane to you Of theyr flesshe shall ye not eate, and theyr carkesses shal ye not touche, but let them be vncleane to you. B These shall ye eate of all that are in the waters: whatsoeuer hath sinnes & skales in the waters, seas, and ryuers, that shall ye eate. And all that haue not sinnes and skales in the sea and riuers of all that moue and lyue in the waters, let them be abhomination vnto you: Ye shall not eate of their flesshe, but abhorre theyr carkases. Let al that haue no sinnes nor skales in the waters be abhominable vnto you. C These are they which ye shall abhorre amōg the foules, and that oughte not to be eaten, for they are an abhomination. The Egle, the golshauke, and the cormorant, the vulture, and the kite, after hys kynde, and all rauens after theyr kynde, the estryche, the nyghte crowe, the cookowe, and the owle after hys kynde, the falcon, the storcke, the great owle, the backe, the pellican, the pye, the heron, the Jay, after hys kynde, the lapwyng: and the swalowe. Lette all foules that crepe and goo vpon all foure, be an abhomination vnto you. Yet these maye ye eate, of euerye crepynge thynge that hath wynges and goo vppon foote fete, euen those that haue knees aboue vpon theyr fete, to lepe with all vppon the earthe, euen D these

these of them ye maye eate * the Arbe after hys kynde: the * Helaam after hys kynd: the * Hargol after his kind, and the * Hagab after hys kynde. All other foules that moue and haue foure fete, shall be abhominacion vnto you. In suche ye be vncleane, and whosoeuer toucheth the carkas of them, shal be vncleane vnto the euen: and whosoeuer beareth the carkasse of theym, shall washe hys clothes, and be vncleane vntyll euen. And euerye beaste that hath hoofe and deuydeth it not in to two clawes, nor chaweth cud, such are vncleane vnto you: euery one that toucheth them, shalbe vncleane. And whatsoeuer goeth vpon hys handes amonge all maner beastes that go on all foure fete, suche are vncleane vnto you: and who soo dothe touche theyr carkasse * shalbe vncleane vntyll the euen. And he that beareth the carkasse of them, shall washe hys clothes, and be vncleane vntill the euen, for suche are vncleane vnto you. And let these also be vncleane to you amonge the thynges that crepe vpon the earth, the weasell, and the mouse, and the toade, after their kynde, the hedgehogge, the stellio, the lacerte, the snayle, and the moll: these are vncleane to you amog all that crepe: whosoeuer doth touch them when they be deade, shalbe vncleane vntyll the euen. And whatsoeuer any of the deade carkasses of them doth fall vpon, shalbe vncleane: whether it be vessell of wood, or rayment, or skyn, or bagge, or whatsoeuer vessell it be that any worke is wroughte in. And it must be plunged in the water, and it shalbe vncleane vntyll the euen, and so shall it be clensed. All maner of erthen vessell wherinto any of them falleth, shalbe vncleane, with all that therein is: and * it shalbe broken. All maner meate also that is vsed to be eaten, yf any such water come vpon, it shalbe vncleane. And all maner drink that is vsed to be dronke in all maner suche vessels, shalbe vncleane: And euerye thynge that theyr carkasse falleth vppon, shalbe vncleane. Whether it be ouen or kettell, let it be broken. For they are vncleane, and shalbe vnto you: Neuerthelater, yet the foun taynes and welles and collection of waters shalbe cleane styl. And who so toucheth theyr carkases, shalbe vncleane. Yf the deade carkase of anye suche fal vpon any seade vsed to sowe, it shal yet be cleane still: but and if any water be powred vpon the seede, and a deade carkasse fall thereon, it shalbe vncleane vnto you. Yf anye beaste of which ye may eate, dye, and anye man touche the deade carkase thercof, he shalbe vncleane vntyl the euen. He yͤ eateth of the deade carkase of it, shall washe his clothes and be vncleane vntyl the euen. And he also that beareth the carkasse of it, shall washe hys clothes and be vncleane vntyll the euen. Let euery creping thinge that crepeth vpon the earth be an abhominacion, and not be eaten.

What soeuer goeth vpon the brest, and whatsoeuer goeth vpon foure, or that hath moo fete among all creppng thinges, that crepe vpon the earth, of that se ye eate not for they are abhominable. Ye shall not make your soules abhominable with nothing that crepeth neyther make youre selues vncleane with them: that ye shoulde be defiled therby. For I am the Lord your God Be sanctyfyed therefore, and ye shalbe holye * for I am holy: and ye shall not defile your soules with any maner of creppynge thynge, that crepeth vppon the earth. For I am the Lorde, that brought you out of the land of Egipt, to be your God: ye shalbe holy therefore, for I am holye. This is the law of beastes and foules and of euery lyuyng creature, that moueth in the waters, and of euerye creature that crepeth vpon the earth, that there maye be a difference betwene the vncleane and cleane, and betwene the beast that may be eaten, and the beast that ought not to be eaten.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moises: saing, speake vnto yͤ children of Israell & say: yf a woman hathe conceaued, and borne a manmanchilde, she shall be vncleane seuen dayes: euen in like maner as when she is put a part in time of her natural dysease. And in the eyght daye the flesshe 7. of the childes * foreskinne shalbe cutte a. awaye. And she shal then continue in 2. the bloude of her purifying three and B thirtie dayes. She shall touch no hallowed thing nor come into the sanctuarye, vntill the time of her purifynge be oute. If she beare a maydechild, she shalbe vncleane two wekes, as when C she hath her naturall dysease. And she shal continue in the bloude of her purifying three score and sixe dayes.

* And when the dayes of her purifyinge are out: whether it be for a sonne
2. or for a doughter, she shall bring a lābe of one yere olde for a burtoffring, and a ponge pigeon or a turtyll doue for sinne vnto the dore of the Tabernacle of wytnesse and vnto the Priest: who D she shall offer theim before the Lorde, 5.b and make an attonement for her, and shee shalbe pourged of the issue of her bloude. * And this is the lawe for her that hath borne a male or female. But and if she be not able to bring a lambe,
2. she shall bryng * two turtles or two ponge pygeons: the one for the burntofferynges, and the other for sinne.

And the Priest shall make an attonement for her, and she shalbe cleane.

A And the Lord spake vnto Moses & Aaron saying: whē ther appereth arising in any mans flesshe, either a scabbe, or a glystrynge whyte: and the plage of a leprosie, be in the skyn of his flesh, he shal be brought vnto Aaron the Priest, or vnto one of his sonnes the Priests, and the Priest shal loke on the sore in the skin of his flesshe. And when the heare in the sore is turned vnto white, and the sore also seme to be lower, thē the skin of his flesshe it wilbe a plague of leprosie, and the preestes shall loke on hym and iudge hym vncleane. Yf there be but a white pleke in the skinne of hys flesshe, and seme not to be lower then the skyn, nor the heare thereof is turned vnto white, the Priest shal shutte hym vp seuen dayes. And the Priest shall loke vpon hym agayn the seuēth day: And if the plague seme to hym to abyde styll, and the plague growe not in the skyn, the Priest shall shut hym vp yet .vii. dayes mo. And the Priest shall loke on hym agayne, the seuen daye. Then if the plague be darker, & not growen in the skynne, the Priest shall iudge him cleane, for it is but a skirfe. And he shall washe his cloths, and be cleane. But and if the scabbe growe in the skyn after that he is sene of ỹ priest, and iudged clene he shalbe sene of the Priest againe. Yf the priest se that the skabbe be growen abrode in the skyne, the Priest shal make him vncleane: for it is a leprosie. When the plague of the leprosie is in a manne he B shalbe brought vnto the Priestes, and the Priest shall se hym. And yf the rising be white in the skinne, and haue made the heare whyte, and there be rawe flesshe in the sore, it wilbe an old leprosie in the skynne of hys flesshe. And the Priest shall make hym vncleane, and shall not shut hym vp seynge he is vncleane. If a leprosye breake out abrode in the skynne, and couer all the skynne, from hys heade to his fote, whersoeuer the Priest loketh, and the Priest loke vpon hym. And if the leprosye haue couered all hys flesshe, he shal iudge the plague to be cleane, because it is all turned into whitenesse, and he shalbe cleane. But and yf there be rawe flesshe on hym when he is sene, he shalbe vncleane. And the Priestes shall see the rawe C flesshe, and declare him to be vncleane. For the rawe flesshe is vncleane seing it is a leprosye. Or yf the rawe flesshe departe agayne, and chaunge vnto white, he shall come to the Priest, and the Priest shall se hym, and behold: If the sore be chaunged vnto white (and couer the whole man) the Priest shall iudge the plague clene and he shalbe clene: the flesh also in whose skin ther-is a bile and is healed, and in the place of the bile, there appeare a whyte rysynge, either a shyning white & somewhat reddishe, it shall be sene of the Prieste. And if when the Priest seeth him, it appeare lower thē the skynne, and the heare therof be chaunged vnto whyte, the Prieast shall iudge hym D vncleane: for it is a plague of lepzosye, broken out of the bile. But and if the Prieste loke on it, and ther be no white heares therein, and yf it be not lower then the skyn, but be darker, the priest shall shut hym vp. vii. dayes. And yf it spread abzode in the flesh, the Prieste shall make hym vncleane, seing it is ỹ plague. But and if the spot stand styl, and growe not, it is the printe of an hote byle, and therefore the Priest shal declare hym to be cleane. If there bee any flesshe, in whose skynne there is a hote burnyng, and the flesshe that burneth haue a white spot, somwhat reddyshe or white, the Prieast shall loke vpon it. And if the heare in that bright spot be chaunged to white, and it appeare lower then the skynne, it is a lepzosie broken out of the burning. And therefore the Priest shall iudge hym vncleane, seyng it is the plague of lepzosie. But if the Prist loke on it, and there be no white heare in the bzyght spotte, and be no lower then the other skyn, but be darker, the Prieste shall shut hym vp seuen dayes. And the Priest shall loke on hym the seuenthe daye: And yf it be growen abzoade in the skynne, the Priest shall iudge him vncleane, seinge it is the plague of le-E pzosye. And yf the spot stand styl in it and growe not in the skynne, but is darcke, it is a rysynge of the burnyng, and the Prieste shall therefore declare hym cleane, seyng it is the print of the burning. If a man or a woman hath a sore vpon the heade or the bearde, the Prieste shall see it. And if it appeare lower then the skin, and there be in it a yealowe heare: and thinne (more thē it was wonte to be) the Prieste shall iudge hym vncleane, seynge that the same fretting is a token of lepzosie vpon the head or beard. And if the priest loke one the sore of the pzynt, & it seme not lower then the skynne, and that ỹ heare is not blacke, the priest shal shut vp the fretyng sore seuen dayes. And in the seuenth day the priest shall loke on the sore: and if the sore be not growen, and there be in it no yealowe heare and the soore seme not lower then the skynne, he shalbe shauen: but the place of the sore shall he not shaue, and the priest shall shet vp the sore seuen daies mo. And in the seuenth day the preiste shall loke on the sore: And yf the sore be not growen in the skinne, nor seme lower then the other skyn, the Priest shall clense him, and he shall wash his clothes, and be cleane. But yf the sore growe in the flesshe after hys clensing the priest shall loke on him. And if the sore be growen in the skyn, the priest shall not seke for yelowe heare for he is vncleane. But yf he see the printe stande styll, and that there is blacke heare growne vp therein, the soore is healed, and he shalbe cleane, and the priest shall declare him to be cleane.

If there be white spottes in the skyn of the flesh of man or womā, the priest shall loke vpon it. And if the spottes in the skynne of their flesshe be somewhat darke and white withall, (he maye be sure, that it is no lepzosie) it is a frekell growynge in the flesshe: Therefore is he cleane. And the man (whose heade is destitute of heare, wherby he is made balde) is cleane.
And he that hath his heare out in hys forehead is forehed bald and cleane. If ther be in the bauld head or bauld forehed a white reddishe sore scabbe, there is lepzosie sprong vp in his bauld hed or bauide forehead. And ỹ priest shall loke vpō him and if the rysinge of the sore be white reddishe in his bald hed, or bauld foreheade after the maner of lepzosye whiche is in the skyn of the flesshe, then he is a leperous man & vncleane. And the priest shall make hym vncleane for ỹ plague thereof is in hys hed. The leper in whō the plague is, shal haue his clothes rent, & his head bare, & shal put a couering vpon his lip, & shalbe called vncleane & defiled.

And

And as long as the disease lasteth vpon him, he shalbe defiled & vncleane, gū. cloth that the plague of leprosy is in whether it be lynnen or wollen, whether it be in the warp or woofe of linnen, or of wollen, either in a skynne or any thyng made of skyn, if the disease be pale, or somewhat reddishe in the clothe or skin: whether it be in ỹ warp or woofe, or any thing that is made of skynne, then it is a plague of leprosye, & shall be shewed vnto the priest. The priest therfore shall se the plague, and shut it vp seuen dayes, and loke on the plague the seuenth day. Which if it be increased in the clothe (whether it be in the warpe or woof, or in a skyn) or in any thyng that is made of skyn, it is the leaprosye of a frettynge sore: it is vnclean: and that cloth shalbe burnt either warpe or woofe, whether it be wollen or lynnen, or any thyng that is made of skyn, wherein the plague is, for it is a frettyng leprosye, it shall be burnte in the fire. If the priest se that the plage is not growen in the cloth: either in the warp or woof, or in what so euer thyng of skinne it be, the priest shall commaunde theim to washe the thyng, wherein the plague is, and he shall shutt it vp seuen dayes mo. And the priestе shall loke on the plague agaīne, after ỹ it is washed. And if the plague haue not changed his coloure, and is sprede no further abrode, it is vncleane. Thou shalt burne it in the fyre, for it a is fret inward: in part, or all together. And if the priest se that the plague is darker, after that it is washed, he shal rent it out of the cloth or out of the skyn, or out of the warpe or out of the woofe. And if it appeare anye more in the clothe (eyther in the warpe, or in the woof, or in any thing made of skyns) it is a waxyng plage. Thou shalt burne the plague ỹ is in it. Moreouer, the cloth, either warpe, or woof, or whatsoeuer thing of skyn it be which thou haste washed, if the plage be departed therfrom, it shall be washed ones agayne: and then shall it be cleane. This the law of the plage of leaprosye in a clothe, whether it be wollen or linnen: either in the warpe or woofe, or in any thyng of skynnes, to make it cleane or vncleane.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: * This is the law of the leper in the daye of hys clensyng: He shalbe brought vnto the priest, and the priest shal go out without the host, and loke vpon hym. And he ſhall kyll the lambe for the treſpas, and the Prieſte ſhall take of the blood of the treſpas offerynge, and put it vpon the tippe of his right eare that is to bee clenſed, and vppon the thombe of his right hand, and vpon the great toe of his right foote. And the prieſt ſhall powre of the oyle into his right hande, and the prieaſt ſhall wyth his fynger ſprynkle of the oyle that is in his lefte hande, ſeuen tymes beefore the Lorde. And the prieſt ſhall put of the oyle that is in his hād vppon the typpe of the ryghte eare of hym that is to be clenſed, and vpon the thombe of his ryght hand, and vppon the great toe of his right foot: euen in the place where the bloud of the treſpas offeryng was put. And the reſt of the oyle that is in the prieſtes hande, he ſhall putte vpon the heade of hym that is to be clenſed: that he may make an attonment for hym beefore the lord. And he ſhall offer one of the turtle doues, or of the yong pigeons, ſuch as he can get: the one for a ſynofferynge, and the other for a burntoffryng, with the meateoffrynge. And the Prieſte ſhall make an attonemente for hym that is to be clenſed, beefore the Lord. This is the law of hym, in whom is ꝑ plague of Leprofy, & whoſe hande is not able ℭ to gett that whiche pertaineth to hys clenſynge: And the Lorde ſpake vnto Moſes and Aaron, ſayinge: When ye be comme vnto the lande of Canaan, which I geue you in poſſeſſion. And yf I putte the plague of Leprofy in a houſe of the lande of your poſſeſſion, he that oweth the houſe ſhall comme, and tell the Prieſt, ſaying: Me thinke that there is as it were a Leaprofy in the houſe. And the Prieſt ſhall commaunde them to emptie the houſe beefore the Prieſte goe into it to ſee the Plage: that all that is in the houſe be not made vncleane, and then muſt the Prieſt go in, to ſee the houſe. If the Prieſt alſo ſee, that the plague is in the walles of the houſe, and that there be holow ſtrakes pale or redde, whiche ſeeme to be lower thanne the walle it ſelfe, the Prieſte ſhall goe oute at the houſe dooꝛes, and ſhut vp the houſe ſeuen dayes. And the Prieſt ſhall comme agayne the ſeuenth day, and yf he ſee that the Plague bee increaſed in the walles of the houſe, the F Prieſt ſhall commaunde them to take awaye the Stones, In whyche the Plague is, and lette theym caſt them into a fowle place without the Citie, and he ſhall commaund the houſe to bee ſcraped within rounde aboute, and powꝛe oute the duſte (that they ſkrape of) without the Citie into a foule place. And they ſhall take other ſtones, and put theym in the places of thoſe ſtones, and other moꝛter, to plaſter the howſe wythall. And yf the Plague come agayne, and bꝛeake out in the houſe, after that he hathe taken awap the ſtones, and ſcraped the walles of the houſe, and after that he hath plaſtered the howſe a newe: the prieſt ſhall come and ſee it. And yf he perceaue, that the plague hathe growne further in the houſe, it is a frettynge leapꝛoſye in the houſe. It is therefoꝛe vncleane. And he ſhall bꝛeake downe the howſe. And the ſtones of it, and the tymbꝛe thereof, and all the moꝛter of the houſe ſhall he carye oute of the citie vnto a foule place. Moꝛeouer, he that goeth into the houſe al the while that it is ſhutte vp, ſhall be vncleane vntyll the euen. He that ſleapeth in the houſe, ſhall waſhe his clothes: he lykewyſe that eateth in the houſe, G ſhall waſhe his cloathes. And yf the Prieſte come and ſee, that the plague hath ſpꝛeade no further in the houſe, (after that it is newe playſtered) the Prieſte ſhall Judge that howſe, cleane, becauſe the plague is healed. And lett hym take to cleanſe the houſe wythall: two bꝛydes, Cedꝛe wodde, purple cloth, and Iſope. But he ſhall let the liuing bꝛyde fle out of ỹ town into the bꝛoade fields, and ſo make an attonement foꝛ the houſe, and it ſhall be cleane. This is the lawe foꝛ al maner plague of leꝛpꝛoſy and bꝛeakynge out, and of the leapꝛoſye of clothe and houſe: foꝛ a ſwellyng foꝛ a ſcabbe, and foꝛ a white bliſter. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto Aaron, and vnto hys sonnes, and vnto all the children of Israel, and say vnto them: This is the thyng whyche the lord hath charged, saying: What man soeuer of the house of Israell kylleth an ox, or lambe or goate in the hoste, or that killeth it oute of the hoste, and bryngeth it not vnto the dooze of the tabernacle of wytnes, to offer an offryng vnto the lorde before the dwellyng place of the lord, blood shall be imputed vnto that manne, as though he hadde shed blood, and that man shall be rooted out from amonge his people. Wherfore, whan the children of Israell bryng theyr offrynges, that they offer in the fyelde, they should bryng thē vnto the Lord: euen vnto the dooze of the Tabernacle of wytnesse to the priest, to offer theym for peaceofferynges vnto the Lorde. And the priest must syrinkle the blood vpon the aultar of the Lord, whiche is before the dooze of the Tabernacle of witnes, and burne the fat for a swete sauour vnto the Lord. And let theim no moze offer theyr offrynges vnto deuils, after whome they haue gone a whoorynge. This shalbe an ordināce for euer vnto them in theyr generations. And thou shalt say vnto theim: What soeuer man it be of the house of Israell, or of the straungers, which soiourne amōg you that offreth a burnt offeryng or sacrifice, and bryngeth it not vnto the dooze of the Tabernacle of wytnesse to offer it vnto the Lord, that man shall perishe frome amonge his people. Lette it be a lawe for euer in youre generations. Hee shall dresse the laumpes vppon the pure can dlestycke before the LORDE perpetually. And thou shalte take fyne floure, and bake twelue wassels therof, two tenth deales shalbe in one wassell. And thou shalte set theim in twoe rowes, sixe on a rowe vppon the pure table before the Lorde, and putte pure franckensence vppon the rowes, that they maye be breade of remembraunce and an offerynge to the Lorde. Euery Sabbothe he shall put them in rowes before the lorde euermore: of the chyldren of Israell shall they ber offered for an euerlastynge couenaunte. ✱ And they shall bee Aarons and hys sonnes whyche shall eate theym in the holye place. For they are mooste holye vnto hym of the offeringes of the LORD by a perpetuall statute. And the sonne of an Israellitysshe wyfe, whose father was an Egyptyan, wente oute among the chyldrenne of Israell. And thys sonne of the Israellitysshe wyfe and a man of Israell, stroue together in the hoste. And thou shalte speake vnto the chyldrenne of Israell sayinge: whosoeuer curseth hys God, shal beare his sinne. ¶ The .xxv. Chapter.

I And the Lorde spake vnto Moses in mounte Sinai, sayinge: speake vnto the children of Israell, and saye vnto theym: when ye be come into the lande which I geue you the lande shall reste, and keepe Sabbothe vnto the LORDE. ✱ Syx yeares thou shalte sowe thy fyelde, & syxe yeare thou shalt cutte thy vyneyarde, and gather in the fruite therof. But the seuenth yere shal be a Sabboth of rest vnto the lande. The Lordes Sabboth it shalbe: thou shalt nether sow the feld, nor cut the vineyard. That which groweth of ỹ one accord, thou thou shalte not reape, neyther gather the grapes that thou hast lefte behind for it is a yeare of reste vnto the lande. And the reste of the lande shal be meat for you: euen for thee, for thy seruaunt, and for thy mayde, for thy hyred Seruaunte, and for the straunger that sogeourneth wyth thee: and for thy cattell, and for the beastes that are in the lande, shall all the encrease thereof bee meate. And thou shalte numbre seuen Sabbothes of yeares vnto the euen, seuen tymes seuen yeare: and the space of the seuen Sabbothes of yeares wil be vnto the nyne and fortie yere. And then thou shalt make a trumpe blowe in the tenth day of the seuenth moneth euen in the day of attonement shall ye make the trumpe blowe, throughoute all your lande. And thou shalt halowe that yeare: euen the fiftieth yeare, and proclayme libertie throughoute the lande vnto all the inhabiters thereof, for it shall be a yeare of iubelye vnto you, and ye shall retourne: euery man vnto his possession, and euery man vnto hys kynred agayn. A yeare of iubelye shal that fiftieth yere be vnto you. Ye shall not sowe neyther reape that whyche groweth of it selfe, nether gather the grapes that are left. For that yeare of iubelye shalbe holy vnto you: but ye shall eate of the encrease therof out of the fielde. In the yeare of thys iubelye ye shall returne euery man vnto his possession agayne. If thou sellest ought vnto thy neighboure, or bye of thy neyghboures hande, ye shall not disceaue one another: but accordyng to the numbre of yeares after the iubelye, yeare thou shalt bye of thy neyghbour, and accordyng vnto the numbre of yeares, and of the fruites, he shall sell vnto the. Accordynge vnto the multytude of yeares, he shall encrease the pryse thereof, and accordyng to the fewenesse of yeares, he shall mynyshe the price of it: for the numbre of frutes doth he sell vnto the. Disceaue not ye therefore euery man his neighbour but thou shalte feare thy God. For I am the Lorde your God: wherefore, ye shall doo after myne ordynaunces and kepe my lawes, and do theym, and ye shall dwell in the lande in saftie. And the lande shall geue her fruite, & ye shall eate your fyll, and dwel therin in saftie. And if ye shall saye: what shall we eate the seuenth yeare, for we shall not sowe, nor gather in oure encrease: I wyll sende my blessyng vpon you in the sixte yeare, and it shall bryngе forth fruit for three yeares: and ye shall sowe the eyght yeare, and eate yet of olde corne vntill the nine yeare: euen vntill her frutes come, ye shall eate of olde stoare. The land shal not be solde to be wast: for the lande is myne, and ye be but straungers and sotourners with me. In all the lande of your possession, ye shall graunte a redemption for the lande. If thy brother be waxed poore, and hath solde awaye of hys possession, and yf anye of hys kinne come to redeme it, let hym bye out that whych his brother solde. And if he haue noo man to redeme it, let hys hande get asmuche as maye be sufficient to bye it out agayne, and let hym counte howe longe it hath bene solde, and delyuered the rest vnto the man to whome he solde it, that he may retourne to his possession againe. But and if his hande cannot get sufficient to restore to the other agayne, the that whiche is solde shall remayne in the hande of him that hath bought it, vntil the yere of iubelie: and in the iubylie it shall come oute, and he shall retourne vnto his possession again. And if a man sell a house or a dwellynge wythin the walles of a citie, he maye bye it oute again within a whole yere after it is solde: euen anye daye of the yeare shall he redeme it agayne. But and if he bie it not oute agayne within the space of a full yere, the the house that is in the walled citie shalbe stablyshed, and be his own that boughte it, and his successours after hym, and shall not go oute in the iubelye. But the houses of villages which haue no walles rounde aboute them, are counted as the field of the countre & therefore they maye be bought out agayne, and shall retourne in the iubelye.

Not-

Notwythstandyng, the Cities of the Leuites, and the houses of the cytyes of theyr possession, maye the Leuites redeeme at all seasons. And yf a man purchase ought of the Leuits, the hous that was solde, and the citie of theyr possession shall goe out in the yeare of iubelye: for the houses of the cities of the Leuites, are theyr possession amōg the childzen of Israell. But the fielde of the suburbe that is beside theyr cyties, maye not be sold: but is theyr perpetuall possession. If thy brother bee waxen poore, and fallen in decay with thee, thou shalte relieue hym, both the straunger and soiourner, that he maye lyue wyth thee. And thou shalt take none vserye of hym, or bauntage, But thou shalt feare thy God, that thy brother maye lyue wyth thee. Thou shalt not geue hym thy money vpon vsury, nor lende hym thy corne for increase. I am the Lord your god, which brought you out of the lande of Egypt to geue you the land of Canaan, & to be youre God. ✠ If thy brother that dwelleth by the, be waxen poore, and be sold vnto thee, thou shalt not compell hym to the bondage of seruantes: but as an hired seruaunt, and as a soiourner, he shalbe with thee, and shall serue thee, vnto the yeare of Jubilie, & then shall he departe from thee bothe he and hys childzen with hym, and shall returne vnto his owen kinred agayn, and vnto the possession of his fathers: for they are my seruantes, which I brought out of the land of Egypt, and shal not therfore be solde as bondemen. Thou shalt not raigne ouer hym cruelly, but shalt feare thy God. Thy bondseruāt and thy bondmayd whych thou shalte haue, shall be of the heathen that are round about you: of them shal ye purchase seruantes and maides, and of the childzen of the straungers that are soiourners among you, and of their generations that are with you, whyche they begat in your land. These shalbe your possession, and ye shal take them as inheritance for youre childzen after you, to possesse them, they shalbe your bondemen for euer. But ouer youre

If a soiourner or stranger waxe riche by thee, and thy brother that dwelleth by hym, waxe poore, and sell hymselfe vnto the stranger or soiourner by thee or to any of the straunges kinne: after that he is solde, he may be redemed agayn: one of his brethren (that wyll) either his vncle, or his vncles sonne, may bye hym out: or any that is nye of kynne vnto hym of his kinnrede, may redeme him: either if his hand can get so much, he may be looſed. And he shal recken with hym that boughte hym, from the yere that he was sold in, vnto the yeare of Jubelie, and the price of his bying shalbe valued, accordyng vnto the numbre of yeares. As an hired seruaut shall he be with hym. If there be yet many yeres behynd accordyng vnto them, let hym geue agayne for his deliuerance, of the money that he was bought for. If there remayne but fewe yeares vnto the yeare of Jubelie, let hym count with him againe, and accordynge vnto hys yeares geue hym agayn for his redemption, and he shalbe with hym yeare by yeare, as an hyred seruant, and the other shall not reygne cruelly ouer hym in thy sight. If he be not redemed thus, he shal go out in the yere of Jubelie, both he and his childzen with hym: for the childzen of Israell are my seruantes, which I brought out of the land of Egypt. I am the Lord your God.

AND the Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israell, and saye vnto them: If any man wyll gene a synguler vowe vnto the Lorde accordynge to the value of the soules, the value of the male from twentye yeare olde vnto sixty shalbe fyftye sicles of syluer, after ỹ weight of ỹ sanctuary. And yf it be a female, the value shalbe thirtye sicles. And from fiue yeres to twentye, the male shalbe set at twentye sicles, and the female at ten sycles. And from a moneth vnto fyue yeare, the male shall be set at fyue sicles of syluer, and the female at three. And he that is syxtye yeare olde, and aboue, shalbe valued at fyftene sicles, and the woman at ten. But yf he be to poore so to be sette, he shall presente hym selfe before the Priest: and the priest shall value hym, accordynge as the hande of hym that vowed is able to get, euen so shall the priest value him.
If it be a beaste of whiche men bryng an offerynge vnto the Lorde: all that any man geueth of such vnto the Lord shalbe counted holye. He shall not alter it nor chaunge it: a good for a bad, or a bad for a good. And yf he chaunge beaste for beaste, then bothe the same beaste, and it also wherwith it was chaunged shalbe holye. If it be anye maner of vncleane beaste, of whyche men do not offer a sacrifyce vnto the Lorde, he shall set the beaste before the Priest, and the Priest shall value it, whether it be good or bad. And as the Priest setteth it, so shall it be. But if he wyl bye it agayne, he shall geue the fyfte parte moare aboue that it was set at. If anye man dedicate his house, C to be holye vnto the Lorde, the Priest shall set it whether it be good or bad

and as the Prieaste hath set it so shall the value be. And when he that sanctifyed it, wyll redeme hys house, lette hym geue the fyfth parte of the money that it was iudged at thereto, and it shalbe hys.

If a man halowe a pece of hys enheryted lande vnto the Lorde: it shall be sette accordynge to the seade thereof. If it beare an homer of Barley it shal be sette at fyftye sicles of syluer. If he halowe hys fielde immediatelye from the yeare of Jubelye, it shall be worth accordynge as it is esteamed. But and yf he halowe his fielde after the Jubelye, the Prieaste shall recken the money accordynge to the number of the yeares that remayne vnto the yeares of Jubelye folowynge, and there after it shalbe lower set. If he that consecrated the field, will redeme it agayne, let hym put the fyfte parte of the pryce that it was sette at therevnto, and it shalbe hys. And if he will not redeme the fielde, but selleth the fyeld to another man, he (that vowed) may redeme it nomore. But when the fielde goeth out in the yeare of Jubelye, it shalbe holy vnto the Lorde: euen as a fielde that is vtterlye put awaye, and it shalbe the Prieistes possession.

If a man sanctifye vnto the Lorde a fyelde whiche he hath bought, and is not of hys enherytaunce, the Prieste shal reken vnto hym what it is worth vnto the yeare of Jubelye, and he shal geue the pryce that it is sette at, the same daye as a thinge consecrated vnto the Lorde. And in the yeare of Jubelye, the fyelde shall retourne vnto him, of whom he bought it: euen vnto hym, whose enherytaunce of lande it is. And all settynge shalbe accordyng to the sicle of the sanctuarye. One sycle conteyneth twentye halfepens.

But the fyrste borne of the beastes that is appoynted vnto the lorde, may no man sanctifye: whether it be oxe or shepe, for it is the Lordes already. If it be an vncleane beaste, he shall redeme it, as it is sette at, and geue the fyfte parte moare thereto: Or, yf it be not redemed, it shalbe solde, accordyng to the value. Notwithstandynge, no dampned thynge that a man putteth from him and dedicateth vnto the lord of all hys good (whether it be man or beaste, or lande of hys enherytaunce) maye be solde or redemed: for euerye thynge so putte awaye, is moste holye vnto the Lord. Let no dampned thyng that a man separateth, be redemed, but dye the death. Euerye tythe of the lande which is of the seade of the land or of the frupte of the trees, is the Lordes, and is sanctifyed vnto the Lorde. And yf a manne wyll redeme oughte of hys tythes, let him adde the fyfte parte thereto. And euerye tythe of oxe and of shepe and of euerye beast that goeth vnder the rod, euen euerye tenth shalbe holy vnto the LORD. He shall not loke yf it be good or bad, nor chaunge it. Elles if he chaunge it, both it, and that it was chaunged withall, shalbe halowed vnto the Lorde and may not be redemed.

These are the cõmaundementes which the Lord commaunded by Moyses vnto the chyldren of Israell in Mounte Sinai.

A Nd the Lorde spake vnto Moyses in the wildernesse of Sinai, in the Tabernacle of wytnesse, the firste daye of the seconde moneth in the second yeare after they were come out of the lande of Egypt, saying: *take ye the summe of all the multitude of the childzen of Israel, after theyr kinredes and housholde of theyr fathers with the number of theyr names, all that are males, heade by heade, from twentie yeare and aboue: euen all that go fourth to the warre in Israel, thou and Aaron shal number thē throughoute theyr armies, and with you shalbe men of euery tribe, wherof euerye one is heade man of the house of hys fathers. And these are the names of the men ẏ̄ shal stand with you: of (the tribe of) Ruben, Elizur, the sonne of Sedeur: of Simeon, Selumiell the sonne of Suri, Sadai: of Iuda, Nahesson, the sonne of Aminadab: of Issachar, Nathanael, the sonne of Zuar: of Zabulon, Eliab, the sonne of Helon. Amonge the childzen of Ioseph: of Ephzaim, Elisama, the sonne of Amihud: of Manasse, Gamaliell, the sonne of Pedazur: of Ben Iamin, Abidan the sonne of Gedeoni of Dan, Ahiezer, the sonne of Ammi, Sadai: of Azer, Pagiell, the sonne of Ocran: of Gad Eliasah the son of Deguel. Of Nepththaly, Ahira the son of Enan. These were of great fame in the congregation, Lordes of the trybes of theyr fathers, and heades ouer thousandes in Israell. And Moyses and Aaron toke these men (which are expressed by theyr names) and gethered all the congregation together, the firste daye of the seconde moneth, and they were rekened throughoute theyr kinredes and houses of theyr fathers by name from twentye yeare and aboue, heade by heade. As the Lorde commaunded Moyses, euen so he numbred thē in the wildernesse of Sinay.

And Eleazar and Ithamar ministred in the syght of Aaron their father. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, saying: bryng the tribe of Leui, and set them before Aaron the prieste. that they maye serue hym, and wayt vpon him and vpon all the multitude, before the tabernacle of wytnesse to do the seruice of the habitaciõ. They shal kepe all the apparell of the tabernacle of witnesse, and wayte vpon the chyldren of Israell to do the seruyce of the habitacion. And thou shalte geue the Leuites vnto Aaron and hys sonnes, for they are geuen and delyuered vnto hym of the chyldren of Israell. And thou shalt appoynte Aaron and hys sonnes to wayte on theyr Priestes office: and the straunger that commeth nye, shall be slayne. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses saying: beholde, I haue taken the Leuites from amonge the chyldren of Israell * for al the fyrste bozne that openeth the matrice amonge the chyldren of Israell, and the Leuites shalbe myne: because all the fyrste bozne are myne: for the same daye that I smote all the fyrste bozne in the lande of Egypte, I halowed vnto me al the firste bozne in Israell, bothe man and beaste, and myne they shalbe: I am the Lorde. And the Lord spake vnto Moyses in the wilderne of Sinai saying: Number the chyldren of Leui after the houses of theyr fathers in their kynredes. The office of the chyldren of Cahath in the Tabernacle of wytnesse, is most holye. And when the host remoueth, Aaron and hys sonnes shall come and take downe the vayle, that hangeth betwene, and wrappe the Arke of wytnesse in it: and shall put thereon a couerynge of taxus skynnes and shall spreade vpon it & clothe that

And they shall take awaye the asshes from the alter, and spred a purple cloth thereon, and put vpon it all the vessels thereof that they minister withall: euen the colepannes, the fleshehokes, the shouels, the basens and the other vessells of the alter, and they shall spreade vpon it a couerynge of taxus skynnes, & put in the barres of it. And when Aaron and hys sonnes haue made an ende of couerynge the holye thynges, and all the vessells of the sanctuary (agaynst that the host remoue) then the sonnes of Cahath shall come in for to beare but they shal not touch any holy thing least they dye. And this is the charge of the sonnes of Cahath in the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And to the office of Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the preist, partayneth the oyle for the lyghte, the swete cense, the dayly meate offringe, & the annoyntynge oyle, and the ouer- C syghte of all the Tabernacle, and of al that therein is, both in the sanctuary, and in all the vessels thereof: And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses and Aaron sayinge: Ye shall not destroye the trybe of the kynredde of the Cahathites, from amonge the Lenites. But thus doo vnto theym, that they maye lyue and not die, when they goo vnto the most holy thinges: Let Aaron and hys sonnes goo in, and take them downe, to euerye one after hys seruyce, and after hys charge. But let them not goo in, to se when the holye thynges are folden vp, least they dye. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses sayinge: Take also the summe of the chyldren of Gerson, throughoute the houses of their fathers, and throwout their kynreds: from .xxx. yeare and aboue, vntil fyftye, shalte thou nombre them, all that are able to go forthe to the warre for to doo seruice in the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And thys is the seruice of the kinred of the Gersonites, to serue and to beare. They shall beare the curtaynes of the dwellynge, and the rouffe of the Tabernacle of wytnesse, his couerynge, and the couerynge of taxus skynnes, that is aboue vpon it, and the hangyng of the doze whiche is in the Tabernacle of wytnesse: and the hangynge that is in the entrynge in of the gate of the court rounde about the dwellyng, and the alter, with the coardes, and all the instrumentes that serue vnto theym, and all that is made for to serue them. And thys is the seruice of the kynred of the chyldren of Gerson in the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and theyr watche shalbe vnder the hande of Ithamar, the sonne of Aaron the Preist. And thou shalte numbre the sonnes of Merari after theyr kynredes, & after the houses of theyr fathers: from thyrtie yeares and aboue vnto fyftie, shalte thou numbre them, euerye one that is able to goo forth to the warre, to do the seruice of the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And this is the charge ỹ they must wayte vpon, accordyng to al their seruice in the Tabernacle of wytnes. The bordes of the dwellyng, with the barres pyliers, and sockettes thereof, and the pyliers that are rounde aboute the courte, with theyr sockettes, pinnes, and cordes, and withall the instrumen-nesse. And the nombres of theym thoroughout theyr kynredes were two thousande, seuen hundred and fyftye. This is the numbre of the kynredes of Cahath: namely, all that myght do seruice in the Tabernacle of wytnes, whych Moses and Aaron did numbre accordynge to the commaundemente of the Lorde by the hande of Moyses. These are the numbres of the sonnes of Gerson throughout their kynreds and houses of their fathers, from thyrtye yeare vp vnto fyfty, all that were able to go forth to the warre, for to do seruice in the Tabernacle of witnesse. And the numbres of them throughe-out their kynredes, and houses of theyr fathers, were two thousand, sixe hundred and thyrtye. Thys is the numbre of the kynredes of the sons of Gerson, of all that dydde seruyce in the Tabernacle of wytnesse, whyche Moyses and Aaron didde numbre ac-rari, throughout their kynreddes, and houses of their fathers, from thyrtye yeare vp vnto fyftie: all that wente forth to the warre, and serued in the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And the nũbres of them after their kinreds were three thousande, and two hundred.

This is the summe of the kynredes of the sonnes of Merari, which Mo-

And so all the numbres of ỹ Leuites, whiche Moyses, Aaron and the Lordes of Israell numbred, after their kynreddes and housholdes of their fathers, from thyrtye yeare vppe vnto fyftye, euerye one that came to do hys office, and seruice and to beare his burthen in the Tabernacle of witnes were (whan they were numbred.) eyghte thousande, fyue hundrede and fourescore. ¶ The. v. Chapter.

AND the Lord spake vnto Moses, sayinge: commaunde the childzen of Israell that they * put out of the hoste, euerye leper and euery one that hath an yssue, & wholo Le. euer is defyled vpon a soule. Bothe male and female shal ye put out: euen out of the hoste shall ye put them, that they defile not the tentes among whiche I dwell. And the chyldzen of Israell dyd so, and put theim oute of the hooste, euen as the Lorde spake vnto Moses, so dyd the childzen of Israel.
And the Lord spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the childzen of Israell: whether it be * man or woman.
If they haue commytted anye synne Le. that a man doeth, and haue trespalled agaynste the Lorde, that soule hathe done amysse: Therefore they shall knowledge their synne whyche they haue done, and let him restore agayne the hurte that he hath done in the hole and put the fift part of it more therto, and geue it vnto hym whom he hathe trespalled agaynst. But and if there B be not a man to restore the hurt vnto, nor a kynseman of hys, let the trespace be made good vnto the Lorde, and it shalbe

shalbe the Preistes, beside the ram of the attonement wherby an attonement shalbe made for hym. And euery heue offrynge that is made of the holy thynges of the childzen of Israel whi che they bzynge vnto the preist shalbe his, and euery mans halowed things shalbe his: and whatsoeuer anye man geueth the preist, it shalbe hys. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, saying Speake vnto the childzen of Israell, and saye vnto thē: If any mans wife go a syde, and trespace agaynste hym, so that another man lye with her fleshly, and it be hydde from the eyes of her husbande, & is not come to lyghte that she is defiled, and there is no witnesse agaynst her, neither she taken ne with the maner, and the spzite of ielousye commeth vpō him, so ỳ he is ielouse ouer his wife which is defiled: or if the spzit of ielousie cōe vpō him, so ỳ he is ielouse ouer his wife which is vndefiled thē let the mā bzyng his wife vnto the Preist, and bzynge with her an offeryng for her: the tenth part of an Epha of Barley meale, but let him pour none oyle vppon it, nor put frankencens thereon: for it is an offeryng of ielousie, an offringe for a remembzāce, causyng the sinne to be thought vpō.

19 And the Preist shall bzynge her and C set her before the Lorde, and let hym *take holy water in an erthen vessell, and of the dust that is in the floure of the habitation, and put it into the water. And let the Preest set the woman before the Lord, and vncouer the womans head, and put the memoziall of the offeryng in her handes which is the ielousie offeringe, and the Preiste shall haue bitter, and cursed waters in hys hande, and the Preist shal charge her, and saye vnto the woman. If no man haue lien with the, neither haste gone a side to vnclennes without thy husbande, then haue thou no harme of this bitter, and cursed waters. But and yf thou hast gone asyde behynde thyne husband, and art defiled, & some other man hath lien with the besyde thyne husbande, (and the Preist shall charge the woman with an horrybis curse, and the Preiste shall saye vnto the woman) the Lorde make the to be an abhomination and a curse amonge the people: when the Lord doth make thy thye rotte, and thy belye swell: These cursed waters go into the bowels of the, that they may make thy belye swell, and thy thye rotte, and lette the woman saye, Amen, Amen. And D let the Preiast wzyte these curses: And when they be clensed, lette hym cast thē into bitter waters, and gene the woman those bytter, and cursed waters to dzyncke, that those cursed and bitter waters may enter into her. And then the Preist shall take the ielousie offrynge oute of the womannes hande, and waue it before the Lorde, and bzynge it vnto the alter and the Preist shall take an handefull of the offerynge for a memozyall, and burne it vpon the aulter, and then make the woman dzinke the waters: and when he hath made the woman dzynke the waters (if she be defiled, and haue trespassed agaynste the husbande:) then shall the cursed and bitters waters go into her, and her belly shall swell, and her thye shall rotte, and that woman shalbe a curse amonge her people. And if the woman be not defyled but is cleane, she shall haue noo harme, but shall conceaue and beare. This is the lawe of ielousie, when a wyfe goeth asyde behynde her husbande, and is defyled, or when the spirite of ielowsye commeth vpon a man, and he beynge ielouse ouer his wyfe, doth bzyng her before the Lorde. And the preiste shall do accordynge vnto all thys lawe, and the man shalbe gyltlesse, and the woman shall beare her synne.

The.vi. Chapter.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses sayinge: take the Leuites from amonge the chyldren of Israell, and cleanse them. And the Leuites shal put theyr hands vppon the heades of the bullockes, and thou shalte offer the one for synne and the other for a burnte offerynge, vnto the LORDE, that thou mayest make an attonemente for the Leuytes. And thou shalt set the Leuites before Aaron and hys sonnes, and waue them for a waueoffrynge before the Lorde. And thus thou shalt seperate the Leuites from among the chyldren of Israell, and the Leuytes shall be myne: after that shall the Leuites goo in, to doo the seruyce of the tabernacle of wytnesse. AND thou shalte clense them and waue them, for they are geuen and delyuered vnto me fro among the chyldre of Israel, for suche as open euery wombe: euen for the fyrst borne of all the chyldren of Israel haue I taken them vnto me. AND the Lord spake vnto Moses in the wildernesse of Sinai, in the firste moneth of the seconde yeare, after they * were come out of the lande of Egypte, saying: let the childzen of Israell offer Passeouer in his season: euen the xiiii. day of this moneth at euen, let them kepe it in hys season, accordynge to all the ceremonies of it, and accordyng to all the maners thereof. And Moses spake vnto the childzen of Israell, that they B shoulde offer Passeouer, and they offred Passeouer ꝯ xiiii. daye of the first moneth at euen in the wildernesse of Sinai, accordyng to all that the Lord commaunded Moses, euen soo did the chyldzen of Israell. And certayne men were defiled vpon the soule of manne, that they myght not offer Passeouer, the same daye. And they came before Moses and Aaron the same day. And the men sayde vnto hym: We are defyled vpon the soule of man: wherefore are we kepte backe that we maye not offer an offering vnto the Lord in the due season, amōg ꝯ childrē of Israell. And Moyses sayd vnto them: Stand styll, and I will heare what the Lord wyll commaunde concernynge youe. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldzen of Israell and saye: If anye man among you or your chyldzen after you be vncleane by the reason of a coarse, or is in the way farre from you, and will offer Passeouer vnto the Lorde: the. xiiii. day of the seconde moneth at euen let them offer it, and eate it with swete

But the man that is cleane and is not in a iourney, and yet was negligent to offer Passeouer: the same soule shall perysshe from hys people, because he brought not the ob-C seruyng of the Lorde in hys due season: that man shall beare hys synne. And yf a straunger dwell amonge you, and wyll offer Passeouer vnto the Lord, accordyng to the ordeynaunce of Passeouer and maner thereof, he shall offer it thus.
Ye shall haue one lawe bothe for the straunger, & for hym that was borne at home in the lande. And the same daye that the Tabernacle was reared vppe, a cloude couered ꝯ habitatyon, which was a Tabernacle of the witnesse: and at euen there was vpon the habitation, as it were the similitude of fyre vntyll the morninge. So it was alway, the cloude couered it by day, & the similitude of fyre by nyght. And when the cloude was taken vp from of the tabernacle, then the children of Israell iourneyed: and where the cloude abode, there the children of Israell pitched theyr tentes. At the mouthe of the Lord the childrē of Israell iourneyed, and at the mouthe of the Lord they pytched. And as long as the cloude abode vpon the habitation they lay stil: and when the cloude taryed styll vpon the habitation long tyme, the chyldren of Israell kept the watche of the Lorde, and iourneyde not. And it chaunced, that whan the clowde abode a fewe days vppon the habitation, they abode in theyr tentes accordynge to the commandemente of the Lord: and they iorneyd also at the commaundement of the LORDE.

D And it happened, that when the cloude abode vpon the habitation, frō euen vnto the morninge, and was taken vp in the morninge, then they iorneyed. Or yf the cloud taryed two dayes or a moneth, or a long season vpon the habitatiō, and remayned thereon the children of Israell abode styll, and iorneyed not. And as soone as the cloude was taken vp, they iorneyd. At the mouth of the Lord, they rested in the tentes, and at the commaundemente of the Lorde, they iorneyed keppyng the watche of the lorde at the commaundement of the Lorde by the hande of Moses.

I AND the Lord spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Make the twoo Trompettes of syluer: of an whole piece shalt thou make theym, that thou mayst vse theim, to calle the congregation together, and when the hoste shall iorney. Therfore shal they blowe with them, that all the multitude may resort to thee before the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And yf they blowe but one trompet, than the princes whyche are heades ouer the thousandes of Israell shall come vnto thee. But if ye trompe, the hostes that lye on the east partes, shall go forward. And yf ye trompe the seconde tyme, the hoste that lieth on the south syde shall take their iourney: for they shall trompe whenne they take their iorneis. But when the congregation is to bee gathered together, they shall blowe only, and not trompe. And the sonnes of Aaron the priest shal blow with their trompets, and ye shal haue them as a lawe for euer in your generations. And yf ye goe to warre in your lande against your enemies that bexe you, ye shal blow with the trompetts: and ye shalbe remembred before the Lorde your God, to be saued from your enemies. Also in the day of your gladnes, and in your feaste dayes, and in the beginnyng of your monethes, ye shall blow the trompets ouer your burnte sacrifices and peaceoffrynges, that they may be a remembraunce for youe before youre God. I am the Lorde our God. And it came to passe the twentith day of the second month in the seconde yeare, that the clowde was taken vp from of the habitation of wytnesse. And the childrē of Israel tooke their iorneye out of the deserte of Sinai, and the cloude rested in the wylderneſſe of Pharan. And the fyrste tooke theyr iourneye at the mouthe of the Lorde, by the hande of Moyses. In the fyrste place wente the standarde of the hooste of Iuda, accordynge to theyr armyes: whose captayne was Nahasson, the soonne of Aminadab. And ouer the hooste of the Trybe of the chylderne of Issachar, was Nathanaell, the sonne of Zuar. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the chyldern of Zabulon, was Eliab, the sonne of Helon. And the habitation was taken downe: and the sonnes of Gerson and Merari wente foorthe bearynge the Habytation.

the Lorde sayde: I wyll geue it you.
Come thou therfore wyth vs, and we wyll doo thee good: for the Lord hath aunswered hym: I wyll not goe: but wyll departe to myne owne land, and to my kynrede. He sayde: Oh naye, leaue vs not: for thou knowest oure yf thou go wyth vs, loke what good-they departed from the mounte of the

And the Lorde made a shadowe for Pha.

And it fortuned, that when the Arke

And the people cried vnto Moses. And when Moyses made intercession vnto the Lorde, the fyre quenched. And the name of the place was called Thaberah, because the fyre of the LORD burnte amonge theym. And the rascall people that was amonge theym, fell a lustynge, and turned them selues, and wepte (euen as dyd also the chyldren of Israell) and sayde: who shall geue vs flesshe to eate? wee remember the flesh whyche wee dydde eate in Egypte for naughte, and the cocumbers and melons, leekes, onyons, and Garlyke. the face of the Lorde was prouoked vnto wrath exceadynglye: and it greued Moyses also. And Moyses sayde vnto the Lorde: wherfore haste thou dealte cruelye with thy seruaunte? And wherfore haue I not founde fauoure in thy syghte, seynge that thou puttest the weyghte of all thys people vppon me? haue I conceaued all thys people? Or haue I begotten them? that thou shouldest saye vnto me? carye theym in thy bosome (as a nurse beareth the suckynge chylde) vnto the lande, which thou swarest vnto their fathers? where shoulde I haue flesshe to gene vnto all thys people, whiche wepe before me, saying: geue vs flesshe that we maye eate? I am not able to beare all thys people alone, seynge it is to heauy for me. If thou deale thus with me, kyll me, I praye thee, yf I haue founde fauoure in thy syght, that I see not my wretchednes. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses, * gather vnto me. lxx. men of the elders of Israell, whiche thou knowest, that they are elders of the people and offycers ouer them, and thou shalt bringe them vnto the tabernacle of wytnesse that they may stād ther with thee: And I wyll come downe, and talke with the there, and take of the spirete which is vppon thee, and put vppon them, and they shal beare the burthen of the people with the, leste thou be constrayned to beare it alone. And saye thou vnto the * people: he halowed against to morowe, and ye shall eate flesshe: for your whyninge is in the eares of the Lord, seynge ye sayde: who shall gene vs flesshe to eate? we were happye in Egypte: therefore the Lorde wyll gene you flesshe, and ye shall eate. Ye shall not eate one daye nor two, nor fyue dayes, neyther ten nor twentie dayes: but euen a moneth longe, vntyll it come out at the nostrelles of you: and make you to parbrake, because that ye haue caste the Lorde a syde whiche is amonge you: and haue wepte before hym, sayinge, why came we thus oute of Egypte? And Moyses sayde: * sixe hundred thousand footemen are there of the people amonge whiche I am. And thou hast said: I wyll gene them flesshe, that they maye eate a moneth long. Shal the shepe and the oxen be slayn for them, to fynde theim? either shall all the fyshe of the sea be gathered togyther for them to serue theim? And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: Shall * the Lordes hande bee waxed short? Thou shalt see nowe whither my worde shall comme to passe vnto thee, or not. And Moyses wente out, and told the people the sayinge of the Lorde, and gathered the lxx. elders of the people, and set them round about the tabernacle. And the Lorde came downe in a cloude, & spake vnto him, and toke of the spirite that was vpon him, and gaue it vnto the lxx. elders. And it fortuned that when the spirite rested vppon theym, they prophecied, and dyd not ceasse. But there remayned two of the men in the hoste, the name of the one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad. And the spirite rested vppon theym, and they were of them that were writtē, and went not out vnto the tabernacle, but prophecied in the hoste. And there ran a yong mā, and told Moses, and said: Eldad and Medad do prophecy in the hoste. And Iosua the sonne of Nun the seruaunt of Moyses, one of hys yong men, answered and sayd: Moyses, Moses, * forbyd them. And Moses sayd vnto hym: Enuiest thou for my sake? * Would God that all the Lordes people coulde prophecie, and that the Lorde would put his spirite vpon them. And Moses gat him into the hoste, he and the elders of Israel. And there went foorth a great winde from the Lord: and * brought quayles from the sea: and let them fall aboute the hoste, euen a days iourney rounde about on euery syde of the hoste (& they dyd flye in the ayre (as it were two cubites hye ouer the earthe. AND the LORD spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: Sende I menne oute to sear che the land Deu. of Canaan which I geue vnto the childrenne of Israel: of euerye Tribe of their fathers shal ye sende a manne, and lette all be suche as are rulers amonge them. And Moses at the commaundemente of the Lorde sente foorth out of the wylderneselle of Pharan suche menne as were all heades of the childrenn of Israell: Their names are these. Of the tribe of Ruben, Sammua the sonne of Zacur. Of the tribe of Simeon Saphat the sonne of Horye. Of the Tribe of Juda, Caleb the sonne of Jephune. Of the Tribe of Isachar, Igeall the sonne of Joseph. Of the Tribe of Ephraim, Osea the sonne of Nun. Of the Tribe of Ben Jamyn. Palthi the sonne of Raphu. Of the Tribe of Zabulon, Gadiell the sonne of Sodi. Of the Tribe of Joseph, namely of the Tribe of Manasse, Gaddi, the sonne of Susi. Of the Tribe of Dan, Amiell the sonne of Gemali. Of the tribe of Aser, Sethur the sonne of Michaell. Of the B tribe of Nephtalt, Nahebi the son of Waphsi. Of the tryde of Gad, Guell the sonne of Machie. These are the names of the menne, whyche Moyses sente lent to spye out the lande. And Moses called the name of Osea the sonne of Nun, Josua. And Moyses sente theym forth to spye oute the lande of Canaan, and sayd vnto theim: Gette you vp this way southwarde, that ye may go vp into the hye countrey, and see the lande what maner thyng it is, and the people that dwelleth therein: whether they be strong or weake, either fewe or many, and what the land is that they dwelle in, whether it bee good or badde: and what maner of cities they be, that they dwell in, whether they dwelle in tentes or walled townes: and what maner of lande it is: whether it be fat or lean, and whether there be trees therein, or not. Be of a good courage, and bryng of the fruite of the land. And it was about the tyme that grapes are fyrst rype.

And so they went vp, and serched out the land from the wylderues of Zin, vnto Rehob, as men come to Hemath and they ascended vnto the south, and came vnto Hebron, where Ahiman was, and Sesai, and Thalmani, the sonnes of Enack. Hebron was buylt seuen yeare before Zoan in Egypte. And they came vnto the ryuer of Escol, and cut downe there a braunche with one cluster of grapes, and twain bare it vpon a staffe, and they brought also of the pomegranates, and of the figges. And the place was called, the ryuer Escoll, because of the cluster of grapes, which the chyldren of Israell cut downe thense. And they tourned back agayn from serchyng of the land after forty dayes. And they went and came to Moses and Aaron, and vnto all the multytude of the chylderne of Israell, in the wylderneſſe of Pharan: whiche is Cades, and brought them word, and also vnto all the congregation, and shewed them the fruite of the lande. And they told hym, and sayde: we came vnto the lande whether thou sentest vs, and surely it flowyth with milke and honye: and here is of the fruite of it. Neuertheleſſe, the people be strong that dwell in the lande, and the Cities are walled, and exceedynge greate: and moreouer, we sawe the children of Enack there. The Amalechites dwell in the south countrey, and the Hethites, Jebusites, and the Amorites dwelle in the mountaynes, and the Cananites dwel by the sea, and by the coast of Jordan. And Caleb stylled the (murmur that was rayſed vp) of the people before Moses, saying: we wyll go vp, and conquere it: for wee bee able to ouercome it. But the mē that went vp with hym, sayde: we bee not able to go vp agaynſt the people: for they ar stronger than we. And they brought vp an euyll reporte of the lande, which they had searched, sayeng vnto the children of Israell: The land which we haue gone thorow to search it out, is a land that eateth vp the inhabiters therof: and the people that we sawe in it, are men of a great stature. And there we sawe also gyantes, the children of Enacke, whyche come of the gyantes. And we semed in our syght, as it were grashoppers, and so we dyd in their syghte.

AND all the multitude of the people cryed oute, and wepte thorowe out that nyght, and all the chyldren of Israell murmured agaynſt Moyses and Aaron. And the whole congregation sayd vnto them: Woulde God that wee hadde dyed in the lande of Egypte, eyther that wee had dyed in this wylde eneſſe. Wherefore hath the Lorde brought vs vnto this lande, to fall vppon the swearde: and that oure wyues, and oure chyldren shoulde be a praye? were it not better, that we retourne vnto Egypt agayn. And they say one to an other we wyll make a captayn, and returne vnto Egypte agayne. But Moyses and Aaron fell on their faces before all the congregation, and multitude of the chyldren of Israel. And Josua the sonne of Nun, and Caleb, the sonne of Jephune (whyche were of them that searched the lande) rente their cloathes, and spake vnto all the

And he spake vnto the congregation, saying: Departe from the tentes of these wicked men, and touche nothyng of theirs, lest ye perysh in all their synnes. And so they gate them from the dwellyng of Corah, Dathan, and Abiram on euerye D

And Moses sayde: Hereby ye shall knowe that the Lord hath sent me to do all these workes, and that I haue not done theym of myne owne mynde. If these men dye the commen deathe of all men: or yf they bee visited after the visitation there came out a fyre from the Lorde, vnto the cõgregation, that thou maist obtayne the forgeuenes for theym.

For there is wrath gone out from the Lorde, and there is a plague begonne.
And Aarõ toke as Moyses commanded him, and ran into the mids of the conbegon amonge the people, and he put on cens, and made an attonement for the people. And whenne he stoode be-

And thou shalte bringe them water out of

He aunswered: Thou shalt not go thorough. And Edom came out agaynste hym wyth muche people, and with a myghtye power. And thus Edom denyed to geue Israell passage thorough hys country: wherfore Israel tourned away from hym. And the children of Israell departed from Cades, and came vnto mounte Hor, with all the congregation. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, and Aaron in mounte Hor, harde by the coste of the lande of Edom, sayinge: Aaron shalbee gathered vnto hys people, for he shal not come into the lande, which I haue geuen vnto the childrenne of Israell, because yee dysobeyed my mouthe at the water of stryfe. Take Aaron and Eleazar hys sonne, and bryng them vp into mounte Hor, and thou shalte stripe Aaron out of hys vestamentes and put them vpon Eleazar hys sonne, and Aaron shalbe gathered vnto hys people and shall dye there. And Moyses dyd as the Lorde commaunded: and they went vp into mount Hor in the sight of all the multytude. Come nowe therefore, and curſſe this people for my ſake. For they are to myghtie for me, yf ſo peraduenture I might be able to ſmyte them, & to dryuethē out of the land. For I wote that he whom thou bleſſeſt, is bleſſed, and whome thou curſeſt, is curſed. And the elders of Moab, and the Elders of Madian departed, hauyng the rewarde of the ſoothſayinge in theyr hande. And they came vnto Balaam, and tolde hym the wordes of Balac. He anſwered them: Tarye here this nyght, and I wyll bryng you worde, euen as the Lorde ſhall ſaye vnto me. And Balaam roſe vp in the morning and ſayde vnto the Lordes of Balac: Get you vnto your land: for the lord wyll not ſuffre me to goe with you. And the Lords of Moab roſe vp, and went vnto Balac and ſayde: Balaam wouldē not come with vs. And Balac ſent agayne a greater company of lordes, and more honorable then they: which cam to Balaam, and told him: Thus ſaieth Balac, the ſonne of Ziphor: Oh, let nothyng lette thee, but come vnto me: for I wil greatly promote thee vnto greate honoure, and will doo what ſoeuer thou ſayeſt vnto me, Come I pray thee, curſe thys people for my ſake. do. And Balaam rose vp early, and sadeled hys Asse, and went with the Lords of Moab. And the countenance of God was angry because he went.
And the aungell of the Lorde stode in the waye agaynst hym, as he rode vppon hys asse, and hys two seruauntes were with hym. And when the Asse sawe the aungell of the Lord stand in in the waye, and hauynge a swearde drawen in hys hande, the asse turned a syde oute of the waye, and went oute into the fielde. And Balaam smote the Asse, to tourne her into the waye.
But the aungell of the Lorde stode in a path betwene the vyneyardes, and there was a wall on the one syde and another on the other. And when the Asse sawe the aungell of the Lorde, she wrenched vnto the wal, and thrust Balaams foote vnto the wall, and he smote her agayne. And the aungell of the Lorde went further and stode in a narowe place, where was no waye to tourne, eyther to the ryghte hande or to the left. And when the asse sawe the aungel of the Lord, she fell downe vnder Balaam: and Balaam was wroth, and smot the asse with a staffe.
And the Lorde opened the mouthe of the asse, and shee sayde vnto Balaam: What haue I doone vnto thee, that thou haste smytten mee nowe three tymes? And Balaam sayde vnto the asse: because thou haste mocked me: I wouldе also there were a swearde in myne hande, for euen nowe would I kyll thee. And the asse sayde vnto Balaam: am not I thyne asse which thou haste rydden vpon sence thou waste borne vnto thys daye? was I euer wont to do so vnto thee? he sayde: nay.
And the Lord opened the eyes of Balaam, and he sawe the Aungell of the Lorde standynge in the waye hauyng a swearde drawen in hys hande. He bowed hym selfe therfore, and fell flat on his face. And the angell of the Lord sayde vnto hym: wherfore haste thou smytten thyne asse thre times? behold, I came out as an aduersarye, because thou makest thy waye contrarye vnto me, and the asse sawe me, and went backe fro me three tymes: or els yf she had not turned fro me (geuynge place to me that stode in the waye.) I had surely slayne thee, and saued her a-of the Lord: I haue sinned: for I wist not that thou stodest in the waye a-gaynste me. Nowe therfore if it dysplease the I will turne home againe.

The Aungell sayde vnto Balaam, go thee, that shalte thou speake. And so Balaã went with the Lordes of Bathe border of Arnon, euen in the vt-

Balaam, and brought hym vp into the

Who can tell the dust of Jacob, and the number of the fourth part of Israell? I praye God, that my soule maye dye the deathe of the ryghteous, and that my laste ende maye be lyke hys. And Balac sayde vnto hym: Come I praye thee with me vnto another place, whence thou mayest see them, and thou shalte see but the vtmooste parte of theim, and shalte not see them all: curse them oute of the place for my sake. Therefore nowe get the quickly vnto thy place. I thought that I woulde promote thee vnto honoure, but lo, the Lorde hath kept thee backe from worship. Balaam answered vnto Balac: tolde I not thy messengers whiche thou sentest vnto me sayinge: * If Balac woulde geue me hys house full of syluer and golde. And he toke vp hys parable and sayde: Balaam the sonne of Beor hath sayde, the manne whose eye is open, hath saide. And when he loked on Amalech, he toke vp hys parable, and sayde: Amalech is the firste of the nacions * but hys latter ende shall perysh vtterly. And he loked on the Kenites & toke vp hys parable and sayd: stronge is thy dwellinge place, & thou puttest thy nest in a rocke. And thou shalt speake vnto the chyldren of Israell, sayinge: If a man dye and haue no sonne, ye shall turne hys enherytaunce vnto his daughter. If he haue no daughter, ye shall geue hys enherytaunce vnto hys brethren. If he haue also no brethren, ye shall geue hys enherytaunce vnto hys fathers brethrenne. And yf hys father haue noo brethren, ye shall geue hys enherytaunce vnto hym that is nexte to hym of his kynred, and he shall possesse it. And thys shalbe vnto the chyldren of Israel a law of iudgement, as the Lord hath commaunded Moses. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: * get thee vp into thys mounte Abarim, and beholde the lande whiche I haue geuen vnto the chyldren of Israel. And when thou hast sene it, thou shalte be gathered vnto thy people also as Aaron thy brother was gathered. For ye were dysobedient vnto my mouth, in the deserte of Sin, in the stryfe of the congregacion. Neyther dyd ye sanctifye me in the waters before their eyes. * That is the water of stryfe in Cades in the wylderneſſe of Sin. And Moyses spake vnto the Lorde, sayinge: let the Lorde God of the spretes of all flesshe, sette a manne ouer the congregacion, whiche maye go oute and in before them, and leade them oute and in: that the congregacion of the Lord be not as shepe which haue not a shepeherd. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: take Josua the sonne of Nun, in whom is the spyrete and put thyne handes vpon hym, and set hym before Eleazar the Priest, and before all the congregacion: and geue hym a charge in their syghte. And put of thy prayse vpon hym, that all the company of the chyldrenne of Israell maye be obedient. And he shall stande before Eleazar the Priest, whyche shall aske counsell for hym * after the iudgement of Urim before the Lorde. And accordyng vnto hys worde shall they goo oute and in, bothe he and all the chyldren of Israel with him, & all the congregacion. And Moyses dyd as the Lorde commaunded hym: and he toke Josua, and sette hym before Eleazar the Priest, and before all the congregacion: * and put hys handes vpon hym, and gaue hym a charge, as the Lorde commaunded thorowe the hande of Moyses.

¶ The .xxx. Chapter.

AND Moses spake vnto the B heades of the tribes of the chil dren of Israell, sayinge: thys is the thinge whiche the Lorde hath

Deu. 23d commaunded: If a man bowe a bowe vnto the Lorde, or sweare an oth, to bynde his soule: he shall not go backe with his worde: but shall fulfill all that is proceded out of hys mouth. If a woman also bowe a bowe vnto the LORD, and bynde her selfe beinge in her fathers house in the tyme of her youth, and her father heare her bowe, and bonde which she had made vpon her soule, and holde hys peace thereto: then all her bowes & bondes B which she hath made vpon her soule, shal stand in effect. But and yf her father forbyd her the same daye that he heareth it, none of her bowes nor bondes whiche she hath made vppon her soule, shalbe of value: and the Lorde shal forgeue her, because her father forbadde her. If she hadde an husbande whē she bowed or pronounced ought out of her lips, wherwith she bounde her soule, and her husbande hearde it, and helde his peace, there at the same daye he harde it, then her bowes and her bondes wherewith she bound her soule, shall stande in effect. And yf her husbande forbadde her the same daye that he harde it: and made her bowe whyche she hath vpon her of none effecte, and released the openynge of her lyppes, wherewith shee bounde her soule, the Lord shall forgeue her. But C euerye bowe of a wedowe and of her that is deuorced (that they haue bound their soule withal) shall stande in effecte with them. If she bowed in her husbandes house, or bounde her soule with an othe, and her husbande harde it, and helde his peace, and forbad her not, then all her bowes and bondes wherewith she bounde her soule, shal stande. But if her husbande disanulled them, the same daye that he hearde them, then nothynge that proceadeth oute of her lyppes, in bowes and bondes (wherwith she bounde her soule) shall stande in effecte: for her husbande hath loosed them. And the Lord shal forgeue her. All bowes & othes that D bynde to humble the soule, maye her husbande stablyshe or breake. But yf her husbande holde hys peace from one daye vnto another, then he stablysheth all her bowes and bondes whi che she had vpon her, because he helde his peace the same daye that he harde them. But yf he breake thē after that he hath harde them, he shall beare her synne hym selfe. These are the ordeynaunces whyche the Lorde commaunded Moyses, betwene a man and hys wyfe: and betwene the father and his daghter beyng yet a damsel in her fathers house.

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moyses sayinge: auenge Num. the chyldren of Israel of the Madianites, and afterward shalt ỹ be gathered vnto thy people. And Moses spake vnto the folke sayinge: Harnesse some of you vnto war, and let them go vppon the Madianites, and auenge the Lorde of the Madianites. Let there be chosen a thousande oute of euerye trybe of Israell, that oute of all tribes ye maye sende some to the warre. And there were taken out of the thousandes of Israell, twelue thousande prepared vnto war of euerye tribe a thousand. And Moses sente theym to the warre, euen a thousande of euerye trybe, and with them, Phineas the sonne of Eleazar the Preiste, and the holye vessels: and the trompettes to blowe, were in hys hande. And they warred agaynste the Num. Madianites, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses, and slue all the males. And they slue the kynges of Madian among other, that were slayne: Namely, Eui and Rekem Zur and Hur and Reba: fiue kynges of Madian, wyth Balaam the sonne of Beor, whome they slewe with the swearde: And the chyldren of Israell toke all the wemen of Madian prysoners, and theyr chyldren, and spoyled all theyr cattell, and all theyr floikes, & al theyr goods. B And they burnt all theyr cities wherin they dwelte, and all their castelles with fire. And they toke all the spoile and all that they couldе catche both of men men and beastes. And they brought the captyues and that whyche they had taken and the spoyle vnto Moyses and Eleazar the Priest, and vnto the companye of the children of Israell, euen vnto the hooste that were in the fieldes of Moab, by Iordan, ouer agaynste Iericho. And Moyses and Eleazar the Priest, and all the lordes of the congregation wente oute of the host agaynst them. And Moises was angrye with the officers of the hoost, with the captaynes ouer thousandes, and ouer hundredes, whych came frō the warre and battayle: and Moyses sayde vnto theym: Haue ye saued all the women alyue? beholde, these caused the children of Israell thorow the counceil of Balaam, to commit trespasse agaynst the Lord, in the busynes of Peor, and there folowed a plague amonge the congregacion of the Lord. Nowe therefore, slaye all the men chyldren, and the woman that haue lien with men slee them. But all the women children that haue not lyen with men, kepe alyue for your selues. And ye shall remayne without the hoost, seuen dayes, all that haue kylled anye person: and all that haue touched any deade body, and purifie both youre selues and youre prisoners the thyrde day and the seuenth. And sprinkle all your raymentes, and all that is made of skynnes, and all worke of goates heer, and all thynges made of wodde. And Eleazar the Priest sayde vnto the men of warre, whyche came from the battayle: this is the ordeynaunce of the lawe, whyche the Lord commaunded Moyses, Golde, syluer, brasse, and yron, tynne and lead, and all that may abyde the fier, ye shall make it goo thorowe the fier, and it shalbe cleane. Neuertheless, it shalbe sprynkled with sprynklyng water. And all that suffereth not the fier, ye shal make go thorowe the water. And washe youre clothes the seuenth day, and ye shalbe cleane. And afterward come into the hoost. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses saying, take the summe of the praye that was taken bothe of the women and of cattell, thou and Eleazar the Priest, and the auncient fathers of the congregatiō. And deuide it into two partes betwene theym that toke the warre vpon them, and went oute to battayle: and all the congregacion. And take a portion vnto the LORDE of the men of warre, whyche wente oute to battayle: one soule of fyue hundred, both of the women, and of the oxen, and of the asses, and of the shepe: and ye shall take it of their halfe, and geue it vnto Eleazar the Priest, as an heuen offrynge of the Lorde. And of the halfe of the children of Israell, thou shalte take one portyon of fyftie, of the women of the oxen, of the asses, and of the shepe, and of all maner of beastes: and geue them vnto the Leuites, whiche wayte vpon the habitation of the Lorde. And Moyses and Eleazar the Priest didde as the Lorde commaunded Moises. And the botye and the praye whyche the men of warre hadde caughte, was fyue hundred thousande, and threescore and fyftene thousande shepe: and threescore and twelue thousande oxen, threescore and one thousande asses: and two and thyrtie thousande soules of women, that hadde lyen by no man. And the halfe whyche was the parte of theim that wente oute to warre was three hundrede thousande and seuen, and thyrtie thousande and fyue hundred sheepe. And the LORDES part of the sheepe was syxe hundred threescore and fyftene. And the oxen were syxe and thyrtie thousande, of whyche the LORDES parte was threescore and twelue. And the asses were thyrtye thousande and fyue hundrede of whych the Lordes part, was threescore and one. And the soules of women were sixetene thousand, of whiche the Lords part was, two and thyrtie soules. And Moses gaue that sum which was the Lordes heueoffering vnto Eleazar the priest as the Lord commaunded Moses. And the other halfe of the children of Israel which Moses seperated frō the mē of war, (that is to wete the halfe that pertened vnto the congregatiō)

was three

three hundred thousande, and .xxxvii. thousande, and fyue hundred sheepe: and .xxxvi. thousande oxen and thirtye thousande asses, and fyue hundred and xvi. thousande soules of wemen. And Moyses toke of thys halfe that perteyned vnto the chyldren of Israell, one portion of fyftye, both of the wemen and of the catell, and gaue them vnto the Leuites, whiche wayted vpon the habitation of the Lorde, as the Lord commaunded Moyses. And the officers of thousandes of the hoost, the captaynes ouer the Thousandes, and the captaynes ouer the hundreds came fourth, and sayde vnto Moyses: Thy seruauntes haue taken the summe of G the men of warre, whiche are vnder our authoritie, and there lacketh not one manne of vs. We haue therefore broughte a present vnto the Lorde, what euery man founde of Jewels of golde, cheynes, bracelettes, rynges, earynges, and spangelles, to make an attonemente for our soules before the Lorde. And Moyses and Eleazar toke the golde of them, Jewels of all maner fashyons. And all the golde of the heueoffrynge that they heued vp to the Lorde, (of the captaynes ouer Thousandes and hundreds) was .xvi. thousande, seuen hundred and fyftye sicles, for the men of warre had spoyled, euerye man for hys selfe. And Moses and Eleazar the Priest, toke the golde of the captaynes ouer the thousands and of the captaynes ouer the hundredes: and broughte it into the tabernacle of witnesse, for a memoriall of the chyldren of Israell before the Lord.

The chyldren of Ruben and the chyldren of Gad had an exceadynge greate multitude of cattell. And when they sawe the lande of Jazer, and the lande of Gilead that it was an apte place for catell, the chyldrē of Ruben & the chylderen of Gad came and spake vnto Moyses and Eleazar the Priest and vnto the Lordes of the congregacion, saying: The lande of Ataroth and Dibon, Jazer and Nemrah, Hesbon and Elealeh, Sabam and Nebo and Beon: which contrey the Lorde smote before the congregacion of Israell: is a lande mete for catell, and we thy seruauntes haue cattell: wherefore (sayde they) yf we haue founde grace in thy syghte, lette B thys lande be geuen vnto thy seruantes to possesse, and brynge vs not ouer Jordan. And Moyses sayde vnto the chyldren of Gad, and of Ruben: shall your brethren go to warre, and ye shal syt here? wherefore dyscorage ye the herte of the chyldren of Israell, that Nu. they should not go ouer into the land, whiche the Lorde hath geuen them? Thus dyd youre fathers, when I sent them from Cades Barne to see the lande. For when they wente vp euen vnto the ryuer of Escol, and sawe the land: they discoraged the hertes of the chyldren of Israel, that they sholde C Nu. not go into the lande which the Lorde hath geuen them. And the Lord was wroth the same tyme and sware, sayinge: None of the men that came out of Egypt from twenty yeare olde and aboue, shall see the lande whyche I sware vnto Abraham, Isahac and Jacob, because they haue not wholye followed mee: saue Caleb the sonne of Jephune the Kenesite, and Josua the sonne of Nun: for they haue followed the Lorde. And the Lorde was angrye with Israell, and made them wander in the wildernesse fourtye yeare, vntyll all the generacion ỳ had done euil in the syghte of the Lorde were consumed. And behold, ye are risen vp in your fathers steade, as an encrease of synfull men, to augmente the feares wrath of the Lorde, towarde Israell. For yf ye tourne awaye from hym, he wyll yet agayne leaue the people in the wyldernesse, and ye shall destroye al this folke. And they went nere hym and sayd: We wyll buylde shepefoldes here for oure shepe and for our catell, and (walled) cities for our chyldren. But we our selues wyll go ready armed before the childrē of Israel, vntil we haue brought thē vnto their place.

And

And oure chyldren (and whatsoeuer we maye haue) shall dwel in the fenced cities, because of the inhabitets of the lande. We will not returne vnto our houses, vntyll the children of Israel, haue enherited, euery manne hys enherytaunce. Neither will we enheret with them on yonder syde Iordan forwarde, because our enherytaunce is fallen to vs on this side Iordan Eastwarde. And Moses sayde vnto them: if ye will do this thynge, and goo harnessed before the Lorde to warre, and will goo all of you in harnesse ouer Iordan before the Lord, vntil ye haue cast out his enemies before hym: and vntyll the lande be subdued before the Lorde, then ye shall returne and be without synne before the Lorde, and before Israell, and thys lande shalbe youre possession before the Lord. But and if ye will not do so, behold ye haue synned agaynst the Lorde: and be sure your sinne will finde you out. Nowe therefore, build cities for your chyldre, and foldes for your shepe, and do that ye haue spoken. The children of Gad and the children of Ruben spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: thy seruauntes will do as my Lorde commaundeth. Our children, oure wyues, our sheepe, and our cattell shall remayne here in the cities of Gilead. But thy seruaunts will go al harnessed to warre, and vnto battayle before the Lorde, as my Lorde saith. And for their sakes. Moses commaunded Eleazar the Priest, and Iosua the sonne of Nun, and the auncient fathers of the tribes of the children of Israell: and Moses sayde vnto them: If the childre of Gad and the chyldren of Ruben will go wyth you ouer Iordan, all prepared to fight before the Lord, then when the lande is subdued before you ye shall geue them the lande of Gilead to possesse: but and yf they will not go ouer with you in harnesse, they shall haue their possessions among you in the lande of Canaan. And the children of Gad, and the children of Ruben answered, sayinge: As the Lorde hathe sayde vnto thy seruauntes, so will we doo. We will go harnessed before the Lorde into the lande of Canaan: that the possession of oure enherytaunce, maye be on this side Iordan. And Moyses gaue vnto the children of Gad, and to the children of Ruben, and vnto halfe the tribe of Manasse, the sonne of Ioseph, the kyngedome of Sehon kynge of the Amorites, and the kingdome of Og, kyng of Basan, the lande wyth the cities therof in the coastes and cities of the countrey rounde about. And the chyldren of Gad buylte Dibon, and Acaroth, and Aroer, and Atroth, Sophan, Jaser, and Jegabea, Bethnimra, and Betharan, fensed cities, and they buylte foldes for the shepe. And the chyldren of Ruben buylte Hesbon, Eleale, Kyryathaim, Nebo, Baal, Meon, and turned their names, and Sibama also: and gaue other names vnto the cities, whyche they buylded. And the chyldren of Machir the sonne of Manasse, wente to Gilead, and toke it, and put out the Amorites that dwelte therein. And Moses gaue Gilead vnto Machir, the sonne of Manasse, and he dwelte therein. And Jaïr the sonne of Manasse went and toke the small townes therof, and called them Hanoth Jair. And Nobah wente and toke Kenath, and the townes longyng thereto, and calleth it Nobath, after hys owne name.

And possesse the lande and dwel therin for I haue geuen you the lande to enioye it. And ye shall deuyde the enherytaunce of the lande, by lot among youre kynreddes, * and geue to many Moreouer it will come to passe, that I shall do vnto you, as I thought to do vnto theym.

¶ The .xxxiiij. Chapter.

AND the Lord spake vnto Moses, sayinge: commaunde the childzen of Israell, and say vnto them: when ye come into the lande of Canaan, this is the lande that shall fall vnto your enheritaunce, the lande of Canaan, with her coastes. * And youre southquarter shalbe from the wyldernes of Sin, a long by the coast of Edom, so that youre southquarter reache vpon the side of the salt see eastwarde: and fette a compasse from the south vp to Acrabim: and reache to Zinna. And go oute from the south to Cades Barne, and go oute also to Hazar adar, and go a longe to Azmon: and fet a compasse agayne from Azmon vnto the riuer of Egypte, and shall goo oute at the sea. And lette youre westquarter be the greate sea: let the same B sea be youre weastcoaste. And thys shalbe youre northquarter: ye shal compasse your border from the great sea vnto mount Hor. And from mounte Hor, ye shall describe youre border, til it come vnto Hemath, and the ende of the coaste shalbe at Zedada, and the coaste shall reache oute to Ziphron, and go oute at Hazar Enan, Thys shalbe your northquarter. And ye shal compasse youre eastquarter from Hazarenan to Sephan. And the coaste shall go downe from Sephan to Ribla, on the east syde of Ain. And the same border shall descende and go out at the syde of the sea of Cenereth eastwarde. And then go downe a long by C Iozdane, and leaue at the salte sea.
And thys shalbe youre lande with the coastes therof, rounde aboute.
And Moyses commaunded the chyldzen of Israel saying: this is the land whyche ye shall enheret by lotte, and which the LORD commaunded to geue vnto nyne trybes and an halfe: for the trybe of the chyldzen of Rubin Nu. 32. f accozdyng to the houshoulides of their fathers, and the tribe of the chyldzen of Gad, accozdynge to theyr fathers houshoulides, and halfe the trybe of Manasse, haue receaued their enheritaunce. Two tribes and an halfehaue receaued their enheritaunce on the other syde of Iozdan, ouer agaynst Iericho eastwarde. And the Lozd spake D to Moyses, sayinge: these are the names of the menne whyche shall deuyde the lande vnto you: Eleazar the Priest, and Iosua the sonne of * Nun. Deu. 3. d And ye shall take also a Lozde of euerye trybe, when ye deuyde the lande. Ios. 14.
The names of the men are these: Of the trybe of Juda, Caleb the sonne of Iephune. Of the tribe of the childzen of Simeon, Semuel the sonne of Amiud. Of the trybe of Ben Jamin, Elidad the sonne of Cislon. Of the tribe of the chyldzen of Dan, the Lozd Bucki, the sonne of Jagli. From amonge the chyldzen of Joseph for the trybe of the chyldzen of Manasse, the Lozde Haniell, the sonne of Ephod.

These are they whom the Lozd commaunded to deuide the enheritaunce vnto the childzen of Israell in the lande of Canaan.

¶ The .xxvb. Chapter.

AND the Lozd spake vnto Moses in the fieldes of Moab by Jozdan, ouer agaynst Jerycho, sayinge: commaunde the childzen of Israell, that they geue vnto the Leuites of ỹ enheritaunce of their possession, cities to dwell in. And ye shall geue also vnto the cities of the Leuites, suburbes harde by their cities rounde aboute them. The cities shall they haue to dwell in, and the suburbes foz their cattel, and foz their possession and all maner of beastes of theirs And the suburbes of the cities which ye shall geue vnto the Leuites, shall reache from the wall of the citie outewarde, a thousande cubites rounde aboute. And ye shall measure without the citie of the eastlyde, two thousand cubites. And of the southlyde, two thousande cubites. And of the westlyde two thousande cubites. And of the nozthlyde, two thousand cubytes also: and the citie shalbe in the middes. And these shalbe the suburbes of their cities. And from amonge the Cities whyche ye shal geue vnto the Leuits, there shall be sixe cities foz refuge, whyche ye shall appoynte to that intente, that he whych kylleth, may flye thether. And to them ye shal adde xlii. cities moze so that all the cities whych ye shall geue the Leuytes, maye be eyght and fozty, with their suburbes And the cities whyche ye shall geue, shall be oute of the possession of the childzen of Israell. Ehey that haue many, shall geue many. But of theim that haue fewe, ye shall take fewe. Euerye one shall geue of his cities vnto the Leuites, accozdynge to the enheritaunce whych he enheryteth. And the Lozde spake vnto Moyses sayinge: speake vnto the childzen of Israel and saye vnto them: When ye be come ouer Jozdane, into the lande of Canaan, ye shall appoynte you cities to be cities of refuge, foz you: that he which sleeth a soule vnswares, may flye thether. And the citie shalbe to flye from the auenger of blonde, that he whyche kylleth, dye not, vntill he stand before the congregation in iudgement. And of these sixe free cities, whych ye shall geue, ye shall geue thzee on thys syde Jozdan, and thzee in the lande of Canaan. And these sixe fre cities shalbe refuge both foz the childzen of Israell, and foz the straunger, and foz hym that dwelleth amonge you: that all they whyche kyll anye personne vnswares, maie flye thyther. And if any man smite another with an instrument of yzon that he dye, then is he a murtherer, and shall dye foz it. If he smite hym with a thzowynge stone that a man maye dye with, and yf he dye, he that smote hym is a murtherer, let the same murtherer be slayne therefoze. Oz yf he smite hym with a hand weapon of wood, that a man may die with then if he die, he is a murtherer, let the murtherer be slayne therefoze. The iustice of blond shall slay the murtherer: when he meteth hym, he may slay hym. But yf he thzust at hym of hatred oz hourle at hym with layinge of waite that he dye, oz smyte hym with hys hande of enmye, that he dye, he that smote hym shall dye, foz he is a murtherer. The iustyce of blonde shal slay the murtherer as soone as he fyndeth hym. But and yf he pusshed hym by chaunce, and not of hate, oz cast at him with anye maner of thynge, and not of layinge awayte: oz calle anye maner of stone at hym (that a man maye dye with) and sawe hym not. And he cast it vpon hym and he dye, and was not his enemye, neyther sought hym anye harme. Then the congregation shall iudge betwene the sleyer and the executer of blonde in suche cases. And the congregation shall delyuer the sleyer oute of the hande of the auenger of blonde, and the congregation shall restore hym agayne vnto the Cytie of hys refuge, whether he was fled. And 20b D he shall byde there * vnto the death of the hye Prieste, which was anoynted wyth holye oyle. But and if the sleier come without the borders of hys pri-uiledged city whether he was fled, yf the auenger of blond finde hym with out the borders of hys fre towne, and sleye the murtherer, he shalbe giltlesse because he shoulde haue bidden in hys free towne vntil the deathe of the hye Prieste, and after the death of the hye Prieste to retourne agayne vnto the lande of hys possession. These commaundementes shalbe a law vnto you for your generations in al your dwel lynges. Whosoeuer killeth a soule, the 17. same man sleyer muste bee slayne hym 9 d, selfe * thorough witnesses. Neyther shall one wytnesse aunswere to put a man to death. Moreouer, ye shall take none amendes for the lyfe of the mur-therer which is worthye to dye. But he shall be put to death. Also yee shall take no money of hym that is fled to a free citie, that he shoulde come again and dwel in the land, before the death of the hye prieste. And see that ye pollute not the lande which ye shal dwel in: for blonde defyleth the lande. And the lande can none other wyse be clen-sed of the blonde that is shed therein, but by the blonde of hym that shedde blonde. Defyle not therfore the lande whiche ye shall inhabyte, for I am in the myddes therof: Euen I the Lord dwell amonge the chyldrenne of Israell.

¶ The .xxxvi. Chapter.

AND the auncient fathers of the childrenne of Gilead the sonne of Machir the sonne of Manasse of the kynred of the childzen of Iosephe, came forthe and spake before Moyses and the Princes and auncient fathers of the childzen of Is- Nu. 26 f raell, and sayde: * The Lord commaun ded my Lorde, to geue the lande to inherite by lotte vnto the childzen of Is- Nu. 27 a raell. And my Lorde commaunded in Gods behalfe, to geue the inheritaūce of Zelaphead oure brother vnto hys daughters. whom yf anye of the sons of the other trybes of Israell take to wiues, then shal theyr inheritaunce be taken from the inherytaunce of oure fathers, and shalbe put vnto the inhe- B rytaunce of the trybe whiche they are receyued into: and shalbe taken from the lotte of oure inherytaunce. And when the yere of Iubelye of the chyl-drenne of Israell commeth, then shall theyr inherytaunce be putte vnto the inherytaunce of the Trybe wherein-to they are receyued: and so shall theyr inherytaunce bee taken awaye from the inherytaunce of the Trybe of our fathers. And Moyses commaunded the chyldrenne of Israell accordynge to the woorde of the LORDE sayinge: the chyldrenne of the Trybe of Iosephe haue sayde wel. Thys therfore doeth the LORDE commaund Tob. 2. b the daughter of Zelaphead sayinge: * and, 7 c lette theym be wyues to whom they theym selues thynke beste, onelye to the kynred and Trybe of their father shall they marye, sooe shall not the inherytaunce of the chyldrenne of Israell remoue from Trybe to Trybe, whan the chyldrenne of Israell abyde euerye manne in the inherytaunce of C the Trybe of hys fathers. And euerye daughter that possesseth anye inherytaunce in anye Trybe of the chyldzen of Israell, shall bee wyfe vnto one whyche is of the kinred of the Tribe of her father, that the chyldrenne of Israell maye enioye euerye manne the enherytaunce of hys father: Neyther oughte the inheritaunce to goe from one trybe to an other: but euery one of the Trybes of the childzen of Israell, muste abide in his owne inherytaunce. And as the Lorde com-

D maunded Moyses, euen so dydde the daughters of Zelaphead. And Mahela, Thirza, Hagla, Milcha, and Noa were maried vnto their fathers brothers sonnes, whyche were of the chylderne of Manasses, the sonne of Joseph: and so their enheritance remayned in the tribe of the kynrede of their father. These are the commandementes and lawes, whiche the Lorde commanded by the hand of Moyses, vnto the chyldren of Israell in the fieldes of Moab, by Jordan ouer against Iericho.

¶ The fyrst Chapter.

THese be the woordes which Moses spake vnto all Israell, on thother side Jordan in the wildernes, in the playne ouer against the Red sea, betwene Pharan, and Thopheli, Laban, Hazeroth, and Dizahab, eleuen dayes iourney from Horeb vnto Cades barne, by mount Seir. And it fortuned the first day of the eleuenth moneth in ỹ fortieth yeare, that Moyses spake vnto the children of Israell, accordyng vnto all that the Lord hadde geuen in commandement vnto them, after that he had smyten * Sehon the Nu. 21.c kyng of the Amorites which dwelte in Hesbon, and Og kynge of Basan, whiche dwelt at Astaroth in Edrai. On the other side Jordan in the land of Moab beganne Moyses to declare this lawe, sayinge: The Lorde oure GOD spake vnto vs in Horeb, sayinge: Ye haue dwelte longe ynough in this Mounte, departe therefore, and take youre Journeye, and goe vnto the hyll of the Ammonites, and vnto all places nye therevnto: bothe vnto the playn, and hylles and dales: to the Southe, to the Seas syde, to the lande of Canaan, and vnto Libanon: euen vnto the greate ryuer Euphrates. Behoide, I haue sette the lande beefore you: * Goe in, and possesse the lande which the Lorde sware vnto youre fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to gene vnto theym, and their seede after theym. And I spake vnto you the same season, sayinge: I am not able to beare you my selfe alone. For the Lorde youre God hath multiplied you: and beehoide, ye are this daye as the starres of heauen in numbre (the Lorde God of youre fathers make you a thousande tymes so many mo as ye are, and bielle you, as he hathe promysed you:) Howe can * I my selfe alone, beare the combraunce, charge, and stryfe that is among you? Bryng (frome among you) menne of wisedome and of vnderstandyng, and expert, accordyng to your tribes, and I will make theym rulers ouer you. And ye aunswered me, and sayd: That which thou haste spoken, is good for vs to doo. And so out of your Tribes I toke the Captaynes (menne of wysedom, and that were experte) and made them rulers ouer you: Captaynes ouer thousandes, and ouer hundredes, ouer fyfty, and ouer tenne, and officers amonge your Tribes. And I charged youre Judges that same tyme, sayinge: Heare the cause of your brethern, and * iudge ryghteously betweene euery man and hys brother, and the stranger that is wyth hym. See that ye knowe no faces in iudgement: * but heare the small as well as the great, and bee afrayde of no manne, for the iudge-19d iudgement is goddes. And the cause that is to * harde for you, bryng vnto me, and I wyll heare it. And I commaunded you the same season, all the thynges whyche ye shoulde doo.

When we departed from Horeb, wee went thorowe all that great and terrible wyldernesse, as ye haue seene a long by the way of the hyll of the A-morites, as the Lorde oure God commaunded vs, and camme to Cades D Barne: And I sayde vnto you: Ye are come vnto the hyll of the Ammo-rites, whiche the Lord oure GOD wyll geue vnto vs. Behold, the Lord thy God hathe sette the lande beefore thee, go vp and conquere it, as the 20.a Lorde God of thy fathers hath sayde .13 vnto thee, * Feare not, neither be discouraged. But ye came vnto me euer one and sayd: * we wyll send men before vs, to searche vs out the land, and to bryng vs woorde agayn, what waye we muste goe vp by, and vnto what cities we shall come. And the saying pleased me well. And I toke xii. men of you, of euery Tribe one.
Whyche departed, and wente vp into the hye countreye, and came vnto the ryuer Escol, and searched it oute, and toke of the fruite of the lande (to declare the plēteousnes therof) in their handes, and broughte it vnto vs, and brought vs woorde agayne, and sayde: It is a good lande, whiche the Lorde our God doth geue vs. Notwithstan dyng ye would not consent to go vp, but were disobedient vnto the mouth of the Lorde your God, and murmured in your tentes, and sayd: Because the Lord hateth vs, therfore hathe he brought vs out of the land of Egypt to delyuer vs into the hand of the A-morites, & to destroy vs. Howe shall E we go vp? Our brethren haue disco-19d raged our heartes, saying: * The people is greater and taller than we, and haue cities great, & walled eū vp to heauen: and moreouer we haue seene the soonnes of the Enakims there.
And I sayde vnto you: Dreade not, nor be afrayde of theym. The Lorde your God which goeth before you, he shall fyghte for you, accordyng to all that he dyd vnto you in Egypt before youre eyes. In the wyldernesse also thou haste seene howe that the Lorde thy God bare thee eūe as a man doth beare his sonne in all the way which ye haue gone by, vntyll ye come vnto this place. And yet in this thynge ye dyd not beleue the Lord your god. He went in the way before you, to serche you out a place to pitche youre tentes in, * in fyre by night, that ye myght se Ex. 13. d what way to go, & in a cloude by day.
And the Lord heard the voyce of your woordes, and was wrothe, and sware, saying: * There shall not one of these Nu. 14. g men and of this froward generation, and. 26. g see that good land which I sware to the sonne of Iephune, he shall see it, Iosu. 14 that he hath troden vpon, and to hys children, because he hath folowed the nation agayne the people, seyng that) Nu. 20. c * the Lorde was angry with me, like and. 37. c so shalt not go in thither. But Iosua the sonne of Nun, whyche standeth before thee, he shal go in thither. Bol den hym therefore, for he shall cause Israell to inherite the land. * More- Nu. 14. f ouer, youre chyldren whiche ye sayde shoulde be a praye, and youre sonnes which in that day had no knowledge betwene good and euill, they shall go in thither, and vnto them wil I geue it and they shall enioye it. But as for you, turne youre faces, and take youre tourney into the wildernesse: euen by the way of the redde sea. Then ye answered and sayde vnto me: * We haue synned agaynst the Lord: we will go vp and fyghte, accordynge to all that the Lorde our God commaunded vs.

And when ye had gird on euery man his weapons of war, behold, ye were redy to goo vp into the hill. And the Lorde sayde vnto me: saye vnto them that they go not vp, and fyghte not, for I am not amonge you: lest ye fall before youre enemyes. I told you therefore, and ye would not heare, but disobeyed the mouth of the Lord, and wēt presumptuously vp into the hill. And the Amorites which dwelt in that hill, came out against you, and chased you (as bees vse to do) & smote you in Seir, euen vnto Horma. And ye came againe, and wepte before the Lord: but the Lord would not here your voyce, nor geue you audience. * And Nu.20.a so ye aboade in Cades, a long season, accordynge vnto the tyme that ye remayned in other places.

A Then we * turned our face, and Nu.21.a toke our iourney into the wyldernesse, euen by the way of ỹ redde sea as the Lorde spake vnto me. And wee compassed mounte Seir a long tyme. And the Lorde spake vnto me, sayinge: Ye haue compassed thys mountayne long ynough, tourne you northward And warne thou the people, saying: Ye shall goe thorowe the coaste of your brethren the children of Esau, which dwell in Seir, and they shall be afrayde of you: Take ye good hede vnto youre selues therefore. Ye shall not prouoke them: for I wil not geue you of their land, no not so much Ge.36.b as a foote breadth, * because I haue Nal.1.a geuē mount Seir vnto Esau to possesse, ye shal bye meate of them for money to eate, and ye shal procure water of them for money to drynke. For the B Lord thy God hath blessed thee in all the workes of thy hande. He knewe thy entryng into this greate wildernesse this.xl. yeares, and the Lord thy God hath ben with thee, so that thou haste lacked nothyng. And when we were departed from our brethren, the children of Esau, whyche dwelte in Seir, the plain way from Elath, and from Ezion Gaber, we tourned and went by the waye of the wyldernesse of Moab. And the Lord said vnto me:
Iud.3.d * Thou shalte not fyght against the Moabites, neyther prouoke them to battaile, for I wyll not geue thee of theyr land to possesse: because I haue geuen Ar vnto the children of Loth to Ge.14.a possesse. The terrible people the * Emims dwelte therin in tymes past, a people great, many and tall, as the Enakims, whyche also were taken for Giauntes, as the Enakims: whome the Moabites cal Emims. The Horims dwelte in Seir beefore tyme, whose possession the children of Esau occupied, and destroyde them beefore theym, and dwelte in their steede: as C Israell dyd vnto the land of his possession, whiche the Lord gaue them. Nowe ryse vp (sayd I) and get you ouer the ryuer Zared: and we wente ouer the ryuer Zared. The space in whiche we came frome Cades barne vntyll we were come ouer the ryuer Zared was .xxxviii. yeres: vntyl al ỹ generation of the men of warre were wasted out from among the hoste, as the Lord sware vnto them. * For in Nu dede the hande of the Lorde was a- and. gaynst them, to destroy them from among the host, tyll they were consumed. And so it came to passe, that all the men of warre wer consumed and D deade from amonge the people. And the lord spake vnto me, saying: Thou shalt go thorowe Ar the coast of Moab this daye: and when thou commest nyghe vnto the children of Ammon, thou shalte not lay siege vnto them, nor moue warre agaynst them. For I wyll not geue thee of the lande of the chyldren of Ammon a possession, but I haue geuen it vnto the children of Loth to possesse. That also is taken for a lande of Gyauntes, and Gyantes dwelte therin in olde tyme, whome the Ammonites call Zamzummims. * A people that was greate, Nu. manye, and talle, as the Enakims. But the Lorde destroyed them before them, and they succeeded them in the inheritance, and dwelt in theyr stede: Ge. as he dyd for the chylderne of * Esau, whyche dwelte in Seir whan he destroyed the Horims before them, they conquered theyr possession, and dwelt in their steede vnto this day. And the Auims whyche dwelte in Hazarim, euen vnto Aza, the Caphthorims, whyche came oute of Caphthor, destroyed theym, and dwelte in theyr stede

C them and dwelte in theyr steade. Rise ye vp therefore, and take youre iourney ouer the ryuer Arnon. Beholde, 21.f * I haue geuen into thy hande Sehon the Amorite king of Hesbon, and hys lande. Goe to therefore and conquere, and prouoke hym to battell.
This day wil I begynne to send the feare and dreade of thee, vpon al nations that are vnder all the heauen: soe that they whiche here speake of thee, shall tremble and quake before thee.
And so I sent messengers out of the wildernes of Kidmoth vnto Sehon king of Hesbon, with wordes of peace 21.g sayinge: * I wil go through thy lande 20. I will goe alonge by the hye waye: I f will neyther tourne vnto the ryghte hand nor to the lefte. Thou shalte sell me meate for money for to eate, and geue me water for money to drynke, Onelye graunte me, that I maye goe through on my foote (as the childzen of Esau which dwel in Seir, and the Moabites whiche dwell in Ar, didde vnto me) vntill I become ouer Iordan into the lande whyche the Lorde oure God geueth vs. But Sehon the king of Hesbon wouide not let vs passe by hym, for the Lorde thy God hardened hys spirite, and made his harte tough because he wouide deliuer hym into thy hande as it is come to passe thys daye. And the Lorde sayde vnto mee: 21.g beholde, I haue begon to set Sehon 29 and hys lande before thee: goe to and G conquere, and possesse his land. * Then both Sehon and all hys people came out against vs to fyghte at Jaza. And the Lorde set hym before vs, and wee smote hym and hys sonnes and al his people. And wee tooke all hys cyties the same season and slue the men, wemen and childzenne of all the Cytyes and let nothynge remaine, saue the cattell onelye we caugh vnto our selues, and the spoyle of the cities which we tooke, frome Aroer whiche is by the brynke of the ryuer of Arnon, and frō the citie that is in the ryuer, vnto Gilead: there was not one City to strōg for vs. The Lord oure God deliuered all vnto vs: onelye vnto the lande of the chyldzen of Ammon thou camest not, nor vnto euerye place of the riuer Jabok, nor vnto the Cityes in the mountaines, nor vnto whatsoeuer the Lorde our God forbad vs.

The iii. Chapter.

Then we tourned and wente vp by the way to Basan. And Og the kyng of Basā came Nu. 21.g out against vs, he and al hys Deu. 29.b people to battell at Edzai. And the Lorde sayde vnto mee: feare hym not, for I wyll deliuer hym and all hys people, and hys lande into thy hande, and thou shalte doe vnto hym, as thou diddest vnto Sehon kynge of the Amorytes, whyche dwelte at Hesbon.
And so the Lorde oure God deliuered into our handes, Og also the kynge of Basan & al hys folke. And we smot hym, vntyll none was lefte hym alive And we toke all hys Cityes the same season, (neyther was there a Cytye which we toke not from theym) euen three score cityes throughoute all the region of Argob, the kingdome of Og in Basan. All these cities also were made stronge wyth hye walles, gates and barres, beside vnwalled townes a greate manye. And wee vtterlye destroyed them, as we dyd vnto Sehon kyng of Hesbon, bryngyng to nought all the cities, with menne wemen and childzenne. But all the cattell and the spoyle of the Cyties, wee caughte for our selues. And thus we toke the same season, out of the hande of twoe Kyn- B ges of the Amorytes, the lande that was on the other side Jordan from the ryuer of Arnon vnto mount Hermon (whyche Hermon the Sydons call Sirion, and the Amorytes call it Senir) all the Cities that laye in the playne, and all Gilead and all Basan vnto Salecha and Edzai, Cytyes of the kyngedome of Og in Basan. For onelye Og kyng of Basan remained of the remnant of the Giantes, whose bed was a bedde of yron. And is it not yet at Rabāh amonge the childzen of Ammon? nyne cubyttes doeth the length thereof contayne, and foure cubytes the breadeth of it, after the cu-bite of a wōden. And so wee conquered this lande the same tyme, from Aroer which is by the ryuer of Arnon, vn-Nu.32.f to halfe mounte Gilead, * and the ci-deu.29.b ties therof gaue I vnto the Rubeni-Ios.12.b tes and Gaddites. And the reste of Gilead, and all Basan of the kynge-dome of Og, gaue I vnto the halfe tribe of Manasse: euen all the region of Argob with all Basan: whiche is called the lande of gyantes. Iair the sonne of Manasse toke all the region of Argob vnto the coastes of Gesuri and Maachati, and called them after his owen name: Basan Hauoth Iair vnto thys daye. And I gaue Gilead vnto Machir. And vnto the Rube¶ nites and Gaddites, I gaue half Gilead vnto the ryuer of Arnon, halfe the valey and beyonde, euen vnto the ryuer Iabock, which is the border of the chylderne of Ammon: the playne also (of the wyldernes) and Iordan, and the coast therof, from Cenereth euen vnto the sea, whyche is in the playne, euen the salte sea vnder the sprynge of the hyll, eastward. And I commanded you the same tyme, saying: The Lord your God hath giuen you this lande to enioye it: ye shall go harnessed before your brethren, the chyldren of Israell all that are mete for the war. Your wiues onely, your chyldren, and your cattell (for I wote that ye haue muche cattell) shall abide in your cities, whiche I haue geuen you, vntyll the Lorde haue geuen rest vnto youre brethren as well as vnto you, and vntill they also haue conquered the lande, whiche the Lord youre God hath geuen them beyonde Iordan: and then shall ye returne agayne, euery man vnto his possession which Nu.27.d I haue gyuen you. * And I warned D Iosua the same tyme, saying: Thyne eyes haue sene all that the Lord your God hath doone vnto these two kynges, euen so shal he do vnto all king-domes whither thou goest. Ye shall not feare them, for the lord your God, he shal fight for you. And I besought the Lord the same tyme, sayinge: O Lord God, thou hast begon to shewe thy seruaunt, thy greatnesse, and thy mighty hand: for els where is there a God in heauen, or in earth, that can do after thy workes, & after thy power? let me go ouer and see the good land that is beyōd Iordan, that goodly mountain, and Libanon. * But the Lorde was angry with me for your sakes, and wold not heare me. And the lord said vnto me: Be content, speake no more vnto me of this matter. Get thee vp into the toppe of the hyll, and lyft vp thyne eies westward, northward, southwarde, and eastward, and beholde it with thyne eyes, for thou shalte not go ouer this Iordan. But charge Iosua: and courage hym, and bolden him. * For he shall go before this people, and he shall deuide vnto them the lande which thou shalt see, and so we abode in the valey ouer against the house of Peor.

¶ The .iiii. Chapter.

AND now herken, O Israell vnto the ordinances and lawes which I teache you for to do them, that so ye may lyue and go in, and conquere the lande, which the Lord god of your fathers geueth you, * Ye shal put nothyng vnto the word which I commaunde you, neither do ought therfrom, that ye may kepe the cōmandements of the Lord your god which I commaunde you. Your eies haue sene what the Lord did vnto Baal Peor, * for all the men that folowed Baal Peor, the Lord your God hath destroyed from amonge you. But ye that cleaue vnto the Lorde your god, are alyue euery one of you this daye.
Behold, I haue taught you ordinances and lawes, such as the Lorde my God commaunded me, that ye shuld do euen so in the lande, whether ye go to possesse it. Kepe them therfore, and do them, for that is your wisedom and vnderstanding in the syght of the nations: that they maye heare all these ordinaunces, and saye: Surely it is a wyse and vnderstanding people: it is a great nation. For what other nation is so greate, that gods come so nye vnto, as the Lord our god is nye vnto

246 des, in all thinges, as oft as we cal vn to hym? Ye, and what nation is so great that hath ordinãces and lawes so righteous, as all thys lawe which I set before you thys day. Take hede to thy selfe therefore, and keepe thy soule diligently, that thou forget not the things which thyn eies haue sene and that they depart not out of thyne them thy sonnes, and thy sonnes sonnes: Specially the day that thou stoodest before the Lord thy God in Horeb, when the Lord said vnto me: Gather me the people together, & I wyll make them here my wordes, that they they shal liue vpon the earth, • & that they may teach their children ye same.

19c • and stode also vnder the hyll, & the hyll burnte with fire: euen vnto the middes of heuen, and there was darknes, cloudes and mist. And the Lorde spake vnto you out of the mids of the fyre, and ye herd the voyce of the wor-you his couenant which he commanded you to doo, euen .x. verses whiche he wrote vpon two tables of stone.

And the Lorde commaunded me that same season, that I should teache you ordinãces and lawes, which ye ought to do in the land whether ye go to pos-sesse it. Take therfore good hede vnto youre selues as pertaynynge vnto your soules, for ye sawe no maner of ymage in the day that the Lord spake vnto you in Horeb out of the myddes of the fyre, lest ye marre your selues, and make you a grauen ymage & picture of any maner of figure: the like-nesse of man or woman, the likenesse of any maner of beast that is on earth: or the likenes of any maner feathered foule that flieth in the ayre, or the like-the sunne, the moone, and the starres, with all the host of heauen, shouldest be deceiued, & shouldest worship and serue the things which the Lord thy hath taken you, and brought you out of the yron fornace, euen out of Egipt, to be vnto him a people & inheritance as ye be this daye. Furthermore, the Lorde was angry with me for youre wordes, & sware that I should not go ouer Iordan, and that I should not go in vnto that good land, which the Lord thy God giueth thee to inheritaunce.

• But I must dye in this land, & shal Deu.34.b not go ouer Iordan. But ye shall go ouer, and conquere that good lande.
Take hede vnto your selues, that ye forget not the appointmẽt of the Lord your god which he made with you, & that ye make no grauẽ image, nor any picture that the Lorde thy god hathe forbidden thee. • For the Lord thy god Heb.12.g is a cõsumyng fyre, and a gelous god.
If thou doest beget children, and childrens children, & when ye haue dwelt in the land, ye do wickedly, and make any maner of grauen image •, & worke Jer.16.e euill in the syght of the Lord thy god, to prouoke hym to anger, I call heauen and earthe to recorde against you this day, that ye shall shortely perishe from of the lande, whether ye goe ouer Iordane, to possesse it: ye shall not prolonge youre dayes therin, but shall vtterly bee destroyed. And the Lorde shall scatter you among the nations, and ye shall be left fewe in nũmbre amonge the people, whether the lorde shall brynge you: and there ye shall serue gods, which are the worke of mans hand, wood and stone, which neither se, nor here nor eate, nor smell.
And there thou shalt seeke the Lorde E thy god: and shalt fynd hym, yf thou Deu.30.a: seeke hym with all thyne hearte, and Jer.29.c with all thy soule. When thou art in tribulation, and when all these thin-ges (that be here spoken of) are come vpon thee euen in the latter dayes, thou shalte retourne agayne to the Lorde thy God, and be obedient vnto his voyce. For the Lorde thy God is a mercifull god: he will not forsake

Le. 26. g neyther destroy thee, • nor forget the appoyntment of thy fathers, whyche he sware vnto them. For aske of the dayes that are paste, whiche were before thee, sence the day that God created man vpon the earthe, and (aske) from the one syde of heauen vnto the other, if euer there came to passe suche a great thynge, or whether any suche lyke thing hath ben heard. Dyd euer a nation heare the voyce of God speakynge out of the myddes of a fyre, as thou haste heard, and yet lyued? eyther whether God assayed, to goe and take hym a people from among nations thorough temptations, sygnes, Ps. 136b wonders, warre, a myghtie hande, a • stretched out arme, & thorow great sightes, accordynge vnto all that the Lorde your God dyd vnto you in Egypt before youre eyes? Understande therfore this daye, and turne it into thyne heart, that the Lorde, he is God in heauen aboue, and vppon the earthe beneth: neither is there any other. Thou shalt kepe therfore his ordinances, and his commaundementes which I comande thee this day that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee, and that thou mayst prolong thy dayes vpon y earth, G which the Lord thy God geueth thee Nu. 35 b thy yfe long. • Then Moyses severed Deu. 19. thre cities on the other syde. Jordan toward the sonne rysynge, that hee shoulde flye thyther, whyche hadde slayne hys neyghbour vnwares, and hated hym not in tyme paste, and ther fore shoulde flye vnto one of the same Cities, and lyue: Namely Bezer in the wyldernesse, euen in the playne countrey of the Tribe of Ruben and Ramoth in Gilead, of the Tribe of Gad, & Golan in Basan of the tribe of Manasse. And so this is the lawe whiche Moyses sette before the children of Israell. These are the wytnesse, statutes and ordinances, which Moyses tolde the chyldren of Israel after they came out of Egypte, on the other syde Jordan, in the baley ouer agaynst the house of Peor, in the land of Sehon kynge of the Ammorites, which dwelt at Hesbon: whom Moses and the chyldren of Israell • smote Fu. after they were come out of Egypte, i. and conquered his lande, and the land of Og kynge of Basan two kynges of the Ammorites, whyche were on the other syde Jordane towarde the sonne rysyng: from Aroer whyche is by the banke of the ryuer Arnon, vnto Mounte Syon, whyche is Hermon, and all the playne on the other syde Jordan eastward, euen vnto the sea, whyche is in the playn vnder the sprynges of the hylle.

The. v. Chapter.

AND Moyses called all Israel, & and sayde vnto them, Heare O Israell, the ordynaunces and lawes whyche I speake in youre eares thys daye, that ye maye learne them, and fulfyll them in deede. The Lorde our God made an appoyntmēt wyth vs in Horeb. The Lorde made not thys bonde with our fathers, but with vs: euen wyth vs, whyche are all here alyue thys daye. The Lorde talked wyth you face to face in the Mounte, oute of the myddes of the fyre. And I stoode betwene the Lord and you the same tyme, and shewed you the worde of the Lorde. For ye were afrayde at the syght of the fyre, and went not vp into the mounte, and he sayde: E. • I am the Lorde thy God, whyche brought thee oute of the lande of Egypte frome the house of bondage.

chyldren, euen in the third and fourth generation among them that hate me:
and shewe mercye vpon thousandes,

These wordes the Lorde spake vnto all your multitude in the mount oute of the myddes of the fyre, cloude, and darkenesse, with a greatte voyce, and added no more therto, & wrote theym in two tables of stone, and deliuered A theym vnto me. And it fortuned, that whan ye hearde the voyce out of the myddes of the darkenesse, and sawe that the hylle dyd burne with fyre, ye came vnto me with the captaynes of your tribes, and youre elders, and ye sayd: Behold, the Lord our God hath shewed vs his glory, and his greatenesse, * and we haue heard his voyce Ex. 19. b out of the myds of the fyre: we haue sene this day, that god doth talk with a man, and yet he lyueth. Now therfore, why shoulde wee dye that this greate fyre shoulde consume vs? If wee heare the voyce of the Lord our God any more, we shal die. For what fleshe hathe it bene, that euer hearde the voyce of the lyuynge God speakynge oute of the myddes of the fyre (as we haue doon) and yet dyd liue?
Go thou and heare all that the Lorde our G O D sayth, and telle thou D vnto vs all that the Lord our GOD Ex. 19. a sayth vnto thee, * and we wyl heare it, and doo it. And the Lorde hearde the voyce of youre wordes, whenne ye spake vnto me, and the Lorde sayd vnto me: I haue hearde the voyce of ye wordes of this people, whych they haue spoken vnto thee, they haue wel Je. 24. d you into your tentes agayn, but stand thou here by me, and I will tell the all the commaundementes, ordinaun-ces and lawes, whyche thou shalte teache them, that they may doo theim in the lande whiche I geue theym to possesse. Take heede therefore, that ye dooe in deede as the Lorde youre GOD hathe commaunded you, and Deu.17. tourne not a-syde eyther to the ryghte hande or to the lefte, but walke in all the wayes whyche the Lorde youre God hath commaunded you, that yee maye lyue, and that it maye goe well wyth you, and that ye may prolonge youre dayes, in the lande whiche yee shall possesse.

THese are the commaundementes, ordinaunces and lawes, whyche the Lorde youre God commaunded mee to teache you, that yee myght do them in the lande whither ye goe to possesse it: namely, that Deu.10.e thou myghtest * feare the Lorde thy GOD, and keepe all hys ordynaũces and commaundementes, whyche I commaunde thee: thou and thy son and thy sonnes sonne all dayes of thy lyfe, that thy dayes maye bee prolonged. Heare therefore, O Israell, and take heede, that thou doe thereafter that it maye goe well wyth thee, and that ye maye encrease myghtely, euen as the LORD God of thy fathers B hath promysed the a lande, that flowmar.12.c eth wyth mylke and honye. * Heare O Israell, the Lorde our GOD is Lorde onelye, and * thou shalte loue mat.22.b the Lord thy GOD wyth all thyne Luk.10.e wyth all thy myghte. * And these deu.11.c woordes whyche I commaunde the thys daye, shalbe in thyne hearte, and thou shalt shewe them vnto thy children, and shalte talke of theym when thou arte at home in thyne house, and as thou walkeste by the waye, and when thou lyeste downe, and when thou ryseste vp: and thou shalte bynd them for a sygne vppon thyne hande. And they shalbe warninges betwene thyne eyes, and thou shalte wryte thẽ vppon the postes of thyne house and vppon thy gates. And when the Lord thy God hath brought thee into the lande, whiche he sware vnto thy fathers. Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob and geueth thee greate and goodlye Cytyes whyche thou buildedst not, houses full of all manner of goodes whyche thou fylledst not, and welles digged which thou diggedst not, vine yardes and Olyue trees, which thou plantedst not, and when thou hast eaten and arte full: Then beware leaste thou forget the Lord, which brought thee out of the lande of Egipt frõ the T house of bondage. * Thou shalt feare Deu.10 the Lorde thy god, and serue him, and Mat.4 sweare by his name. He that ye walke Luke.4 not after straunge goddes, the gods of the nacions which are about you. For the Lorde thy god is a gelouse god among you, lest the countenance of the lord thy god be moued to wrath against thee, and destroye the from of the earthe. * Yee shall not tempte the Mat.4 Lorde your god as yee dyd in the tentation. But kepe the commaundementes of the Lord your god and hys witnesses and his ordynaunces which he hath commaunded the, and thou shalt do that whiche is ryghte and good in the sighte of the Lorde: that thou maiest prosper, and that thou mayest goe in and conquer that good land which the Lorde sware vnto thy fathers, to caste out all thyne enemyes before the as the Lorde hath sayde. * And when D thy sonne asketh thee in tyme to come Deu. saynge: What meaneth these witnesses, ordeynaunces and lawes, whiche the Lorde oure god hath commaunded you? Then thou shalte saye vnto thy sonne: we were Pharaos bondemen in Egypt, and the Lord brought vs oute of Egypte wyth a myghtye hande. And the Lorde shewed signes and wonders great and euil vpon Egypt, vpon Pharao and vpon all hys housholde, before our eies, but brought vs oute from thence: to bringe vs in, and to geue vs the lande whyche hee sware vnto oure fathers. And the Lorde hath commaunded vs, to doe all these ordinaunces, and to feare the Lorde oure god, for our wealth all the daies of our life, as it is come to passe thys daye. Moreouer, Thys shalbee oure ryghteousnesse before the Lorde our god, if we take heede and kepe all these commaundementes, as he hath commaunded vs.

in his name vnto thys daye, wherefore the Leuytes haue no part nor in-the Lord is theyr inherytaunce as the Lorde thy God hath promised them.

And I taried in the mount, euen as at the fyrste tyme. xl. dayes and. xl. nyghtes, and the Lorde herkened vnto

If thou shalte heare say in one of thy Cities which the Lorde thy God C hath geuen thee to dwell in, that certayne men beyng the chyldren of Belyall,are gone out from amõg you and haue moued the enhabiters of their citie:saying: let vs go and serue straũge Goddes which ye haue not knowen. ¶ The.xviii.Chapter.

THe Priestes, the Leuites, and all the tribe of Leui must haue no parte nor enheritaunce with Israell: but shall eate the offeryngs of the Lorde, and hys enheritaunce: Therefore shall they haue no enheritaunce amonge theyr brethren: but the Lorde he is their enheritaunce, as he hath sayde vnto them. And this is the Priestes duetye of the people, and of them that offer sacrifyce, whether it be ore or shepe: They must gene vnto the Priest, the shoulder and the two chekes, and the mawe, the first fruites also of thy corne, wyne and ayle, and the firste of the wol of thy shepe shalte thou gene hym: For the Lorde thy God hath chosen hym oute of all thy tribes, to stand and to minister in the name of the Lorde: he and hys sonnes for euer. If a Leuite come out of anye of the cityes of all Israell, where he is a sotourner, and come with all the lust of hys herte vnto the place which the Lord hath chosen: he shall minister in the name of the Lorde hys God, as hys other brethren the Leuites do, which remayne there before the Lord. And they shall haue lyke portions to eate, besyde that whiche commeth to hym of the patrimonye of hys elders.
When thou arte come into the lande which the Lorde thy God geueth the, se that thou learne not to do after the abhominacions of those nacions. Let there not be founde amonge you any one, that maketh hys sonne or daughter to go through the fire, or that vseth witchcrafte, or a chefer oute of dayes, or that regardeth the flying of foules, or a sorcerer, or a charmer, or that counceleth with spretes, or a southsayer, or that asketh (the truth) at them that be deade. For all that do such thinges, are abhominacion vnto the Lorde, and because of the abhominacions the Lord thy God doeth caste them out before thee. Thou shalte be perfecte therfore (and without blemyshe) in the syghte of the Lorde thy God. For these nacions whiche thou shalte conquere, herken vnto chefers oute of dayes, and vnto sorcerers: But the Lord thy God hath not suffered thee so to doo.

The Lorde thy God wyll • sterre vp vnto thee a Prophete amonge you: euen of thy brethrenne, lyke vnto me: • vnto hym ye shall herken, accordyng to all that thou desiredest of the Lorde thy God in Horeb, in the daye of the gatherynge together, whan thou saydest. • Lette me heare the voyce of my Lorde God no more, nor se thys great fyre anye more, that I dye not. And the Lorde sayde vnto me: they haue well spoken. I will rayse them vp a prophete from amonge theyr brethren lyke vnto thee, and wyll put my wordes in hys mouthe, and he shall speake vnto them all that I shall commaund hym And whosoeuer wyl not herken vnto the wordes which he shal speake in my name. I will require it of hym. • But the prophete whiche shall presume to speake a woorde in my name, which I haue not commaunded hym to speake, or that speaketh in the name of straunge Goddes, the same prophete shall dye. And yf thou saye in thyne heart: howe shal we knowe the worde which the Lorde hath spoken? (Thys token shalte thou haue.) Euen when a prophete speaketh in the name of the Lorde, yf the thynge folowe not, nor come to passe, that is the thynge which the Lord hath not spoken. But the prophete hath spoken it presumptuously: Thou shalt not ther fore be afrayed of hym.

The.xix.Chapter.

When the Lorde thy GOD hath • roted out the nacions, whose lande the Lorde thy God geueth thee, and thou succedest in their enherytaunce, and dwellest in theyr Cities, and in their houses: thou shalte • appoynt three cities for thee in the myddes of the land which the Lorde thy God geueth thee to possesse it: thou shalte prepare the waye, and deuyde the coastes of thy lande whiche the Lorde thy God geueth thee to enheryte, into three partes, that • whosoeuer cõmitteth murther, maye flee thyther. For this cause muste the slayer flye thyther, that he maye lyue. Whoso kylleth hys neyghboure ignorauntlye, and hateth hym not in tyme passed: And when a man goeth vnto the wood with hys neyghboure to hewe wood, (thynkynge no harme,) and as hys hande fetcheth a stroke with the axe to cut downe the tree, the head slyppeth from the helue, and smyteth hys neyghboure that he dyeth: the same shall flye vnto one of the same cities and lyue. Leste the executer of bloode folowe after the slayer whyle hys hearte is whote, and ouertake hym, because the waye is longe, and slaye hym, and yet ther is no cause woorthy of death in hym, in asmuch as he hated him not in time passed. Wherfore I commaunde thee, sayinge: thou shalt appoint out three cyties for thee. And if the Lorde thy God enlarge thy coastes (as he hath sworne vnto thy fathers) and geue thee all the lande whiche he sayde he woulde geue vnto thy fathers, thou shalte kepe all these commaundementes to do them, which I commaunde thee this day, that thou loue the Lorde thy God and walke in hys wayes euer, and adde three cityes mo for thee, vnto those three that innocente bloode be not shedde in thy lande, whiche the Lorde thy God geueth the to enherite, and so blood come vpon the. • But and if a man hate his neyghboure, and laye wayte for hym and ryse agaynste hym, and smyte him that he dye, and then flyeth vnto anye of these cities: the elders of his cytye shall sende and fetche hym thence, and delyuer him into the handes of the iustice of bloude, that he may dye. Thine eye shall not spare him, but thou shalt put away innocent bloud from Israell, that it maye go well with thee.

When thou hast besieged a citie longe which thou knowest that they are not fruitfull, (but wylde and fyt for other thee, vntill thou subdue it.

¶ The .xxi. Chapter.

Then thyne elders and thy iudges

And let the elders of that citie which whyche thyne eyes haue seene, those great miracles and wonders. And yet the LORDE hath not geuen you and eares to heare, vnto thys daye.

And I haue ledde you forty yeare in

For ye know, how we haue dwelt in the land of Egypt, and how we came thorough the myddes of the nations, whyche yee passed by. And ye haue haue sene their abhomynations, and their Idoles, (wood and stone, siluer and golde) which were among them.

And men shall say: because they lefte the Testamente of the Lorde God of their fathers, whiche he made wyth them, when he brought them oute of the lande of Egypte. For they went and serued straung Goddes and worshipped theym: Goddes whyche they knowe not, and whyche haue geuen them naughte. And the wrathe of the Lord waxed whote agaynst thys land to bringe vpon it all thee curses that are written in this boke, And the lord cast them out of their lande in angre, wrath, and greate indignation, and cast them into a straunge land as this daye beareth witnes. And the Lorde thy God wyll tourne the captiuitie, and haue compassion vpon thee and will tourne, and fette thee agayne from all the nacions, amonge which the Lorde thy God shal haue scattered thee. Thoughe thou wast cast vnto the extreame partes of heauen: euen from thence wyll the Lorde thy God gather thee, and from thence wyll he fet thee, and the Lorde thy God wyll bryng thee into the lande whyche thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt enioye it. But thou shalte tourne, and hearken vnto the voyce of the Lorde, and do al his commaundementes, whych I commaund thee this day. And the Lord thy God wil make the plenteous in al the workes of thyne hande, in the fruite of thy bodye, and in the fruite of thy cattell,

But and if thyne hearte tourne awaye, soo that thou wilte not heare: but shalte goe astraye and woorshippe straunge goddes: and serue them, I pronounce vnto you also thys daye that ye shall surelye perysshe, and that yee shall not prolonge your dayes vppon the lande whether thou passeste ouer Jordane, to goe and possesse it. * I call heauen Deu.

AND Moyses went and spake these wordes vnto all Israel, and sayde vnto them: I am an hundred and twentye yeare olde thys day, and canne no more go out and in. Also the Lorde hath sayde vn-Gen. to me. Thou shalte not go ouer thys Jordan. The Lorde thy God he wyll go ouer before thee, and there wyll destroye these nacions before thee, and thou shalte conquere them. And Josua, he shall go before thee as the Lord hath sayde. And the Lorde shall doue vnto them, as he dyd to Sehon and Og kynges of the Amorytes, and to the land of them: who he destroyed.

And

And the lord shall geue them ouer before your face, ỳ ye may do vnto them accordinge vnto all the commaundementes whyche I haue commaunded you. Plucke vp youre heartes therefore and be strong, dreade not, nor bee afrayde of theym, for the Lorde thy God hymselfe doeth goe wyth thee. Hee shall not fayle thee, nor forsake thee. And Moyses called vnto Iosua, and sayde vnto hym in the sighte of all Israell: Be stronge and bolde for thou muste goe wyth thys people vnto the lande whiche the Lorde hath sworne vnto theyr fathers, to geue them, and thou shalte geue it them to inheryte. And the Lorde hee doeth go before thee: Hee shall not fayle thee neyther forsake thee: feare not therefore: nor be dyscomforted: And Moyses wrote thys lawe, and deliuered it vnto the preestes the sonnes of Leui (whyche bare the Arcke of the testamente of the LORD) and vnto all the elders of Israell, and Moises commaunded theim sayinge: At the poynte of seuen yeares in the solemnitie of the free yeare euen in the feaste of Tabernacles, when all Israell is come to appeare before the Lorde thy God, in the place, whiche hee hath chosen: thou shalt reade thys lawe before all Israel in their eares. Gather the people together: men, women, and children, and the straunger that is within thy gates that they maye heare, and learne and feare the Lorde youre God, and keepe and obserue all the woordes of thys lawe, and that their children which know nothynge, maye heare, and learne to feare the Loorde youre God, as longe as ye lyue in the lande whether ye go ouer Iordan to possesse it. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: Beholde thy dais are come, that thou must dye Call Iosua therefore, and stand ye in the Tabernacle of wytnes, that I maye gyue hym a charge. And Moyses and Iosua went, and stode in the tabernacle of witnesse. And the Lord appeared in the Tabernacle euen in the piller of the cloude, And the piller of the cloude stode ouer the doore of the tabernacle. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses. behold thou shalt slepe with thy fathers, and thys people wyll ryse vp, and go a whoring after straunge Goddes of the lande (whether they go) and wil forsake me, and breake the appointmente, whiche I haue made wyth them. And then my wrath wil ware whote against them and I wyll forsake theym, and will hyde my face from theym, and they shalbe consumed. And muche aduersitie and tribulations shall come vpon them, so that then they will saye: Are not these troubles come vpon me, because GOD is not with me? And I also wylle surelye hyde awaye my face in that daye for all the euylles sake whyche they shal haue wrought in that they ar tourned vnto straunge goddes. Nowe therefore wryte yee this songe for you and teache it the children of Israell. and put it in their mouthes, that this songe maye be my witnesse against the children of Israell. For I wil bryng thē into ỳ lād (which I sware vnto their fathers) that floweth wyth milke and honye, and they shall eate, and fyll theim selues, and ware fatte, and tourne vnto straunge Goddes, and serue them and blaspheme mee, and breake my conenaunte. And then when muche myschiefe and tribulation is come vppon them, this songe shall aunswere them as a wytnesse. For it shall not be forgotten oute of the mouthes of theyr seede, for I knowe their imagination which they go about euen nowe, before I haue brought them into the lād which I sware. Moyses therefore wrote this song the same season and taughte it the children of Israel. And hee gaue Iosua the sonne of Nun a charge, and sayde: beholde, and strōg for thou shalte brynge the childrenne of Israell into the lande, whiche I sware vnto them, and I wyl be with thee. And when Moyses had made an ende of wryting oute of the woordes of this lawe in a boke vnto the end of theym, Moyses commaunded the

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, the selfe same day, saying: Gette thee vp into thys mountayne Abarim. And he was in Israell kynge whẽ the heades of the people, and the trybes of Israell were gathered together. Lette Ruben lyue, and not dye: and bee fewe in numbre. This same also happen to Juda. And he sayd: Here Lorde the voyce of Juda, and bryng hym vnto his people: hys handes shall be good ynough for him,

Thou dyddest proue hym also in the temptation, and stryuedst wyth him at the waters of stryfe. He that hath sayde vnto hys father, and to his mother: I haue not seene hym. And he that knewe not hys bretherne, nor knewe hys owne chyldern, those are they that haue obserued thy worde, and shall keepe thy couenaunt. They shall teache Jacob thy iudgementes, and Israell thy lawe. They shall put cense before thy nose, and the burnte sacrifyce vpon thyne altare. And of Ben Jamin he sayde: The Lordes dearlyng shall dwell in safetie vppon hym, and the Lord shall couer him all the day long, and he shal dwell betwene his shoulders. And of Joseph he sayde: Bleſſed C of the Lorde is hys lande for the fruites of heauen, thorowe the dewe and sprynges that lye beneathe, and for the sweete fruites of the increase of the sonne, and rype fruites of the moone: for the fyrſt frutes of the principall mountaynes, and for the fruites that the hylles bryng forthe for euer, and for the fruites of the earthe and fulneſſe therof: and for the good En Will of hym that dwelt in the . bushe, shall the blessynge comme vppon the heade of Joseph, and vpon the toppe of the heade of hym, that was separated frome among hys brethren, his fyrſt borne oxe hathe beautie, and hys hornes are as the hornes of an Unicorne. And vnto Zabulon he sayde: Reioyce Zabulon in thy goyng oute, and thou Issachar in thy tents. They shall call the people vnto the hyll, and there they shall offer offerynges of righteouſneſſe. For they shall sucke of the abundaunce of the sea, and of treasure hydde in the sande. And vnto God he sayd: Bleſſed be the roome maker God: he dwelleth as a Lyon,

He sawe therefore hys begynnynge, and that there was a portion there to hide the lawgeuer, and he came with the heades of the people, and executed the ryghteousnesse of the Lorde, and hys iudgementes wyth Israell. And vnto Dan he sayde: Dan is a lyons whelpe, he shall flowe from Basan. And vnto Nephthali, he said: Nephthali hath abundaunce of Gods good pleasure, and is fylled with the blessyng of the Lorde, and shall haue hys possessyons towarde the southwest. And to Aser he sayd: Aser shall bee blessed wyth chyldren: he shall be acceptable vnto his brethren, and shall dyppe hys foote in oyle. Thy dwellynge bee yron and brasse, and thyne age bee as thy youth. There is none lyke vnto the God of Israell: which thoughe he sytte vppon the heauen, as vppon an horse, yet is he thy helper, whose glorye is in the celestiall places. The eternall God is thy refuge and vnder the armes of the Euerlastyng G O D shalte thou lyue. He shall cast out the ennemy before thee, and say: Destroye. Israel then shall dwelle in safetie, and alone. And the eye of Jacob shall bee vpon a lande of corne and wyne, and hys heauens shall droppe the dewe. The .xxxiij. Chapter.

AND * Moyses went from the playne of Moab vp into Mount Nebo, and vnto the toppe of * hyll, that is ouer agaynst Jericho. And the Lord shewed hym all the lande of Gilead, euen vnto Dan, and all Nephthali, and the land of Ephraim, and Manasse, and all the land of Juda: euen vnto the vtmoste sea, and the southe, and the region of the playne of Jericho, the citie of Palme trees, euen vnto Zoar. And the LORDE sayd vnto him. * This is the lande whiche I sware vnto Abraham, Isahac, and Jacob, sayinge: I wyll geue it vnto thy seede, I haue caused thee also to see it with thyne eyes, * but thou shalte not goe ouer thyther. So Moyses, the seruaunt of the Lorde dyed there in the lande of Moab, accordynge to the woorde of the Lorde. And he buryed hym in a valeye, in the lande of Moab, ouer agaynste the howse of Peor, but no man knoweth of hys Sepulchre vnto thys daye. Moyses was an hundred and twentye yeare olde whenne he dyed: hys eye was not dymme, nor hys naturall colours was abated. And the chyldern of Israell * wept for Moses in the plaine of Moab thirtie dayes. And the dayes of weppynge and mournyng for Moses wer ended. And Josua the sonne of Nun was fulle of the Spyrite of wysedome: * for Moyses hadde put his handes vpon hym. And the chyldren of Israell were obedyente vnto hym, and dyd as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. And there arose not a Prophete sens in Israell lyke vnto Moyses, whome the Lorde knewe face to face, accordynge vnto all the myracles and wonders, whyche the Lorde sente hym to doo in the lande of Egypt, vnto Pharao & all his seruauntes, and beefore all his lande: and accordyng to al that myghtie hand, and all the great dyslons, whyche Moyses shewed in the syght of al Israell.

For I the Lord thy God am with thee, whether so euer thou goest. Then Iosua commaunded thee officers of the people, saying: Go thorowe the middes of the hoste, and commaund the people saing: prepare you vitailes: for after thre dayes ye shal passe ouer this Iordan, to go in & enioy the land, which the Lord your GOD geuethe you to possesse it. And vnto the Rubenites, Gadites, and halfe Tribe of Manasses spake Ia.

And who so euer he bee, that doothe disobeye thy mouth, and will not herken vnto thy wordes, in all that thou commaundest hym, let him dye: Only be strong and of good courage.

¶ The.ii. Chapter.

AND Iosua the son of Nun sent out of Settim two men to spye secretely, saynge: Go and viewe the lande, and also Iericho. And they went, and came into a harlots house, named Rahab, & lodged there. And it was tolde the king of Iericho, and said: Behold ther cam men in hither to night, of the childrē of Israel to spy out the countrye.

And

Adn the kynge of Jericho sente vnto Rahab, sayinge: Brynge foorth the men that are come to thee, and which are entred into thyne house: for they be come to search out all the land. And the womā toke the two men, * & hyd them. And said thus in dede ther cam men vnto me, but I wyst not whēce they wer. And about the tyme of the shutting of the gate whenne it was darke, the men went out, whether the men went, I wote not, folowe ye after them quickly, for ye shall ouertake them. But she brought theym vp to the roofe of the house, and * hid them with the stalkes of flaxe, whiche she had lying abrode vpon the roofe. And the menne of the Citie pursued after them, the way to Jordan, euen vnto the fery, and as soone as they whiche pursued after them, were gone oute, they shutte the gate. And or euer they were a sleape, she came vp vnto them vpon the roofe, and sayd vnto the mē: I know that the Lord hath geuē you the lande: * For the feare of you is fallen vpon vs, and the inhabiters of the land fainte at the presence of you.
For we haue herde, how the Lorde * dryed vp the water of the Red sea before you, when you came out of Ēgypt, and what you did vnto the two kynges of the Amorites, that were on the other syde Jordan, * Sehon and Og whom ye vtterly destroyed. And as soone as we had herd these thynges (we were sore afrayd, and) our heartes dyd faynt. And there remained no more courage in any man at the presence of you. For the Lord your God he is the god in heauen aboue, and in earth beneathe. Nowe therefore (I praye you) sweare vnto me * by the Lorde, that as I haue shewed you mercy, ye shall also shewe mercy vnto my fathers house, and geue me a true token. And that ye shall saue a-lyue, both my father, and my mother, and my brethren, and my systers, and all that they haue. And that ye shall deliuer our soules from deathe. And the men answered her: Our lines for she let them down by a coarde, * thorby the towne wall. And she said vnto them, get you into the mountayn, lest the pursuers mete you, and hyde your selues there three dayes, vntyll the pursuers be returned, & then shall ye go your owne waye. And the men sayde vnto her: We will be blamelesse of this thy oth, which thou hast made vs sweare. Beholde, when we come into the land thou shalt bind this pur ple coard in the window, which thou letteste vs downe by. And thou shalt bryng thy father and thy mother, thy brethren, and all thy fathers housholo euen into thy house. And then who so euer doothe go out at the doores of thy house into the streete, his bloude shall be vpon his own head, & we will be giltlesse. And who so euer shall be with thee in the house, his blood shal be on our head, if any mās hand touch him: And if thou vtter these our wor-des, wee will bee quyte of thy othe, whiche thou haste made vs sweare.

And she sayd: according vnto youre wordes, so be it: and she sent them away to depart. And she bound the purple coarde in the windowe And they departed, and came into the mountain and there aboade thre days, vntyll the pursuers were retourned. And the pursuers sought them throughout all the waye, but founde them not. And the two men returned, and descended from the mountayne, and passed ouer, and came to Josua the sonne of Nun, and told him al that had chanced them And they said vnto Josua: The Lord truly hath deliuered into our handes al the land, & all the inhabiters of the countrey, faynt at the presence of vs.

Act.11.

The. iii. Chapter.

And Josua rose earely, & they remoued frō Sethim, & came to Jordan, he and al the children of Israell, and lodged there, before they wente ouer. And after three dayes

dayes it foztuned, that ỳ officers went thozow out the host, and commanded the people, saying: Whē ye se the Ark of the Testament of the Lozde youre God and the priests that are Leuites bearyng it: ye shall depart from youre place, & go after it. So yet that there shall be a space betwene you and it, about a two thousand cubites by measure. And ye shall not come nye vnto it, that ye maye knowe the waye, by whiche ye multe go: foz ye haue not gone this way in times past (and beware, that ye approche not nye vnto the Arke.) And Josua sayd vnto the people: Sanctifie your selues, foz to mozow the Lozde shall doo wonders amonge you. And Josua spake vnto the priests, saying: Take vp the Arke of the couenāt, and go before the people. And they toke vp the Arke of the Testament, and went before the people. And the Lozde sayd vnto Josua: This day wyll I begyn to magnifye thee in the syghte of all Israell, that they may know how that as I was with Moses, so will I be with thee. And thou shalt commaunde the priestes that beare the Arke of the couenant, saying: when ye are come to the edge of the waters of Jozdan, ye shal stand styll in it. And Josua said vnto the children of Israell: Come hither and here the wozds of the Lozde your God. And Josua said: Hereby ye shal know that the liuing God is among you, and that he will without fayle caste out before you, the Cananites, & the Hethites, the Heuites, the Pheresites, the Gergesites, the Amozites, and the Jebusites: Behold, the Arke of the appointment of the Lozd of all the wozld goeth before you into Jozdan. Now therfore take from among you twelue men out of the Tribes of Israell, out of euery tribe a man. And as soone as the sooles of the feet of the Priestes (that beare the Arke of the Lozd the gouernour of al the wozld) treade in the waters of Jozdane, the waters of Jozdan (that are benethe, shall runne downe, and) shalbe deuided: and the waters that come frome aboue, shall stand still vpon an heape. And it foztuned, that when the people were departed from their tents to go ouer Jozdan, the priestes bearing ỳ Arke of the appointment went before the people. And as soone as they that bare the Arke came vnto Jozdan, and the fete of the priests that bare ỳ Arke were dipped in the brim of the water. (Foz Jozdan vseth to fill al his bankes all the tyme of haruest) the waters also that came down from aboue dyd rise vp) vpon an heape (& appered as great as a mountaine (and departed farre from the citie of Adam, that was beside Zarthan. And the waters that were beneath towarde the sea of the wildernes, fell awaye, & departed into ỳ salt sea, & the people wēt right ouer against Jericho. And the priests that bare the arke of the appointment of the Lozd, stode dry within Jozdan redy prepared, & all ỳ Israelites wēt ouer thozow the dry, vntil al ỳ people wer gone clean ouer thozow Jozdan.

The. iiii. Chapter.

And it foztuned, that whā the people were all gone ouer Jozdan, the Lozd spake vnto Josua, saying: Take you twelue men out of the people, out of euery tribe a man. And commaunde you them sayeng: Take you hence out of the myddes of Jozdane (euen out of the place where the priests stode in a redines) twelue of the moste hardest) stones, which ye shal take away with you, & leaue theym in the place, where you shall lodge thys nyghte. And Josua called the twelue men, whiche he had prepared of the children of Israel, out of euery tribe a man, and Josua sayd vnto them: Get you before the Arke of the Lozd your God, euen thozowe the myddes of Jozdan, and take vp euery manne of you a stone vppon his shoulder, accozdinge vnto the numbre of the Tribes of the chyldren of Israell, that this may be a signe among you. That when youre children aske their fathers in tyme to come, saying: What meane these stones with you? Ye may answere them howe that the waters waters of Jordan deuided at the pre sence of the arke of the appoyntment of the Lorde. For whan it went ouer Jordan, the waters of Jordan deui-ded. And these stones are becom a me morial vnto the childzen of Israel for euer. And the childzen of Israell dyd B euen so as Josua commanded, & toke of Jordan, as the Lord said vnto Josua, accordynge to the numbre of the tribes of the chyldzen of Israell, and caried them away with them vnto ỹ place where they lodged, and layde them downe there. And Josua set vp twelue stones also in the myddes of Jordan, in the place where the fete of the priests which bare the arke of the testament, stode. And there haue they continued vnto this day. For the prie stes whiche bare the arke stode in the middes of Jordan, vntill all was fi-to all that Moyses charged Josua.

And the people hasted and wẽt ouer: It fortuned also, that whenne all the the chyldzen of Israell in the toppe cause why Josua circumcised all the came out were circumcised. But all the people that were borne in the

For the children of Israel, walked fortye yeares in the wyldernesse, tyll all the people of the men of warre that came out of Egypte were consumed because they haue harkened not vnto the voyce of the Lord: wherfore the Lorde sware, that he would not shewe theym the lande • whiche the

And Josua wente vnto hym, and sayde vnto him: arte thou on our side, or on our aduersaries. And he said: Naye, but as a captaine of the hoste of the Lorde am I nowe come. AND Jericho was shut vppe and locked because of the children of Israel neyther might anye man go out or in. And the Lorde sayd vnto Josua, beholde, I haue geuen into thine hande Jericho and her kynge, and the stronge men of warre. And ye shall compasse the citie all ye that be menne of warre, and go rounde aboute it once and so shall ye doe syx dayes. And seuen priestes shall beare before the Arke, seuen trompettes of rammes hornes (that be vsed in the Jubelie.) And Josua the sonne of Nun, called the pryestes and sayde vnto them, take vp the arke of the appointmente, and lette seuen priestes beare seuen trompettes of rammes hornes before the arcke of the Lorde And he sayde vnto the people, go and compasse the Cytie: and let hym that is harnessed, gooe beefore the Arke of the Lorde. And when Josua had spoken vnto the people, the seuen priestes bare the seuen trompettes of rammes hornes, and wente foorthe before the arke of the Lorde and blewe with the trompettes, and the arke of the couenaunt of the Lorde folowed thē. And Josua rose earelye in the mozning, and the Priestes toke vp the arke of the Lozde, and seuen pzie-stes bare seuen trompettes of rammes hoznes and wente before the arke of the Lozde, and blewe with the trom-pettes. And al the men of armes went before theym, but the common people came after the arke of the Lozd, whyche went before with the blowynge of the trompettes. And the second day they compalled the citie once, and re-tourned agayne into the hoost, and so they dyd sixe dayes. And when the se-uenth daye came, they rose earely: euen with the dawnynge of the daye, and compalled the citie after the same ma-ner seuen tymes: onely that daye they compalled the citie seuen times. But all the siluer, gold besseis of brasse, and yron, shalbe con-secrate vnto the Lozde, and all shall come into his treasurie. And the peo-ple showted, and blewe with trom-pettes. And when the people heard the sounde of the trompe, they show-

And they vtterlye destroyed all that was in the citie, both manne and woman, younge and olde, oxe, sheepe and asse, with the edge of the swearde. Then Josua sayde vnto the two men that had spyed out the countrey: * goo into

And the younge men that were spes, went in, and bzought out Rahab, and her fa-ther and mother, and her bzethren, and all that she had. Deu. 9.d * Alas, O Lorde God wherfore haste thou brought this people ouer Jordā

Surely the Cananites, and al the en-

And what wylte thou doe vnto thy he brought his houshoulde, manne by Josua sayde vnto Acan: my sonne, I beseche thee, geue glorye to the Lorde God of Israell, and geue hym prayse, and shewe me what thou haste done, hyde it not from me. And Acan answered Josua, and sayde: of a truth I haue synned agaynste the Lorde God of Israell, and thus, and thus haue I done. I sawe amonge the spoyle, a goodlye Babylonishe garmente, and two hundred sicles of syluer, and a tonge of golde, of fiftie sicles weight, and I coueted them, and toke theym.

And beholde they lye hyd in the earth which whan they ranne vnto his tēt, beholde they were hydde in hys tent, and the syluer there vnder. Therfore, they toke them oute of the myddest of hys tent, and brought them vnto Josua, and vnto all the children of Israell, and layd them out before the Lord.

And Josua toke Acan the sonne of zareth and the siluer, and the garmente, and the tonge of gold, and his sonnes, and hys daughters, hys oxen, and hys asses, hys shepe, and hys tente, and all that he had: and all Israel with him,

And Josua sayde: In as muche as stoned hym wyth stones, and burned theym with fyre, and ouerwhelmed them with stones. And they cast vpon hym a greate heape of stones vnto

AND the Lorde sayde vnto Josua · feare not, neither be thou faint harted: Take al the men of warre with the, and vp, and get the to Hai. Beholde, I haue geuen into thy hande, the kynge of Hai, and hys people, his citie and his lande. And thou shalte do to Hai and her kynge, as thou didest vnto · Jericho and her kynge. Neuertheles, the spoyle and · cattell thereof, shall ye take vnto youre selues. And laye a watche vnto the towne, on the backeside thereof. And so Josua arose, and all the men of warre to go vp against Hai. And Josua chose out thyrtie thousand strong men of warre, and sente theym awaye by nyght. And he commaunded them, saying: beholde, ye shall laye awayte vnto the towne on the backeside ther of. Go not verye farre from the citie, but be all ready. And I and al the people that are with me wil approch vnto the citie. And when they come out agaynste vs, as they dyd at the fyrste tyme, then will we flee before them. For they wyll come out after vs, and we wyll bryng them out of the citye. For they will say: they flye before vs, as at the fyrst time, and we will flye before them. In the meane time shall ye ryse vp from lyinge awayt, and destroy the citie. For the Lord your God wyll delyuer it into your hande. And whan ye haue taken the citie, ye shall set it on fire. Accordynge to the commaundemente of the Lord shal ye do, behold, I haue charged you. Josua therefore sent theym forthe, and they went to ley awayte, and abode betwene Bethel and Hai, on the westside of the citie of Hai. But Josua lodged that nyght among the people. And Josua rose vp earely in the morynge, and numbred the people, and went vp, he and the elders of Israell before the people agaynst Hai. And all the men of warr that were with hym, went vp and drue nie, & came against the citie, and pytched on the northside of Hai, and there was a valey betwen them and Hai. And he toke vppon a fyue thousande men, and put theim to lye awayte, betwene Bethel and Hai on the westside of the citie. And they put the people (euen all the hoost that were on the northside) agaynst the citie, and the leyrs awayte on the west. And Josua walked the same nyght in the myddes of the valey. And it fortuned, that when the kyng of Hai sawe it, they hasted and rose vp earely, and the men of the citie went out agaynst Israell to battell, he & al hys people at a tyme appoynted, euen before the playne, and wyst not that there were lyers awayt on the backeside of the citie. And Josua and all Israell fained theym selues to be but the worse before them, and fled towarde the wil dernesse. And all the people of the towne were called together, to folow after them. And they folowed after Josua and were drawen away from the citie: And there was not a manne left in Hai, and in Bethell, that went not out after Israell. And they lefte the cytie open, and folowed after Israell. And the Lord sayde vnto Josua, stretche out the spere that is in thyne hande, toward Hai, for I will geue it into thy hande, and Josua stretched out the spere that he had in his hand, towarde the citie. And the lyers awayte arose quyckelye oute of theyr place, and ranne allone as Josua had stretched out hys hande, and they entred into the cytie and toke it, and hasted, to sette the citie on fire. And when the men of Hai loked backe after theym, they sawe the smoke of the cytie ascende vp to heauen. And they had no leysure to flye, either this way or that, and the people that fled to the wyldernes, tourned backe againe vpon the folowers. And when Josua and al Israell sawe that the lyers awayte had taken the citie, and that the smoke of it ascended, they turned agayne and smyte on the menne of Hai.

And the other yssued out of the Citye agaynst them. And so were they in the myddest of Israell: for these were on the one syde of them, and the reste on the other syde. * And they layde vpon them so that they let none of them escape, nor remayne. And the kynge of Hai they toke alyue, and brought him to Iosua. And when Israel had made an ende of slayinge, all the inhabiters of Hay in the fielde of the wyldernes, where they chased them, and when they were all fallen on the edge of the swearde, vntyll they were wasted, all the Israelites returned vnto Hai, and smote it in the edge of the swearde. And al that fell that daye, both of men and women were twelue thousande, euen all the men of Hai. For Iosua plucked not hys hande backe agayne, whiche he stretched oute vppon the speare vntyll he had vtterly destroyed all the enhabitoures of Hai. * Onelye the catell and spoyle of the Citye, Israell toke vnto them selues, accordyng vnto the woordes of the Lorde, which he commaunded Iosua. And Iosua sette Hai on fire, and made it an heape for euer, and a wyldernesse, euen vnto thys daye. And the kynge of Hai he hanged on a tree, vntyll euen. And assone as the Sunne was downe, Iosua commaunded * that they shoulde take the carkasse downe of the tree, and caste it at the entrynge of the gate of the citye, and * laye thereon a greate heape of stones, that remaynith vnto thys daye. Then Iosua * buylte an aultare vnto the Lorde GOD of Israell, in mounte Eball, as Moyses the seruaunte of the Lorde commaunded the chyldren of Israell, and as it is wrytten in the * booke of the lawe of Moyses: an * aultare of whole stones, ouer which no man hath lyfte anye tole of yron. And they sacrifised theron burntsacrifyces vnto the Lord, and offered peaceofferynges. And he wrote there vpon the stones, a rehearsall of the lawe of Moyses, and wrote it in the presence of the chyldren of Israell. And all Israell and the elders thereof, and theyr offycers and Iudges stode, parte on thys syde the arke, and parte on that syde, before the priestes that were Leuites, whiche bare the arke of the appoyntemente of the Lorde: as well the straunger, as they that were borne amonge them, halfe of them on the forefront of the mount Garizim: and halfe of theym on the forefronte of mounte Eball: as Moyses the seruaunt of the Lord had commaunded before, that they shold blesse the people Israell. Afterward, he red all the woordes of the lawe, the blessinges and cursinges, accordyng to all that is writtē in the boke of the lawe: And there was not one woorde of all that Moyses commaunded, whiche Iosua red not before al the congregacion of Israell. her kynge, euen so he had done to Hai and, 8.b and her kynge, and howe the enhabi-toures of Gibeon hadde made peace with Israell, and were among them, they feared exceadyngly, for Gibeon was a greate citye, as any citye of the kingdome, and was greater then Hai, and all the menne thereof were verye myghtye. Wherfore Adonizedec kinge of Jerusalem sent vnto Hoham kyng of Hebron, and vnto Piria kynge of Jarmuth, and vnto Japhia kynge of Lachis, and vnto Dabir kyng of Eglon, sayinge, Come vp vnto me, and helpe me, that we may smyte Gibeon: for they haue made peace with Josua and with the chyldren of Israell.

B Therfore the fiue kinges of the Amorytes, the kynge of Jerusalem, the kynge of Hebron, the kynge of Jarmuth the kynge of Lachis, and the kynge of Eglon gathered them selues together: they with all their hostes, and besyeged, Gibeon, and made war agaynst it. And the menne of Gibeon sente vnto Josua, and to the hooste of Gylgall, sayinge, withdraw we not thy hande from thy seruauntes, come vp to vs, to saue vs: and to helpe vs. For all the kinges of the Amorites which dwell in the mountaynes, are gathered together agaynste vs. And so Josua ascended from Gilgall, he and all the people of warre with hym, and all the men of myght. And the Lord sayd

C vnto Josua: feare them not, for I haue deliuered them into thyne hande. Nether shall any of them stande agaynste thee. Josua therefore came vnto them sodenlye, and wente vp from Gilgall all nyghte. And the Lorde troubled them before Israell, and slewe them with a great slaughter at Gibeon, and chased them along the way that goeth vp to Bethoron, and smote them to Esaka and Makeda. And it fortuned, that as they fled from Israell, & were in the goynge downe to Bethoron, the Lorde caste downe greate stones from heauen vpon them, vntyll Esaka. And there were moo deade with hayle stones, then they were, whom the childzen of Israell slewe with the swearde. Then spake Josua before the Lorde, in the daye when the Lorde deliuered the Amorites before the childzenne of Israell, and he sayde in the

Eccl. 46a syght of Israell: Sunne stande thou styll vpon Gibeon, and thou Moone in Ialon. And the sunne abode, and the Moone stode styll vntyll the people auenged them selues vpon their enemyes. Is not thys wrytten in the booke of the ryghteousse? The sunne (I saye) abode in the myddest of heauen, and halted not to goo downe by the space of an hole daye. And there was no daye lyke that, before it or after it, that the Lorde hearde the voyce of a man. For the Lorde fought for Israell. And Josua returned, and all D Israell with hym vnto the hooste of Gilgall: but the fyue kynges fled, and were hydde in a caue at Makeda. And it was tolde Josua of one, sayinge: The fyue kynges are founde hydde in a Caue whiche is at Makeda. And Josua sayde roule greate stones vpon the mouth of the caue, and set men by it, for to kepe them. And stande ye not styll, but folowe after your enemyes, and smyte al the hyndermoste: And suffer them not to enter into their cityes, for the Lorde youre GOD hath deliuered them into your hande. And it fortuned when Josua and the childeren of Israell had made an ende of sleyinge them with an exceadynge greate slaughter tyll they were wasted, the reste that remayned of them, entred into waled Cities. And all the people returned to the hooste, to Josua at Makeda in peace, neyther dyd anye man moue hys tongue agaynste the childerene of Israell. Then sayde Josua: open the mouth of the caue and bryngе oute these fyue kynges vnto me oute of the caue. And they dyd so, and brought those fyue kynges vnto hym oute of the caue, euen the kynge of Jerusalem, the kynge of Hebron, the kynge of Jarmuth, the kynge of Lachis, and the kynge of Eglon. And E it fortuned, that when they brought oute those kynges vnto Josua: Josua called for all the menne of Israell and sayde vnto the chiefe of the menne of warre, which wente with hym: come neare, and putte youre feete vppon the neckes of these kyngs. And they came neare and putte theyr feete vppon the neckes of them. And Josua sayde vnto them. Ye shal not feare nor be faynhertid:

herted: But be stronge and plucke vp youre hertes, for thus shall the Lorde do to all your enemies agaynst whom ye fyght. And then Josua smot them, and slewe them, and hanged them on fyue trees. And they hanged styll vp-on the trees vntyll the euenynge. And at the goynge downe of the sunne, it fortuned that Josua gaue commaun-dement, and they toke them downe of the trees, and cast them into the caue, 8.f (wherin they had bene hid) and layed stones in the caues mouth whiche re-mayne vntyll thys daye. And that same daye Josua toke Makeda and smote it with the edge of the swearde, o.d and the kynge thereof also * destroyed he vtterlye, with all the soules that were therin, and let nought remayne.
And he dyd to the kynge of Makeda 6.a * as he dyd vnto the kyng of Jericho.
Then Josua went from Makeda, and all Israell with him vnto Libna, and fought agaynste Libna. And the Lorde delyuered it and the kyng ther-of into the hande of Israell: and he smote it with the edge of the swearde and all the soules that were therein.
He let nought remayne in it, but dyd vnto the kyng thereof as he dyd vnto the kynge of Jericho. And Josua departed from Libna, and all Israell with hym vnto Lachis, and besieged it, and assaulted it. And the Lorde de-liuered Lachis into the hande of Israell, whiche toke it the seconde daye, and smote it withe the edge of the swearde, and all the soules that were therin, doynge accordynge to all, as he had done to the cytye of Libna. Then Horam king of Geser came vp to helpe Lachis: And Josua smot him and his people, vntyll nought remayned of hym. And from Lachis Josua departed vnto Eglon, and all Israell with hym, and they besieged it, and assaulted it, and toke it the same daye, and smote it with the edge of the swearde, and all the soules that were therin he vtterlye destroyed the same daye, ac-cordinge to all that he had done to Lachis. And Josua departed vppe from Eglon and all Israel with hym, vnto Hebron. And they fought agaynste it, and when they had taken it, they smot it with the edge of the swearde, and the kynge thereof, and all the townes that pertayned to it, and all the soules that were therein, and he lefte nought remaynynge: but dyd accordyng to all as he had done to Eglon, and destroyed it vtterly, and all the soules that were therein. And Josua returned, G and all Israell with hym to Dabir, and foughte agaynste it. And when he had taken it, and the kyng therof, and all the townes that perteyned therto, they smote them with the edge of the swearde, and vtterly destroyed all the soules that were therein, neyther let he oughte remayne. Euen as he dyd to Hebron, so he dyd to Dabir and the kynge thereof, as he had done also to Libna and her kynge. Josua therfore smote all the hyll countreys, and the southe countreys, and the valleys, and the hyll sydes, and all theyr kynges, and let noughte remayne of them, but vtterly destroyed al that * breathed, as De.20.d the Lorde God of Israel cõmaunded.
And Josua smote them from Cades barne vnto Asah, and all the countrey of Golan, euẽ vnto Gibeon. All those kynges and their land dyd Josua take at one tyme: because the Lorde God of Israell fought for Israel. And Josua and all Israell returned vnto the host that was in Gilgall.

¶ The.xi. Chapter.

AND it fortuned, that when A Jabin kynge of Hazor had heard those thynges: he sente to Jobab kynge of Madon, and to the kynge of Simron, and to the kynge of Achsaph, and vnto the kinges that are by the northe in the mountaynes, and playnes toward the southside of Cene roth, & in the low coũtreys: and in the borders of Dor westwarde, and vnto the Cananites both by east and west, & vnto the Amorites, Hethites, Pheresites, and Jebusites in the mountreynes: & vnto the Heuites that were vnder Hermon in the land of Mizpa:

And they came out and al their hostes with them, a multitude of folke, euen as the sand that is on the sea shore in a greate numbre with horses and charettes excedyng manye. And all these kynges mette together, and came and pitched together, at the waters of Meron, for to fight agaynst Israel. And the Lorde sayd vnto Josua: be not afrayde at the presence of theym: for to morowe about this time will I deliuer them all slayne before Israell: thou shalt hough their horses, & burne their charettes with fire. And so Josua came, and all the men of war with him agaynste them by the waters of Meron, and sodenly fell vpon theym. And the Lorde deliuered theym into the hande of Israell: and they smote them, and chased them vnto great Sidon, and vnto the whote waters, and vnto the valey of Mizpa whiche is Eastward: and smote them vntil they had none remaynyng of them. And Josua did vnto them, as the Lord bad hym: he houghed their horses, & burnt their charettes with fire. And Josua at that tyme turned backe, and toke Hazor, and smote the kynge thereof with the swearde. And Hazor before tyme was the head of all those kyngedoms. And they smote all the soules that were therin with the edge of the swearde, vtterly destroyinge all: and nothynge that breathed, was lette remayne. And he burnt Hazor with fire. And all the cities of those kynges, and all the kynges of theym dydde Josua take, and smote them with the edge of the swearde, and vtterly destroyed thē

And so Josua toke all the lande, the hilles, and al the south countrey, and all the lande of Gosan, and the lowe countrey, & the playne, and the mountayne of Israell, and the lowe countrey of the same, euen from the mounte of partynge, that goeth vp to Seir vnto the playne of Gad in the valey of Libanon, vnder mounte Hermon. And all the kynges of the same he toke, and smote theim. And slewe them. Josua made warre D longe time with those kynges: neyther was there anye citie that made peace with the children of Israel, saue those Hethites that enhabited Gibeon: and therefore all other they toke with battayle, for it came of the Lord whyche dyd harden their hartes, that they shoulde come agaynste Israell in battayle, and that they should destroy them vtterlye, and shew them no mercy, but to bryng them to noughte. As the Lorde commaunded Moises. And that same season came Josua, and destroyed the Enakites out of the mountaynes: Namely out of Hebron, Dabir, Anab, and out of all the mountaines of Juda, and out of all the mountaynes of Israell. And Josua destroyed them vtterly, with their cities. There was not one Enakite lefte in the lande of the children of Israel, onely in Asah, * Geth, and Asdod, ther remayned of them. And Josua toke the hole lande, accordynge to all that the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses, and Josua gaue it for a possession vnto Israell, * accordyng to their partes and tribes: and the lande rested from warre.

THis was the lot of the tribe of I the childrē of Iuda, by theyr kynredes. Namely, towarde their south coast was from the brinke

Acrabim, and went alonge to Zinna, and ascended vp on the south side vnto Cades Barne: and wente alonge to Hezron, and went vp to Adar, and fet a compasse to Karca. From thence went it alonge to Azmon, and reached vnto the ryuer of Egypt, and the ende of that coast was on the west syde.
And this is their south coast. Theyr W east coast is the salte sea, euen vnto the edge of Iordan. And their border in the northquarter was from the rocke of the sea, and from the edge of Iordā.
And the same border went vp to Beth syde of Batharabath, and vppe from thence to the stone of Bohen the son of Ruben. And agayne, the same bor-

¶The.xvi.Chapter.

A Nd the lotte of the childzen of Joseph fell from Jordan by Jericho, vnto the water of Jeritho Eastewarde. and to the wildernesse that goeth vp from Jericho throughoute mount Bethell: and goeth out from Bethell to Lus, and runneth a longe vnto the borders of Archi-mataroth: and goeth downe agayne B westewarde euen to the coaste of Japhelthi, and vnto the coaste of Bethhoron the nether, and to Gasor, and the endes of their coastes leaue at the weste sea. And so the chyldren of Joseph, Manasse & Ephraim toke their enherytaunce. And the border of the chyldren of Ephraim was by their kinredes. Theyr border on the Eastsyde was: Ataroth, Adar, euen vnto Bethhoron the vpper, and went oute C westewarde to Machmathah on the Northsyde, and returneth Eastward vnto Thaanath Silo, and passe it on the Eastsyde vnto Jonoah, and went downe from Jonoah to Ataroth and Naarath, and came to Jericho, and went oute at Jordan. And their border went from Thaphuah westward vnto ỳ riuer Kanah, & the endes wer ỳ west sea. This is the enherytaunce of the tryde of the childrē of Ephraim D by theyr kynredes. And the seperate cytyes for the chyldren of Ephraim, were amonge the enherytaunce of the chyldren of Manasses: euen the cityes with theyr villages, And they draue not out the Cananites that dwelte in Gasor: but the Cananites dwelle amonge the Ephraites vnto thys day, and serue vnder trybute.

¶The.xvii.Chapter.

THys was the Lotte of the tribe of Manasses whiche was the
A *Eldest sonne of Joseph. Gen.48c
And Machir the eldest sonne of Manasses which was the father of Gilead (and a man of warre) had Gilead and Basan. Thys is the possession of the reste of the chyldren of Manasses by theyr kinredes: Namely, of the chyldren of Abiezer: the chyldren of Helek: the chyldren of Asriell: the chyldren of Sichem, the chyldren of Hepher: the chyldren of Semida: for these were the male chyldrenne of Manasses, the sonne of Joseph by theyr kynredes.
*But Zelaphead the sonne of Hepher, Nu.26d the sonne of Gilead, the sonne of Ma- 27.Nu26a chir, the sonne of Manasses, hadde no fore accordyng to the commaundement of the Lorde, he gaue them an enherytaunce among the brethren of their father. And there fell ten portions to Manasses, besyde the lande of Gilead and Basan, which is on the other syde Jordan: because the daughters of Manasses dyd enheryte amonge hys sonnes. And Manasses other sonnes, had the lande of Gilead. And the coaste of Manasses was from Aser of Machmathath that lyeth before Sichem & went a longe on the ryght hande, euen vnto the inhabitoures of Entaphuah, and the lande of Thaphuah belonged to Manasses, whyche Thaphuah is besyde the border of Manasses, and besyde the border of the chylderene of Ephraim. And the coast descended vnto the riuer Canah southwarde, euen to the ryuer of the cities of Ephraim, and betweene the cities of Manasses.

The

C The coaste of Manasses went also on the northside to the ryuer, and the endes of it go out at the sea: so that the south pertayneth to Ephraim, and the north to Manasses, and the sea is hys border. And they mette together in Aser northwarde, and in Issachar Eastward. And Manasses had in Issachar and in Aser: Bethsean, & her townes: Iiblean, and her townes: and the enhabitoures of Dor, with the townes pertaynynge to the same: and the enhabitoures of Endor with the townes of ỹ same: and the enhabitoures of Thaanath & her townes: & the enhabitoures of Magedō with the townes of the same, euen three countreys. Yet the chyldren of Manasses coulde not ouercome those Cities. But the Cananites presumed to dwell in the same lande. Neuertheless, assone as the chyldrenne of Israell were waxed strong, they put the Cananites vnder tribute, but expelled them not. And the D chyldren of Joseph spake vnto Iosua sayinge: why haste thou geuen me but one lotte and one porcion to enheryte, seeyng I am a great people, and forasmuch as the Lorde hath blessed me hytherto? and Iosua aunswered them: yf thou be much people, then get thee vp to the woode contrey and prepare for thy selfe there in the lande of the Pheresites and of the Gyauntes, yf mount Ephraim be to narowe for the. And the chyldren of Joseph sayd: The hyll is not ynough for vs: and all the Cananites that dwell in the low contrey haue charets of yron, and so haue they that enhabite Bethsean, and the townes of the same, and they also that dwell in the valley of Jezreell. And Iosua sayd vnto the house of Joseph, Ephraim and Manasses: ye be muche people, and haue great power, and shal not therefore haue one lotte. Therfore the hyll shalbe yours, and ye shall cut downe the wood that is in it: and the endes of it shalbe yours, if ye cast out the Cananites which haue yron charettes, and are very stronge.

C The .xviii. Chapter.

AND the whole congregacion I of the chyldren of Israel came together at Silo, and sette vp the tabernacle of witnesse there, and the lande was in subiection before them. And there remayneth among the chyldren of Israel seuen trybes which hadde not yet receaued their enheryteaunce. And Iosua sayd vnto the chyldren of Israell: howe longe are ye so slacke to come, and possesse the lande which the Lorde God of your fathers hathe geuen you? Geue oute from amonge you for euery trybe three men, that I may sende them. And that they maye ryse, and walke throughe the lande and destribute it accordynge to the enheryteaunce therof, and come agayne to me. And let them deuyde it vnto them into seuen parts. And Iuda shall abyde in their coaste on the southe, and the house of Joseph shall stande in their coastes on the northe. Describe ye the lande therefore into seuen partes, and brynge the description hether to mee, and I shall caste lottes for you here before the Lord our God. * But the Leuites haue no part Iol. amonge you, for the priesthode of the and. And the men arose and went their way. And Iosua charged them that went out to describe ỹ lande, sayinge: depart, and go through the lande, and describe it, and come agayne to mee, that I maye here caste lottes for you before the Lorde in Silo. And the men departed, and walked throughout the lande, and described it by Cities into seuen partes in a booke and retourned to Iosua into the hoost at Silo. And Iosua caste lottes for C them in Sylo before the Lorde, and there Iosua deuyded the lande vnto the chylderene of Israell, to eche their porcion. And their north coast was from Jordan and went vp to the syde of Jericho on the northside, and went vp thorow the montaynes weste-warde, and they ended at the wylder-nesse of Bethauen: and wente from thence toward Lus euen to the south syde of Lus (the same is Bethell) and descended agayne to Arrothadar, vnto the hyll that lyeth on the southsyde of the nether Bethhoron. And the coast turneth thence, and compasseth the corner of the sea southward, euen frō the hyll that lyeth before Bethhoron southward, and goeth out at Kiriath-baall which is Kiriath Jarim a Citie of the chyldrenne of Juda: thys is the

This is the south coaste. And Jordan kepeth in thys coaste on the eastesyde, and thys is the enhery-taunce of the chyldren of Ben Jamin by their coastes round about throughe-oute their kynredes. These were the Cities of the trybes of the chyldren of Ben Jamin throughoute their kyn-redes: Jericho, Bethaglah, and the playne of Kaziz, Betharabah, Jama-rim, and Bethell: Auim, Pharah, and Ophrah: Chephar, Ammona, Ophni and Gabai, twelue cities with their villages. And when the children of Israell hearde of it, the whole congregation of the children of Israel gathered them together to Silo, to make battayle against them. And the children of Israell sent vnto the children of Rubẽ, and to the children of Gad, and to the halfe tribe of Manasses into the land of Gilead, Phinehes the son of Eleazar the Priest, and with hym tenne Lordes, of euery chief house a Lorde, throrow out all the tribes of Israell, whiche were heades of their fathers housholdes among the thousandes of Israel. Nowe ye haue rydde the childzen of Israell out of the hande of the Lozde. And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar the Pzieste with the Lozdes, retourned from the childzen of Ruben, and from the chyldzenne of Gad out of the lande of Gilead vnto the land of Canaan, to the childzenne of Israell, and brought theym thys woozde agayne And the sayinge pleased the childzen of Israell, and they blessed god, and dyd not entende to goe agaynst theym in battayle, and to destroye the lande whiche the childzenne of Ruben and Gad dwelte in. And the childzen of Ruben and the childzen of Gad called the auiter: Our wytnes, that the Lozde is God.

AND it came to passe a long season after that the Lozd had geuen rest vnto Israell from all theyr enemyes rounde about, that Iosua waxed olde, and was striken in age. And Iosua called foz all Israell and foz their elders, their heades, their iudges and officers, and sayde vnto theym: I am olde and striken in age. And yee haue seene all that the Lozde your God hath doone (vnto all these nations befoze you, howe the Lozde youre God hath foughte foz you. Beholde, I haue subdued vnto you these nations that remayne, to be an inheritaunce foz youre trybes: euen from Iozdan, and (from the lande) of all the nations that I haue destroyed, euen vnto the greate Sea westward. (And there remayne yet, manye nations.) And the Lozde youre God shall

Go to therefore as stronge ye as ye maye, that ye take hede and doe all that is wryten in the booke of the lawe of Moyses, that ye bowe not a syde therefrom, to the ryghte hande or to the lefte: and least that whan ye come amonge these nations, (euen amonge these that are leste wyth you) yee make mencion or sweare by the names of their goddes: and that ye neyther serue them or bow youre selues vnto them. But that yee stycke faste vnto the Lorde your God, as ye haue done vnto thys daye. Soe shall the Lorde caste oute before you great nations and myghtye, as no mã hath bene able to stãd before youhither to. One man of you shall chase a thousande: for the Lorde your God he fighteth for you, as he hath promised you. Take good hede therefore vnto youre selues, that yee loue the Lorde youre God, els yf yee goe backe and cleaue vnto the rest of these nations that remayne wyth you and shall make maryages wyth theym, and goe in vnto them and they to you: be yee sure, that the Lorde youre GOD will nomore caste out all these nations from before you. But they shall bee snares and trappes vnto you and scurges in your sydes, and thornes in your eyes, vntill yee perysshe from of thys good lande, whyche the Lorde youre God hath geuen you. And beholde, thys daye. doe I entre into the waye of al the worlde, and ye knowe in all your heartes and in all your soules, that nothing hath fayled of all the good thynges which the Lorde your God promysed you. But all are come to passe, and nothing hath fayled thereof. Therefore as all good thynges are come vppon you, whyche the Lorde your God promysed you, so shall the Lorde brynge vppon you all cuyll, vntyll hee haue destroyed you from of thys good lande, whyche the Lorde your God hath geuen you, when yee haue transgressed the appointmente of the Lorde youre God whyche hee commaunded you, and haue gonne and serued straunge Goddes and bowed youre selues to theym. Then shall the wrathe of the Lorde ware whote vpon you, and yee shall perysshe quickelye from of the good lande, which he hath geuen you.

And as they came vnto the Sea, the Egiptians followed after youre fathers wyth charettes and horsemen vnto the red Sea. 1 AFter the deathe of Josua it came to passe, that the childzen of Israel asked the Lozd saying: who shal goe vp for vs agaynste the Cananites and who shall firste fyght agaynst them. 2 And the Lozde sayde: Juda shall goe vp, *beholde I haue delyuered the lande into his hands. And Juda sayd vnto Simeon hys bzother: come vp wyth me in my lotte, that we maye fyghte agaynst the Cananites: And I likewyse wyl go wyth thee into thy lot. And soo Simeon went with hym. 3 And Juda went vp, and the Lozd delyuered the Cananites and Pherezytes into theyr handes. And they slewe of theym in Bezek tenne thousande menne. 4 And they found Adonibezek in Bezek. And they fought agaynst hym, and slewe the Cananites and Pherezytes. 5 But Adonibezek fledde and they folowed after hym, & caught him, and cut of his thombes, and his great toes. 6 And Adonibezek sayde: Thze scoze and tenne kynges hauyng their thombes and greate toes cut of, gathered theyr meat vnder my table: as I haue done, so God hathe done to me agayne. And they bzought him to Jerusalem, and there he died. 7 The childzen of Juda fought agaynst Jerusalem, and tooke it, * and smote it with the edge of the swearde, and set the Citie on fyze. 8 Afterward, the childzen of Juda went to fyghte against the Cananites, that dwelte in the mountayne, and towarde the southe, and in the lowe countrey. 9 And Juda wente agaynste the Cananites that dwelt in Hebzon, whych before tyme was called Kariath Arbe. And slewe Sesai, Ahiman, and Thalmai. 10 And from thense they went to the inhabiters of Dabir, whose name in olde time was called Kariathsepher (that is a Cytie of Letters.) 11 And Caleb sayde: *He that smyteth Kariathsepher, and taketh it, to hym wylle I geue Achsah my daughter to wyfe. 12 And Othoniel the son of Kenez Calebs yonger bzother toke it: to whom he gaue Achsah hys daughter to wyfe: 13 as they went her husbãd counceled her to aske of her father a fyelde. And when the chyldren of Israell + dyd wyckedly in the syghte of the Lord, and serued Baalim, and forsooke the Lorde god of theyr fathers, whych brought them out of the land of Egypte, and folowed strange goddes, euen of the goddes of the nations that were rounde aboute theym, and bowed them selues vnto theym, and angred the Lorde. They forsoke the Lorde, and serued Baal and Astaroth, and the wrathe of the Lord was hote agaynste Israell, and hee deliuered them into the handes of raueners, that spoyled theym, and solde them into the handes of their ennemyes rounde aboute theym, so that they had no power any longer to stād before theyr ennemies. But whether soeuer they went oute, the hand of the Lorde was agaynst them wyth euyll lucke, euen as the Lorde promysed them, and as he sware vnto them. And he punyshed theim sore. And when the Lorde raised them vp Iudges, he was wyth the Judge, and deliuered theym out of theyr handes of theyr ennemyes all the dayes of the Judge, + for the Lorde had compassion ouer theyr sorowynges, whyche they had, by the reason of theym that oppressed them, and vexed theim: yet for all that + as soone as the Judge was dead, they turned, and dyd worse thenne theyr Fathers, in folowynge strange gods, and in seruyng them, & ceassed not from theyr own inuentions nor from theyr malicious waye. And the wrathe of the Lorde was moued agaynst Israell, and he sayd: Because this people hathe transgressed myne appoyntment, which I commaunded their fathers, and haue not hearkened vnto my voyce, I wyll henseforthe not caste out before theym one man of the nations, whyche Iosua left whē he dyed, that thorough them I maye + proue Israell, whether they wylle kepe the waye of the Lorde, & walke therin, as theyr fathers dydde or not. THese ar the nations which the Lord left, that he might proue Israell by them: euen as many of Israell as had not knowen all the warres of Canaan: Only for the learnyng of the generation of the chyldren of Israell: that he also myghte teache them warre, in asmuch as they that were before them, knew nothing therof. Of those whom he left, there were fiue lordes of the Philistines, and all the Cananites, and the Sodomites, and the Heuites that dwelt in mount Libanon: euen from mount Baal Hermon vnto Hemath. Those remayned to proue Israell by, and to wete, whether they would harken vnto the Commaundementes of the Lorde, whiche he commaunded theyr fathers by the hande of Moses.

Whiche ſayd: Kepe ſylence. And all that ſtoode beſore hym, went out from hym. And Ahud came vnto hym, & in a ſommer parler whych he had, ſate he hym ſelf alone, and Ahud ſayd: I haue a meſſage to thee from God. And he aroſe oute of his ſeate. And Ahud put forthe hys lefte hand, and toke the dagger from his ryght thigh, and thruſt it into his belly, and the hafte wente in after the blade. And the fatte cloſed the haft, ſo that he myghte not drawe the dagger out of his bellye, but the dyrte came out. Ahud gate hym out at a poſterne doore, and ſhutt the doores of the par-ler about hym, and locked them. Whē he was gone out, his ſeruants came, & whā they ſaw ẏ the dores of the par-lor were locked, they ſayde: Peradu-enture he couereth his feete in his ſommer chamber. And they taried til they were aſhamed, and behold: ſeyng he opened not the doores of the par-lour: they toke a key, & opened theim. And beholde, theyr Lorde was fallen downe dead on the earth. And Ahud eſcaped (whyle they taried) & was gone beyond, to the place of the grauē ymages, and eſcaped into Seirath. And when he was come, he blewe a trompet in mount Ephraim. And the children of Iſrael went downe with him from the hyll, and he went before them. And he ſaid vnto them: Folow me: for the Lord hath deliuered your ennemies the Moabites into youre hand. And they deſcended after hym, and toke the paſſages of Jordan, to-ward Moab, and ſuffred not a manne to paſſe ouer. And they ſlewe of the Moabites the ſame tyme, bypon a tenne thouſand menne, whych were all fatte, and meane of warre, and there eſcaped not a man. So Moab was ſubdewed that daye, vnder the hande of Iſraell: and the lande had reſte foure ſcore yeares. After hym was Samgar, the ſonne of Anath, whiche ſlewe of the Philiſtins. vi. hundred mē with an oxe goade and deliuered Iſ-raell alſo.

AND the childzen of Israel began agayne to doo wyckedly in the syght of the LORD, when Ahud was dead. And the lozd sold them into the hãd of Jabin king of Canaan, that reygned in Hazoz, whose captayne of warre was called Sisara, whyche dwelte in Haroseth of the Gentiles. And the childzen of Israell cryed vnto the Lozde: foz he had nyne hundzed charettes of yzon, and twentye yeares he troubled the chylderne of Israell verye sore. And Deboza a Pzopheteſſe, the wyfe of Lapidoth, Judged Israell the same tyme, and the same Deboza dwelt vnder a paulme tree betweene Ramath and Bethel, in mount Ephzaim. And the childzen of Israel came vp to her foz iudgement. And she sent & called 5.b + Barak the sonne of Abinoam, oute of Kedes Nephthalim, and sayd vnto hym: Hathe not the Lozde God of Israel cõmaunded thee, to leade with fayze wozdes men to mount Thaboz, and take wt the ten thousand men, of ỹ childzen of Nephthalim, & of ỹ childzē of Zabulon? And I wyl bzyng vnto thee, to the + riuer Kyson, Sisara, the captaine of warre vnto Jabin, wyth his charettes, and his people, and wil deliuer hym into thyne handes. And Barak sayd vnto her: If thou wylte go with me, I will goe. But and yf thou wylt not come with me, I will not goe: She saide, I wil surely go with thee, but this iourney that thou takest, shall not be foz thine honor, foz the Lozd shall sell Sisara into ỹ hand of a womã. Deboza went with Barak to Kedes. And Barak called Zabulon and Nephthalim to Kedes, & led after hym tenne thousande men: and Deboza went vp with him. But ob Haber the Kenite (which was of the childzen of + Hobab the father in law of Moyses) remoued from the other Kenites, and pytched his tent vntyll the playne of Zaanaim, which is by Kedes. And they shewed Sisara, that Barack, the sonne of Abinoam was gone vppe to Mount Thaboz,

And Sisara gathered togyther all hys Charettes, euen nyne hunderde charettes of yzon, and all the people that were wyth hym frome of Haroseth of the Gentyles, vnto the ryuer Kyson. And Deboza sayd vnto Barak: Up, foz thys is the day, in whiche the LORDE hathe delyuered Sisara into thyne hande: Is not the Lozde gone oute before the? And so Barake went dowyne from mount Thaboz, and tenne thousand menne after hym. But the LORDE destroyed Sisara, and all hys charettes, and all hys hooste with the edge of the swearde, before Barake: soo that Sisara lyghted downe of hys charette, and fledde awaye on hys feete. But Barak followed after the charettes, and after the hooste, euen vnto Haroseth of the Gentyles. And all the hoste of Sisara fell vpon the edge of the sweard, and there was not a manne lefte. Howe be it Sisara fledde awaye on hys feete, to the Tente of Jaell, the wyfe of Haber the Kenite: foz there was peace betweene Jabin the kynge of Hazoz, and the househoulde of Haber the Kenyte. And Jaell wente oute to meete Sisara, and sayde vnto hym: Tourne in my Lozde, turne into me feare not. And when he hadde tourned in vnto her, into her tente, she couered hym with a mantell. And he sayde vnto her, Geue me a lytle water to dzynke, foz I am thirstie. And shee opened + a bottle of mylke, and Jud. 5.d gaue hym dzynke, and couered hym. D And agayn he said vnto her: stand in the dooze of the tente, and when any manne dothe comme to enquire of thee, whether there be any man here, thou shalte saye, Naye. Then Jaell Habers wyfe tooke a nayle of the Tente, and an hammer in her hande, and wente softely vnto hym, and smote the Nayle into the Temples of hys heade, and fastened it into the grounde, foz hee slombzed soore, and was werye: And soo he dyed. And beholde, as Baracke followed after Sisara, Jaell came out to mete hym, and and sayd vnto hym: Come and I wil shewe thee the man, whom thou seekest. And when he came into her tēt: Beholde, Sisara laye deade, and the nayles was in his temples. And soo God brought Jaben the king of Canaan into subiection that daye before the childzen of Jsrael. And the hand of the childzen of Jsraell prospered, and preuailed against Jabin the king of Canaan, vntyll they had broughte hym to nought.

¶ Then Deboza and Barack the sonne of Abinoam sang the same day saying: Prayse ye the Lord for the auengynge of Jsraell, and for the people that became soo willyng. Heare O yee kynges, hearken O ye princes: I euen I wyll sing vnto the Lozde, I wyll prayse the Lord God of Jsraell. Lord when • thou wentest oute of Seir, when thou departedst Deu.4.b oute of the fyelde of Edom, the earth trembled, and the heuens rayned: the cloudes also dropped water. • The Psal.97. mountaynes melted before the Lord, euen as dyd Sinai, before the Lozde God of Jsrael. In the dais of • Samgar the sonne of Anath, in the days of Jud.3.d Jud.4.c • Jaell the hye ways were vnoccupyed: And the runners of the pathes walked thzough by ways. The inhabiters of the townes were gon, they were gone in Jsraell, vntil I Deborа came vp, which cam vp a mother in Jsrael They chose new goddes, and then had they (the enemie) in the gates, though there wer shield & speare. ¶ There was not a shield oz speare sene among fozty thousand of Jsrael. My hart loueth the gouerners of Jsrael, and them that are willing among the people. O prayse ye the Lord. Speke ye that ride on faire asses, and that syt vppermost in iudgement, and walke by the ways. At the crying of the archers among the drawers of water, there shall they speake of the righteousnes of the Lord, his righteousnes in the vnfenced places of Jsrael: then shall the people of the Lord go downe to the gates. Vp Deboza vp, get thee vp, and singe a song: • Arise Barac, Jud.4 and leade the captiuitie captiue, thou sonne of Abinoam. Then shall they that remayne, haue dompnion of the prowdest of the people of (Jabin:) The Lord shall for my sake haue dominion ouer the myghtie. Out of • Ephraim was there a rote of theim Jud.5 against Amelech, and after thee Benjamin amōg thi people. Out of Machir came rulers, and out of Zabulon they that gouerne the pen of the writer. And of Jsachar, there were princes with Deboza, Jsachar also & Barac were sent on their fete into the valey, whan in the departyng awaye of Ruben there were great men, & wise of heart: • Why abodest thou among ¶ shepe foldes, to heare the bleatynges ¶ of the flockes, and to separate thy self awaye with greate men, and wyse of hert. Gilead also abode beyond Jordan: and why dothe Dan remayne in ships: Aser continued on the sea shore and taried in his decayed places. But the people of Zabulon haue ieoparde theyr lyues euen vnto the death, lyke as dyd Nephthalim in the hye places of the fielde. The kynges camme and fought, then fought the kings of Canaan in Thannah, by the waters of Megiddo, and wan no money. They fought from heauen, euen the starres in their courles fought against Sisera. The riuer of Cyson remoued the, that auncient ryuer, the riuer Cyson: My soule shall treade (hym) downe mightily. Then wer the horse hooles D smitten a sunder, by the means of the prawnsynges that their mightie men made. Curse ye the Citie of Meros, (sayd the aungell of the Lozde) curse the inhabitours thereof, because they came not to helpe the Lozde, to helpe the Lozde wyth thy mighty. Jael the wyfe of Haber, the Kenite, shall ber blessed aboue other womenne, blessed shal she be aboue other women in the tēt. • He asked water, and she gaue hym mylke, she brought foorth butter in a lozdely dyshe. • She put her Ju hande to the nayle, and her ryghte Ju hande hand e to the smythes hammer: wyth the hammer smote she Sisera, and smote his heade, wounded hym, and pearsed his tempples. He bowed hym downe at her fete, he fell downe, and laye styll: At her feete he bowed hym downe, and fell. And when he hadde sonke down he lay still desolate. The mother of Sisera loked out at a windowe, and cried thorowe the latisse: why is his charet so long a cōming? why tary the wheles of his cartes? All the wise ladies answered her, ye and her owne wordes answered her selfe. Surely they haue founde, they deuide the spoiles: euery man hath a damsell or two: Sisera hath a praye of diuers coloured garmentes, euen a pray of raiment died with sondry colours, & that are made of nedle worke: raiment of diuers colors, and of nedle worke which is mete for hym that is chiefe in distributyng of the spoyles. So perish al thyne enemies: O lord, but they that loue hym, let them be as the son whan he ryseth in his myght. And the land had rest forty yeres.

The. vi. Chapter.

AND the chyldren of Israell *cōmitted wickednes in the syght of the Lorde. And the Lorde delyuered them into the hands of Madian seuen yeres. And the hand of Madian preuailed against Israel, and because of the Madianites, the chyldren of Israel made them dennes in the mountayns and caues & strong holdes. And when Israel had sowē, the Madianites, the Amalechites, & they of the east countrey came vp together against them: and pitched their tentes against them, and destroied the encrease of the earthe, euen tyll thou come vnto Azah: and left no sustināce for Israell, neyther sheye, oxe or asse: for they went vp, they and their cattel and came with their tentes as a multitude of grethoppers: so that bothe they and also their camels were with out numbre. And they entred into the land to destroy it. And so was Israel exceadyng impouerished in the sighte of the Madianites, and cried vnto the Lorde. And whenne the chylderne of Israell cryed vnto the Lorde because of the Madianites, the Lord sent vnto theim a Prophete, whyche sayde vnto theym: Thus sayethe the Lorde God of Israell: I fet you frome Egypte, and brought you oute of the house of bondage, and I ryd you out of the hande of the Egyptians, and out of the hande of all that oppressed you, and caste theym oute before you, and gaue you theyr lande. And I said vnto you: I am the Lord your God, * feare not the gods of the Ammorites, in whose lande you dwell. But you haue not obeyed my voyce. And the Angell of the Lorde came, and sat vnder an Oke, whyche was in Ephrah, that pertayned vnto Joas the father of the Eserites. And hys son Gedeon presed oute wheate oute of the eares in a presse, to hyde it frome the Madianites: and the aungell of the Lorde appeared vnto hym, and sayde: The Lorde is with thee, thou C wyghtie man of warre. And Gedeon answered hym: Oh my Lorde, if the Lorde bee wyth vs, why is all thys comme vppon vs? ye and where bee all his myracles, whiche our fathers tolde vs of, and sayd? Dydde not the Lorde bryng vs out of Egypt? But nowe the Lord hath forsaken vs, and delyuered vs into the handes of the Madianites. And the Lorde looked vppon hym, and sayde: Goe hence in this thy myghte, and thou shalt delyuer Israell oute of the handes of the Madianites: Haue not I sent thee? And he answered hym: Oh Lorde, wherewyth shall I saue Israell? Beholde, my kynredde is poore in Manasses, and I am lyttel in my fathers house. The Lorde sayde vnto hym: I wyll be with thee: and thou shalt smyte the Madianites, as they were but one man. And he answered hym: Oh, yf haue found grace in thy syght, than shewe me a signe, that it is thou that talkest wyth mee. Departe not hence, vntyll I come agayn vnto thee, and tyll I bryng myne offryng.

fering, and haue set it before thee. And he said: I will tary vntill thou come again. And he said: I will tary vntil thou come agayn. And Gedeon went D in, and made redy a kid, and swete cakes of an Epha of floure, and put it with the flesshe in a basket, and put the brothe in a potte, and broughte it out vnto him vnder the Oke, and presented it. And the angell of God said vnto him: Take the flesh & the swete cakes, and lay theim vpon this rocke, and powre out the broth. And he did so. Than the angell of the Lord put forth the end of the staffe that he helde Jud.13. sayd: Alas, O Lord God, ✱ haue I therfore sene an aungell of the Lorde face to face, that I should dye? And ỹ Lorde saide vnto hym: Peace be vnto E the, feare not, thou shalt not die. Thã Gedeon made an aultare there vnto the Lorde, and called it: The Lord of peace. And vnto this day it is yet in Ephrath, that perteineth vnto the father of the Eserites. And it fortuned that the same nyght the Lord sayd vnto hym: take a yonge bullocke out of thy fathers droue, and an other of vii. yeares old, and destroy the aultare of Baal, that thy father hath, and cutte downe the groue that is by it, & make an aultar vnto the Lord thy God vpon the top of this rocke in a conuenient place. And take the second bullocke, and offer burnt sacrifice vppon the wood of the groue, whiche thou shalt cut downe. Than Gedeon toke ten men of his seruantes, and dyd as the Lorde badde him. But because he F durst not doo it by day for feare of his fathers household & of the men of the citie, he dyd it by nyghte. And when the men of the citie were vp early in the mornyng: Beholde, the aultar of Baal was broken, and the groue cut downe that was by it, and the second bullocke offered vpon the aulter that was made. And they sayde one to an other: who hath done this thing: and when they enquered and asked, they sayd: Gedeon the sonne of Joas hath done this thyng. Then the menne of the citie sayd vnto Joas: Bryng out thy sonne, that he may dye, because he hath destroyd the aulter of Baal, and cut downe the groue that was by it. And Joas saide vnto all that stode by hym: Wyll ye pleade Baals cause? or will ye be his defenders? he that hath medled against him, let him die or the morning. If he be a God, let hym be auenged of hym that caste down his aulter. And from that daye was Ge-G deon called, Jerobaal: because his father had said: Let Baal be auenged of hym, that hath broken downe his alter. All the Madianites therfore, and the Amalekites, and they of the east, were gathered togyther, and wente and pytched in the valey of Jesrael: but the spirite of the Lord came vpon Iud.

Gedeon. ✱ And he blewe a trompet, Iud. and called ✱ Abiezer to followe hym, and sent messengers throwe out all Manasses, and called them, whyche also dyd followe hym. And he sente messengers vnto Aser, Zabulon, and Nephthalim, and they came to mete hym. And Gedeon sayde vnto God: Wylte thou saue Israell in my hand, as thou hast sayd: Beholde, I wyll put a fleece of wolle in the threshyng place. And if the dewe comme on the fleece onely, and it be drye vppon all earthe beside, then shall I bee sure, that thou wylte saue Israell by my hande, as thou saydest. And it came to passe. For he rose vp earely on the morowe, and thrust the fleece together, and wrong the dewe therout, and filled a bolle of water: and Ge-Ge. deon sayde agayne vnto God: Be not angrye with me, that I speake ones more. For I will proue ones agayne by the fleece. Let it be dry onely vpon the fleece, and dewe vppon all the grounde. And God dydde so that same nyght: For it was drye vppon the fleece onely, and there was dewe

A 8. g Then Jerobaal (otherwise called Gedeon, and all the people that were with him, rose vp early, and pitched beside the welle of Harad, so that the hoste of the Madianites were on the Northside of the Rock, that boweth towarde the valleye. And the Lorde sayd vnto Gedeon: The people that are with thee, are to manye for me to geue the Madianites into theyr handes, leste Israell make theyr vaunte agaynst me and say: Myne owen hand hath saued me. Now therfore make proclamation in the eares of the peo-

B and there aboade ten thousande. And Lorde sayd vnto Gedeon: the people are yet to many, bringe them downe vnto the water, and I wyll try them vnto thee there. And of whom I say vnto thee, This shall goe with thee, the same shall goe with thee. And of whom soeuer I say vnto thee, This shall not go with thee, the same shall not go. So he brought downe ỹ people vnto the water, & ỹ Lord said vnto Gedeon: As many as lappe the water with theyr tonges, as a dog dothe, them put by theym selues, and so doo them that kneele downe vppon theyr knees to drynke. And the numbre of theym that put theyr handes to theyr mouthes, and lapped, were. iii. hundred men. But all the remnant of the people kneled down vpō their knees to drinke water. And the Lord sayde vnto Gedeon: By these. iij. hundred men that lapped water, wyll I saue you: and deliuer the Madianites in-C to thyne hande. And let all the other people go euery man vnto his place. They therfore of the people toke victayles with them, & their trompets. And he sent all the rest of Israel, euery mā vnto his tent, & comforted those thre hundred with hym. And ỹ hoste of Madian was benethe hym in a valey. And it fortuned ỹ the same night the Lord sayde vnto hym: Aryse, get thee downe vnto the hoste, for I haue deliuered it into thine hand. But and if thou feare to goe downe, then goe thou and Pharah thy ladde down to the hoste, and thou shalt hearken what they say, and so shall thine handes be stronge, to go downe vnto the hoste. Then went he down, & Pharah his lad, euen hard vnto the mē of armes, that were in the hoste. And the Madianites, the Amalekites, and all they of the East, lay along in the valey, lyke a multitude of grashoppers, & their camels were without numbre, euen as ỹ sand by the sea side in multitude. And whan Gedeon was come: Beholde, there was a man that tolde a dreame vnto hys neyghbor, and said: D Beholde, I dreamed a dreame, & me thought ỹ a lofe of barly bread tōbled into the hoste of Madian, and cam vnto a tent, and smote it that it fell, and ouerturned it, that the tent lay alōg. And his felowe answered and sayde: This is nothing els saue the sweard of Gedeon, ỹ son of Joas, a mā of Israel: for into his hand hath god delyuered Madian, and all the hoste. When Gedeon heard ỹ telling of ỹ dreame, and the interpretation of the same, he worshipped, & retourned vnto ỹ hoste, of Israel: and said: Vp, for the Lorde hath deliuered into your hād, the hoste E of Madian. And he deuided the three hūdred mē into thre cōpanies, & gaue euery man a trōpet in his hand, with an empty pitcher, and lampes therin, and said vnto them: Loke on me, & do likewise, that when I come to ỹ syde of the hoste, euen as I doo, so do you: when I blowe with a trompet, and all that are with me, blowe ye with trōpets also on euery syde of the hoste, and saye: Here is the sweard of the Lorde & of Gedeon. And so Gedeon, and the three hundred men that were with him, came vnto the syde of the hoste in the beginnyng of the middle watch, & reised vp the watchmē. And aboute the hoste. And they within the hoste, ranne, and cryed, and fled.

And the three hundreth blewe with ¶ The .viij. Chapter.

A Nd the men of Ephraim said vnto hym: why haste thou serued vs thus, that thou cal ledst vs not, whenne thou wentest to fyght with the Madianites: & they chyde with hym a good, (and had almoste doone hym violence.) And he sayde vnto them: what dede haue I doone ilke vnto yours? Is not a cluster of Ephraim better, than the wyne harueste of Abiezer? God hath delyuered into your handes the Lordes of Madiã, Oreb and Zeb. And what was I able to doe ilke as you haue done? And then their spirites abated from of hym, when he had sayde that.
And Gedeon came to Iordan to passe ouer, he and the three hundred menne that were with hym, verye fainte and yet followed the chace. And he sayd vnto the menne of Socoth geeue I praye you lakes of bread vnto the peo ple that followe me: for they be faintye that I may followe after Zebath, and Zalmona kinges of Madian. And the Lordes of Socoth sayde: are the han-des of Zebath and, Zalmona nowe in thyne handes, that wee shoulde gene breade vnto thyne armye? Gedeon sayde, therefore when the Lorde hath deliuered Zebath, and Zalmona into myne hande, I will teare the flesshe of you with the thornes of the wildernes and with briers. And he wente vp thence to Phanuel [illegible] spake vnto them [illegible] wyse. And the men of Phanuel answered him as did ỹ mẽ of Socoth. And he said also vnto ỹ mẽ of pha nuel: when I come agayne in peace, I will breake downe thys towre. Zebath and Zalmona were in Carkar, and their hostes with theym, vppon a xv. thousaunde men, whiche were all that were lefte of all the hostes of thẽ of the Easte: For there was slayne a hundred and twentie thousande men that drewe swordes. And Gedeon wente throwgh theim that dwelte in tabernacles on the East syde of No-bah and Iehabah, and smote the hoste: for the hoste dyd cast no perylles. And when Zebah and Zalmona fledde, he followed after them, and toke the two kynges of Madian, Zebath and Zal-mona, and discomforted all the hoste.
And Gedeon the sonne of Joas retourned from battell, afore the sonne was downe, and caught a ladde of the men of Socoth, and enquyred of him And he wrote him of the Lordes and Elders of Socoth. lxxvij. men. And he came vnto the menne of Socoth, and sayde: Beholde here I haue Zebath and Salmona, with whyche ye dydde cast me in the teeth, sayinge: are

the handes of Zebath and Zalmona already in thyne hand, that we should geue bread vnto thy fayntye men? And he toke the elders of the Cytye, and thornes of the wildernesse and breers, and made the men of Secoth to fele them. And he brake downe the tower of Phanuell, and slewe the men of the citye. And then sayde he vnto Zebath and Zalmona, what maner of menne were they whom ye slewe at Thabor? and they answered: the likenesse of thee and them is all one, euen after the fashion of the chyldren of a kyng. And he sayd: they were my brethren, euen my mothers chyldren. As truly as the Lorde lyueth yf ye had saued their lyues, I wolde not slaye you. And he sayde vnto Jether hys eldest sonne: vp and slaye them. But the lad drue not his sweard, for he feared, because he was yet yonge. Then zebath and zalmona sayde: Ryse thou, and fall vpon vs: for as the man is, so is hys strength. And Gedeon arose and slewe zebath and zalmona, and toke away the ornaments, ẏ were on their camels neckes. Then the men of Israell sayd vnto Gedeon: Raigne thou ouer vs, both thou, thy sonne, and thy sonnes sonne, for thou haste delyuered vs oute of the hande of Madian. And Gedeon sayde vnto them: I wyll not raygne ouer you, nether shal my chyld raygne ouer you, but the Lorde shall raigne ouer you. And agayne Gedeon sayde vnto them: I wold desyre a certayne requeste of you, euen that you woulde geue me euerye man the earynges of hys praye. For they had golden earynges, because they were Ismaelites. And they answered: we wyll geue them. And they spredde a mantell, and dyd caste there in euerye man the earynges of hys praye: and the wayghte of the golden earynges that he required, was a thousand and seuen hundred sicles of gold, beside cheynes, pommaunders and purple rayment that was on the kynges of Madian, and beside the chaynes, that were about their camels neckes. And Gedeon made an Ephod therof, and put it in hys citye Ephrah. And all Israell went a whoryng after it, in the same place, whiche thynge betame a ruyne vnto Gedeon and to his house. Thus was Madian brought low before the chyldren of Israel, so that they lyft vp their heades no more. And the country was in quietnes fortye yeares in the dayes of Gedeon. And Jerobaall the sonne of Joas went, and dwelt in his owne house. And Gedeon had .lxx. sonnes of hys bodye begotten, for he had many wyues. And hys concubine that was in Sichem, bare hym a sone also, whose name he called Abimelech And Gedeon the sonne of Joas dyed, in a good age, and was buryed in the sepulcher of Joas hys father, euen in Ephrath, that pertaineth vnto the father of the Ezrites. But it fortuned, that as sone as Gedeon was dead, the chyldren of Israell turned away and went a whoryng after Baalim, and made a couenaunte with Baal to be their God, and the chyldren of Israell thoughte not on the Lorde their God whiche had deliuered them out of the handes of all thair enemyes on euerye side. Neyther shewed they mercye on ẏ house of Jerobaal, otherwyse called Gedeon, accordyng to all the goodnes which he had shewed vnto Israell.

The .ix. Chapter.

ABimelech the sonne of Jerobaall wente to Sichem, vnto his mothers brethrē, and communed with them, and with all hys mothers fathers kynred, saying: saye I pray you, in the eares of all the enhabitours of Sichem: whether is better for you, that all the sonnes of Jerobaall (which are .lxx. persons) raygne ouer you, eyther that one raygne ouer you? Remember, that I am of youre bone, and of your flesshe. And hys mothers brethren spake of him in the audience of the men of Sichem all these wordes, and their hartes were moued to folowe Abimelech. For they sayde: he is our brother. And they gaue hym .lxx. peces of syluer out of the temple of Baal Berith, wherwith Abimelech hyred vayne and lyght persons which went with hym. And he wente vnto 2par.21a hys fathers house at Ephrah, & slewe all hys brethren, the sonnes of Ierobaal, euen .lxx. persons with one stone.

Notwithstandyng, yet Joathan the yongest sonne of Jerobaal escaped, for he hyd hym selfe. And all the men of Sichem gathered together, and all the house of Mello, and came and made Abimelech kyng in the playne, where the great stone was by Sichem. And when they told it to Joathan, he wēt and stode in the toppe of mount Garizim, and lyfte vp his voyce, and cryed, and sayde vnto them: Herken vnto me B you men of Sechim, that God maye 4Esd.4b herken vnto you. The trees wente forth to anoynt a kyng ouer them, and sayd vnto the Olyue tree: raigne thou ouer vs. But the olyue tree sayd vnto them: shoulde I leaue my fattenes, which both gods & men prayse in me,
and go to be promoted ouer the trees?
And the trees sayde to the fygge tree: come thou and be kynge ouer vs. The fygge tree answered them: shoulde I forsake my swetnes, & my good fruite, and go to be promoted ouer the trees?
Then sayde the trees vnto the vyne:
come thou and be kynge ouer vs. The vyne sayde vnto them: should I leaue my wyne wherby I cheare both gods and men, and go to be promoted ouer the trees? Then sayd all the trees vnto the firre bushe: come thou & raygne ouer vs. And the firre bushe sayd vnto the trees: if it be true that ye will anoynt me kynge ouer you, then come, and put your trust vnder my shadow.
If no, the fire come out of the fir bush, and wast the Ceder trees of Libanon.
C Nowe therfore, if ye do truly and vn-corruptlye, to make Abimelech kynge: and if ye haue dealte well with Jerobaal and his house, and haue done vnto hym, accordynge to the deseruynge of hys handes, iudge ye. For euen he (my father) fought for you, and aduen tured hys lyfe, and rydde you oute of the hande of Madian. And ye are ry-sen vp agaynst my fathers house thys daye, and haue slayne hys chyldren, euen, lxx. persons with one stone, and haue made Abimelech the sonne of his mayde seruaunte, kynge ouer the men of Sichem, because he is your brother if ye then haue dealt truely and purely with Jerobaal and with hys house thys daye then reioyce ye with Abimelech, and let hym reioyce with you.
But if you haue not dealt truely, then I praye God a fire maye come out of Abimelech, and consume the men of Sichem and the house of Mello. And that ther may come a fire from among the men of Sichem, and oute of the house of Mello, and consume Abime-lech. And Joathan ranne awaye and fledde, and went to Beer and dwelte there, for feare of Abimelech hys brother. When Abimelech had raygned three yere, God sent a spyrit of hate be-twene Abimelech, and the men of Si-chem. And the Citizens of Sichem rayled vpon Abimelech, and wyshed that the wickednesse done to the lxx. sonnes of Jerobaal myght come on him, and that God wold lay the blood of them vnto Abimelech their brother which slewe them, and vpon the other men of Sichem which ayded hym in the kyllynge of hys brethren. And the citizens of Sichem set men to laye awayte for him in the top of the moun-taynes, which men (whyle they taried for hys comynge) robbed all that came a longe the way by them. And it was tolde Abimelech. And Gaal the sonne of Abed came with hys brethr. and they gat them to Sichem. And the men of Sichem put their confidence in hym. And they went oute into the fieldes, and gathered in their grapes, and trode them, and made merye, and wente into the house of their goddes, and dyd eate and drynke, and cursed Abimelech. And Gaal the sonne of A-bed sayde: what is Abimelech? & what is Sichem? that we shoulde serue hym? Is he not the sonne of Jerobaal? and Zebul is hys officer? Serue suche as come of Hemor the father of Sichem, for what reason is it that we shoulde serue hym? Would God thys people were vnder my hand then wold I take Abimelech out of the way.

And

And he spake against Abimelech: make thine hoste greater, and go out. And whē Zebul the ruler of the citye hard the wordes of Gaal the sonne of Abed, he was wroth, & sent messengers vnto Abimelech priuely, saying: Beholde, Gaal the sonne of Abed and hys brethren be come to Sichem: and beholde they set the citie agaynst thee. Nowe therfore vp by nyght, thou and all the people that is with the, & lye in wayte in the field. And rise early in the morninge as soone as the sunne is vp, and fall vpon the citie. And if he & the people that is with hym, come out agaynst the, do to him what thine handes shall be able. And Abimelech rose vp, and all the people ỹ were with him by night. And they layde a wayte agaynst Sichem in foure companyes. And Gaal the sonne of Abed went out, and stode in the entrynge of the gate of the citie. And Abimelech rose vp, and the folke that were with him, frō laying awayt. And whē Gaal saw the people he said to Zebul: beholde there come people downe frō the top of the mountaynes. And zebul said vnto him: the shadowe of the hyls seme men vnto the (and by that errour arte thou deceaued.) And Gaal answered agayne, and sayde: see, ther come folke downe by the myddle of the land, & another company come alonge by the playne of the charmars. Then sayde zebul vnto him: where is now thy mouth that sayde: what felow is Abimelech that we shoulde serue him? Is not this the people that thou hast despised? Go out nowe and fight with them. And Gaal went out before the citizens of Sichem, & fought with Abimelech. And Abimelech chased hym, that he fledde before him (and he drove him into the Citye) and manye were ouerthrowē and wounded, euen vnto the entring of the gate. And Abimelech dwelt at Arumah. And zebul thrust out Gaal and hys brethren, that they should not dwell in Sichem (and) charged them not to tarye therin. And vp the morowe it happened that the people went onte into the fielde. And thē tolde Abimelech. And he tooke the people, and deuided them into three companyes, and layd awayt in the fieldes, and looked, and behold, the people were come out of the Citie, and he ran vpon them, and slue them. And Abimelech, and the companyes that were wyth him reached further, and stode in the entring of the gate of the city. And the two other companyes ran vpon all the people that were in the feldes, & slewe thē. And when Abimelech had fought agaynst the citye all that daye, he toke it, and slewe the people that was therin, and destroyed the citye and lodged salt thorowout it. And when all the men of the towre of Sichem hearde that, they entred into a strong holde of the house of their God Baal berith, (where they made a bonde with hym, and therof did the place take his name, which place was exceadyng stronge.) And it was tolde Abimelech, that all the men of the towre of Sichem were gathered together, and Abimelech gat him to mounte zelmon, both he and all the people that were with him, & toke axes with him and cut downe bowes of trees, and toke them and bare them on his shoulder, & sayd vnto the folcke that were with hym: what ye haue seene me do, spede youre selues, and do lyke wyse as I haue done. And all the men that were amonge the people, cut downe bowes, and folowed Abimelech, and put them into the holde, and sette the holde afier by them: so that (with smoke and fire) all the men of the towre of Sichem were slayne, beyonde thē sayde men and wemen. Then went Abimelech to Thebez, & besieged it, and toke it. But there was a stronge towre within the citie, and thyther ranne al the men and wemen, and all the chefe that were in the citie, and shutte it to them, and gat them vp by the bulwarkes, to the toppe of the towre. And Abimelech came vnto the towre and fought against it, and went harde vnto the doore of the towre to set it on fyre. And a certayne woman cast a peece of a mylstone vpon hys head, and all to brake hys brayne pan. Then Abimelech called hastely vnto the yonge man that bare hys harneſſe, the men of Iſraell ſawe that Abime-lech was dede, they departed euery man vnto hys owne houſe. And thus

¶ The .x. Chapter.

¶ The .xi. Chapter.

ANd there was one Jephthah a Gileadite, a ſtronge man the ſonne of an harlot: and Gilead begat Jephthah. And Gileades wyfe bare hym ſonnes, whiche when they were come to age chaſte oute Jephthah, and ſayde vnto hym, thou ſhalt not enherite in our fathers houſe, for thou art the ſonne of a ſtraunge woman. Then Jeththah fledde from hys brethrenne, and dwelte in the lande of Tob. And there gathered idle and theuiſhe men to Jephthah, and went out with him. And it chaunced in pro-ceſſe of tyme that the chyldren of Ammon made warre agaynſt Iſrael. And when the chyldren of Ammon fought thus agaynſt Iſrael, the elders of Gilead went to fet Jephthah oute of the lande of Tob (to helpe them) and ſayd vnto hym, come and be our captayne that we may fyght with the chyldren of Ammon. Jephthah answered the elders of Gilead: dyd not ye hate mee and expel me out of my fathers house: how happeneth it then, that you come vnto me now in tyme of your tribulacion? And the Elders of Gilead sayde vnto Jephthah: Therefore we turne agayne to thee nowe, that thou mayest go with vs, and fight against the chyldren of Ammon and be our head ouer all the inhabitoures of Gilead. And B Jephthah sayd vnto the elders of Gilead: If ye bryngе me home agayne to fyghte with the chyldren of Ammon, then if the Lord deliuer thē before me, shall I be your heade? And the elders of Gilead sayd to Jephthah: the Lorde be witnesse betwene vs, yf we do not accordyng to thy wordes. Then Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead. And the people made him head and ruler ouer them. And Jephthah rehearsed all his wordes before the Lorde in Mizpa. And Jephthah sente messengers vnto the kynge of the chyldren of Ammon saying: what halte thou to do with me, that thou arte come agaynst me, to fight in my land? The kynge of the chyldren of Ammō answered vnto the messengers of Jephthah: Because Israel toke away my land, when they came out of Egipt: euen from Arnon vnto Jabok, and vnto Jordan. Now therefore restore those landes agayne with fayre meanes. And Jephthah sent messengers againe vnto the king of the chyldren of Ammon: & said vnto hym: thus sayeth Jephthah: * Israell toke not away the lande of Moab, nor the lande of the chyldren of Ammon.

b But when Israel came out of Egypt and walked thorowe the wildernesse, euen vnto the red sea they came to Cades * and sente messengers vnto the c kynge of Edom, sayinge: lette me (I pray thee) go thorow thy lande. But the kynge of Edom wolde not agree thereto. And in lyke maner they sente vnto the kynge of Moab, but he wold not consent. And so Israell abode styll in Cades. And then they went alonge thorowe the wildernesse, and compassed the lande of Edom, and the lande of Moab, and came along by the easte syde of the land of Moab, and pytched on the other syde of Arnon, and would not come within the coaste of Moab: * for Arnon was the vtmoste border of Moab. And then Israel * sent messengers vnto Sehon, kyng of the Amorites, and kynge of Helbon, and sayde vnto hym: Let vs passe thorowe thy lande vnto oure owne countrey. But Sehon consented not to Israell, that he shoulde go thorowe hys coaste: but gathered all hys people together, and pytched in Jazah and foughte with Israell. And the Lord God of Israel deliuered Sehon and al his folke into the handes of Israell. And so Israell smote them and conquered al the land of the Ammorites, the enhabiters of the sayde countrey. And they cōquered all the coastes of the Ammorites, from Arnon vnto Jabok, & frō the wildernesse vnto Jordā. So now, seyng the Lord God of Israel hath caste out the Amorites before hys people Israell, shouldest thou possesse the land? May but what people Camos thy god dryueth out that lande possesse thou. Euē so whatsoeuer nacion the Lorde oure God expelleth, that land ought we to enioye. * And arte thou better then Balac the sonne of Zephor kynge of Moab? dyd he stryue with Israell or E fyght agaynst them, all the whyle Israell dweit in Helbon and her townes, in Aroer and her townes, and in al the cities ẏ be along by the coastes of Arnon, three hundred yeares? why dyddest thou not recouer them in all that space? Wherfore, I haue not sinned agaynst the. But thou doest me wrong to warre agaynst me. The Lord therfore whiche is a Judge, be Judge this daye betwene the chyldren of Israell and the chyldren of Ammon.
Howbeit, the kyng of the chyldren of Ammon, harkened not vnto the wordes of Jephthah, which he sent hym. Then the spyrete of the Lord came vpon Jephthah. And he passed ouer to Gilead and to Manasses, and came to Maspha that lyeth in Gilead, & from thence vnto the chyldren of Ammon.

F And Jephthah vowed a vow vnto the Num.6d Lord, and sayd: * If thou shalt deliuer the children of Ammon into my hands then that thynge that commeth out of the dores of my house against me, whē I come home in peace, from the chyldren of Ammon, shalbe the Lords, and I will offer it vp for a burntofferyng.
And so Jephthah went vnto the children of Ammon to fyghte with them.
And the Lord deliuered them into his handes. And he smote them from Aro-cities: and so forth to the playne of the vineyardes with an exceadyng greate slaughter. And thus the chyldrene of Ammon were broughte vnder before the chyldren of Israell. When Jephthah came to Jazphah vnto his house, se, his daughter came out against him, with tymbrelles and daunses, whyche was his only child: so that beside her, G he had nether sonne nor daughter. And when he sawe her, he rent his clothes and sayd: Alas my daughter, thou hast brought me lowe, and art one of them that troubleth me. For I haue opened my mouth vnto the Lorde and can not go backe, and she sayde vnto hym: my father, yf thou haue opened thy mouth vnto the Lorde, then doo with me accordynge to it that proceded oute of thy mouth, for as much as the Lord hath auenged the (and geuen the victory) of thyne enemies the children of Ammon. And she said vnto her father: do this much for me: let me alone two monethes, that I may go down to the mountaines, & bewayle my virginitie I and my felowes. And he said go and he sent her away two monethes. And so she went with her companions, and lamented her maydenheade vpon the mountaynes. And after the end of two monethes she turned agayne vnto her father which dyd with her accordyng to his vowe which he had vowed, and she had knowen no man. And it grew to a custome in Israell. The daughters of Israell came yeare by yeare to lament the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite, foure dayes in a yere.

AND the men of Ephraim ga- I vnto Jephthah: * wherfore wentest Jud. thou to fyghte with the chyldrenne of Ammon, and dyddest not call vs to go with the? we wil therfore burne thine house vpon thee with fyre: and Jephthah sayd vnto them: I and my people of Ammon. And when I called you, Ammon. And the Lorde deliuered the into my handes. Wherfore then are ye come vpon me nowe, to fyghte with me? Jephthah therfore gathered together all the men of Gilead, and fought with the Ephraites. And the men of Gilead smote the Ephraites because I they sayd: Ye Gileadites are but runneagates of Ephraim among the Ephraites & the Manassites. More-ouer, the men of Gilead toke the passages of Jordan before the Ephraites.

And when those Ephraites that were escaped, sayde: let vs go ouer, then the men of Gilead sayde vnto them: Art thou an Ephraite? they sayd nay. Thē sayde they vnto him: then say: Schibboleth (which is by interpretation: an eare of corne.) And he sayde Sibbo-leth: for he coulde not so pronounce.
And then they toke hym, & slewe him at the passeges of Jordan. And there were ouerthrowen at that tyme of the Ephraites. xlii. M. And Jephthah iudged Israell .vi. yeare, and dyed, and was buried in one of the cities of Gilead. After thys man, iudged Israell one Abezan of Bethlehem, and he had xxx. sonnes and .xxx. daughters, whom he sent out, and toke .xxx. other in, for his sonnes. And when Abezan had iudged Israell .vii. yeare he dyed, and was buryed at Bethlehem. After him Elon a Zabulonite iudged Israell .x. yere, and Elon the Zabulonite dyed, and was buried in Aialon, in the coun trye of Zabulon. After him, Abdon the sonne sonne of Hellel a Pharatonite iudged Israel. And he had xl. sons, and thirty neuews, that rode on .lxx. asse coltes. And when Abdon the sonne of Hellel the Pharatonite had iudged Israell eyght yere he dyed, and was buried in Pharthon in the lande of Ephraim, in the mount of the Amalekites.

¶ The .xiii. Chapter.

1 AND the chyldren of Israel began agayne to committe wickednes in the syght of ✠ Lord. 10b *And the Lord deliuered them into the hands of the Philistines .xl. yere. And there was a man in Zaraah of the kynred of Dan, named Manoah, whose wyfe was barren, and bare not. And the Aungell of the Lord appeared vnto the woman, and sayde vnto her: Behold, thou art barren, and beareſt not: But thou shalt conceaue, and beare a 1.6a sonne. And nowe beware *that thou drynke no wyne, nor stronge drynke, neyther eate any vncleane thynge: for se, thou shalt conceaue and beare a son. 1b And there may no *raſor come on hys 7a head. For the lad shalbe an *abstayner vnto god, euen from his (infancie and from his) birth, And he shall begyn to deliuer Israel out of the handes of the Philistines. Then the wife came, and told her husband saying: a man of God came vnto me, and the fassion of hym was lyke the fassion of an Aungell of God, exceadyng fearful. But I asked 8 him not whence he was, neyther tolde 6c he me his name, but sayd vnto me *be- 1e hold thou shalt be with chylde & beare a sonne, and nowe drynke no wyne nor stronge drynke, neyther eate anye vncleane thynge: for the lad shalbe an abstayner to God, euen from hys (infancie and from hys) birth, to the daye of hys death. Then Manoah made intercession to the Lorde, and sayde: I pray the my Lord, let the men of God whiche thou sendeſt, come once more vnto vs, and teache vs what we shall do vnto the ladde when he is borne. and God hearde the voyce of Manoah, and the Aungell of God came agayne vnto the wyfe as she sat in the feelde. But Manoah her husbande was not with her. And the wife made haste and ranne, and shewed her husbande, and sayde vnto hym. Behold, the man appeared vnto me that came vnto me to daye. And Manoah arose and wente after hys wyfe, and came to the man, and sayde vnto hym: arte thou the manne that spakeſt vnto my wife? And he sayde: I am. Manoah sayde: nowe when thy sayinge is come to passe: what shalbe the maner of the chylde, and what shall he doo? And the Aungell of the Lorde sayde vnto Manoah: Thy wyfe muste abstayne from all that I sayde vnto her: she maye eate of nothyng that cometh of the vyne tree, nor drynke wyne or stronge drynke, nor eate any vncleane thynge. But muste obserue all that I bad her. Manoah sayde vnto the Aungell of the Lorde: we wyll kepe thee styll, vntyll *we haue made readye a Tob 12d kyd, and haue set it before the. And the Aungell of the Lorde sayde vnto Manoah: though thou make me abide. * I Gen. 18a wyll not eate of thy breade. And yf Tab 12b thou wylte offer a burnte offerynge, thou muſt offer it vnto the Lord. For Manoah wyſt not that it was an angell of the Lorde, And Manoah sayde agayne vnto the aungell of the Lorde: What is thy name, that when thy sayinge is come to passe, we maye do thee some worshyppe? And the aungell of the Lorde sayd vnto hym: *why askeſt Ge. 12.g D thou after my name, whiche is secrete. And so Manoah toke a kydde with a meatofferyng & offered it vpon a rocke vnto the Lorde. And the aungell dyd wonderously. Manoah and his wyfe lokynge vppon. And when the flame came vp toward heauen from the aulter, the angell of the Lord ascended vp in the flame of the aulter. And Manoah and his wyfe loked vpon it, and fell flat on their faces vnto the grounde. But the angel of the Lord did nomore apeare vnto Manoah and hys wyfe. And then Manoah knew that it was an angell of the Lorde, and sayde vnto hys wife *we shall surely dye, because Exo. 33d we haue sene god. But his wyfe sayd Judi. 6.c vnto him: If the Lord would kyll vs, he would not haue receaued a burnt-offrynge and a meateoffrynge of oure handes, nether would he haue shewed vs all these thynges, nor woulde nowe haue told vs any suche. And the wife bare a sonne, and called his name Samson. And the ladde grewe, and the Lorde blessed hym. And the spyze of the Lorde beganne to mone hym in the hoofte of Dan, betwene Zaraah and Estaol.

A Samson went downe to Thānath and sawe a woman in Thānath of ẏ daughters of ẏ Philistines, and he came vp, and tolde his father & his mother: and sayde: I haue sene a woman in Thamnath of the daughters of ẏ Philistines. And nowe geue me her to wyfe. Then his father and
Deu. 7. a mother sayde vnto him: • Is there neuer a woman amonge the daughters of thy brethren, and among all my people, but that thou muste goo, and take a wyfe of the vncircumcised Philystines? And Samson sayde vnto his father: geue me this woman, for shee pleaseth me wel. But his father and mother wist not that it was the Lordes doynge, and that he sought an occasion agaynste the Philistines, for at that tyme the Philistines raygned ouer Israell. Then wēt Samson and his father and his mother downe to B Thamnath, and came to the vineyardes of Thamnath. And behold, a yong (wood) lyon roared vpon hym. And the spryte of the Lorde came vpon him. And he tare hym, as he woulde haue rente a kydde, and yet had nothyng in his hande, neither tolde his father and mother what he hadde done. And he went downe, & talked with the woman, whych semed well fauoured in the eyght of Samson. And within a shorte space after, as he went thyther againe to take her to wyfe, he turned C oute of the way, to see the carkasse of the Lyon. And behoilde, there was a swarme of bees and honey, in the carkasse of the Lyon. And he toke of the honey in his handes, and went eating and came to his father and mother, and gaue theym also. And they didde eate. But he tolde not theim, that he had taken the honey out of the carkasse of the Lyon. And soo his father came vnto the woman and Samson made there a feast, for so vsed the yong men to do. And when they (the cytizens of that place) sawe hym, they brought .xxx. companions to be wyth hym. And Samson sayd vnto theim: I will nowe putte forthe a ryddle vnto you. And if you can declare it me within .vii. dayes of the feast, & fynde it out. I will geue you .xxx. shirtes, & xxx. chaunge of garmentes: But and yf you can not declare it me, then shal ye geue me .xxx. shertes, & xxx. chaūge of garmentes And they answered him put forth thy ryddle that we may heare it. And he sayde vnto theym: Oute of the eater came meate: and oute of the stronge came swetenes. And they cold not in three dayes expounde the ryddle. And when the seuenth day was come they sayde vnto Samsons wyfe: flater thyne husbande, (and perswade hym) that he may declare vs the ryddle least we burne thee and thy fathers house with fire. Haue ye called vs hither, to make vs beggers? And Samsons wife wept before him (complayned) and sayde: Surelye thou hatest me and louedst me not: for thou haste put forth a riddle: vnto the childzen of my folcke, and hast not told it me. And he sayde vnto her: Beholde, I haue not tolde it my father and my mother, and shall I tell it thee? And Samsons wife wepte before hym .vii. dayes, while the feast lasted. And the seuenth day he tolde her, because she lay so sore vpon hym. And she tolde it the chyldzen of her folke. And the men of the citie sayde vnto hym the seuenth day, before the sonne went downe. what is sweter then honey, and what is stronger then a Lyon? Then sayde he vnto them: If ye had not plowed in my cauſe, ye had not found out my riddle. And the spzit of the Lord came vpon hym. And he went down to Askalon, and slewe thirtie men of theim, & spoyled them, & gaue chaunge of garmentes mentes vnto thē which expounded ꝯ riddle. And he was wroth, and went vp to hys fathers houſe. But Samſous wyfe was geuen to one of hys companyons, that he had taken vnto hym.

1 AND it chaunced within a whyle after, euen in the tyme of wheate haruest, that Samſon viſited his wyfe with a kyd, ſayinge: I wyll go into my wife into the chamber: but her father wold not ſuffer him to goo in. And her father ſayde: I thought that thou haddeſt hated her, and therfore gaue I her vnto one of thy companions. Is not her yonger ſiſter fayrer thē ſhe? Take her in ſteade of the other, Samſō ſaid vnto thē: Nowe am I more blameles then the Philiſtines, & therefore wyll I do them diſpleaſure. And Samſon went out and caughte three hundred foxes, and toke firebrandes, and faſtened tayle to tayle, and put a firebrande in the myddes betwene two tayles. And whan he had ſet the brandes of fire, he ſent them out (that they might runne abroade, which went immedyately) into the ſtandyngt corne of the Philiſtines, and burnt vp both the reped corne, and alſo the ſtanding, wyth the vyneyardes and oliues. Then the Philiſtines ſayd: who hath done this 2 And it was told thē that Samſon the ſonne in lawe of the Thamnite, becauſe he had taken hys wyfe, and geuē her to his companion. And the Phyliſtines came vp and burnte her and her father with fire. And Samſō ſaid vnto them: Though ye haue done thys yet will I be auenged of you, & then I will ceaſe. And he ſmote thē legge and thigh with a mightie plague. And then he went and dweit in the caue of the rocke Etam. Then the Philiſtynes came vp, & pitched in Juda, and lay in a place, ꝯ was afterward called Lehi (that is a Jaw bone, wher their hoſt was ſcatered abroade.) And the men of Juda ſaid, why are ye come vp vnto vs? They aunſwered: to bynde Samſon are we come vp, and to do to hym as he hath done to vs. Then thre thouſande men of Juda went downe to the caue of the rocke Etam, and ſaid to Samſon: wotteſt thou not that the Philiſtenes are rulers ouer vs. wher fore thē haſt thou done thus vnto vs? He anſwered them, as they dyd vnto me ſo haue I done vnto theym. And they ſayde vnto hym agayne: we are come downe to bynde the, and to deliuer thee into the hande of the Philiſtines. And Samſon ſayd vnto them: ſweare vnto me (and promes me) that ye ſhall not fall vpon me your ſelues. They anſwered him, ſaying: No, but we wyll bynde thee, and delyuer thee vnto their hands: But we wil not kil thee. And they bounde hym with two newe cordes, and broughte hym from the rocke. And when he came to Lehi, the Philiſtines ſhowted againſt him. And the ſpyrete of the Lorde came vpon hym, and the cordes that were vppon hys armes, became as flaxe that was burnt with fier, for the bandes lowſed from of hys handes. And he founde a rottenne Jawe bone of an aſſe, and put fourth hys hande, and caught it, and ſlewe a thouſande men therwith. And Samſon ſayde: with the Jawe of an aſſe, haue I made heapes of them: with the Jawe of an aſſe haue I ſlaine a thouſandīe And whē he had lefte ſpeakynge, he caſt awaye the Jawe bone oute of hys hande, and called the place: Ramath Lehi (That is by interpretacion, the lyftyng vp of the Jawe bone.) And he was ſore athyrſte, and called on the Lorde, and ſayde: Thou haſte geuen thys greate victorye, in the hande of thy ſeruaunt. And nowe I muſte dye for thirſt, and fall vnto the hands of the vncircumciſed. But God brake a great toth that was in the Jawe, and ther came water therout. And when he had dronke, his ſpyrete came againe and he was refreſhed, wherefore the name therof is called vnto this daye, the well of the caller on, which came of the Jaw. And he iudged Iſraell in the dayes of the Philiſtines, twentye yeres.

The.xvi. Chapter.

Then went Samsō to Azath, and sawe there an harlotte and went in vnto her. And it was tolde the Azathites, saynge: Samson is come hyther. And they went about, and layde wayte for hym ther al night in ỹ gate of the citie and were still all the nyght, saying: in the morgnyng whan it is daye, we shal kyll hym. And Samson toke his rest tyll mydnyght, and arose at midnight and toke the dores of the gate of the citie, and the two side postes, and rente them of, with the barre and al, and put them vpon his shoulders, and caryed them vp to the top of an hill, that is before Hebron. And after this, it fortuned that by the ryuer of Sorek, he loued a womā, called Dalila, vnto whō came the Lordes of the Philistines, and sayd vnto her: perswade hym, and se wherin his greate strength lyeth, and by what meane we maye ouercōe hym that we may bynde hym, to bring hym vnder, and euery one of vs shall geue the elcuen hundred siluerlinges. And Dalila sayde to Samson: Oh, tell me where thy great strenth lyeth, and how thou mightest be bound, and brought vnder. Samson answered vnto her: If they bynde me with seuē grene withes that were neuer dryed, I shalbe weake as other menne. And then the LORDES of the Philystynes brought her seuen wythes that were yet greane and neuer dryed, and shee bound hym therewith. Notwithstandyng she had men lyinge in wayte with her in the chamber. And shee sayde vnto him: the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And immediately he brake the withes as a strynge of towe (that is twined) breaketh, when it fealeth fyre. And so hys strengthe was not knowen. And Dalila sayde vnto Samson: Se, thou hast mocked me, and tolde me lyes. Nowe therfore tell me, wherwith thou mightest be bound. He answered her: yf thou bind me with newe ropes that neuer were occupyed, I shall be weake, and as another manne. Dalila therefore toke newe ropes, and bounde hym therewith and sayde vnto him: the Philystines be vpon the Samson. And ther were lyers of wayte in the chamber, and he brake them from of his armes, as they had bene but a threde. And Dalila sayde vnto Samson, hitherto thou hast begyled me, and tolde me lyes: yet tell me, howe thou mightest be bounde. He sayde vnto her: If thou plantedst the.vii. lockes of my heade with an heare lace. And she fastened them with a nayle, and said vnto him: the Philistines be vpon the Samson And he awaked out of his slepe, & plucked awaye the nayle, that was in the plattynge with the heare lace. AND she sayde vnto him agayn: How canst thou saye that thou louest me when thyne hart is not ỹ me? behold, thou hast mocked me this three tymes, and hast not tolde me, wherein thy greate strength lyeth. And as she lay vpon hym with her wordes continually vexynge of hym, his soule was encombred euen vnto the death. And so he tolde her all his harte, and sayde vnto her: there neuer cam raser vpō mine headde, for I haue bene an abstaynar (that is to say consecrate) vnto God, euen from my mothers wombe: therfore whan I am shauen, my strength will goo from me, and I shall ware weake, and be lyke all other men. And when Dalila sawe that he had tolde her all hys heart, she sent and called for the Lordes of the Philistines, saying: come vp yet this once, for he hath shewed me all his hart. Then the Lords of the Philistines came vp vnto her, and brought the money in their handes. And she made him slepe vpon her knees, (and to lay hys head downe in her lappe) and she sent for a man, and he dyd shaue of the seuen lockes of his head, and beganne to vexe him, and his strength was gone frō hym And shee sayde: the Philistines be vppon the Samson. And he awoke oute of hys slepe, and sayde: I will go oute nowe as at other tymes before, and shake my selfe, and he wist not that the Lord was departed frō hym. But the Philistines stines toke him, and put out his eyes, and brought hym downe to Azath, & bound him with two fetters of brasse And he did grinde in the prison house howbeit the heare of his headde began to growe agayn after that he was shauen. Then the Lordes of the Philistines gathered them together, for to offer a solempne offeryng vnto Dagō their God, and to reioyce: for they said oure God hath deliuered Samson our enemie into our hands. And whē the people sawe hym, they praysed their God: for they sayde: our GOD hath deliuered into our hāds, our enemie, & destroyer of our cōtrey, which slue many of vs. And whē their harts were mery, it fortuned, that they said send for Samson that he maye make vs laughe. And they fet Samson out of the prison house, and he played before them, and they set hym betwene the pillers. And Samson sayde vnto the lad that led hym by the hand: sette me that I may touche the pillers, that the house stand vpon, and that I may leane to them. And the house was full of men and women. And there were all the Lordes of the Philistines. And there were vpon the rofe a thre thousand men and women, ỹ beheld while Samson played And Samson called vnto the Lorde, and sayde: O Lorde God, thinke vppon me, and strenthen me, at this time onely. O God that I may be auenged of the Philistines for my two eies. And Samson caught the two middle pillers, on whiche the house stode, & on which it was borne vp, the one in his ryghthande, and the other in his lefte, and sayde: my soule shall dye with the Philistines, and bowed them with all his myght. And the house fel vpon the Lordes, and vpon all the people, that were therein. And so the deade whych he slewe at hys death were more then they which he slewe in his lyfe. And then his brethren and all the house of hys father came downe, and toke hym vppe, and broughte hym & buryed him betwene Zarath and Estahol, in the buryinge place of Manoah hys father. And he iudged Israell twenty yeares.

The .xvii. Chapter.

THere was a man in mount Ephraim named Micah, and he sayd vnto his mother: the leuen hundred syluerlynges that were taken from thee, about which thou cursedst, and spakest it in mine eares. Beholde, the syluer is with me, I toke it away. And his mother sayd: blessed be thou my sonne, in the Lord. And when he had restored the leuen hundred syluerlynges to hys mother agayne, hys mother sayde: I vowed the syluer vnto the Lord of myne hande for thee my sonne: that thou shouldest make a grauen ymage and an ymage of metall. Nowe therefore, I wyll geue it thee agayne. And when he restored the money agayne vnto hys mother, hys mother toke two hundred siluerlynges, and gaue them to a goldsmyth, which made thereof a grauen ymage, and a ymage of metall, & it was in the house of Micah. And the man Micah had a temple of goddes, and made an Ephod and Theraphim, (That is to saye, a garment for the Priestе, and Idoles.) And filled the hand of one of hys sons which became hys priestе. In those dayes there was no kynge in Israell, but euerye man dyd that whiche was good in his owne eyes. And ther was a ponge man out of Bethlehem Juda of the kynred of Juda: whiche ponge manne was a Leuite, and soiourned there. And the man departed oute of the citie of Bethlehem Juda, to goo dwell where he coulde finde a conuenient place. And he came to mount Ephraim, to the house of Micah as he iourneied. And Micah sayd vnto him. whence commest thou? The Leuyte answered hym. I am of Bethlehem Juda, and go to dwell where I maye fynde a place (and where I maye espye it to be for my profyt.) And Micah sayde agayne vnto hym: dwell with me, and be vnto me a father and a priestе. And I wyll geue thee ten siluerlynges by yeare, two garmentes, and thy meate and drinke. And the Leuite was content to dwell wᵗʰ the man and was vnto him as one of his owne sonnes. And Micah consecrated the hand of the Leuite, and the yong man became hys yriest, and was in the house of Micah. Then sayde Micah: nowe I am sure, that the Lord wyl be good vnto me, seynge I haue a Leuite to my yriest.

The.xviii.Chapter.

A Jud.17b In those dayes there was no kynge in Israell. And in those dayes the trybe of Dan sought them an enherytaunce to dwel in, for vnto that tyme there fell none Jos.19b enherytaunce vnto them amonge the trybe of Israell. And the chyldren of Dan sent of their kynred fyue actyue men in feates of warre oute of theyr coastes, euen out of Zaraah and Esta-hol, to bewe the land and search it out, and sayd vnto them: go and search out the lande. Whiche when they came to mounte Ephraim, euen to the house of Micah, they lodged there. And when they were in the house of Micah, they knewe the voyce of the yonge man the Leuite: and when they turned in thyther, they said vnto him: who brought thee hyther: what makest thou in this place: and what haste thou here: And he answered them: thus and thus dealeth Micah with me, and hath hyred B me. and I am become hys yriest. And they sayde vnto hym agayne: Aske counsell nowe of God, that we maye knowe, whether the waye which we go, shall be prosperous, or no. And the yriest sayde vnto them: go in peace, for the Lord gydeth your way which ye go. Then the fyue men departed, and came to Lais, and sawe the people that were therein, howe they dwelte careles, after the maner of the Sydons, styll, and without casting of parels: and that no man made any trouble in the lande, or vsurped any dominion, but were farre frome the Sydons, and had no busynes with other men. And they came vnto theyr brethren, to Zaraah and Esthaoll. And C their brethren sayde vnto them: what haue ye done? And they answered: Arryse, that we may go vp against them, for we haue sene the lande surelye Nu.13 very good one. And do ye yt styll: be not slouthful to departe. But come to conquere the lande (it shalbe no laboure.) If ye wyll go, ye shall come vnto a people that casteth no parelles, and it is a very large countrie: whiche God hath geuen into your handes. It is also a place, whiche doeth lacke nothing that is in the worlde. And there departed thence of the kynred of the Dannites, euen out of Zaraah & Esthaol, sixe hundred men appoynted with instrumentes of war. And they wente vp, & pitched in kariath Jarim which is in Juda. wherfore they called the D place, the hoost of Dan, vnto this day: and it is on the backesyde of Kariath Jarim. And they wente thence vnto mount Ephraim, and came to the house of Micah. Then answered the.v. men that went to spye out the countrye of Lais, and sayd vnto their brethren: wot ye not that there is in these houses an Ephod, Theraphim, a grauen ymage, and an ymage of metall: Nowe therfore consider what ye haue to do. And they tourned thytherwarde and came to the house of the yonge man the Leuite, euen vnto the house of Micah, and saluted hym peasably. And the fyre hundred men gyrded with weapons of warre, which were of the chyldren of Dan, stode by the entrynge of the gate. And the fyue men that went to spye out the lande, went in thyther and toke the kerued Image, and the Ephod, Theraphim, and the Image of metall. And the yriest stode in the E enterynge of the gate with the fyre hundred men that were armed vnto batel, whyle the other went into Micahs house, and set the kerued Image the Ephod. Theraphim: and the Image of metall. Then sayd the yriest vnto theym: what do ye? They answered hym: houlde thy peace, laye thyne hande vppon thy mouthe, and come with vs, to be our father & yriest. Is it better for thee to be a yriest vnto the house of one man, then to bee a yriest vnto a tribe or kinred of Israell?

And

And the Preist was glad and toke the Ephod, and Theraphim, and the grauen ymage, and went with the people And they turned and departed, and put F the childzen, the cattell and their other substaunce before theym. And when they were a good way from the house of Micah, the men that were in the houses, and in Michas house, made an oute crye, and folowed after the chyldzen of Dan, and called vnto thē. And they turned theyr faces, and sayde vnto Micah: what ayleth thee that thou maketh an outcrye? And he sayde ye haue taken away my goddes whyche I made, and also the Preist, and goo your wayes with theim. And what haue I more? how thē say ye vnto me, what ayleth the? And the childzen of Dan sayde vnto him, let not thy voice be harde amonge vs, least angrye felawes runne vpon thee, and thou lose thy lyfe, & the liues of al thine housholde. And so the childzen of Danne went theyr wayes. And when Micah sawe that they were to strong for him he turned and wente backe vnto hys G houle agayne. And they toke the thinges which Micah had made, and the preist which he hadde, and came vnto Lais, euen vnto a people that were at rest and without mystrust, and smote them with the edge of the sweardes, & burnt the citie & fire. And there was no man to helpe because Lais was far from Sidon, and they hadde no medelynge with any other mā. And the citie stode in the valey that lieth by Bethrob. And they buylt the in there a citie, and dwelt therein. And called it 9. Dan, after the name of Dan theyr father, whyche was borne vnto Israell. Howebeit, in very dede the name of the citie was Lais at the beginning. And the childzen of Dan set them vppe the grauen Image. And Jonathan the sonne of Gerson, the sonne of Manasses and hys sonnes, were the preistes in the tribe of Dan vntil they were caryed awaye out of the lande captiue. And they set them vppe the grauen ymage, which Micah made, al the while that the house of God was in Silo.

IT chaunsed in those dayes, when there was no kynge in Israell, that a certayne Leuite, soiourning on the side of mounte Ephraim, toke to wife a concubin out of Bethlehem Juda: and hys concubin played the whore by him, & went away frō hym, vnto her fathers house to Bethlehem Juda, and there contynued foure monethes. And her husbande arose, and wente after her, to speake frendely vnto her, and to bring her home againe, hauing his lad with hym, and a couple of asses. And she brought hym vnto her fathers house, and when the father of the damosell sawe hym, he reioyced of hys comyng. And his father in lawe, the damosels father kepte hym. And the Leuite abode with him thre dayes, and so they did eate and drynke, and lodged

And the damesels father sayd vnto the man: Be content I pray the, and tary al night, and lette thine harte be merye. And when the man stode redy to departe, hys father in lawe compelled hym to turne agayne, and to tary all night ther. And he rose vp earely the fifth daye to departe, and the damosels father sayde, comforte thine harte; and they taryed

And when the man arose to departe with his concubine and his lad, his father in lawe, the damsels father sayd vnto him: behold the day goeth fast away, and draweth towarde euen, tary all nyghte: se the lodge way tary this day here, that thine hart may be merye. And to morowe ye get you early vpon your waye, that thou mayest get thee to thy tente. Me- ther in lawe the man would be not tarye but arose and departed, and came as

And when they were faste by Jebus the day was sore spent, and the yong man sayd vnto the master: come I pray the and let vs turne in, into thys citie of the Jebusites, and lodge all nyghte there. His master answered him: we will not turne into a straunge cytye that are not of the chyldren of Israell: we will go forthto Gibea. And he sayd vnto his lad, go forward, and we shall come to one of these places, to lodge all nyghte either in Gibea or in Rama. And they went forward vpon theyr way, and the sonne went downe vpon them, when they were faste by Gibia, whiche belongeth to theym of Ben Jamin. And they turned thither warde to go in, and lodge all nyght in Gibea. And when he came, he satte hym downe in a streate of the citie, for there was no man that tooke them to lodgynge. And beholde, there came an olde man from his worke, oute of the field at euen, which was also of mount Ephraim, & dwelte as a straunger in Gibea. But the men of the place were the chyldren of Ben Jamin. And when he had lyft vp his eyes, he sawe a wayfaryng man in the streate of the cytie. And the olde man sayde: whether goest thou: And whence comest thou: He answered hym: we come from Bethlehem Juda, toward the side of mount Ephraim: from thence am I, and I went to Bethlehem Juda, and goo now we to the house of the Lorde. And there is no man that receyueth me to house, we haue straw and prouender for our asses, and breade and wyne for me and thy handmayd, and for the lad that is with thy seruaunt, & we lacke nothyng. Thē olde man sayd, peace be with thee, all that thou lackest shalte thou finde with me: onely abyde not in the streate all nyght, and so he brought him into his house, and gaue fodder vnto his asses. And they washed their feete, and did eate and drinke. And as they were makyng their hartes merie, beholde, the men of the citie whych were wicked, beset the house rounde aboute, and thrust at the dore, and spake to the man of the house, the olde man, sayinge: bryng forth the man that came into thyne house, that we may knowe hym. And the man of the house, the olde men went oute, & sayde vnto them, Oh nay my brethren do not so wickedly, seyng that this man is come into myne house: doo not so vnmete a thynge. Beholde, here is my daughter a mayden, and this mans concubine, them I wyll bryng oute now vnto you, and humble them, and do with them what semeth you good, but vnto this man, do not so abhominable a thynge. But the men would not harken to hym. And the man toke his concubine, and brought her oute vnto them, who the knewe her, and abused her all the nyght, euen vnto the morninge. And when the daye began to spryng, they let her go. And then came the woman in the dawning of the day, and fell downe at the dore of the mans house, where her Lorde was, tyll it was daye. And her Lorde arose vp in the morninge, and opened the doores of the house, and went out to goo his waye. And beholde, the woman, euen his concubine laye a longe before the dore of the house, and her handes stretched oute vpon the threshoulde. And (he thinking her to haue bene a slepe) sayde vnto her: vp and let vs be going. But she answered not. Then the man (perceyuing that she was deade) toke her vp vpon an Asse, and stode vp, and gat him vnto his owne home. And so when he was come vnto his house, he toke a knife, and caught his concubine, and deuided her with the bones into twelue peces, and sente her into all quarters of Israell. And all that sawe it sayde: there was no suche dede done or sene sence the chyldren of Israell came oute of Egypt vnto thys daye, consyder the matter, take aduisement and say your myndes.

Then all the chyldren of Israell went oute, and the congregation was gathered together as it had bene but one manne, euen from Dan to Beerseba, and vnto the lande of Giliad, vnto the LORDE in Mizpa, and there stode folke out of all quarters, and of all the trybes of Israell, in the congregation of the people of God, foure hundred thousande fote men, that drewe swordes. And when the chyldren of Ben Jamin harde that the children of Israel were gone vp to Mizpa, and had sayde. O ye chyldren of Israell, tell vs howe this wickednes happened. And the Leuite, the womans husbande that was slayne, answered and sayd, I cãe into Gibea, that is in Ben Jamin, w my concubine to lodge all nyght. And the men of Gibea rose agaynst me, and beset the house rounde about vpon me by nyght, and thought to haue slayne me: and my concubine haue they so forced, that she is deade. And I toke my concubine, and cutte her in peces: and sente her throwout all the landes of the enheritaunce of Israell. For they haue committed abhomination & folly in Israell. Behoilde ye are all children of Israell. Ponder thys matter, and geue your aduise in the case. And all the people arose, as it hadde bene one man, sayinge, there shall not a man of vs go to his tent, neyther turne into hys house. But this shalbe it that we wyll do to Gibea: we will go vp by lotte agaynste it. And we will take ten men of the hundred throwout all the trybes of Israell, and an hundred of the thousand, and a thousande out of ten thousande, to fet vitaple for the people, to make that they maye go agaynste Gibea Ben Jamin, because of all the abhomination, ẏ they haue wroughte in Israell. And soo all the men of Israell gathered together agaynste the citie, knitte together, as it had bene but one man. And the tribes of Israell sente men throwout all the tribe of Ben Jamin sayinge, what wyckednesse is this, that is happened amonge you? Nowe therefore deliuer vs the men, those chyldren of Belial which are in Gibea, that we may slay them, and put away euil from Israel. Neuertheiater, the chyldren of Ben Jamin; wolde not harken vnto the voice of theyr brethren, the children of Israell: but gathered them selues together oute of the cities vnto Gibea, to come out and fight against the chyldren of Israell. And the children of Ben Jamin were numbred at that tyme, out of the cities .xxvi. thousand men that drewe swordes, besyde the enhabyters of Gibea, whyche were numbred seuen hundred chosen men. And amonge all these folke were seuẽ hundred lefte handed men; whiche euery one coulde slynge stones at an heare breadth and not mysse. And the chyldren of Israell besyde Ben Jamin, were numbred foure hundred thousande men that drewe swordes, and were all men of warre. And the chyldren of Israell arose, and went vp to Bethell, and asked councell of God, who shoulde begyn the battell agaynste the chyldren of Ben Jamin? And the Lorde sayde Juda shal begin. And the chyldren of Israell stode vp early and beseged Gibea. And the men of Israell wente out to battayle agaynst Ben Jamin, and the men of Israell putte them selues in araye to fight against them, beside Gibea. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin came out of Gibea, and destroyed of the Israelites that day .xxii. thousande men, and broughte theym to the earth. And the folke of the children of Israel plucked vp theyr hartes, and went to agayne, & made battel in the same place where they did the first daye. And the chyldren of Israel went vp, and wept before the Lord vnto euen, and asked of the Lord, sayinge: shal we go agayn to battell agaynste the chyldren of Ben Jamin our brethren? And the Lorde sayde: go vp agaynst them. And ẏ children of Israell came out agaynste the children of Ben Jamin the seconde daye. And the children of Ben Jamin wẽt against thẽ out of Gibea, the secõd day & destroied to the earth of the childrẽ of Israel once again .xviii. M men ẏ drewe swordes. Then the children of Israel & all ẏ people went vp & came vnto Bethel, and wept and sat there before the Lord and fasted the same day vnto euen, and offered burntoffrynges and peaceoffrynges before the Lord. And the chyldren of Israell asked the Lorde: for there was the arke of the appoyntemente of God, in those dayes. And Phinehes the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron waiting vpon it at that time sayd: shall I get me vp to go out anye more to battayle agaynst the childzen of Ben Jamin my brethren, or shal I ceasse? The Lorde sayde: go for to morowe I wyll delyuer them into your handes. And Israell set lyers awaite rounde aboute Gibea. And the chyldren of Israell went vp agaynste the childzē of Ben Jamin the third time, and put them selues in aray agaynste Gibea, as twyse before. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin came out agaynst the people, and were drawen awaye from ỳ cytie. And they began to smite of the people deade (as twise before,) by two hie waynes of which one goeth vp to Bethel, and the other to Gibea, thorowe the fielde) vppon a thirtene men of Israell. And the childzen of Ben Jamin sayde. They are fallen before vs, as at the first. But the childzē of Israell sayde: let vs flye and pluckе them away from the citie, vnto the hie waynes. And all the men of Israel rose vp out of theyr place, and put thē selues in araye at Baal Thamar. And lykewyse the lyers in awayt of Israell, came forth out of theyr places, euē out of the medowes that were aboute Gibea, and came agaynst Gibea: ten thousande chosen men, out of all Israell, and there was a sore battell. But the other wist not that so greate euyll was so nie them. And the Lord plaged Ben Jamin before Israell, and the chyldren of Israell destroyed of the Beniamites the same day. xxb. thousande, and an hundred men, that drue sweardes euery one of thē. And whā the chyldren of Ben Jamin saw that they were put to the worst, the men of Israell gaue rome to the Beniamites because they trusted vnto the laiers in wayte, which they hadde layd beside Gibea. And the liers in wayte hasted, and ranne vpon Gibea, and went and smote all the citie with the edge of the swearde. And an appoyntment hadde the men of Israell from the lyers in wayte, that they shoulde make a great smoke ryse vppe oute of the citie. And when the men of Israell fledde in the battell: Ben Jamen began to smyte deade of the chyldren of Israell, about a thirtye persones, and sayd: the other are put to the worse before vs, as in the fyrst battell. But when there began to aryse out of the citie a pyller of smoke, the Beniamites loked backe and beholde, the waistynge of the hole cytie, beganne to ascende vppe to heauen. When the men of Israel also turned agayne, the men of Ben Jamen, were abasshed, for they sawe that euil approched theim. And therefore they turned their backes before the men of Israell, vnto the way that leadeth to the wylderneſſe, but the men of warre ouertoke them. And beside that, they whyche came oute of the citie, destroyed them in the mydle of theym. And thus they compassed the Beniamites aboute, and chased them to Menuha, and ouer ranne them to Gibea, on the eastside: and there were slayn of Ben Jamin. xbiii. thousande, whych were all men of warre. And they turned & fled to the wylderneſſe warde, and vnto the rocke of Rymmon. And the other slewe by the waye of the rest of them, fiue thousande men, and stycked vnto them, vntyll they came to Gidō and slewe two thousande men of thē. So that al that were slaine that same day of Ben Jamen. wer. xxb. thousād men that drewe sweardes, whyche were all men of war: onelye. bi. hundred men turned and fled to the wyldernes, vnto the Rocke of Rymmon, and abode there. iiii. monethes. And the men of Israell turned backe again vnto the childzen of Ben Jamin, and smote thē with the edge of ỳ swearde in the cyttes, both man and beast, and all that came to hande, and set on fire, all the cities that they could come by.

and

¶ The. xxi. Chapter.

1 AND every manne of Israell sware in Mizpa, sayinge: There shall none of vs geue hys daughter vnto anye of Ben Jamin to wife. And the people came to Bethel, and abode there tyll euen, before God, and lift vp their voices, and wept sore, and said: O Lorde God of Israell, why is this chanced in Israel, that there shold be this day one tribe lacking in Israel? And vp morow the people rose vp betyme, & made there an altar, and offered burnt offerynge and peace offrings. And the children of Israel asked, who are they among all the tribes of Israell, that came not vp with the Congregation vnto the Lord? For they had made a great othe concernyng hym that came not vp to the Lord to Mizpa, saying: He shal surely die. And the children of Israel had pitie on Ben Jamin their brethren, and sayd: There is one tribe cut of from Israell this daye: what shall we do vnto the remnant of them that they may haue wiues? We haue sworne by the Lord, that we wyl not geue the of our daughters to wiues.
B And they said: Is there any of the tribes of Israel, that came not vp to Miz pa to the Lord? And behold, there came none of the enhabiters of Jabes Gilead vnto the holte and congregation.
For the people were vieued: and behold, there wer none of the enhabiters of Jabes Gilead ther. And they sent thither a multitude, euen. xii. thousand men of the strongest of them, and comaunded them, saying: Go and smyte the inhabiters of Jabes Gilead with the edge of the sweard, bothe women and children. C And this is it that ye shall do: vtterly destroye all the males and all the women that haue lyen by men. And they founde among the inhabiters of Jabes Gilead foure hundred damoselis, virgins, that had vn-lien no man, by lying with any male.
And they brought them vnto the holte to Silo, which is in the land of Canaan. And the whole congregation sent & spake with the childre of Ben Jamin, that were in the Rocke of Rymmon, and called peaceably vnto them: and Ben Jamin came agayne at that tyme, and they gaue them wiues, whiche they had saued alyue of the women of Jabes Gilead. But they sufficed them not. And ye people had cōpassion on Beniamin, because that God had made a gap in the Tribes of Israell. And then the elders of the congregation, sayd: what shall we do to the remnant of them, to get them wyues, seeyng all the wiues of Ben Jamin are destroyed? And they sayd: There must be an enheritaunce for them that be escaped of Ben Jamin, that a Tribe be not destroyd out of Israell: howe be it, we maye not geue them wiues of our doughters.
For the children of Israel had sworn saying: Cursed bee he that geueth a wife to Ben Jamin. Then they said: Beholde, there is a feaste of the Lorde yerely in Silo, which is on the north side of Bethel, and on the east syde of the way that goeth frome Bethell to Sichem, and southe frome Libanon.
Therfore they commaunded the children of Ben Jamin, saying: Go and lye in wayte in the vineyardes. And when ye se that the doughters of Silo come out to daunce in a rowe, then come ye out of the vineyards, & catche you euery man a wyfe of the daughters of Ben Jamin. And whā their fathers or brethren come to vs to com playn, we will say vnto them: Haue pytie on vs for their sakes, because we reserued not to eche man his wife in time of war. Neither haue ye geuē vnto them, that ye should hyn at this time. And the children of Ben Jamin did euen so: and toke them wiues accordynge to the numbre of them that danced, whom they caught. And they went, and returned vnto their inheritaunce, and repaired the cities, and dwelte in them. And the children of Israell departed thens at that tyme, and went euery man to his tribe and to his kinred, and went out frō thens euery man to hys enheritance. ¶ In those dayes there was no kynge in Israel: but every man did that which semed ryght in his owne eyes.

¶ The booke of Ruth

A IT tooke tourned that (in the days of a certain Iudge, whenne the iudges iudged, there felle a dearthe in the lande, and a certayne manne of Bethleem Iuda went for to soiorne in the coutrey of Moab: he and his wyfe, and his two sonnes. The name of the mā was Elimelek, and the name of hys wyfe, Naomi, and the names of hys two sonnes were, Mahlon and Chilion, and they were Ephzaites out of Bethlehem Iuda. And when they came into the land of Moab, they continued there. And Elimelech Nao-mies husband died, and she remained with her two sonnes which toke thē wyues of the nations, of the Moabites: the ones name was Orpha, and the others Ruth. And they dwelled B there about a ten yere. And Mahlon and Chylion dyed also, euen bothe of them, and the woman was left desolate of her two sonnes, and of her husband. Then stode she vp with her daughters in law, and returned from the countrey of Moab: For she hearde say in the countrey of Moab, howe y the Lorde had visited his people, and geuen them breade. Wherfore she departed out of the place wher she was and her two daughters with her. And they went on their waye to re-tourne vnto the lande of Iuda. And Naomi sayd vnto her two daughters in lawe: Go and returne eche of you vnto your mothers house: & the lorde deale as kyndly with you, as ye haue dealte with the deade, and with me. And the Lord geue you, that you may fynd rest, eyther of you in the house of her husband. And when thee kyssed them, they lyfte vp their voyce, and wept, and said vnto her: we will go with thee vnto thy folke. And Naomi said: Turne agayn my daughters for what cause will you go with me: Are ther any mo childzen in my wōbe to be your husbandes: Turne agayn my daughters, and goe: for I am to old to haue an husbande. And yf I sayd, I haue hope, yf I tooke a man also this night: yea & thoughe I had alredy borne sonnes, would ye tary after them, til they wer of age: or would ye for them so long refraine from taking of husbands: Not so my daughters: for it greueth me much for your sakes, that the hande of the Lorde is gone out against me. And they lyfte vp their voyces, and wept agayn, and Orpha kyssed her mother in law, but Ruth abode styl by her. And Naomi said: Se, thy sister in law is gon back C agayne vnto her people, and vnto her goodes: returne thou after her. And Ruth answered, Entreate me not to leaue thee, and to returne from after the: for whether thou goest, I wil go also, and where thou dwellest, there B I will dwell: thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God. where thou dyest, there will I dye, & there will I be buried. The Lord doo so & so to me, if ought but deathe only departe thee and me asunder. when she D sawe that she was stedfastly myn-
to her. And so they went bothe, vntil they came to Bethlehem. And when they wer come to Bethlehem, it was noysed of them thorowe all the citie, and the women sayde: Is not this Naomi: And she answered them, Calle me not Naomi, (that is to say, beautifull) but call me Mara, (that is to saye, bytter.) For the almyghty hath made me very bitter. I went out full, and the Lorde hath broughte me home agayne emptie. why then call ye me Naomi, seyng the Lorde hath humbled humbled me, and the almyghty hathe brought me vnto aduersitie: And so Naomi with Ruthe the Moabitesse her daughter in lawe, returned out of the countreye of Moab, and came to Bethlehem, in the beginnyng of bar-ly harueste.

¶ The .ij. Chapter.

A AND Naomies husband had a kynsman of strength & might (which was of the kinred of Elimelech) named Booz. And Ruth the Moabitesse sayd vnto Naomi: let me go to the field, and gather eares of corne (suche as the reapers leaue) after any man, in whose syght I fynde grace. And she sayd vnto her: Go my daughter. And she wente and came to the fielde, and gathered after the reapers, and her chaunce was, that the same field pertained vnto Booz, whi che was of the kinred of Elimeleck.
And behold, Booz came from Bethlehem, and sayd vnto the reapers: the Lord be with you. And they answered hym: the Lorde blesse thee. Then sayd Booz vnto his ponge man that B stode by the reapers. whose damosell is this? And the pong man that stode by the reapers, answered, and said: It is the Moabitisse damosel, that came with Naomi out of the countreye of Moab, and she sayd vnto vs: Oh let me lease and gather after the reapers, the eares that remayn: and so she cam and hath continued euen frō the mornyng vnto now, saue that she taried a little in the house. Then said Booz vnto Ruth: Hearest thou my daughter, Go to none other field to gather, neyther go from hens, but abyde here by my maidens. Let thyne eyes be on the fielde that they reape, and goo thou after the maidens. Haue I not charged the pong men, that they shall doo thee no hurte? Moreouer, when thou art a thyrst, go vnto the vessels, and drinke of that whiche the ladies haue drawen. Thenne she fell on her 3 a face, & bowed her self to the ground, and sayd vnto hym, how is it that I haue founde grace in thyne eyes, & y thou shouldest knowe me, seyng I am an aleant? And Booz answered and C sayd vnto her, All is told and shewed me, that thou hast done vnto thy mother in lawe sence the death of thine husband, howe thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and the lande where thou wast borne, and art come vnto a nation, whiche thou knewest not in tyme passed. The LORDE quite thy woorke, and a full reward be geuen thee of the Lorde GOD of Israell, vnder whose wynges thou arte come to abyde. Then she sayde: Let me fynde fauour in thy syght my Lorde, thou that hast comforted me, and spoken hartely vnto thy mayde, whiche yet am not lyke vnto one of thy maydens. Booz sayd vnto her a-gayne, In tyme of refection, come thou hyther, and eate of the bread, and Iosu. 5 d dyppe thy soppe in the vyneiger. And she satte downe by the reapers, and he reached her + parched corne: of the whych she dydde eate, and was suf-fysed, and lefte parte. And when she was ryssen vp to gather, Booz commaunded hys yong men, saying: lette her gather euen amonge the heapes, and forbydde her not. And leaue her some of the sheues for the nonce, and lette it lye, that she may gather it vp, (without shame) and rebuke her not And so she gathered in the fielde, vntyll euen, and threshed, that she hadde D gathered, and it was in measure vppon an Epha (that is three bushels) of barley. And she tooke it vp, and went into the Citie: and whan her mother in lawe hadde seene what she had gathered, she plucked oute also, and gaue to her that she had reserued when she had eaten ynough. And her mother in lawe sayd vnto her: where hast thou gathered to day? and where wroughtest thou? Blessed be he, that knew thee. And she shewed her mother in lawe howe shee had wrought wyth hym, and sayde: The mannes name with whom I wrought to day is Booz. And Naomi sayd vnto her daughter in lawe: Blessed bee he of Tob. 2. a the Lord, for he ceaseth not doo + good to the lyuynge, and to the deade.

EE .ij. And

And Naomi sayde agayne vnto her: the man is nye vnto vs, and of our nexte kyn. And Ruth the Moabyte, sayd: he sayd vnto me also. Thou shalt be with my yonge men vntil they haue ended all my harueste: And Naomi answered vnto Ruth her daughter in law: it is best my daughter that thou go oute with his maydens, that they fall not vpon thee in any other fielde. And so she kepte her by the maydens of Booz, to gather, vnto the ende of barley harueste, and of wheat harueste also: & dwelt with her mother in law

The. iij. Chapter.

THen Naomi her mother in law sayde vnto her: my daughter, shall I not seke reste for thee, that thou mayest prospere? And is not Booz our kinsman, with whose maydes thou wast? Behold, he wenoweth barley to nyght in the threshing floure: washe thy selfe therefore, and anoynt thee, and put thy rayment vpon thee, and gette thee downe to the barne. But lette not a man knowe of ther, vntil he haue left eating & drinkinge. And when hee goeth to sleepe, marke the place where he layeth him downe, and then goe and lyfte vp the clothes that are on his feete, and laye thee downe there, and so shall he tell thee what thou shalte do. And she answered her: all that thou biddest mee, I will do. And so she went downe vnto the barne, and dyd accordinge to all that her mother in lawe bad her. And when Booz had eaten and dronken, and made him merye, and was gone in, to lye downe behinde the heape of corne, she came softly, and lifte vppe the clothes of his feete, and laide her downe. And at mydnyght the manne was afrayde and groped. And behold a woman lay at his fete. And he said, whatart thou? she answered: I am Ruth thine handemaide. Spreade thy wynge ouer thyne handmayd, for thou arte the nexte of the kinne. He sayde: blessed be thou in the Lord my daughter, for thou haste shewed more goodnes in the latter ende, then at the begynning, in as muche as thou folowedst not yonge menne, whether they were poore or riche. And now my daughter feare not, I will do to the all that thou requirest, for all the citye of my people doth knowe, that thou art a vertuous woman of vertue. And it is true that I am of thy next kin, howbeit there is one nyer than I. Tarye thys nyght. And whē morning is come, yf he will marye the, it is good, lete him doe. But & yf he will not haue the, as sure as the Lorde lyueth I will haue the. Ly still vntil the morning. And so she lay at his fete vntyl the morning. And she arose vp before one coulde knowe another. And he said: let no man knowe that there came any woman into the barne. And he said againe vnto her, bring the mantel that thou hast vpon thee, & hold it vp. And when she helde it vp, he met in syxe measures of barley, and layde it on her. And she gat her into the cytie: and when she came in to her mother in law, she said how is it with thy daughter? And she told her all that the man had don to her. And said also: these vi. measures of barly gaue he me & said: thou shalt not come empty vnto thy mother in law. Then saide she my daughter, sit still, vntil thou know how the matter will chaūce. For the man will not be in rest, vntil he haue finished the thing this same day.

The. iiij. Chapter.

THen went Booz vnto the gate and sat him downe there: and beholde, the kynsman of whiche Booz spake, came by, vnto whome, he sayde: come and sit downe here, and called him by hys name. And he tourned in, and satte downe. And hee toke ten men of the elders of the cytie, and sayde: sit ye downe here. And they sat downe. And he sayde vnto the kynsman: Naomi that is come agayne out of the countrey of Moab, will sell a parcell of lande, whyche was oure brother Elimelechs. And I thought to do the to wete, and bye the bye it before the inhabitours and elders of my people. If thou be disposed to redeme it, do: but and if thou wylte not purchase it, then tell me, that that I may know. For there is none to chalenge it, saue thou, and I nexte B thee. And the other answered, I will purchase it. Then sayde Booz, what day thou byest the fielde of the hande of Naomi, thou must take also Ruth 5.b the Moabite, the * wyfe of the dead, to stere vp the name of the dead vpon his enheritance. The kinseman aunswered: I can not purchase it, for marryng of myne owne enheritance: take thou my righte to thee, for I can not purchase it. Now this was the maner of old tyme in Israell concerning purchase and changing, for to stablish all thing: that a man muste plucke of his shoe, and geue it his neighbour, & this was a sure wytnesse in Israell.

C Therfore the kinsman said to Booz: Bye it thou: and so drue of his shooe. And Booz sayde vnto the elders, and vnto all the people: Ye are witnesses this day, that I haue bought all that was Elimelecs, & all that was Chilions, and Mahlons, of the hande of Naomi. And moreouer, Ruth, the Moabite, the wyfe of Mahlon, haue I purchased to bee my wyfe, to stere vp the name of the dead vpon his enheritance, and that his name bee not put out frome among his brethrē, and from the gate of his place: ye are witnesses this daye. And all the people that were in the gate, and the Elders sayde: We are witnesses: The Lorde 29. make the woman that is comme into
30. thyne house, lyke * Rahel and Lea, which twayn did builde the house of Israel: Do thou also valiantly in Ephrata, and be famous in Bethleem.
8.c Thy house be like the house of Pharez, * whom Thamar bare vnto Iuda, euen of the sede whiche the Lorde shall geue thee of this yong woman.
D And so Booz toke Ruth, & she was his wife. And when he went in vnto her, ✠ Lord gaue, that she conceiued, & bare a sonne. And the women sayde vnto Naomi: Blessedbe the Lord, the which hath not left thee withoute a kynsman to haue a name in Israell, and that shall bryng thy lyfe agayne, and cherishe thyne olde age. For thy daughter in law whiche loueth thee, hath borne vnto hym: and she is better to thee than seuen soonnes. And Naomi toke the chyld, and layde it in her lappe, and became nourse vnto it. And her neyghbours gaue it a name, saying: There is a chylde borne vnto Naomi, & called it Obed. The same is the father of Isai, the father of Dauid. These are the generations of * Pharez: Pharez begatte Hezron: 1. Par. 2 Hezron begat Ram, Ram begate Aminadab, Aminadab begat Nahason, Nahason begat Salmō, Salmon begat Booz, Booz begat Obed, Obed begat Isai, Isai begat Dauid. Mat. 1.a

The end of the boke of Ruth.

The fyrst boke of Samuel, called the fyrst booke of the Kynges.

The first Chapter.

THere was a man of one of the two Ramaths (of the kinred of Zophim, of mount Ephraim) named * Elkana, the sonne of Jeroham, the sonne of Elihu, the son of Thohu, the sonne of Zuph, an Ephrathite: whiche had two wiues, the one called Hanna, & the other Phenenna. And Phenenna had children, but Hanna had none. * And the said man went vp out of his citie euerye feastfull day, to pray and to offer vnto the Lorde of hostes in Silo, wher were the two sons of Eli (Hophni and Phinehes) the Lordes priestes. And it fell on a solemne day, that Elkana offred, and gaue to Phenenna, his wyfe, and to al her sonnes and daughters portions. But vnto Hanna he gaue a portion with a heuy cheere: For he loued Hanna, and the Lorde had made her barayn. And her enemye (Phenenna) vexed her sore continually to moue her, because the B Lord had made her barein. And so did she yeare by yere, as oft as she went vp to the house of the Lorde. And so chafed her, which wepte, and did not eate. Then said Elkana her husband to her: Hanna, why wepest thou? and why eatest thou not? & why is thyne hert troubled? am not I better to the, then ten sons? So Hanna rose vp after ỳ they had eaten & dronk in Silo.

And Eli the priest sate vpon a stoole by one of the side postes of the temple of the Lord. And she was troubled in her mynd, and prayed vnto the Lorde, and wept sore, and vowed a vow, and said: O Lord of hostes, if thou wylte before the Lorde, it fortuned that Eli marked her mouth. For Hanna spake in her hert, and her lyps did but moue only, but her voice was not herd: and therfore Eli thought she had ben droken, and Eli said vnto her: How lõge wilt thou be dronken? put away frõ thee the wyne that thou hast. Hanna C answered and said: Not so my Lord, I am a woman of a sorowful hert: I Psa.42.a haue dronke neither wyne nor strong drynke, but haue * powred oute my soule before ỳ Lord. Count not thine handmayde to bee lyke a daughter of Belial, for out of the abundãce of my heuynes and grefe haue I spoken hitherto. Eli answered her againe: and said, Go in peace: the God of Israel grant the thy petition, that thou hast asked of him. She saide: Lette thyne handmayd fynde grace in thy syghte.

And so the woman went her waye, and did eate, and loked no more so sad.
And they rose vp early, and worshipped before the Lorde, and then returned, and came to their house to Ra-math. And whan Elkanah knewe Hanna his wife, the Lord remembred her: for in processe of tyme it came to passe, that she conceiued, & bare a son, & called his name Samuel (saying:) because I haue asked hym of ỳ Lord.
D And Elkana and al his house went vp to offer vnto the Lord, the offryng due for the feaste, and also his vowe: Neuertheles, Hanna wẽt not vp, but said vnto her husband: I wyll tarye vntill the ladde be weyned, and then I will bryngе hym, that he maye appere before the Lorde, and there abyde for euer. Elkana her husband answered her: Doo what seemeth the beste: tary at home, vntill thou haste weyned hym, and I beseech the LORD to make good his sayinge. And so the woman abode, and gaue her son sucke vntyl she weyned him. And when she had weyned him, she toke hym with her, with thre bullockes, & an Epha of floure, and a bottle of wyne, and brought him vnto the house of ỳ Lord in Silo, & the childe was yet but tender of age. And they slue a bullocke, and brought in the lad to Eli, and she sayd: Oh my Lorde, as truely as thy soule lyueth my Lord, I am the womã that stode before the here prayeng vnto the Lord. For this lad I prayed and the Lord hath geuẽ me my desire, which I asked of him: and therfore I haue genen hym vnto the Lorde, as long as he is mete for the Lord. And they worshipped the Lord there.

The .ij. Chapter.

1 AND Hanna prayed and said: Myne heart reioyceth in the alted in the Lord. My mouth is wide open ouer myne ennemies, for I re-to Ramath to his house, and the lad dyde ministre vnto the Lord before Eli the priest. But the sonnes of Eli were chyldren of Belial, and knewe not the Lorde. And the priestes made a lawe for the people, that whenso-

Priestes ladde came whyle the flesshe was a sethyng, and a flesshehoke with three tethe in his hande, and thruste it

And all that the flesshe hoke brought they dyd vnto all the Israelites, that came thyther to Silo. Yea, and ther-to, before they burnt the fatt, the pries-tes ladde came and said to the manne that offered: Geue flesshe that I maye roste it for the Priest, for he will not haue sodden flesshe of thee, but rawe.

D And yf any man sayde vnto hym: Let them burne the fat accordyng to the wyll take it with violence. And the synne of yonge men was verye great before the Lorde. For menne abhorred the offerynge of the LORDE.

But the chylde Samuell mynystred before the Lorde, gyrded aboute wyth a lynnen Ephod. Moreouer hys mother made hym a lyttle coate, and broughte it to hym from yere to yere, when shee came vppe wyth her hus-Elkana and hys wyfe, and sayde: the of the Lorde. And they wente vnto theyr owne home. And the Lorde vysyted Hanna, soo that shee concey-sonnes dyd vnto all Israell, and how

The .iii. Chapter.

A AND the child Samuell mi-nistred vnto the Lozde before Eli and the wozd of the Lozd was precious in those dayes, neither was ther anye open vysion. And it chaunsed at that time, that Eli lay in his place, and his eyes began to waxe dymme that he coulde not se. And per the lampe of God went out, Samuell laide him downe to sleepe in the temple of the Lozde, where the Arke of God was. And the Lozde called Samuel, and he sayd, here I am, and he ranne vnto Eli, and saide: here am I, foz thou calleste me. And he said I called thee not: go agayn, and slepe.
And he went and layd him downe to slepe. And the Lozd called once again: Samuell, and Samuell arose, and went to Eli, and sayd: I am here, foz thou diddeste cal me. And he answered: I called the not my sonne, Go a- B not yet the Lozde, neyther was the wozde of the LORDE yet opened vnto him. And the Lozde went to and called Samuell the thirde tyme.

And hee arose, and wente to Eli and said: I am here foz thou hast called me And Eli perceued that the LORD had called the childe. Therefoze, Eli said vnto Samuel: go, and ly downe and if he call the agayne, then saye: speake on Lozde, foz thy seruaunte him down in his place. And the Lozd came, and stoode, and called as before, Samuel Samuell. Samuel answered: speake on foz thy seruant hereth.

And the Lozde saide to Samuell: behold, I wil do a thing in Israel, that both the eares of as many as heareth it, shal tingle. In that day I wil raise vp against Eli, al thinges whiche I haue spoken concerning his house frō the beginning to the endinge. I haue and opened the dozes of the house of the Lozde. And Samuell feared to shewe Eli the vision. Then Eli called Samuell, and sayde: Samuel my son. And he answered: here I am. He sayd: what is that the Lozd hath said vnto the? I praye the hide it not frō euery whit, & hyd nothing from him. And he said: It is the Lorde, let hym do what semeth him best. And Samuell grew, & the Lord was wyth him, and left none of his wordes vnperformed. And all Israel frō Dan to Berſabe wist that faithful Samuel was made the Lords prophet. And ỹ lorde appered again in Silo: for the Lorde opened himself to Samuel in Silo, thorow the word of the Lord.

¶ The. iiij. Chapter.

And the Philiſtines slue in aray alōg by the fieldes, about a foure thousand men. And when the people wer come into their tentes, the elders of Israel saith: Wherfore hath the Lorde cast vs downe this day before ỹ Philiſtins? let vs fetche the arke of the appointment of the lord out of Silo vnto vs, that whan it cometh amōg vs, it may saue vs, out of the hande of oure enemie. And so the people sent to Silo,

And there were the twoo sonnes of Eli, Hophni, and Phinehes with the arke of the appointment of God. And it fortuned, that when the arke of the appointment of the Lorde came into the hoſt, all Israel: shouted a mighty shoute, so that the earth rang agayne. And when the Philiſtins heard the noyse of the shoute, they saide: What meaneth the sounde of this myghtye shoute in the hooſte of the Hebrues? And they vnderſtode how that ỹ arke of the Lord was come into the hoſte.
C And the Philiſtins were afrayd, and sayd: God is come into the hoſt. And they sayde agayne: Woo vnto vs, for it was neuer so before this: woo vnto vs who shall deliuer vs out of the hande of these mighty Gods? These are the gods ỹ smote the Egyptians with so many plagues in the wildernes. Bee strong, & quite your selues lyke men, O ye Philiſtins, that ye be no seruātes vnto the Hebrues, as thei haue bē to you. Be of a manly corage therfore & fight. And ỹ arke of God was ta kē, and the two sons of Eli, Hophni & Phinehes were dead. And ther ran a man of Ben Jamin out of ỹ aray, & came to Silo the same daye with hys clothes rente, & earth vpon his head. And whē he came, Eli sat vpon a stole & loked toward the way: for his heart feared for the arke of God. And when the man came into ỹ citie, & told it, all the citie cried. And whē Eli herd the noyse of the crying, he said: What meaneth this noise of the rumor? And the mā came in hastily, and told Eli. Eli was. xcviii. yere old, & his sight failed him ỹ he could not se. The messenger answered, & said, Israel is fled before ỹ Philiſtins, & ther is a great slaughter chā sed among the people, & thy two sons Hophni & Phinehes ar dead, and the arke of God is taken. And it fortuned that whē he made mētion of the arke of God, Eli fel frō of his stoole backward vpon ỹ threshold of the gate, & his necke brake, & he died: for he was an old man and heuy, & iudged Israel forty yeres. And his daughter in law Phinehes wife was with child, & ny the birth. And whē she herd the tidinges ỹ the Arke of God was taken, & that her father in law, & her husband were dead, she bowed her selfe, & trauailed, for her paines came vpon her. Because the Ark of God was taken, and because of her father in law and her husbande. And she saide agayne: The glorie is gone frō Israel, for the arke of god is take.

The glorye is gone

The v. Chapter.

AND the Philistines toke the Arcke of God, and caryed it from the helpestone vnto Asdod, againe the Philistines toke the arke of God, and broughte it into the house of Dagon, and set it by Dagō. And when they of Asdod were vp in the nexte day in the morning, behold, Dagon lay vpon the earth before the Arke of the Lord. And they toke Dagon, and set him in his place agayne. And when they were vp early in the next morning, behold, Dagon lay vpon the grounde before the Arcke of the Lord, and his head, and hys t'woe handes cut vpon the threshoide, that only the shape of a fishe was lefte on him. And therfore is it, that the priestes of Dagon (neither any man that commeth into Dagons house) treade not on the threshold of Dagon in Asdod vnto this day. But ẏ hand of the Lord was heuy vpon them of Asdod, and he destroyed them, and smote thē with emerodes, both Asdod and in al the costes therof. (The villages also and ẏ feldes in the middes of the contry wer ful, & ther came vp mice, and ther was a confusion of gret death in the citie.) And whē the men of Asdod saw that it was so, they said: the arke of the God of Israell shall not abide here with vs, for his hand is sore vpō vs and vpon Dagon our God. They sent therfore and gathered all ẏ Lordes of the Philistines vnto them and said: what shal we do with the Arke of the God of Israel? They answered: let the arke of the God of Israell be caried about vnto Gath. And they caried the arke of the God of Israell aboute. And it fortuned, that when they had caried it about, ther was by the hand of the Lord a myghty great noise in the citie, and he smot the men of the citie both smal and greate and they had secret dyseases. (And the Gethites toke counceil, and made thē selues pryuy seates of skinnes.) Therfore they sente the arke of God to Akaron, And assoone as the Arcke of God came to Akaron, the Akaronytes cried out saying: they haue broght the Arke of the God of Israell to vs to slea vs and our people. And so they sente, and gathered together all the Lordes of the Philistines and saide: sende awaye the Arcke of the God of Israel, to go agayn to his own place that it slē vs not and our people. For ther was great lamentation ouer the dead throughout all the citie, and the hand of God was exceding sore ther. And the menne that dyed not, were smitten with the Emerodes: and the cry of the citie went vp to heauen.

The vi. Chapter.

THe Arke of the Lorde was in the country of the Philistines seuen monethes: and the Philistines called for the priestes and the southsayers, saiynge: what shall wee do with the arke of the Lorde? tell vs wherewith we shal sende it home agayne? They said, If thou sende the arke of the god of Israel home again sende it not emptie. But reward it with a trespalle offringe: and then ye shal bee whole, and it shalbe knowen to you, why his hande departeth not from you. Then sayd they: And what shalbe the trespalle offrynge, whyche wee shall reward him with? They answered: fiue golden arses and fiue golden myce, according to the number of the Lordes of the Philistines. For it is one maner of plague on you all, and on youre Lordes. Wherefore ye shal make Images like vnto your arses, and ymakes lyke your myce that corrupt the land, and ye shal geue glorye vnto the God of Israell, that he may take his hāde frō of you, and frō of your goddes and from of your land. Now therfore, make a newe carte, and take ii. mylche kyne: on whose necke there hath come no yocke. And tye the kyne to the cart, & bring the calues homefrō them. And take the arke of the Lord, and lay it vpon the carte, and put the iewels of golde (whiche ye reward hym with for a synoffryng) in a cofer by the syde therof: and send it awaye, that it may goe. And ifaye see that he go vp by the way of his owne coaste to Bethsames: then it is he that dyd this great euyl. If no, we shal know then, ỹ it is not his hande that smote vs: but it was a chaunce hapned vs. And the mē did euen so: and toke two kyne that gaue mylke, and tyed them to the cart, & kept the calues at home, and they layd the arke of the Lord vpon the carte, and the coffer with the myce of gold, and with the ymages of their arses. And the kyne tooke the streyght way to Bethsames, & went on the streight way: & as they went, lowed, & turned neither to the right hand nor to the lefte. And the lordes of the Philistines wente after them, vntyll the borders of Bethsames.

And thei of Bethsames wer reaping their wheat harucst in the valey. And they lift vp their eyes, and spied the arke. And reioyced when they saw it. And the cart cam into the field of one Iehosua a Bethsamite, and stode still there. There was also a great stone. And they clauē the wood of the cart and offred the kyne a burntofferynge vnto the Lord. And the Leuites toke downe the Arke of the Lord, and the coffer that was wyth it, wherein the Iewels of golde were: and put them on the greate stone. And the men of Bethsames sacrificed burnt sacrifice, and offered offerynges that same daye vnto the Lord. And whenne the fyue lordes of the Philistins had seene it, they returned to Ikaron the same day And these ar the golden arses which the Philistins gaue to amendes for a trespasse offryng to the Lorde: for Asdod one: for Gaza one: for Askalon one, for Gath one, and for Ikaron one. And golden myce, accordyng to the nūbre of all the cities of the Philistines, euen accordynge to the fyue Lordes, bothe of walled Townes, and of townes vnwalled: euen vnto the great stone of lamentation, whereon they sette downe the Arke of the Lorde: whyche stone remayneth vnto this day in the fielde of Iehosua the Bethsamite. And he plagued the men of Bethsames, because they had seene the Arke of the Lord. And he slue among the people fyfty thousand and threscore and ten men. And the other people lamēted, because the Lord had slayn the people with so great a slaughter. Wherfore the men of Bethsames sayd, Who is able to stand before the Lord so holy a God: and to whom shall he go frome vs? And they sente messengees to the inhabiters of Kariathiarim, saying: The Philistines haue brought agayne the Arke of the Lorde: Come ye downe therfore, and fetche it vp to you.

The. vii. Chapter.

And so the men of Kiriathiarim com and fet vp the Arke of the Lorde: and brought it into the house of Aminadab in Gibea, and sanctified Eleazar hys sonne to kepe the arke of the Lord, and while the arke abode in Kariathiarim, the dayes multiplied, and there passed ouer. xx. yeres, & all the house of Israel lamented after the Lord. And Samuel spake vnto al the house of Israell, saying: yf ye be come againe vnto the Lorde with all your heartes, then put away the straunge goddes and Astaroth from amonge you: and prepare your heartes vnto the Lord, and serue hym one: for hee shall ryddo you oute of the hande of the Philistines. Then the childrenne of Israell didde putte away Baalim and Astaroth, & serued the Lord only. And Samuel sayd: gather al Israell to Mizpa, and I will pray for you vnto the Lorde. And there was peace betwene Israel and the Amorites. Samuel iudged Israell all the dayes of his lyfe, and went aboute yeare by yeare to Bethel, Gilgal, and Mizpa, and iudged Israell in all those places, and came agayne to Rama: for there was hys house, and there he iudged Israel also, and there he buylte an aulter vnto the Lord.

C The. viii. Chapter.

When Samuell was olde, he made his sonnes Iudges ouer Israel. The name of his eldest sonne was Joel, and the name of the second Abia: and they were iudges in Beersleba. And as thei haue euer done (sence I brought thē out of Egipt vnto this day, and haue forsaken me, and serued other gods) euē so do thei vnto the. Now therfore herken vnto theyr voice. howbeit, yet testify vnto theym and shewe theym • the auctority of ẏ king ẏ shal raigne ouer thē. And Samuel told all ẏ wordes of the Lorde vnto the people that asked a king of him & he said: this shal be the auctority of the king that shall raigne ouer you: • he will take youre sōs and put thē to his charets, & make his horsemē of them to run, before his charet: & wil make him of them captaines ouer thousands and ouer fifties, and wil set thē to eare his grōd & to gather in his haruest, & to make instruments of war, and apparell for his charets. And wil take your daughters and make thē apoticaries cookes and bakers. And he shal take the beste of your feldes, & of your vineyardes & of youre Olyue trees, and geue thē to his seruantes. And hee shall take the tenth of your seede, and of your vineyards, and geue it to his chāberlains and to his seruants. And he shal take the best of your men seruants & mayd serseruantes, and yong men, and of your asses, and putte theim to his woorke.

And he shall take the tenth of youre sheepe, and ye shalbe his seruauntes.
And ye shall crie out at that tyme vppon your kyng, whiche ye shall haue chosen you, and the Lorde will not heare you at that day. Neuertheles, the people would not heare the voyce of Samuel, but dyd saye: Naye, not so. But there shal be a kyng ouer vs, that we may bee lyke other nations, and that our kyng may iudge vs, and go out before vs, and fyghte our battayles (for vs.) Therfore when Samuel heard all the wordes of the people, he rehersed theym in the eares of the Lorde. And the Lord sayd to Samuell: Hearken vnto their voyce, & make them a kynge. And Samuell sayd vnto the men of Israel: Goe eue-ry man vnto his citie.

A 14g 8.d THere was a man of Ben Ja min named Cis, the sonne of Abiel, the sonne of Zeror, the sonne of Bechorath, the sonne of Aphiah, the sonne of a man that was a Gemmite, a mã of strẽgth and myght: and the same had a sonne, called Saul, a goodly yong man, and a fayre: so that among the children of Israel, there was none goodlyer thã he. For from the shoulders vpward he was hyer then al the other people.
And the asses of this Cis Sauls father were lost: and Cis said to Saule his sonne: Take one of the laddes with thee, and go vp, and seke the asses. And he went thorow mount Ephraim, and thorow the land of Sa-lisa, but they founde them not. Then they went thorow the land of Salim, and there they were not. When they went also thorow the land of Je mini, they founde them not. At the last when they were come to the lande of Zuph, Saule sayde to his ladde that was with hym: Come, let vs return least my father leaue carynge for the asses, and take thoughte for vs. He sayde vnto him: Beholde, there is in this Citie a man of God and he is a worshyppfull man: al that he saith cõ-meth surely to passe. Now then lette vs go thyther: peradventure hee shall B shew vs what way we may go. The sayde Saul to hys ladde: If we wil go, what shall we bryng the man? for our breade is all spent out of our vessels, and there is none other present to bryng the man of God: what have we? And the ladde answered Saule a-gayne, and sayde: I have found about me the iiii. part of a sicle, that will I geue the man of God, to tell vs oure way. Before tyme in Israel when a man went to seke an answere of God thus wyse he spake, come and let vs go to the seare. For he that is now called a prophet, was in the old time called a seare. Then sayd Saul to his lad wel said of the: come let vs go. And so they wente vnto the citie where the man of God was. And as they were going vp into the city, they met with damoseis that came out to draw wa ter, and sayd vnto them: is there here a seare? And the maydens answered thẽ. ye, (here is one) behold, he is before you. Make hast now, for he cam this day to the citie for ther is an offring of the people this day in the hil. when ye be com into the citie, ye shal find him straight wai, yer he go vp to the hil to eate: for the people will not eate vntill ye come, because he doeth bielle the offring. And then eat they be bidden to the feaste. Now therfore C get you vp for this day shall ye fynde I. Re. 15 hym. And they went vp to the citye.
And when they were come into the myddes of the citie: behold Samuell came out against them, for to go vp to the hyll. But the Lord had told Sa muell in his eare (a day before Saul came) sayinge: To morow this tyme I will send thee a man out of the lãd of Ben Jamin, hym shalte thou an-nuynt to be Captain ouer my people Israell, that he maye saue my people out of the handes of the Philistines: for I have looked vppon my people, and their cry is come vnto me. When Samuell therfore sawe Saule, the Lord

Lorde answered him: see, this is the man whom I spake to thee of. This same shall raygne ouer my people.

Then wente Saule to Samuell in the middle of the gate, and said: tell me I pray thee wher the seares house is. Samuell answered Saul and sayd: I am the sear, goe vp before me vnto the hil, for ye shal eat with me to day. And to morowe I will let the go and will tell the all that is in thyne heart. And as for thine asses that were loste three dayes ago, care not for them for they are found. And moreouer, whose shall the beutifull thynges of Israel be: belonge they not to thee, and vnto all thy fathers house? But Saule answered and sayd: am not I the sone of a Jemmite, of the smallest tribe of Israell? And my kynred is the leaste of al the kinredes of the tribe of Ben Jamin. wherfore then speakest thou so to me? And Samuell toke Saule and his lad, and brought theym into the parler, and made theym syt in the chefest place amonge them that were bidden: which were vppon a thirtye persons: And Samuel sayd vnto the cooke: bryng forth the porcion which I gaue thee, and of which I sayd vnto thee: keepe it with thee. And the cooke toke vp the shoulder, and that which was vpon it, and set it before Saul. And Samuell sayde: beholde that which is lefte: put it before thee and eate, for hitherto hath it bene kept for the, of purpose, when I called the people. And so Saule dyd eate with Samuell that daye. And when they were come downe from the hil into the citie, Samuell communed with Saul vpon the toppe of the house: and whan they arose earlye about the spryng of the daye, Samuell called Saul vpon the top of the house, sayinge: vp that I may sende the away. And Saul arose. And they went out at the dores, both he and Samuell. And when they were come almoste oute of the towne, Samuell sayde to Saul: bid the lad go before vs (& he went before) but stande thou stil a while, that I maye shewe the what God sayeth. ¶ The .x. Chapter.

AND the Samuel toke a vessel of oile, & powred it vpon his head and kissed him and said hath not the Lord anointed the to be captayne ouer his inheritaunce? and thou shalt deliuer his people oute of the handes of their enemyes whyche are rounde about them. And this shalt thou haue, that the Lord hath anoynted thee to be prince. when thou art departed from me this daye, thou shalt finde .ii. men by Rhaels sepulchre in the border of Ben Jamin, euen at Jalezah. And they will saye vnto thee: the asses which thou wentest to seke are fonde. And lo thy father hath left the care of ye asses, and sorroweth for you saying: what shal I do for my sonne? Then shalt thou goe forth fro thence, and shalt come to the plaine of Thabor. And ther shall mete the three men going vp, to God to Bethel: one caryng iii kids: & another caryng iii loues of breade: and another caring a bottle of wine. And they will salute thee & geue the ii. loues of bred which thou shalt receiue of their handes. After ye thou shalt come to the hil of god wher ye Philistines kepe ther watch. And when thou art come thither to ye citie, thou shalte mete a companye of prophetes cōming downe fro the hil, with a psalter, a timbrel, a pipe and a harpe before the, & they shal prophesi. And the spirit of ye Lord will com vpō the also & thou shalt prophecy, & the, and shalbe turned into another man. Therfore whē these signes are chaūced thee, doe what thou haste to do for God is with the. And thou shalte go before me to Gilgal. And I also will cōe downe vnto the, to sacrifice burnt sacrifices, & to offer peaceofferinges. Tary for me seuen daies, til I come to thee, and shewe the, what thou shalt doe. And assone as he had turned his shoulder to goe from Samuell, God gaue him another minde of hert, and al those tokens cam to passe that same day. And whē they cam to the hil: beheld, the companye of prophetes met him and the spirite of God came vpon him

hym also, and he prophecied amonge them. And all that knew him before, when they saw that he prophecied among the prophetes, they said eche to other: what is this that is happened vnto the sone of Cis? Is Saul also among the prophetes? And one of the same place answered and sayde: who is their father? And therof cam the prouerbe: what is Saul also among the prophetes? And whan he had made an ende of prophecying, he came to the hyll. And Sauls fathers brother sayd vnto him, and to his lad: whether went ye? He sayde: to seeke the asses: and when we saw that they were no where, we came to Samuel. And Sauls vncle sayd: Tel me what Samuel said vnto you? Saul answered his vncle: he told vs plainly, that the asses wer found. But of the kingdome wherof Samuel spake, told he hym not. And Samuel called the people together vnto the Lord to Mizpa, and sayd vnto the children of Israel: Thus said the Lord God of Israel: I brought Israell out of Egypt, and delyuered you out of the hande of the Egyptians, and out of the hands of all kyngdoms that troubled you. And ye haue this day cast away youre god that helped you out of all your aduersities and tribulations. And ye haue sayd vnto hym: Make a kyng ouer vs. Now therfore stand ye before the Lord by your tribes, and your thousandes. And whan Samuell hadde brought all the tribes of Israell, the Tribe of Ben Jamin was caughte. when he had brought the tribe of Ben Jamin by their kinredes, the kynred of Matri was caught: and at the last Saul the sonne of Cis was caught. And when they sought hym, he could not be founde. Therfore they asked the Lord further, if the man shold come thither. And the Lord answered: Behold, he hath hid hym self among the stuffe. And they ranne and fet hym thence. And when he stoode amonge the people, he was hyer, then any of the people, frome the shoulders vpwarde. And Samuel sayde to all the people: See ye not hym, whome the Lorde hath chosen, and howe there is none lyke hym among all the people? And all the people shouted and sayde: God lend the kyng lyfe. Then Samuel told the people the duetie of the kingdome, and wrote it in a boke, and layd it vp before the Lord, and sent all the people awaye, euery man to hys house. And Saul also went home to Gibea. And there folowed hym strōg men, whose hertes God had touched. But the childrē of Belial said: How shall he saue vs? and they despised hym, and brought hym no presentes. And he held his tongue.

The. xi. Chapter.

Nahas the Ammonite came, and besieged Jabes in Gilead. And all the men of Jabes said vnto Nahas: make a couenant with vs, and we wyll be thy seruantes. And Nahas the Ammonite answered them: In this wyll I make a couenaunt with you, yf I may thrust out all your right eyes, & bring that shame vpon al Israel. To whom the elders of Jabes sayd: geue vs seuen dayes respite, that we maye sende messengers vnto all the coastes of Israell. And then yf there bee no man to helpe vs, we wyll come oute to thee. Then came the messengers to Gibea vnto Saul, and tolde this tydynges in the eares of the people. And all the people lyfte vp theyr voyces, and wept. And beholde, Saul came folowyng the catell out of the field, and Saule sayde: what ayleth thys people, that thei wepe? And they told hym the tydynges of the men of Jabes. And the spirite of God came vpon Saul, when he heard those tydinges, and he was exceedyng angry, and toke a yoke of oxen, and hewed them in pieces, and sente them thorowoute all the coastes of Israel by the hāds of messēgers, saying: whosoeuer cōmeth not forth after Saul, & after Samuel so shal his oxen be serued. And the feare of the Lorde fell on the people, and they came oute as it had been but one manne. And whenne he numbred them them in Bezek, the chyldren of Israel were thyrre hundred thousande men, & the men of Juda thirtie thousande. And they sayde vnto the messengers that came: So saye vnto the men of Jabes in Galead: To morowe by that tyme the sonne be horte, ye shall haue helpe. And the messengers came and shewed the men of Jabes, whyche were glad: Therfore the men of Jabes sayde: To morowe we will come out vnto you, & ye shal doe with vs all that pleaseth you. And on the morowe it fortuned, that Saule put the people in thre partes. And they came in vpon the host in ỹ morning watch and slewe the Ammonites vntyll the heate of the day. And they that remained, were scatered: so that two of thē were not left together. And the people said vnto Samuell: what is he that dare saye: Shall Saule reygne ouer vs? Bryng those men that we maye slay them. And Saule sayde: There shall no man dye thys day, for to daye the Lorde hathe saued Israell. Then said Samuell vnto the people: Come that we maye goe to Gilgall, and renewe the kyngdom there. And all the people went to Gilgal, & made Saul kyng there, before the Lorde in Gilgal. And there they offred peace offeryngs before the Lorde. And there Saule and all the men of Israell reioyced exceedyngly.

The .xii. Chapter.

SAmuell sayd vnto all Israell: Behold, I haue herkened vnto your voyce, in all that ye sayde vnto me, and haue made you a kynge. Now therefore, your kyng walketh before you. And I am old and graye headed: and behoilde, my soonnes are with you, and I haue walked before you from my chyldhod vnto this day. Behoilde, here I am: beare recorde of me before the Lord, and before his anointed. Whose oxe haue I taken, or whose asse haue I taken? whom haue I doone wronge to? whome haue I hurt? Or of whose hand haue I receiued any brybe; to blynde myne eyes therewith, and I will restore it you againe. They sayd: Thou hast done no wrong, nor hurte vs, neither hast thou taken ought of any mans hand. He sayd vnto them agayn: The Lord is witnesse agaynst you, and his anointed is witnesse this daye, that ye haue found naught in my handes. And they answered: He is witnesse. And Samuel sayde vnto the people: It is the Lorde, that made Moses and Aaron, and that brought your fathers out of the land of Egypt. Now therfore stand styll, that I maye reason with you before the Lorde, accordyng to all the righteousnesses of the Lord, which he shewed both you and your fathers. After that Jacob was comme into Egypte, and your fathers cryed vnto the Lord, the Lord sent Moyses and Aaron, which brought youre fathers out of Egypt, and made them dwell in this place. And when they forgat the Lorde their God, he deliuered them into the hand of Sisara captain of the hoste of Hazor, and into the hand of the Philistins, and into the hand of the kynge of Moab, and they fought agaynst them. And they cryed vnto the Lord, and said: we haue sinned, because we haue forsake the lord, and haue serued Baalim and Astharoth Now therfore deliuer vs out of the handes of our enemies, & we will serue thee. And the Lord sente Jerobaall, Badan, Jephthah, and Samuell, and deliuered you oute of the handes of your enemies on euery side and ye dwelled safe. And for all that, when you saw that Nahas the kyng of the childrē of Ammon cam against you, ye sayd vnto me: Not so, but a kynge shall reigne ouer vs, when yet the Lord your God was your kynge. Now therfore, behold, the kyng whō ye haue chosen, and whom ye haue desyred: Lo, the Lord hath set a kyng ouer you. If ye will feare the Lorde, and serue hym, and heare his voyce, and not disobey the worde of the lord bothe ye and the kynge that reigneth ouer you, shall folowe the Lord your God: If ye will not hearken vnto the boyce of the Lorde, but dyslobey the Lordes mouth, then shall the hande of the Lord be vpon you, and on your fathers. Now also stand & se this greate thyng, which the Lord wyll do before your eyes: is it not nowe wheate harueste? I wyl call vnto the Lord, and he D shall sende thunder and rayne, that ye may perceaue and see howe that your wickednes is greate, whiche ye haue done in the sight of the Lord, in asking you a kynge. And so Samuell called vnto the Lord, and the Lord sent thunder and rayne the same day. And al the people feared the Lorde and Samuell exceadyngly. And all the people sayde vnto Samuell: pray for thy seruantes vnto the Lorde thy God, that we dye not, for we haue synned in askyng vs a kyng, beside all the synnes that euer we dyd. And Samuell sayde vnto the people, feare not. Ye haue in dede done all thys wickednes, yet depart not frō folowynge the Lorde. But serue hym euen with all youre hartes. Neyther turne ye after vayne things which are not able to profite you, for they are but Moreouer, God forbyd that I should synne agaynst the LORDE, and ceasse prayinge for you, but to shewe you the good and ryght waye. Therfore feare you the Lorde, and serue hym in the trueth and with all youre hartes: and consyder howe great thynges he hath done for you. But and yf ye do wyckedlye, then shall ye perysshe, both ye and your kyng.

SAull had bene kynge one yeare, (when these thynges came to passe) and he raygned two yeres ouer Israell. And Saull chose hym three thousand men of Israell. Two thousand were with Saull in Michmas, and in mount Bethel, and a. M. with Jonathas in Gibea Ben Jamin. And the rest of the people he sent euery man to his owne house agayne.

And Jonathas smote the holde of the Philistines, that was in the hill, and it came to the Philistines eares. And Saul blewe the trompet throughout all the lande, sayinge: let the Ebrues heare. And all Israell hard saye, howe that Saull had destroyed an holde of the Phylistynes, wherefore Israell stanke before the Philistines. And the people gathered together after Saull syde in multitude, and came vppe, and pitched in Mychmas eastwarde from Bethauen. And when the men of Israell sawe it they were in a streite, and feare came vpon the people, and they hyd them selues in caues, and in preuy holes, and in rockes, and in hie waies, and in pyts. And some of the Ebrues went ouer Jordan to go vnto the land of Gad and Gilead. And Saull was yet in Gilgal, and all the people that folowed hym were astonyed. And he taryed seuen daies, euen vnto the time that Samuell * had appoynted. But Ire.1cbb Samuell came not to Gylgal, and the people were therefore skattered from him. And Saul sayd: bryng a burntsacrifyce to me and peaceofferinges. And he offered burntsacrifyce. And as sone as he had made an ende of offeryng the burntsacrifyce, behold Samuel came. And Saul went against him, to blesse him. And Samuel sayde, what haste thou done? Saul sayd: because I sawe that the people skatered from me, and that thou camest not within the dayes appoynted, and that the Philistines gathered thē selues together to Mich mas: therfore sayde I: the Philistines shall come downe nowe vppon me to Gilgall, and I haue not made supplication vnto the Lord. And whē I had C ouercome my selfe at the last I offered a burntofferynge. And Samuell sayde to Saul: * Thou art become a foole, Gen.31D

And Samuell arose and gat hym vp from Gylgall to Gibea Ben Jamin (and the remnaunt of the folke went vp after Saul, to mete the people, whiche fought agaynste them, as they were commynge from Gylgal to Gibea in the hyll of Ben Jamin.)

D And Saull numbred the people that were founde with him, and they were about a fyxe hundred men. And Saul and Jonathas hys sonne and the people that were founde with them had their abydinge in the hyll of Ben Jamin. But the Philistines pytched in Michmas. And there came out of the hoste of the Philistines three companyes, to destroy, one companye turned vnto the waye that leadeth to Ophra vnto the lande of Saul. And another companie turned the waye to Bethoron. And the thirde companye turned to the waye of the coaste that is sene aboue the baley of Zeboim towarde the wylderneste. Ther was no smith found throughout all the lande of Israell. For the Philistines sayd: Leste happely the Ebrues make them swerds or speres. But al the Israelites went downe to the Philistines, to mende euery man hys share, hys mattocke, hys axe and hys necessarye toles: And then the edges of the shares, mattocks donge forkes, and axes were blunte, and also the forkes were to be set in. And so in time of batell there was nether swearde nor spere founde in the handes of any of the people that were with Saul and Jonathas. But with Saul and Jonathas hys sonne was there somwhat found. And the watch of the Philistines came out, to go ouer vnto Michmas.

The .xiiij. Chapter.

AND it fortuned the same time, that Jonathas the sonne of Saul sayde vnto hys yonge man that bare hys harnes: come, and let vs go ouer to the philistines watch that are yonder on the other syde, and he tolde not hys father. And Saul tarryed in the vttermoste parte of Gibea vnder Rimmon, which is in Migrō, and the people that were with hym were vpon a fyxe hundred men. And Ahia the sonne of Ahitab, Jehabods brother, the sonne of Phinehes, the sonne of Ely, was the Lords Priest in Silo and ware an Ephod. And the people wyste not that Jonathas was gone. And in the myddes of the passage (by whiche Jonathas sought to go ouer vnto the Philistines watch) were there two sharpe rockes, euen one on the one syde, and the other on the other syde: the one called Bozez, and the other Senne. The forefront of the one leaned northward towarde Michmas, and the other was southward towarde Gibea: And Jonathas

And the Philistines said: se, the Hebrues come out of the holes where they had hyd them selues in. And the menne of the watche answered Jonathas and hys harnesbearer, and saide: come vp to vs,

and we wyll wewe you a thynge. Ind Jonathas sayde vnto hys harnesbearer, come vp after me, for the Lorde hath delyuered them into the hande of Israel. And Jonathas clame vp vpon handes and fete, and his harnesberer after hym. And (so when they had sene Jonathas face) they fell before Jonathas: and his harnesbearer slewe them after hym. And that fyrst slaughter whithe Jonathas and hys harnesberer made, was vpō a twentie men, within the compasse as it were about an halfe aker of land. And there was a feare in the hoste in the fielde, and amonge al people: in so much that they that were gone out of the watch to rob were afrayed also: and the earth trembled, for the feare that was sene of God. And the watch men of Saul in Gibea Ben Jamin, sawe. And beholde, the people (of the Philistines) were scatered and were smytten as they went. Then sayd Saul vnto the people that was with him. Searche and see, who is gone awaye from vs. And when they had numbred, beholde Jonathas and his harnesbearer were not there. And Saul sayd vnto Ahia: bynge hyther the arke of God. For the arke of God was at that tyme with the chyldren of Israell. And it fortuned that whyle Saul talked vnto the Preste, the noyse that was in the hoste of the Philistines spred farther abrode and encreased (by lytle and lytle, and gaue a more cleare sounde.) And Saul sayd vnto the priest: withdrawe thyne handes. And Saul ioyned hym selfe vnto all the people that were with hym, and they came to the battell. And beholde * euery mannes sweard was agaynst hys felowe, and there was a very great rumor. Moreouer, the Ebrues that were with the philistines before that time, and were come with them into all partes of the host, turned to be with the Israelites that were with Saul and Jonathas. And all the men of Israell also, which had hyd themselues in mount Ephraim, as sone as they harde how that the Philistines were fled, they folowed after thē in the batel. And so god holpe Israell that day. And the batell continued vnto Bethauen. And when the men of Israell were kept down with honger that day. Saul charged ỹ people with an oth saying: Cursed be the man that eateth any foode vntyl night tyl I be auenged of myne enemyes. And so, none of the people tasted anye sustinaunce. And all the inhabiters of the lande came to a wood where hony lay vpon the grounde. And the people came into ỹ wood: And behold, the hony droppyd, & no man moued his hand to his mouth, for the people feared the oth. But Jonathas hard not whē his father charged the people with ỹ oth, wherfore he put forth the ende of the rod that was in his hand & dypte it in an hony combe, & put hys hand to hys mouth, & his eyes receyued sight. Thē answered one of the people & sayd: thy father adiured the people, saying: Cursed be the man that eateth anye sustinaunce this daye: and the people were faynty. Thē sayd Jonathas my father hath troubled the land: se howe myne eyes hath receiued sight, because I tasted a litle of this hony: how much more then to day if the people had eatē of the spoyle of their enemyes whiche they found. And had there not bene then a much greater slaughter among ỹ philistines? & they layed on the philistins that day, frō Michmas to Aialon. And the people were exceding faynty. And the people gat them to the spoyle, and toke shepe, oxen, & calues, & slue them on the ground & the people did eate thē * with the blood. Thē men told Saul saying: Behold, the people sin against the Lorde, in ỹ they eat with the blood. And he said: ye haue trespaced. Rowle a great stone vnto me thys daye, & saul sayd agayn: Go abrod among ỹ people and byd them bryng me euery man his ore & euery man his shepe, & slay them here, & syn not against ỹ lord in eating with the blood. And ỹ people brought euery mā his ore in his hand by night & slewe them ther. And Saul made an aulter vnto the Lorde. And that was ỹ first alter that he made vnto the Lorde.

Leu.7.c. and.19.d

And Saul sayde: let vs go downe after the Philistines by nyght & spoyle them, vntyll it be day in the morenyng, and let vs not leaue on man of them. And they sayde: do whatsoeuer thou thynkest best. Then sayde the preeste: F let vs come hyther vnto God. And Saul asked of God, shall I go downe after the Philistines? wylt thou deliuer them into the handes of Israell? But he answered him not at ỳ time. And Saul sayde: let the people come hither out of all quarters, and knowe and see by whom this synne is chaunced thys day: for as truely as the Lord lyueth which saueth Israell, thoughe it be in Jonathas my sonne, he shall dye the death. But there was no man amonge all the people that answered hym. Then he sayde vnto all Israell: be ye on one side, and I and Jonathas my sonne wyll bee on the other syde. And the people sayde vnto Saull: what thou thynkest beste, that doo. Therfore Saul sayde vnto the Lorde God of Israell: geue a perfecte lotte (Lord God, geue thou the iudgement. Howe happeneth it, that thou geuest thy seruaunte no answere to daye? If thys synne be in me or in Jonathas my sonne, shewe it, or yf thys iniquitye be in thy people.) And Saull and Jonathas were caughte, but the people scape fre. And Saul sayd cast lotte betwene me and Jonathas my sonne. And Jonathas was caughte. Then Saul sayd to Jonathas: tell me what thou haste done. And Jonathas tolde hym, and sayde: I tasted a lytle honye with the ende of the rod that was in myne hande: and lo, I must dye. Saul Muth. 1 C answered: * God do so and so to me, G thou shalte dye the death Jonathas. And the people sayd vnto Saul: shall Jonathas dye whiche hath so myghtely helped Israell? God forbyd. As truely as the Lorde lyueth * there shal 2 Re. 14 E not one heere of hys heade fall to the grounde, for he hath wrought with God thys daye. And so the people delyuered Jonathas, that he dyed not. And then Saul departed vp from folowyng the Philistines. And the Philistes went to their owne place. And so Saull helde the kyngdome ouer Israell, and fought agaynst all hys enemyes on euerye syde agaynst Moab: agaynste the chyldren of Ammon: agaynste the kynges of Zoba, and agaynst the Philistines. And whether soeuer he turned hym selfe, there he wanne: and he gathered hys hoste together, and smote the * Amalekites, Deu. and ryd Israell oute of the handes of them that spoyled them. The sonnes of Saul were: Jonathas, Jesui, and Melchisua. And hys two daughters were thus named: the elder was called Merob, and the yonger: Michol. And the name of Saulles wyfe, was Ahinoa the daughter of Ahimaaz. And the name of hys chefe captayne was Abner the sonne of Ner, Sauls vncle. And * Cis was Sauls father. And 8 Ner the father of Abner was the son 1 Pa. of Abiel. And there was sore warre agaynste the Philistines, all the dayes of Saul. And whosoeuer Saul sawe to be a stronge man, and mete for the warre, he toke hym vnto hym.

¶ The. xv. Chapter.

SAmuell sayde vnto Saul: * the I Lorde sente me to anoynt thee, to 1 Re be kynge ouer hys people Israel. Nowe therfore herken thou vnto the voice of the wordes of the Lord. Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: I remember that whiche Amalecke dyd to Israell * howe they layed wayte Ex. for them in the way, as they came out of Egypte. Nowe therefore go, and smyte Amalecke, and destroye ye all that perteineth vnto them, and se thou haue no compassion on them * (and Ex. conete nothynge that they haue) slaye both manne and woman, infante and suckelyng, oxe, and sheepe, camell and Asse. And Saul gathered the people together and * numbred them in Te- 1 laim, two hundred thousand fote men, and tenne Thousande men of Juda. And Saul came vnto a citye of Amalecke, and set watch in the valey. And 6 Saul sayde vnto the Kenites: go, and depart, and get you downe from among the

the Amelikites, lest I destroye you with them: for ye shewed mercy to all the children of Israell, whē they came out of Egypt. And so the Kenites departed from amonge the Amalekites. And Saul smote the Amalekites frō Hevila, as thou commest to Sur, that lyeth before Egypte, and toke Agag the kynge of the Amalekites alyue, and vtterlye destroyed all the people with the edge of the swearde. * But Saul and the people spared Agag, and the better shepe, and the fatter oxē, and the lambes and all that was good, and would not destroye them. But al that was foule and naughte wooꝛth, that they destroyed vtterly. Then came the wꝛde of the Lord vnto Samuel, saying: * it repēteth me, that I have made Saul kyng. For he is turned frō me, and hath not perfourmed my cōmaundementes. And Samuell was cuyll apayed, and cryed vnto the Lorde all night. And when Samuel rose earlye to mete Saul in the mornyng, it was told Samuel, that Saul was come to Carmel, and behold, he hath made him there a place, and is turned, and departed and gone downe to Gylgal. And Samuell came to Saull, and (Saull offred burntsacrifyce vnto the Lord, of the firste of the spoyles whiche he had brought from Amelec. And when Samuell was come vnto Saul.) Saul sayd vnto hym: Blessed be thou in the Lord. I have fulfylled the commaundement of the Lorde. Samuell sayde: what meaneth then the bleatynge of the shepe in myne eares, and the noyce of the oxen which I heare? Saul answered: they have brought them from the Amalekites. For the people spared the beste of the sheepe and of the oxen, to sacrifye them vnto the Lorde thy God. And the remnaunt have we destroyed vtterlye. Samuell sayde to Saul: let me tell thee what the Lorde hath said to me this night. And he said vnto him: say on. Samuel said * when thou was lytle in thyne owne syghte waste thou not made the heade of the trybes of Israel? And the Lord anoynted the kynge ouer Israell. And the Lord sent thee on a iourney, and sayd: Go, and vtterly destroy those sinners the Amalekites, & fight against them, vntyl thou vtterly destroy them. And wherfore hast thou not herkened vnto the voyce of the Lord, but hast turned to the pray, and haste done that which is wicked in ỹ sight of the Lord? And Saul sayd vnto Samuel: yee, I have harkened vnto the voyce of the Lord, and have gone the way which ỹ Lord sent me vnto, & have brought Agag the kyng of Amalecke, and have vtterlye destroyed the Amalekites. But the people toke of the spoyle shepe, oxen, & the chefest of the things, which sholde have bene destroyed, to offer vnto the Lord thy god in Gylgal. And Samuel sayd: hath the Lord as great plesure in burnt sacrifices and offerynges, as when the voice of the Lord is obeyed? Behold to obey is better thē sacrifice, and to herken is better then the fat of rammes. For rebellion is as the sinne of witchcraft, and stoburnesis as the wyckednesse of Idolatrye. Because thou haste caste away the wꝛde of the Lorde, therfore hath the Lorde caste away thee also, from beyng kyng. And Saul sayd vnto Samuel: I have sinned, for I have gone farther then the sayinge of the Lorde and thy wordes, because I feared the people, & obeyed theyr voyce. Nowe therefore take away my synne, and turne againe with me, that I may worshyppe the Lorde. And Samuel sayd vnto Saul: I will not returne with the: for thou hast cast away the wꝛde of the Lord, & the Lord hath cast away the, that thou shalt not be kyng ouer Israel. And as Samuel turned himselfe to go away, he caught the lappe of his coate, and it rent. And Samuel sayd vnto him the Lord hath rente the kyngdome of Israell from thee thys daye, and hath geuen it to a neyghbour of thine, that is better then thou. The strength of Israel will not begyle nor repent: for he is not a man, that can repente. He sayd I have synned. But nowe honoure me before the elders of my people, and before Israell, and turne agayne with me, that I may worshippe the Lord thy God.

G And so Samuel turned agayn, and folowed Saul. And Saul worshipped the Lord. Then sayd Samuel: bringe ye hyther to me Agag, the kyng of the Amalekits. And Agag came vnto him delicately. And Agag sayde: truely the bitter death cometh on. And Samuell said: As thy sweard hath made wemen childlesse, so shal thy mother be childlesse aboue other womenne. And Samuell hewed Agag in peces before the 1.Re.7d Lorde in Gylgal. And then * Samuell departed to Rama. And Saul went home to his house to Gibea saul And Samuell came no more to see Saul, vntill the day of his death. Neuertheles Samuel morned for Saul: & the Lorde repented that he had made Saul kyng ouer Israell.

¶ The.xvi. Chapter.

THe Lorde sayd vnto Samuell: Howe long wylt thou mourne for Saul seing I haue cast him away from raygnynge ouer Israell: Fyll thine horne with oyntment, and come, that I may sende the to Isai the Bethlemite, for I haue prouided me a kyng amonge his sons. And Samuell sayde: howe can I goo? For yf Saul heare it, he wyll kyll me. The Lorde answered: Take an Heifer with thee, & say: I am com to offer vnto the lord. And call Isai to the offeringe, and I wyl shew the what thou shalt do. And thou shalt anoynt hym whom I name vnto the. And so Samuel dyd as the Lord bad hym, and came to Bethleem, and the elders of the towne were asto-

B meste thou peaceably? He answered: Ye, I am come to offer vnto the Lord.
Nu.11d * Sanctifye your selues, & come with Iosu.3d me vnto the offering. And he sanctified and.7.c Isai and hys sonnes, and bad them to the offeringe. And when they were come, he loked on Eliab, and sayde: Surely the Lordes anointed is before him. But the Lord sayd vnto Samuell: loke not on hys fashion, or on the heigth of hys stature, because I haue refused hym: for God seeth not as man seeth. For man loketh on the outward aperaunce, but god beholdeth the hert. Then Isai called Abinadab, and made hym come before Samuell. And he sayde: neyther hath the Lorde chosen this. Then Isai made Samma come, and he sayd: neyther yet hath the Lord chosen hym. Agayne Isai made seuen of hys sonnes to come before Samuell. And Samuell sayde vnto Isai: the Lorde hath chosen none of these. And Samuell sayde vnto Isai: are here all C thy children? He sayde: there is yet a litle one behind, that kepeth the shepe. And Samuell sayde vnto Isai: sende & fet hym, for we wyll not syt down, tyll he be come hyther. And he sente, and broughte hym in. And he was browne, and of an excellente bewtye, Ge.39a * and well fauoured in syght. And the Lorde sayde: Aryse, and anoynte hym, for thys is he. Therefore Samuell toke the horne with the ointment, and annoynted hym in the myddes of hys brethren. And the spyrete of the Lorde came vpon Dauid, from that daye forwarde. And Samuell rose vppe, and wente to Rama. But the spyrete of the Lorde departed from Saull, and an euyll spyrete sente of the Lorde vexed hym. And Saulles seruauntes sayde vnto hym: Beholde, an euyll spyrete sent of God vexeth thee, let our Lorde therefore commaunde hys seruauntes (that are before thee) to seke a man, that is a coumynge player with an harpe: that when the euyll spyrete sente of God commeth vppon thee, he maye playe with hys hande, and thou shalt be eased. Saule sayde vnto hys seruauntes: prouyde me a man then, that can playe well, and bringe hym to me. Then answered one of his seruaunts, and sayde: Behold, I haue sene a sonne D of Isai a Bethleemite, that can playe vppon instrumentes, and is an actyue felowe, and a man of warre, and prudente in doynge of feates, and well made, and the Lorde is with hym. Wherefore Saule sente messengers vnto Isai, and sayde: send me Dauid thy sonne, whyche is with the shepe. And Isai tooke an Asse laden with bread, and a flacket of wine, and a kyd, and sent them by Dauid hys sonne vnto Saul. And Dauid came to Saul and stode before him, and he loued him very well, and he was made his harnesbearer. And Saule sente to Jsai, sayinge: let Dauid remayne with me, for he hath found fauoure in my sight. And so it fortuned, that when the euill spyrite sente of God came vpon Saul, Dauid toke an harpe, and plaied with his hand, and so Saul was refreshed, and dyd amende, and the euyll spyrite departed from hym.

¶ The .xvii. Chapter.

THe Philistines gathered their hoste to battell, and came together to Socoth which is in Juda, and pytched betwene Socoth and Azekah, in the coste of Dammin. And Saul and the men of Jsraell came together, and pitched in the Oke valley, and put them selues in araye, to fyght agaynst the Philistines. And the Philistines stode on an hyll on the one syde, and Jsrael stode on an hyll on the other syde, and there was a valley betwene them. And there came a man betwene them both, oute of the tentes of the Philistines, named Goliath of Gath, sixe cubites and an handbredth longe, and had an helmet of brasse vpon hys heade, and a coate of mayle about hym. And the weyghte of hys coate of mayle was fiue thousande sicles of brasse. And he had bootes of brasse vpon hys legges, and a sheilde of brasse vpon hys shoulders. And the shafte of hys speare was lyke a weauers beame. And his speare head weyed, syxe hundred sickles of yron. And one bearynge a shielde went before hym. And he stode and cryed agaynste the hooste of Jsraell, and sayde vnto them: Why are ye come out in aray to battell? am not J a Philistine, & you seruaunts to Saul? Chose you a man from amonge you, and lette hym come downe to me. And if he be able to fight with me, and to beate me, then wil we be your seruauntes. But if J can ouercome hym and beate him, then shal ye be our seruantes, and serue vs. And the Philistine sayde: J defye the hoste of Jsraell thys daye: gene me a man, that we maye fyghte together. When Saul and all Jsraell hard those wordes of the Philistine, they were discouraged, and greately afrayd. Dauid was the soonne of an Ephrahite (of whom mẽcion is made afore) of Bethlehem Juda, named Jsai, whiche had eyghte sonnes. And was an olde man in the dayes of Saul, and came to age amonge men. And the three eldest sons of Jsai wente and folowed Saul to the battell. And the names of hys three sonnes that wente to batell, were: Eliab the eldest, and the next, Abinadab, and the thirde Hamma, and Dauyd was the leaste. And the three eldeste wente after Saul. Dauyd also went, and departed from Saul, to fede hys fathers shepe at Bethlehem. And the Philystine came foorthe in the mornynge and euenynge, and continued fortye dayes. And Jsai sayde vnto Dauyd hys sonne: Take for thy brethren an Epha of thys partched corne and these ten loaues, and bryngeit vnto the hooste to thy brethren. And carye these ten freshe cheses vnto the captayne, and loke howe thy brethren fare, and fet oute their pledges. And Saul and they, and all the men of Jsrael were in the oke valey, fyghtyng with the Philistines. And Dauyd rose vp early in the mornynge, and left the sheepe with a keper, and toke and went as Jsai had commaunded hym, and came within the compasse of the hoste. And the hoste went out in aray, and shouted in the battell: for Jsraell and the Philistines hadde put them selues in araye, the one agaynste the other. And Dauid toke downe the gere from him and put them vnder the handes of the keper of the vessels, and ran into the host, and came, and saluted his brethren. And as he talked with them. Behold, there stode a man in the middes (Goliath the Philistine by name) of Gath out of the aray of the Philistines, and spake of the maner afore rehearsed, that Dauyd harde it. And all the men of Jsraell, when they saw the man, ranne awaye from him, and were soze afrayde. And euerye man of Israell sayde: Sawe ye this manne come forth? euen to reuile Israell, is he come. And to hym that beateth Josu. 15 hym wil the kynge geue great riches, and will geue him his daughter therto ye, and make his fathers house free in Israell. And Dauid spake to the men that stode by and sayd: What shal D be done to the man that beateth thys Philistine, & taketh away the shame from Israell? And what is thys vncircumcised Philistine, that he should reuile the hoste of the liuing God? And the people answered him (after thys maner,) sayinge: so shall it be done to the man, that beateth him. And Eliab hys eldest brother hard whȳe he spake vnto the men, and Eliab was angrye with Dauid, and sayde: Why camest thou downe hether? and with whom hast thou lefte those fewe shepe in the wylderne? I knowe thy pryde and the malyce of thyne hart, that thou art come downe to se the battel. And Dauyd sayde. And what haue I nowe done? is there not a worde? And he departed from hym into the presence of another, and spake of the same maner, and the people answered hym agayne, as before. And they that harde the wordes whych Dauid spake, rehearsed them before Saul, which caused hym to be fet. And Dauid sayde to Saul: Let no mans hart fayle him because of him. Thy seruaunt wil go and fyght with yonder Philistine. And Saul sayde to Dauid again: thou art not able to go agaynst yonder Philistine, to fight with him. For thou art but a chyld, but he is a man of warre euen from his youth. Dauid answered vnto Saul. Thy seruaunt kepte his father shepe, and there came a lyon, & likewise a Beare, & toke a shepe Iudi. 14 Heb. 11. out of the flocke. And I went oute after hym, and smote him, and tooke it out of hys mouth. And when he arose against me, I caught him by the beard and smote him, and slewe him. And so thy seruaunt slue the Lyon, and the Beare (also) hath thy seruaunt slaine. And truely this vncircumcised Philistine shalbe as one of them. (Nowe will I go, and take awaye the rebuke of the people, for what is this vncircumcised Philistine) seynge he hathe rayled on the hoste of the liuyng God. And Dauid spake moreouer: the Lord that deliuered me out of the hand of the Lyon, & out of the hande of the Beare, he shal deliuer me also out of the hand of the Philistine. And Saul sayd vnto Dauid: Go, and the Lorde shalbe with the. And Saul put his rayment vpon Dauid, & put an helmet of brasse vpon his head, and put a coate of maile vpon hym, and girded Dauid with hys owne sweard vpon hys raiment. And he assayed to go. And because he neuer proued it, Dauyd sayde vnto Saul: I cannot go wt these: for I haue not vsed my selfe therto: and Dauyd put them of hym, and tooke hys staffe in hys hande, & chose him fiue smothe stones out of a broke, and put them in a sheaperdes bagge, which he had, and a slynge poke: and his slinge was in hys hand. and he went to the Philystine. And the Philistine cam & drewe nere against Dauid, and the man that bare the shylde, went before hym. And when the Philistine loked about, and sawe Dauid, he disdayned him, for he was but ponge, and well coloured, & goodly to loke vpon. And the Philystine sayd vnto Dauid: am I a dogge, that thou commest to me with a staffe, and the Philistine cursed Dauid in the name of hys goddes. And the Philistine sayd to Dauid: come to me, & I wyll geue thy flesh vnto the foules of the ayre, and to the beastes of the field: Then sayde Dauid to the Philistine: thou comest to me & a sweard a speare, and a shylde: But I come to the in the name of the Lord of hostes, the God of the hoste of Israell, whom thou hast rayled vpon. This day shall the Lord deliuer the into my hande, & I shal smite the, and take thyne heade from the, & will geue the karkases of the hoste of the Philistins this day vnto the foules of the ayre, and to the beastes of the earth, that all they whiche be in the worlde, may knowe, that there is a God in Israell. And al this congregation shall knowe, that the Lord, saueth not with sweard and speare. For the battayle is the Lordes, and he shal geue you into our handes. And when the Philistine arose to come & drawe nye vnto Dauid. Dauid hasted, and ran into the battayle euen against the Philistine. And Dauid put his hand 14. in hys bagge, and toke out a stone, and slange it, and smote the Philistine in G his forehead, that the stone suncke into his forehead: and he fell groueling to the earth, and soo Dauid ouercame the Philistine, with a slynge & a stone, and smote the Philistine, and slewe hym, euen whan Dauid had no sweard in his hande. But Dauid ranne and stode vpon the Philistyne, & toke hys sweard, and drewe it oute of hys sheathe, and slewe hym, and cut of his 17.f heade therewith. And when the Philistine saw, that their champion was deade, they fled. And the men of Israell and of Juda arose, and showted, and followed after the Philistines, vntyll they came to the valey, and vnto the gates of Akaron. And the Philistines fell downe wounded by the way to Saarayim, euen vnto Gath and Akaron. And the children of Israel returned from chasyng after the Philistines, and spoyled their tents. And Dauid toke the heade of the Philystyne, and brought it to Jerusalem: But hy put his armour in hys tente.

14 When Saul sawe Dauid goo forthe agaynst the Philistine, he sayde vnto Abner the captayne of his host: Abner, whose sonne is this yonge man? Abner answered: as truly as thy soul lyueth (O kyng) I cannot tell. And the kynge sayd: Enquire thou whose sonne the yongelynge is. And when Dauid was returned from the slaughter of the Philistins, Abner toke him and brought hym before Saul, wyth the heade of the Philistine in his hād. And Saul sayde to hym: whose sonne arte thou, thou yonge man? Dauyd answered: I am the sonne of thy seruaunt Isai the Bethlehemite.

AND when he hadde made an A ende of speakyng vnto Saul, the soule of Jonathas was knytte with the soule of Dauid, and Jonathas loued hym as hys owne soule. And Saul toke hym that daye, and would let hym go no more home to his fathers house. And Jonathas made a couenaunte with Dauyd, because he loued hym as his own soule. And Jonathas put of his owne coate that was vpon him, and gaue it Dauid, & therto his cloke, his sweard, his bowe and his girdle. And Dauid went oute B whether soeuer Saul sente him, and behaued hym selfe wisely. And Saul set hym ouer his men of warre, and he was accepted in the sight of all the people, and in the sight of Sauls seruantes. And it happened as they wente, when Dauyd was returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, the wome came out of all cities of Israell syngynge and daunsynge, against Kynge Saul, and with timbrelles, with ioye and with instrumentes of musycke. And the women answered one another in their playe, and sayde: Saul 1.Re.21 hath slayne his thousand, and Dauid and .29.
his ten thousande. And Saul was exceedyng wroth, and the saying displeased hym, and he sayd: they haue ascrybed vnto Dauid ten thousande, and to me but a thousande, and what can he more haue, saue the kyngdome? Wherfore Saul loked on side of Dauid frō that day forwarde. And it happened on the morowe, that the euil spyrit sent of God, came vpon Saul, and he prophecied in the middes of the house.
And Dauyd played with hys hande C lyke as at other tymes, and there was a iauelin in Sauls hande. And Saul toke the iauelin, and said I wyl nayle Dauid to the wall with it. And Dauyd auoyded out of his presence two tymes. And Saul was afeard of Dauid, because the Lorde was with him and was departed frō Saul. Therefore Saul put him frō him, and made him a captaine ouer a thousande, & he went out & in before the people. And Dauid behaued hym selfe wisely in al his wayes, and the Lord was w him.

D Wherfore when Saul sawe that he was so exceding wise, he was afrayde of hym. But all Israel & Juda loued Dauid, because he went oute & in before them. And Saul sayd to Dauyd.
Behold, my eldest daughter Merob, her I will geue the to wyfe. Onely play the man with me, and fyghte the Lordes battels. For Saul thought: myne hande shall not be vppon hym, but the hande of the Philistines. And Dauid answered Saul: what am I: and what is my lyfe, or the kynred of my father in Israell, that I should be sonne in lawe to the kynge? Howbeit, when the tyme was come that Me-rob Sauls daughter should haue ben geuen to Dauid, she was geuen vnto Adriell a Meholathite, to wife. How beit, Michol Saules daughter loued Dauid. And they shewed Saul: and the thyng displeased him not. A N D Saul sayde: I wil geue him her that she may be a snare to hym, and that the hand of ỹ Philistines may be against him. Wherfore Saul sayd to Dauid: thou shalt thys day be my sonn in lawe in the other daughter. And Saul com maunded his seruauntes, to commen with Dauid secretly, and to say: Be-holde, the kyng hath a fauour to the, & all hys seruauntes loue thee, be nowe therefore the kynges sonne in lawe.
And Saules seruauntes spake those E wordes in the eares of Dauid. And Dauid said: Semeth it to you a lyght thyng to be a kynges sonne in lawe?
I am a poore man, and of smale reputation. And the seruauntes brought Saul word agayn, saying: of thys ma ner spake Dauid: And Saul said: this wise shal ye say to Dauid, the king ca reth for no nother dowrye, but for an hundred foreskyns of the Philistins, to be auenged of the kynges enemies.
But Saul thought to make Dauyd fall into the hands of the Philistines.
And when his seruauntes tolde Da-uid these wordes, it pleased Dauyd F well to be the kynges sonne in lawe.
And or the dayes were expyred, Dauyd arose with his men, and went & slew of the Philistines, two hundred men, and Dauid brought their foreskynnes and satisfied the kyng therof, to be hys sonne in lawe. Wherefore 2 Re.
Saul gaue him Michol his daughter to wyfe. And Saul sawe and vnder-stode, howe that the Lorde was wyth Dauid, and that Michol his daughter loued him, and he was the more afraid of Dauid, and Saul became alwaye Dauids enemie. The Lordes of the Philistins vsed to go forth. And it for tuned ỹ when they wẽt forth, Dauyd behaued him selfe wiselyer then al the seruauntes of Saul: so that hys name was much set by.

The .xix. Chapter.

SAul spake to Jonathas his son, and to all his seruauntes, ỹ they should kyll Dauid. But Jona 1 Re. thas Sauls sonne had a great fauour to Dauid, and Jonathas told Dauid saying: Saul my father goeth about to slee the. Nowe therfore take hede to thy selfe vntyll the morynge, and abyde in some secret place and hide thy selfe. And I wyll go out, and stand by my father in the felde where thou art, and wyll common with my father of thee, and what soeuer I see, I wyl tel the. And Jonathas spake good of Da uyd vnto Saule hys father, and sayde vnto him: let not the kyng syn against his seruaunte Dauid, for he hath not sinned agaynste thee, and hys workes haue bene to thee warde verye good. Jos.
For he dyd put his lyfe in his hand, pla. and slewe the Philistine: and the Lord brought to passe a great health for all Israell. Thou sawest it, and thou retoysedst, wherfore then wylt thou syn agaynst innocent blood, and slay Dauyd without a cause? And Saul harkened vnto the voice of Jonathas, and sware: as truely as the Lorde lyueth he shall not dye. And Jonathas called Dauid, and shewed him al those word-des, and brought Dauid vnto Saul.
And he was in his presẽce as in times paste. And the war began agayne, and Dauid went out and fought with the Philistins, and slu them with a great slaughter, and they fled from him. And the euell spirete sente of the Lorde was vpon vpon Saul, as he sat in his house, hauyng a Iauelin in his hand, & Dauyd played with his hand. And Saul entended to nayle Dauid to ꝑ wal with the Iauelin. But he rid hymselfe out of Sauls presence, as he smote the speare (with a vayne stroke) into the wall. And Dauid fled and was saued the same night. Saul also sent messengers vnto Dauides house, to watch hym, and to slay him in the mornyng. And Michol Dauids wife told it him C saying: Ik thou saue not thy selfe thys 1.Re nyght, to morow thou wilt be slayne.

19.d And so Michol let Dauid down thorow a windowe, & he went & fled, and was saued. And then shee toke an Image and layed it in the bed, and put a pillow stuffed with goates heare vnder the heade of it, and couered it with a cloth. And when Saul sent messengers to fetche Dauid, she sayde, he is sick. And Saule sent ꝑ messengers agayne to see Dauid, saying: bryng him to me, bed and al, that I may slay him. And when the messengers were come in: Beholde, there lay an ymage in the bed, with a pillow of goates heare vnder the head of it. And Saul sayd vnto Michol: why hast thou mocked me so, and sent away myne enemy that he is escaped. Michol answered Saul. For he saide vnto me, let me go, or elles I will kyl thee. And so Dauid fled, and escaped, and came to Samuel to Rama, & tolde him al that Saul had done D to him. And he & Samuel wente and dwelt in Naioth. And one told Saul saying: Behold, Dauid is at Naioth in Rama. And Saul sent messengers to fet Dauid. And when they sawe a company of Prophetes prophesying, and Samuel standynge faste by them the spyrete of God fel vpon the messengers of Saul, and they prophesied to. And when it was told Saul, he sent other messengers, and they prophesied lykewise. And Saul sent messengers yet agayne the thirde tyme, and they prophesyed also. Then went he hym selfe to Rama, and came to a great wel that is in Sichu, and he asked and sayd: where are Samuel and Dauide And one sayd: Behold, they be at Naioth in Rama, and he went thyther euen to Naioth in Rama, and the spyrete of God came vpon him also, and he went prophesying, vntyll he came to Naioth in Rama. And he strypt of hys clothes & prophesyed before Samuell in like maner, and fell naked all that day and all that night. And therof is it, that they saye: is Saul also among the Prophetes?

AND Dauid fled from Naioth
E which is in Rama, and came & said before Jonathas: What haue I done? wherin am I faulty? what is the synne that I haue cõmitted before thy father, that he seketh my lyfe? He sayde vnto him, God forbyd, thou shalt not dye. Behold, my father wyl do nothing, eyther great or small, but that he will shewe it me. And how should my father hide this thing from me? He wyll not do it. And Dauid sware agayne, and sayde: Thy father knoweth, that I haue found grace in thyn eyes, and therfore he sayth: Jonathas shal not knowe it, lest he be sory. And in very dede, euen as truly as the Lorde liueth, and as truly as thy soule lyueth, there is but a step betwene me and death. Then sayd Jonathas vnto Dauid whatsoeuer thy soule desireth, that I will do vnto thee. And Dauid sayde vnto Jonathas: Behold, to morowe is the begynnyng of the moneth, and I should sytte with the kynge at meat. But let me go, that I may hyde my selfe in the feldes vnto the thirde day at euen. Ik thy father speak of me, B then saye: Dauid asked leaue of me, that he might go to Bethlehem to his owne citie, for there is holden a yerely feaste for all the kynredde. And yf he say, it is wel done, then thy seruaunte shall haue peace. But and yf he be angrye, then be sure that wyckednesse is vtterlye concluded of him. And then thou shalt shewe mercy vnto thy seruaunt, * for thou haste made with me thy seruaunte a bonde in the Lorde. 1Re 18a and, 13.c

and bryng me not to thy father. And Jonathas answered: God kepe that from the (neither is it possible to come to passe.) for if I knewe that wickednesse were concluded of my father, to come vpon thee, thynkest thou, that I should not tell it the? Then sayd Dauid: who shall tell me, if thy father answere cruelly? And Jonathas sayde vnto Dauid: come and let vs go oute into the field. And they went out both of them into the fielde. And Jonathas sayd vnto Dauyd: The Lorde God of Israell loke on it, when I haue groped my fathers mynde, one tyme or other within thys three dayes, that it stande well with Dauid. If I then sende not vnto thee and shewe it thee. the Lord do so and so vnto Jonathas. But yf my father haue any pleasure to do the euill. I wyll shewe the also, and sende thee away that thou mayest go in peace. And the Lorde be with thee, as he hath bene with my father. And thou shalte perfourme vnto me the mercy of the Lord, not only whyle I lyue, but euen when I am deade, and plucke not thy mercy awaye from my house for euer: No not when the Lorde hath destroyed the enemyes of Dauyd, euery one from the face of the earth. And so Jonathas made a bonde with the house of Dauyd, desyrynge that the Lorde shoulde seke it out by the handes of Dauyds enemyes (yf it were broken.) And with other wordes dyd Jonathas sweare vnto Dauyd, because he loued hym. For he loued him as his owne soule. Then sayd Jonathas to Dauyd: to morowe is the first day of the mone. And thou shalte be mysled, because the place wher thou waste wonte to sytte, shal be emptye. Therfore thys daye three dayes come downe in anye wyse vnto the place where thou dyddest hyde thy self, whē the busynes was in hande: euen by the stone Esell. And I wyll shote three arowes by the one syde thereof, as thoughe I shot them at a marke, and wyll sende a lad, & bid him go seke the arowes. And if I saye vnto the lad: se, the arowes are on this syde the, bryng them: then come thou: for it is peace and no hurte, as sure as the Lorde lyueth. But & if I say vnto the lad: behold, the arowes are beyond thee, then go (in peace) for the Lord hath sent the away. And as touchyng this whiche thou and I haue spoken: beholde, the Lord be betwene thee and me for euer. And so Dauyd hydde hym selfe in the field. And when the newe mone was come, the king sate him downe to eate meate. And the kynge sate him downe after the olde maner, in his seat by the wall. And Jonathas arose and Abner sate by Sauls syde, and Dauids place was empty. Neuertheles, Saul sayd nothyng at all ỳ daye. For he thought: some thing hath chaunced him that he is not cleane. But on ỳ morow which was the second day of the newe mone, it happened that Dauyds place was empty agayne. And Saul sayde vnto Jonathas his son. Wherfore commeth not that sonne of Jsai to meat, neither yesterday not to daye? And Jonathas answered vnto Saule. Dauyd asked lycence of me, to go to Bethleem, for he sayde: let me go I praye the for our kynred doeth holde an offeryng in the citie, and my brother hath sent for me. And therfore if I haue found fauoure in thyne eyes, let me go. and se my brethren. Thys is the cause that he commeth not vnto the kinges table. Then was Saul angry with Jonathas and sayd vnto him: Thou wicked rebel, do not I know, that thou hast chosen the sonne of Jsai vnto thine owne rebuke, and vnto the rebuke and shame of thy mother? for as long as the son of Jsai liueth vpon the earth, thou shalte not be stablished, nor yet the kyngdome, wherfore nowe send and fet him vnto me, for he is the childe of death. And Jonathas answered vnto Saul hys father, and sayde to hym: Wherefore shoulde he dye? what hath he done? And Saule lyfte vp a speare to hyt hym, whereby Jonathas wyste well that it was vtterly determined of hys father, to slaye Dauid. And so Jonathas arose fro the table in a gret anger and dyd eate no meate the second daye

of the moneth, for he was sory for Dauid because his father hadde done hym shame. On the next morynge, Jonathas wente oute into the fielde, at the tyme appoynted with Dauyd, and a little ladde with him. And he sayde vnto his boye: runne and seeke oute myne arowes which I shotte. And as the boy ran he shotte an arowe beyonde hym. And when the ladde was come to the place, whether Jonathas had shot the arrowe, Jonathas cryed after the lad agayne: make spede, and stand not styll. And Jonathas lad gathered vp the arrowes, and came to hys mayster. But the ladde wist nothynge of the matter. Onelye Jonathas and Dauid wist it. And Jonathas gaue his weapons vnto the lad that was with him, and said vnto him go and cary them to the towne. And as sone as the lad was gone, Dauyd arose out of a place that was towarde the South, and fell on his face to the grounde, and worshypped thre times. And they kyssed either other, & wepte together so long, till Dauid exceading in weppynge. And Jonathas sayde to Dauid: go in peace. And the thynges whyche we haue sworne both of vs in the name of the Lorde sayinge: the Lorde be betwene thee and me, & betwene thy sede and myne, lette theym stande for euer. And he arose, and departed. And Jonathas went into the towne.

¶ The. xxi. Chapter.

THen came Dauid to Nob to Ahimelech the preist: And Ahimelech was astonied at the sodain commyng of Dauid, and sayde vnto hym. Why art thou alone, and no man with thee? And Dauid sayde to Ahymelech the Preist: the kynge hath commaunded me to do a certayne thynge, and hath sayde vnto me, let no manne knowe where aboute I sende thee, and what I haue commaunded the to do: And I haue appoynted my seruauntes, to suche and suche places. Nowe therefore if thou haste oughte vnder thine hande, gene me fiue loaues of breade, or what commeth to hande. And the preist answered Dauid, and sayde: there is noo common breade vnder myne hande, but here is holowed breade, if the ponge mē haue kepte them selues from vncleane thinges, especially women. Dauid answered the preist, and sayde vnto hym: of a truth wemen hath bene locked vp trō vs about a three dayes, when I came out and the vessels of the younge men were holye. Howebeit this waye is vnpure, and howe muche more shall there be holynes in the vessell. * And so the preist gaue him halowed bread, for there was no nother breade there saue the shewebreades, that were take from before the Lorde, to putte freshe breade there, the day that it was taken awaye. And there was there the same daye, a certayne man, of the seruantes of Saul, abydynge before the Lord, named Doeg and Edomite the cheefe of Sauls hearde men. And Dauid sayde vnto Ahimelech: is not here vnder thyne hand, either speare or sword for I haue neither brought my sword nor my harnesse with me, because the kynges busynesse required haste. And the preist sayde: the swearde of Goliath the Philistine whom thou slewest in the Oke, valley, beholde, it is here wrapt in a cloth behinde the Ephod. If thou wilt take that: take it for theire is no nother saue that here. And Dauid said, ther is none to ỹ geue it me. And Dauid arose & fled ỹ same day from the presence of Saul, and went to Achis the kyng of Geth. And the seruaunts of Achis sayde of hym: is not this Dauyd the kynge of the lande? dyd they not synge vnto hym, in daunces, sayinge: * Saul hath slain his thousande, and Dauyd hys ten thousande? And Dauid putte those wordes into his harte, and was sooze afrayde of Achis the kynge of Geth. And he chaunged his speache before them, and fayned him selfe mad in ther hands, and scrabled on the dores of the gate, and let his spyttel fall downe vpon his beard. Then sayde Achis vnto hys seruauntes: Loo ye see that thys man is beside him selfe, wherfore the

The.xxii. Chapter.

A Dauid therfore departed thence, and escaped, and came vnto ꝑ cane Odollam. When his bre thren also and all his fathers house harde it, they went downe thither to hym. And there gathered vnto hym all men that were in combrance, and in dette, and troubled in their myndes, and he became a captayne ouer them. And there were with hym vpon a foure hundred men. And Dauid went thence to Mizpa in the land of Moab: and sayde vnto the kynge of Moab: Let my father and my mother (I pray thee) come forth vnto you, tyll I knowe what God wyll do for me. And he broughte theim before the kyng of Moab. And they dwelt with hym all the while that Dauid kepte hymselfe in holde. And the Prophete Gad sayde vnto Dauid, abyde not in holde, but departe and go into ꝑ lande of Juda. Then Dauid departed and

B came into the forest Hareth. AND Saul hard that Dauid was come abrode, and also the men ꝑ were with hym. And Saul sat in Gibea vnder a tree in Rama, hauing his spere in his hande, and all hys men stoode aboute hym. And Saul sayde vnto hys seruauntes that stode about hym. Heare I pray you, ye sonnes of Jemini: Will the son of Jsai geue euery one of you fieldes and vyneyardes, and make you all captaynes ouer thousandes & ouer hundredes? that ye haue also conspired agaynst me, and there is none that

1.Re.18 and.20.d telleth it me in eare? And where as my sonne hath made a bonde with the sonne of Jsai, there is none of you that mourneth for me, or sheweth it in myne eare: beholde, my sonne hath stered vp my seruaunte to ley awayte agaynst me thys same day. Then answered Doeg the Edomite which also stode by the seruauntes of Saul, & sayde, I sawe the sonne of Jsai when he came to Nob, to Ahimelech the son of Ahitob, whyche asked counsell of the Lorde for hym and gaue hym vytayle, and the swearde of Goliah the Philistine also. Then the kyng sente and called for Ahimelech the preist the sonne of Ahitob, and all hys fathers house, that is to saye, the preistes that were in Nob. And they came al to the kynge. And Saul sayde: heare nowe thou sonne of Ahitob. He answered: C here am I my Lorde. And Saul sayd vnto hym: Why haue ye conspired agaynst me, thou and the sonne of Jsai, in that thou hast geuen hym vyttayle, and a swearde, and hast asked counsel of God for hym: that he shoulde aryse agaynst me, & lye awayte for me thys daye? Ahimelech answered the kynge and sayde, who is so faythfull amonge all thy seruauntes as Dauid, & thereto the kynges sonne in lawe, and goeth at thy byddyng, and is had in honour in thyne house? haue I this day begon first to aske counsel of GOD for hym? That befarre from me (yf I had knowen it) let not the kynge put suche a thyng vpon his seruaunte, in all the house of my father. For thy seruaunte, knewe nothynge of all thys, eyther lesse or more. Then kyng sayde: D thou shalt surely die Ahimelech, thou and all thy fathers house. AND the kynge sayde vnto the footemen that stode aboute hym, turne, and slay the preistes of the Lord, both because ther hande is with Dauid, and because they knewe when Dauid fledde, and shewed it not to me. But the seruaunres of the kyng would not moue their handes, to fall vppon the preistes: of the Lorde. And the kynge sayd to Doeg: turne thou, and fall vpon the preistes, and Doeg the Edomite turned and ranne vpon the preistes, and slue that same daye foure skore and fyue persones, that dyd weare a linnen Ephod. And Nob that citie of the preistes smote he with the edge of the swearde, both men and women, chyldren, and suckelynges, oxen, and asses, and sheepe. And one of the sons of A-himelech

himelech, the sonne of Ahitob (named Abiathar) escaped and fled to Dauyd. And Abiathar shewed Dauid, howe that Saul had slayne the Lordes preistes. And Dauid sayd vnto Abiathar: I wist it the same day, whan Doeg the Edomite was there, that he wold tell Saul. AND I am cause of the death of all the soules of thy fathers house. Abyde thou with me, and feare not. For yf any man seke my soule, he shall seke thyne also, with me thou shalte be in safegarde.

¶ The .xxiii. Chapter.

THen they tolde Dauid saying: Beheld the Philistines fyght agaynst Keilah, and spoyle the the barnes. Therefore Dauid asked the Lordes aduyse saying: shall I goo and smite these Philistines? And the Lorde answered vnto Dauid: go, and smyte the Philistines, and saue Keilah. And Dauids men that were with hym, sayde vnto him: se, we be afrayde here in Juda: howe muche more then yf we come to Kailah agaynst the hoste of the Philistines? Then Dauid asked the Lorde agayne. And the Lorde answered hym and sayde: Aryse, and go downe to Keila, for I will deliuer the Philistines into thine hand. And so Dauid and his men went to Keila and fought with the Philistines, and droue awaye their catteil, and smote them with a great slaughter. And soo Dauid saued the inhabiters of Keila. And it chaunced, when Abiathar the sonne of Ahimelech fled to Dauid to Keila, that he broughte an Ephod wyth hym in his hande. And it was tolde Saul, that Dauid was come to Keila. And Saul sayd: God hath deliuered hym into myne hande. For he is shut in nowe that he is come into a towne, that hath gates and barres. And Saul called all the people together to warre, for to go downe to Keila, to beseige Dauyd and his men. And Dauid haunge knowlege, that Saule imagined myscheife (agaynste hym, sayde to Abiathar the preist: Bynge the Ephod. Then sayde Dauid: O LORDE GOD of Israell, thy seruaunte hath hearde, that Saul is aboute to come agaynste Keila to destroy the citie for my sake: wyll the men of Keila delyuer me into his hande? And wil Saul come downe, as thy seruaunte hath herde saye? O LORD God of Israell, tell thy seruaunt. And the Lord sayd: he wyll come downe. Than sayd Dauid: wyll the men of Keila deliuer me and the men that are with me into the hande of Saul? and the Lorde sayde, they wyll betraye you. Then Dauid and his men whych were vpon a sixe hundred, arose and departed oute of Keila, and went whether they could. And it was tolde Saul, that Dauid was fled from Keila, and he lette the iourney alone. Dauyd abode in the wyldernesse in strouge holdes, and remayned in a mountayne in the wyldernesse of Ziph. And Saul soughte hym euery daye, but GOD deliuered him not into hys hande. AND Dauid sawe that Saul was come oute, to seke hys lyfe. AND Dauid was in the wyldernesse of Ziph, in a thycket. And Jonathas Sauls sonne arose and wente to Dauyd into the thicket, and comforted hys hande in God, and sayd vnto him: feare not, for the hande of Saul my father shall not finde thee, and thou shalt be kynge ouer Israell, and I must be nexte vnto the. And that doth Saul my father knowe. And they made a bonde both of them together before the Lord. And Dauid taried styll in the thycket, and Jonathas went to his house. 1.Kezo 1.Re.18 and.20.b

Then came the Ziphites to Saul, to Gibea, saying: Doth not Dauid hide hym selfe fast by vs in stronge holdes, in a thycket that is by the hyll of Hachila, on the ryght syde of the wildernesse? Nowe therefore kynge, thou mayest come downe accordynge to all the lust of thy soule: come downe, and our parte shalbe to deliuer hym into the kynges hand. And Saul said, blessed are ye in the Lord: for ye haue compassiō on me. Go I pray you, order the matter well, knowe and see hys haunte, where hys foote hath bene, & who hath sene him there, for it is told me, that he is very suttle and worketh D craftely. Se therefore, and knowe all the lurkyng places: where he hydeth hym selfe, and come yee agayne to me with the certentie, and I wyll goo wt you. And yf he be in the land, I wyll searche hym thorowe out all the thousandes of Juda. And they arose, and went to Ziph before Saul. But Dauid and his mē were in ẏ wildernesse of Maon, in the playne that is, on the ryght hande of Jesimon. Saul also and hys men went to seke: and they tolde Dauid. Wherefore he went vnto a rocke, and abode in the wildernes of Maon. And when Saul hard that he followed after Dauid in the wilder nesse of Maon. And Saul and hys men went one the one side of the mountayne, and Dauyd and hys men on the other syde. And Dauid toke thoughte howe to get from Saul. For Saul & hys menne compassed Dauid and his men, rounde about, to take them. But there came a messenger to Saul, sayinge: haste thee and come for the Philistines are come into the land. Wherefore, Saul retourned from persecutynge Dauid, and went agaynste the Philistines. And therefore is it, that they called the place: The rocke of separation. And Dauid went thence, and dwelt in stronge holdes at Engadi.

The. xxiiii. Chapter.

A WHen Saul was come agayne from folowyng after the Philistines, it fortuned that, there were, which tolde hym sayinge, beholde, Dauid is in the wylderneſſe of Engadi. Then Saul toke three thousand chosen men oute of all Israell, & went to seke Dauyd, and hys men in the hyghte of the rockes, where wylde goates remayne. And he came to the flockes of shepe in the waye. And Saul went into a caue to couer his fete. And Dauid and hys men remayned in the inwarde partes of the caue. And the men of Dauyd sayde vnto hym: se, the day is come, of which the Lord sayd vnto the: behold, I wil deliuer thine enemies into thy hand, & thou shalt do to hym as it shall seme good in thy sight. Then Dauid arose & cut of a lap of Sauls garment priuelye. And immediatelye Dauyds hert smote him because he had cut of a lap of Sauls garment. And he said vnto his men, the Lord kepe me from doynge that thinge vnto my master the Lords anoynted to lay mine hand vpō him, seing he is the anoynted of ẏ lord (For as truly as the Lorde liueth except the Lord smyte him, or except his day come or if he go not downe to warre & perish), the Lord be merciful vnto me that I lay not my hand vpō the Lords anoynted.) And so Dauid kept of hys seruantes with these wordes, & suffred them not to ryse agaynst Saul. But Saul rose vp oute of the caue & went away, Dauid also arose & went out of the caue, and cried after Saul, sayinge: My Lord kyng. And when Saul loked behind him. Dauid stowped to ẏ earth, and bowed himselfe and sayd to Saul: wherefore geuest thou an eare to mens wordes that saye: Dauid seketh euyll agaynst thee? Behold, thys day thine eyes haue sene, how that the Lord hath deliuered the thys day into mine hande in the caue. And some bad me kyll thee, but I had compassion on C the, and sayd: I wyl not lay my hands on my master, for he is the Lordes annoynted. And moreouer, my father, beholde, and see yet the lap of thy garment in my hād, in asmuch as I killed the not, when I cut of the lap of thy garment. Understand therfore, and se, that ther is neyther euill nor wickednes in me, and that I haue not sinned agaynst thee. And yet thou huntest after my soule to take it. The Lorde be iudge betwene thee and me, and the Lorde auenge me of thee. But myne hande be not vpon thee. Accordyng as the olde prouerbe sayeth: wickednesse proceadeth frō the wicked: But mine hand be not vpon thee. After whom is the kynge of Israel come oute? After whom doest thou moue persecution?

the Israelites gathered togewhose possession was in Carmell, & the man was exceedyng myghtye, and his sheepe in Carmell: The name of the man was Nabal, and the name of his wyfe was Abigail, & she was a woman of a singuler wysedom, and beautyfull. But the man was chur-lyshe, and of shrewde conditions, and was of the kinred of Caleb. And Da sent out ten yong men, and sayd vnto them: Gette you vp to Carmell, and go to Nabal, and greete hym in my Dauid, and then helde their peace.

And Nabal answered Dauids ser-and what is the sonne of Iai? there is plentie of seruantes now a dayes, that breake awaye euery man frome

I haue kylled for my shearers, and

And there folowed Dauid vppon a

They were a walle of defence vnto see what thou hast to doo: for there is an occasion of euyll geuen agaynste our maister, and all his houshold, se-D yng, he is a sonne of Beliall, vngra-cious to speake to. Thenne Abigail made haste, and toke two hundred loaues, and two bottels of wine, and fiue sheepe ready dressed, and fiue mea sures of parched corne, and an hundred frayles of raysyns, and two hundred topnettes of sygges, and laded theim on asses, and sayd vnto her yong men: Go ye before me: Behold, I come after you. But she tolde her husbande Nabal nothyng thereof. And as she roade on her asse, she camme priuyly down the syde of the hyll, and behold, Dauid & his men came down against her, and she mette them. And Dauid said: In vain haue I kept al that this felow hath in the wyldernesse, so that nought was missed of all that pertained vnto him. And he hath quite me euil for good. So and so doo GOD vnto the enemies of Dauid, if I leaue of al ỳ pertaine to him, by ỳ dawnyng of the day, any thyng that pysseth against the wall. And when Abigail sawe Dauid, she hasted and lyghted of her asse, and fell before Dauid on her face, & bowed her self to the grou̇d and fell at his fete, and said: Let thys vnhappy deede be counted myne, my Lord, and let thyne handmayd speake in thyne audience, and here the wordes of thy handmayde. Let not my Lorde (the kynge) regarde this vnthryftye Nabal is his name, and folly is with hym. But I thyne handmayd sawe E not the yong men of my Lord whome thou sentteste. Now therfore my lord, as sure as the Lord lyueth, and as thy soule liueth, the Lord hath withholdē thee from comyng to shede blood, and withdrawe thou thyne hande frome bloodshed. Nowe, I pray God that thyne enemyes and they that entende to do my Lord euil, may be as Nabal.

And now this is the blessyng which thyne handmayd hathe brought vnto my Lorde; and let it be geuen vnto the yong men that folow my Lorde. Forgeue the trespasse of thyn handmayd, for the Lorde wyll make my Lorde a sure house, because my Lord fyghteth the battayles of the Lorde, and there coulde none euyll be founde in thee in all thy dayes. And if any man rise to persecute thee, and to seeke thy soule, the soule of my lord shall be bounden in the bundell of the lyuyng with the Lorde thy GOD. And the soules of thy enemies shal God cast out, euē as out of the mydle of a slyng. And whē the Lord shall haue done to my lorde al the good that he hath promysed the and shall haue made thee ruler ouer Israell: then shall it be no decay vnto thee, nor discourage of heart vnto my Lorde, that thou haste not shedde bloode causelesse, nor auenged thy selfe. But when the Lorde shall haue dealt well with my lord, then thynke on thyne handmayd. And Dauid said F to Abigail: blessed be the Lord God of Israel, which sent the this day to mete me: Blessed is thy sayinge, and blessed art thou, which hast kepte me this day from commyng to shed blood, and frome auengyng my selfe wyth myne owne hand. For in very deede, as sure as the Lord God of Israel li-ueth, which hath kept me back frome hurting thee, except thou hadst hasted and met me, thynkest thou, there had been lefte vnto Naball, by the daw-nyng of the daye, a pysser agaynst the wall? And so Dauid receiued of her hand, that whych she hadde brought hym, & sayd to her: Goe vp in peace to thyne house. Behold, I haue herd thy voyce, and haue accepted thy persone. And Abigail came to Nabal: and beholde, he helde a feaste in hys house, lyke the feaste of a kynge, and Nabails hearte was merye wythin hym, for he was very dronken. Wherfor she tolde hym nothynge, neyther lesse nor more, vntyll the morowe daye. But in the mornynge, whenne the wyne was gone oute of Nabal, hys wyfe tolde hym these woordes, and hys heart dyed wythin hym, and he became as a stone. And vpon ten dayes

dayes after, the Lorde smote Naball, that he dyed. And when Dauid herd that Naball was dead, he sayd: Blessed be the Lorde that hath iudged the cause of my rebuke of the hand of Naball, and hath kept his seruant frome euyil, and hath recompenced the wyckednes of Naball, vppon his owne head. And Dauid sent to cõmon with Abigail: to the intente to take her to his wyfe. And when the seruauntes of Dauid were comme to Abigail to Carmell, they spake vnto her, saying: Dauid sent vs vnto thee, to take thee to hys wyfe. And she arose, and bowed her selfe on her face to the earth, and sayd: Beholde, let thy handmayd be a seruaunt, to washe the fete of the seruantes of my Lord. And Abigail hasted, and arose, and gat her vp vppon an Asse, wyth fiue damoselles of hers, that wente at her feete, and she went after the messengers of Dauid, and became his wife. Dauid also toke Thinoam of Jezraell, and they were bothe his wyues. But Saul gaue Michol his daughter Dauids wyfe, to Phalti, the sonne of Lais, whyche was of Gallim.

¶ The. xxvi. Chapter.

THe Ziphites came vnto Saul to Gibea, saying: Doothe not Dauid hyde hym selfe in the hyll of Hachilla, which is before Jesymon? Saul arose, and went downe to the wyldernesse of Ziph, hauynge thre thousande chosen men of Israell with hym, for to seeke Dauid in the wyldernesse of Ziph. And Saul pitched in the hylle of Hachilla, whych lyeth beefore Jesymon, by the waye side. But Dauid dwelt in the wyldernesse. And he sawe that Saule came after hym into the wyldernesse. Dauid therfore sent out spies, and vnderstode, that Saule was come in verye deede. And Dauid arose, and came to the place where Saul hadde pitched, and Dauid beheelde the place where Saule laye, and Abner the sonne of Ner, whych was his chiefe captayne Saul lay within, and the people and the hoste round about hym. Then answered Dauid, and spake to Ahimelech the Hethyte, and to Abisai the sonne of Saruia, and brother to Joab sayinge: whoe will goe downe wyth me to Saul to the hoost? And Abisai said: I wyl go down wyth thee. And so Dauyd and Abisai came down to the people by nyghte. And beholde, Saule laye sleping wythin the hoste, and hys speare stacke in the grounde at hys head. But Abner and the people laye round about hym. Then sayd Abisai to Dauyd: God hath deliuered thyne enemye into thyne hande thys daye. Nowe therefore, lette me smyte hym once wyth my speare to the earth, and I wyll not smyte hym the seconde tyme. And Dauyd sayde to Abisai: destroye him not. For who canne laye hys hande on the Lordes anoynted, and be gyltelesse. And Dauyd sayde furthermore: as sure as the Lorde lyueth, the Lorde shall smyte hym or hys daye shall come to dye, or he shall descende into battel, and ther perysshe. The Lord kepe me from laiynge myne hande vpon the Lordes anoynted: But take thou nowe the speare that is at hys heade, and the crewse of water, and lette vs go. And sooe Dauyd tooke the speare and the crewse of water from Sauls heade, and they gat them away, and no man sawe it or marked it, or awaked. For they were all aslepe, because the Lord had sent a deade sleepe vppon theym. Then Dauid went ouer to the other syde, and stode on the toppe of an hyll afarre of (a gret space being betwene them) and Dauyd cryed to the people and to Abner the sonne of Ner, saying: Hearest thou not Abner? Abner aunswered and saide: what arte thou that cryest to the kynge? and Dauid sayde to Abner, art not thou a manne: and who is lyke the in Israel? wherfore then haste thou not keapte thy Lorde the kynge? For there cam one of the folke in, to destroye the kynge thy Lorde. It is not good that thou haste doone. As truelye as the Lorde lyueth, ye are worthy to dy, because yee haue not keapte youre maister, 1.Re.24. And Saul knew Dauids voyce, and sayd: ✠ Is thys thy voyce my sonne Dauid? and Dauid sayde: It is my voyce, my Lord, O king. And he said: Wherfore doth my Lorde thus persecute his seruaunt? for what haue I done, or what euill is in myne hande?

D Now therfore let my Lord the kyng heare the wordes of his seruaunt. If the Lord haue stirred thee vp against me, let hym smelle the sauour of a sacrifice. But and if they bee the chyldren of men, cursed ar they before the Lord. For they haue cast me out thys day from abidynge in the inheritance of the Lorde, saying: Hence, and goe serue other gods. Nowe therfore, let not my blood fal to the erth before the face of the Lord. For the king of Israell is comme out to hunte a flye, as when one doothe hunt a partrige in the mountaynes. Then sayde Saul: I haue sinned, come agayn my sonne Dauid, for I wyll doo thee no more harme, because my soule was precious in thyne eies this day. Beholde, I haue playd the fole, and haue erred exceedyngly. And Dauid answered & sayde: Beholde, the Kynges speare, let one of the yong mē come ouer and fet it. The Lord reward euery man accordynge to his righteousnesse and faith: For the Lord deliuered thee into my hande this daye, but I woulde not lay myne hande vpon the Lordes annoynted. And beholde, lyke as thy lyfe was muche sette by this daye in myne eies: so be my lyfe set by in the eyes of the Lord, that he deliuer me out of all tribulation. Then Saule sayd to Dauid: Blessed arte thou my sonne Dauid, for thou shalt be a doer, & preuayle. And so Dauid went his way, and Saull tourned to his place agayne.

AND Dauid said in his hert: I shall perish one day or other by the hand of Saule, therfore is ther nothing better for me, then to flye and saue my selfe in the lande of the Philistines, and Saul shall cease and seke me noo more in all the coastes of Israell, and so shall I escape out of his hand. And Dauid arose, and he and the six hundred men that were with him, went vnto Achis, the son of Wacho, kinge of Geth. And Dauid dwelte wyth Achis at Geth, bothe he, and his men euery man with his household, & Dauid with his two wyues: Ahinoam the Jezraelite, and Abigail, Nabals wyfe of Carmell. And it was tolde Saul that Dauid was fled to Geth, and he sought no more for hym. And B Dauid sayd vnto Achis: If I haue nowe founde grace in thyne eyes, let them geue me a place in some towne in the fieldes, that I may dwel there. For why should thy seruant dwel in the head citie of the kyngdome wyth thee? Then Achis gaue hym Zikleg that same day: for whiche cause Zikleg pertaineth vnto the kings of Juda vnto this daye. And the tyme that Dauid dwelte in the countrey of the Philistins, was foure monethes, and certayne days. And Dauid and hys C men went vp, and ran vpon the Gesurites, the Gerzites, and the Amalekites. For those nations were from the beginnynge the inhabiters of the lande, as men goe to Sur, vnto the lande of Egypte. And Dauid smote the land, and left neither man nor woman alyue, and droue away the shepe the oxen, the asses, camels, and clothes and returned, and cam to Achis. And Achis sayd: Where haue ye ben a rouyng this day? And Dauid answe-D red: Towarde the south of Juda, and toward the south of the Jerahelites, and toward the south of the Kenites. And Dauid saued neyther man nor woman alyue, nor suffred thē to come to Geth, for feare (sayth he) lest they should speake on vs, saying: So dydde Dauid, and so wyll be hys maner all the whyle he dwellethe in the countrey of the Philistins. And Achis beleued Dauid, sayinge: He abhorreth people of Israel, and therfore he shall be my my seruaunt for euer.

And Saule chaunged hym selfe, and put on other raimente, and then went he and two men with him, and they came to the woman by nyght. And hee sayde: prophesye vnto me by the spyrite, and bringe me hym whom I shall name vnto thee.
B And the woman sayd vnto hym: Be-holde thou knowest what Saule hath done, howe he hath destroied the wemen that had prophesynge spy-rites, and the Sorcerers oute of the lande. He refused, and sayd: I wyll not eat. But his seruauntes and the woman together compelled him, and hee herkened vnto theyr voyce. And so he arose from the earthe, and sat him on a bed. The woman had a fat calfe in the house, and she hasted, and killed it, and toke flowre and kneded it, and dydde bake swete cakes therof, and brought them before Saul and before his seruauntes. THe Philystynes were gathered together with all their armyes vnto Aphec: And the Israelytes pytched in Jim, which is in Jesrahel. And the Lordes of the Philystines went forth wyth the hundredes and thousandes. But Dauid and hys men came behynde wyth Achis. Thē sayd the Lordes of the Philistines, what are yonder Ebrues? Achis sayde vnto the Lordes of the Philistines: Is not thys Dauid the seruaunt of Saul the kynge of Israell, whiche hath bene wyth mee these dayes or yeares? I haue founde noe B fault in hym, sence he fled vnto me vnto thys daye. And the Lordes of the Philistines were wroth wyth hym, and sayde vnto hym: Make thys fellowe returne, that he may go agayne to hys place whych thou hast apoynted hym: and let hym not goe downe with vs to battel, least in the battell, he be an aduersarye to vs. For wherwyth couldе he better obtayne the fauoure of hys maysters, then wyth the heades of these men? Is not this Dauid, to whom they sange in daunces: Saule slue hys thousande, and Dauyd hys ten thousande? Then Achis 1 Re. 18. a and 21 called Dauyd, and sayde vnto hym. As sure as the Lord lyueth, thou hast beene honeste, and good in my syght, whan thou wentest out and in with me in the host: neyther haue I found euyll wyth thee sence thou camest to me vnto thys daye. Neuertheles the C Lordes of the Philystynes fauoure thee not: Wherefore nowe returne, and goe in peace, that thou displease not the Lordes of the Philistins. And Dauyd sayde vnto Achis: And what haue I done? what hast thou founde in thy seruaunt, as longe as I haue bene wyth thee vnto thys daye, that I may not go fyght agaynst the enemyes of my Lorde the kyng? Achis aunswered and sayde to Dauyd: I knowe that thou art good, and art in my syght, as an aungell of God. Not wythstanding the Lordes of the Philistines haue sayd: Let hym not go vp D wyth vs to battell. Wherefore nowe ryse vp earlye in the mornynge with thy masters seruauntes that are come to thee: and when ye be vp earlye (as sone as ye haue lyght) departe. And so Dauid, and his men rose vp earelye to depart in the morninge, and to returne into the land of the Philistins. And the Philistins wēt vp to Jesrael.

companies of horsemen folowed hard after him. And when he loked backe, he saw me, and called me. And I an-

And Dauid sayde vnto the yong man that brought hym these tydynges. Whence art thou? And he answered, I am the sonne of an aleaunt an Amalekite. And Dauid sayd vnto hym: Howe is it that thou wast not afrayd, to lay thyne hande on the Lordes annointed, to destroy hym? And Dauid called one of his yong men, & said: Go to, and runne vpon him. Whither shall I go? He answered: Vnto Hebron. And so Dauid went thyther with his two wyues, Ahinoam the Jesrahelite, and Abigail Nabals wyfe the Carmelite. And that were with hym, did Dauid cary vp also, euerye man with his household. And they dwelt in the townes of Hebron. And the men of Juda came, and there they annointed Dauid king, ouer the house of Juda. And they told Dauid, sayinge: It is 1Re.23.c * the men of Jabes in Gilead that B buried Saul. And Dauid sent messengers vnto the men of Jabes in Gilead, and sayd vnto them: Blessed are ye vnto the Lord, that ye haue shewed such kyndnes vnto your Lord Saul, and haue buried hym. And nowe the Lorde shewe mercye and truthe vnto you. And I wyll doo you also suche kyndnes as ye haue don in this thing. Therfore now lette your handes bee strong, and play ye the menne: For your maister Saul is dead. And they that are of the house of Juda haue annointed me kyng ouer them. But

A Fter this, it fortuned, that Dauid smote the Philistins A and subdued them, and tooke the bridle of bondage out of the hand of the Philistins. • And he smote the Nu.24c Moabites, and measured theim with a lyne, and caste them downe to the ground. Euen with two lynes measured he them whom he slue, and the lengthe of one lyne saued he alyue, and so becam the Moabites, Dauids seruantes, and payde tribute. Dauid smote also Hadarezer, the soonne of Rehob kynge of Zoba, as he wente to recouer his border at ẏ riuer Pherar. And Dauid toke a thousand and seuen hundred horsemen of hys hooll and twentie thousande fote men, and cut of the hose of al his charet horses: reseruinge onely one hundred charet-B tes. And whan the Syrians of Damascon came to succoure Hadazerer kynge of Zoba Dauid slewe of the Syrians two and twentie thousand men, and put soudiours in Syria Damascon. And the Syrians became seruauntes, to Dauid payinge tribute. And thus the Lorde saued Dauyd, in all that hee wente vnto. And Dauid toke the shieldes of golde that belonged to the seruauntes of Hadarezer, and brought them to Jerusalem. And out of Beta and Berothai (cities of Hadarezer) did Dauid bring exceding much bras. (wherof Salomon made all the brasen vessel in the temple, and the brasen Lauatorye, and the pillers and the aultar.) • When Thoi kinge gai ẏ Hadarezer, and beaten him, for Thoi had greate war wyth Hadarezer, whiche (Joram) brought wyth hym, vessels of siluer, vessels of gold, and vesselles of brasse. Whiche brasse kynge Dauid did dedicate vnto the Lorde wyth the syluer and gold that hee hadde consecrated of all nations, D which he subdued, of Syria of ẏ Moabytes, and of the chyldren of Ammõ of the Philistines, and of Hamalek, and of the spoyle of Hadarezer sonne of Rehob kynge of Zoba. And Dauyd gat hym a name after that hee returned and had smytten of the Syrians in the dally of salt. xviii. thousãd

And • Joab the reg.20d sonne of Zaruia was ouer the hoste, & Jehosaphat the sonne of Ahiud was recorder. And Sadoch the sonne of Ahitob, and Ahimelech the sonne of Abiathar were the priestes, and Saraia was the scrybe. And Banaiha the sonne of Jehoiada was ouer the Crethites and the Pheleth ites: and Dauids sonnes were chefe rulers.

¶ The.ix. Chapter.

A And Dauid sayde: is there yet any man lefte in the house of Saule? For I wyll shewe him mercye for Jonathas sake. And there was of the housholde of Saul a seruaunt whose name was Ziba: and when they had called hym vnto Dauid, the kyng sayd vnto hym: art thou Ziba? He sayde: thy seruaunte is he. And the kyng sayde: remayneth there yet anye man of the house of Saule, whom I may shew the mercy of god B vpon? Ziba answered the king: • Jo Re.4d nathas hath yet a sone, which is lame of his fete. The kyng sayd vnto him: where is he? Ziba sayd vnto the king: beholde, he is in the house of Machir the sonne of Amiell of Lodeber. The kynge Dauid sent, and fet him out of the house of Machir the sonne of Amiel out of Lodeber. Nowe when Miphiboseth the sonne of Jonathas, the sonne of Saule was come vnto Dauid, he fell on his face, and dyd reuerence. And the kyng sayde: Miphiboseth? He answered: Behold, thy seruaunte. Dauid sayde vnto hym: feare not. for I wyll surely shew the kindnes for Jonathas thy fathers sake, & wyl restore the all the feldes of Saul thy father, and thou shalt eate breade on myne own table continually. And he bowed him selfe, and sayde: what is thy seruaunte, that thou shouldest vouchsafe to loke vpon such a dead dog as I am? Then the kynge called vnto Ziba Sauls yonge man, and sayde vnto hym: I haue geuen vnto thy masters sonne, all that perteyned to Saul and to all hys house. Se therfore that thou, and thy sonnes and thy seruauntes tyll the lande, and bynge in, that • thy masters sonne may haue Micha. fode to eate. But Miphiboseth thy masters sonne shall eate breade alway vpon my table. For Ziba had fyftene sonnes and twentye seruantes. Then D sayde Ziba vnto the kyng. Accordyng to all that my Lorde the kynge hath commaunded hys seruaunte, so shall thy seruaunt do. Wel (sayd the kyng) Miphiboseth shal eate vpon my table as one of the kinges sons. Miphiboseth had a sonne that was yonge, named Micha, and all that dwelled in the house of Ziba were seruauntes vnto Miphiboseth. And Miphiboseth dwelte in Jerusalem, for he dyd eate euer at the kynges table, • and was 2.Re.4b lame on both hys fete.

¶ The.x. Chapter.

It happened after thys, that I the kynge of the chylderne of Ammon dyed, and Hanon his sonne raygned in hys steade. Then sayde Dauid: I wyll shewe kyndnesse vnto Hanon the sonne of Nahas, as hys father shewed kyndnesse vnto mee. And Dauid sente to comforte him by the hande of hys seruantes ouer (the death of) his father. And Dauids seruantes came into the lande of the chyldren of Ammon, and the Lordes of the childzen of Ammon sayd vnto Hanon their Lord: thinkest thou that Dauid doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comfortours to thee? Hath not Dauid rather sent his seruauntes vnto thee, to search the cite, and to spye it oute, and to ouerthrow it? Wherfore, Hanon toke Dauids (seruauntes: and shaued of the one half of euery mans beard, and cut of theyr garmentes in the myddle, euen harde to the buttockes of them, and sent them away. When they tolde it vnto Dauid, he sente to mete them (for they were men exceadyngly ashamed.) And the kyng sayde, tary at Jericho vntyll youre beardes bee groſwen, and then returne. And when the childzen of Ammon ſaw that they B ſtancke in the ſyghte of Dauyd, they ſente and hyred the Syzyans of the houſe of Rehob, and the Sirians of Zoba. xx. thouſande foote men, and of kyng Maacha a thouſand men, and of Iſtob twelue Thouſande men. And when Dauid hard of it, he ſent Joab and all the hooſte of ſtrong men. And the chyldzen of Ammon came out, and waged batell at the entrynge in of the gate, & the Sirians of Zobah, of Rehob, Iſtob, and Maachah were by them ſelues in the field. When Joab ſawe that the front of the batell was agaynſt hym before and after, he choſe of all the freſhe yonge men of Iſraell, and put them in aray againſt the Sirians. And the reſte of the people he deliuered into the hande of Abiſai his bzother, that he might put them in araye agaynſt the childzen of Ammon.

C And he ſayd, if the Sirians be ſtronger then I, thou ſhalt helpe me. But if the childzen of Ammon be to ſtrong foz thee, I wyl come and ſuccour the. Therefoze quite thee lyke a man, and let vs ſtande ſtyffe foz our people, and foz the Cities of oure God. And the Lozde do that whiche is good in hys owen eyes. And Joab pzoceded fozth, and the people that was with hym, to fight with the Sirians. But they fled before hym. And when the chyldzen of Ammon ſawe that the Sirians were fled, then fled they alſo bz-fore Abiſai, and entred into the citye. And ſo Joab returned from the chyldzen of Ammon, and came to Jeruſalem. And when the Sirians ſaw that they were put to the wozſe before Iſraell, they gathered thē together. And Hadarezer ſent, and bzought out the Sirians that wer beyond the ryuer. And they came with their army, and zobah the captayne of the hoſte of Ha-D darezer went before them. And when it was ſhewed Dauid, he gathered al Iſraell together, and paſſed ouer Jozdan, and came to Helam. And the Sirians ſet them ſelues in aray agaynſt Dauid, and fought with him, and the Sirians fled before Iſrael. And Dauid deſtroyed ſeuen hundzed charets of the Sirians, and fozty thouſande hoſſemen, and ſmote Sobah the captayne of their hoſte, whiche alſo dyed there. And when all the kynges (that were ſeruauntes to Hadarezer) ſawe that they were put to the wozſe before Iſrael, they made peace with them, and ſerued them. And ſo the Sirians feared to helpe the chyldzen of Ammon any mozе.

AND it came to paſſe that (af-woman was verye beawtyfull to loke vppon. And he ſente to enquire what woman it ſhould be, ſaying: Is it not Bethſabe, the daughter of Eliam, and wyfe to Urias the Hethite. And Dauid ſente meſſengers, and fet her. Leu. 18 And ſhe came in vnto hym · and he lay with her. And (immediatly) ſhe was puryfyed from her vncleannelle, and returned vnto her houſe. And the wo manne conceaued, and ſent and tolde Dauid, and ſayde: I am with chylde. And Dauid ſente to Joab (ſayinge:) ſende me Urias the Hethite. And Joab ſente Urias to Dauyd. And when Urias was come vnto hym, Dauid demaunded of him: howe Joab dyd, and howe the people fared, and howe the men of warre proſpe-B red. And Dauid ſayde to Urias: Go doſwne to thyne houſe and waſhe thy feete. And Urias departed out of the kynges palace, and ther folowed hym a ſeruyce frome the kynges table. But Urias ſlepte at the dooze of the kinges palace, with all the seruantes of hys Lorde, and wente not downe to hys house. which when they had tolde Dauid (sayinge: Urias wente not downe into hys house.) Dauyd sayde vnto Urias: Camest thou not from thy iorney? why dyddest thou not go downe then vnto thine house? Urias aunswered Dauid: The arke and Israell and Juda dwell in pauilyons: and my lorde Joab and the seruauntes of my Lorde lye vppon the flatte earth, and shall I then go into myne house to eate, and to drynke, and Re.14c lye with my wyfe: As thy lyfe, and by the lyfe of thy soule, I will not do thys thyng. And Dauid sayde vn-Jud.19c to Urias: Tary here thys nyght also, and to morowe I will let the depart. And so Urias abode in Jerusalem that day, and the morowe. And when C Dauyd had called hym, he dyd eate and drynke before hym, and he made hym dronke. And at euen he went out to lye on hys couche with the seruauntes of hys Lorde, but wente not downe to his house. On the morowe Dauid wrote a letter to Joab, and sente it by the hand of Urias. And he wrote thus in the letter, saying: Put Urias in the forefront of the sharper battell, and come ye backe from hym, that he maye be smytten and dye. So when Joab belieged the Citie, he assygned Urias vnto a place, where he wyste that strong men were. And the men of the citye came out, and fought with Joab. And there were certayne ouerthrowen of the people, and of the seruauntes of Dauid. And Urias the Hethite dyed also. Then Joab sente, and tolde Dauid all the thynges concernynge the warre, and charged the messenger, sayinge: when thou haste made an end of tellyng the matters of the warre vnto the kyng, yf he begyn to fume, and saye vnto thee, wherfore approched ye so nye vnto the Citye, when ye dyd fyght, wyste ye not that

So the messenger went, and came, and shewed Dauid all that Joab bad sent him for, and the messenger saide vnto Dauid: the men preuayled agaynst vs, and came oute vnto vs into the fielde, and we (with violence) stacke vnto them, euen vnto the enterynge of the gate. And the shoters shot from the walles, vppon thy seruauntes, and some of the kynges seruauntes be deade. And thy seruaunte Urias the Hethite is deade also. And Dauid sayde vnto the messenger: Thus shalte thou saye vnto Joab: let not that thyng trouble the. For (the chaunce of warre is dyuerse, and) the swearde deuoureth one as well as another: Make thy battell more stronge agaynste the Citie to ouerthrowe it, and se that thou corage Joab. And when the wyfe of Urias heard that her husbande was deade, she mourned for hym. And when the mournynge was paste, Dauid sente and fette her to hys house, and she became his wyfe, and bare hym a sonne. But this thyng that Dauid did, displeased the Lorde.

¶ The .xii. Chapter.

AND the Lorde sente Nathan vnto Dauid. And he came vnto hym, and tolde hym: There were two men in one citie, the one ryche, and the other poore. The riche man had excedyng many sheepe and oxen. But the poore had nothing saue one little sheepe, which he hadde bought and norished vp. And it grew vp with him, & with his children also & did eate of his owne meat and drank of his owne cup: and slepte in his bosome: & was vnto him as his daughter. And there came a stranger vnto ỹ riche man. And he could not synde in hys heart to take of his owne sheepe, and of hys owne oxen, to dresse for the straunger ỹ was come vnto hym: But tooke the poore mannes sheepe, and dressed it for the man, that was 1Re.16c sayth the Lord God of Israell: * I anoynted thee kyng ouer Israel, & ryd thee out of the hand of Saul. I gaue thee thy masters house & thy masters wiues into thy bosome, and gaue thee the house of Israell and of Juda, and might (yf that had bene to lytle) haue geuen the so much more. Wherfore thē hast thou despised the cōmaundement of the Lord to do wickednesse in hys sight? Thou hast kild Urias the Hethite with the sword, and hast taken his wyfe to thy wyfe, and hast slayne hym with the sword of the chyldren C of Ammon. Now therfore the sword shal neuer depart from thine house, because thou hast despised me, and taken the wife of Urias the Hethite, to be thy wife. Wherfore thus saith ỳ Lord: behold, I wyl stirre vp euyl agaynst the, euen out of thine own house, and

Eccl.47c And Nathan sayde vnto Dauid: the Lorde also hath put away thy synne, thou shalt not dye. Howbeit, because in doyng this dede, thou haste geuen the enemyes of the Lorde a cause to raple, the child that is borne vnto the, shall surely dye. And Nathan departed vnto hys house. And the Lorde stroke the child that Urias wife bare vnto Dauid, and it sickened sore. Dauid therefore besoughte God for the childe and fasted and went in, and lay all nyght vpon the earth. And the elders of hys house arose, and wente to hym, to take hym vp from the earth. But he wouldе not, neyther dyd he eate meate with them. And it happened the seuenth daye, that the chylde E dyed. And the seruauntes of Dauid durst not tell him, that the childe was deade. For they sayde: Behold whyle the chylde was yet alyue, we spake vnto hym, and he wouldе not herken vnto oure voyce. Howe wyll he then vexe him selfe, yf we tell him, that the chyld is dead? But Dauid seyng his seruauntes whysperynge, perceaued that the chylde was deade, and Dauid sayde vnto hys seruauntes: Is the chylde deade? They sayde: yee. And Dauid arose from the earth: and washed and anoynted hym selfe, and chaunged hys apparell, and came into the house of the Lord, and worshipped, and afterward came to his owne house, and bad that they shoulde set breade before hym, and he dyd eate. Then sayd his seruauntes vnto him: what thynge is thys, that thou haste done? Thou diddest faste and wepe for the chyld whyle it was alyue, and as sone as it was deade, thou diddest ryse vppe, and eate meate. He sayde:

lesse I take it, & call it after my name. And Dauid gathered all the people together, and wente agaynst Raba, & 1.pa.10b besyeged it, and gate it. * And he toke their kinges croune from of his head, which wayed an hundred weyght of golde, and in it were precious stones. And it was set on Dauids head. And he brought out the spoyle of the citye in exceading great aboundaunce. And he caryed oute the people that was therin, and put them vpon sawes, and vpon yron hareswes, and vpon axes of yron, and thurst them into the tylekyll. Thus dyd he with all the cities of the chyldrene of Ammon. And so Dauyd and all the people returned vnto Jerusalem.

A Fter thys it chaunced, that Absalom the sonne of Dauid hadde a fayre syster, named Thamar, whome Ammō the sonne of Dauid loued. And he was so sore vexed, that he fell sycke for the loue of his syster Thamar: for she was a virgin, and he thoughte it harde for hym, to haue hys purpose of her. But Ammon had a frend, called Jonadab, the sonne of Simeah Dauides brother, and Jonadab was a very wyse man. And he sayde vnto hym: howe commeth it, that thou beyng the kynges sonne, art thus consumed euerye day? wylt thou not tell me? Ammon answered him: I loue Thamar my brother Absaloms syster. Jonadab sayde vnto hym: Laye thee downe on thy bedde, and make thy selfe sycke. And when thy father is come to see thee, saye vnto hym: Oh, lette my syster Thamar come, and geue me meate, and dresse it in my syght, that I maye see it, and eate of her hande. And so Ammon lay downe, and made hym selfe sycke. And when the kyng was come to see hym, Ammon sayde vnto him: Oh let Thamar my sister come, and make me a couple of frytters in my syghte, that I maye eate of her hande. Then Dauyd sente home to Thamar, sayinge: Goo nowe to thy brother Ammons house, and dresse him meat. So Thamar went to her brother Ammons house, and he was laid downe. And she toke floure, and made past, and dressed frytters in his syght, and did bake them, and toke a platter, and powred them out before hym, but he would not eate. And Ammon sayd: Haue oute all men from me. And they went al out from hym. And Ammon sayd vnto Thamar: Bryng the meat into the chāber, that I may eat of thin hande. And Thamar toke the fritters which she had made, & brought them into the chamber to Ammon her brother. And when she had set them be- E fore him to eate, he toke her, and sayde vnto her: come lye with me my syster. And she answered him: naye my brother, do not force me, for there hath no such thing bene done in Israel: do not thou this abhominaciō. For whither shall I be able to go with my shame. And thou shalt be as one of the foles in Israell. O speake vnto the kyng, and he shall not denye me vnto thee. Howbeit he wouldc not herken vnto her voyce, but toke her, & * forced her, Gen.34a and laye with her. And then Ammon Leui.18a hated her excedyngly, so that the hate wherewith he hated her, was greater then ỹ loue, with which he before loued her. And Ammōsaid vnto her, vp and get the hence. She answered him: thou halte no cause. This euyll that thou putteſt me away is greater then the other that thou dyddest vnto me. Neuertheles he would not heare her, but called his boy that serued him and said: put away this woman from me, and bolte the doze after her. And D she had a kyrtle of diuers colours vpon her, for with such wer the kings daughters (that were virgins) apparreled. Then hys seruaunte broughte her out, and locked the doze after her. And Thamar toke and put asshes on her heade, and rent her gay kirtle that was on her, and layed her hande on her heade, and so wente: and as shee wente, cryed. And Absalom her brother sayd vnto her: Hath Ammon thy brother bene with thee? Now yet be styll my syster: he is thy brother. Let not this thyng greue thyne hert. And so Thamar remayned desolate in her brother Absaloms house. But when kyng Dauid herd of all these things, he was very wroth. (And he would not vexe ỹ spirite of Ammon his son: for he loued him, because he was hys fyrst borne.) And Absalom sayd vnto his brother Ammon neither good nor bad. Howbeit Absalom hated Ammon because he had forced hys syster Thamar. And it happened after two E yere, that Absalō had * shepe sherers Gen.31 c in the plaine of Hazor beside the tribe

The kynge answered Absalom: nay my sonne, We will not go al, nor be chargeable vnto the. And Absalom laye sore vpon him: howbeit he wold not go, but blessed him. Thē sayd Absalom: if thou wilt not come, then let my brother Ammon go with vs. And ỹ kyng answered him: what needeth it, that he go with thee? But Absalom made such instāce that he let Ammon, and al the kyngs children go with him. Now had Absalom commaūded his yong men, saying: marke when Ammons herte is merye with wyne, and when I bid you smite Ammon, then kyl him and feare not, haue not I bydden you? be bold therfore, & playe the men. And the yonge men of F Absalō did vnto Ammon euen as Absalom had commaunded. And all the kinges sonnes arose, and euery man gat him vp, vpon hys mule, and fled. And it fortuned, that whyle they wer yet in the way, tydings came to Dauid saying: Absalom hath slayn al the kynges sonnes, and there is none left

And Jonadab the sonne of Simeach Dauids brother, answered and sayde: Let not my Lord suppose that they haue slayne al the yong men the kyngs sonnes, saue Ammon onely is dead. For that hath bene determined in Absaloms mynd, sence he forced hys syster Thamar. Nowe therfore let not my Lorde the kyng take the thyng so greuously, to thynke that all the kinges sonnes are dead, saue Ammon only is dead. But

Joab the sonne of Zaruia perceaued, that the kynges herte was towarde Absalom, and he sente to Thekoa, and fette thence a wyse woman, and sayd vnto her: fayne thy selfe to be a mourner, and put on mournynge apparell. After thys, it fortuned, that Absalom gate hym charets & horses, and fyftie men to run before hym. And he rose vp earely in the mornyng, and stode in the place of the entryng in of the gate. And euery man that had any matter, and came to the kynge for iudgement, hym dyd Absalom call vnto hym: and sayd: Of what citie art thou? He answered: Thy seruaunt is of one of the trybes of Israell. And Absalom sayde vnto him, See thy matter is good and righteous, but there is no man deputed of the king to heare thee. Absalom sayde moreouer: Oh, that I were made Iudge in the land, that euery manne whiche hathe any plea and matter in the lawe, myght come to me, and that I might do hym iustice? And when any man came nie to him, & did him obeisance, he put forth his hand, & toke him to hym, and kyssed hym. And on this maner dyd Absalom to all Israel that came to the kyng for iudgement, and he stale the heartes of the men of Israel. And after fortie yeares it fortuned, ꝑ Absalom said vnto the king: Let me go nowe to Hebron, & pay my vowe, which I haue vowed vnto the Lorde: for thy seruant vowed a vowe (whē I was in Gesur in the lād of Siria) saying: If ꝑ Lord shal bryng me agayn to Jerusalem, I wyl serue the Lord. And ꝑ kyng said vnto him: Go in peace. And so he arose, and wēt to Hebron. But Absalom sente spyes thorow out all the tribes of Israell, sayinge: As soone as ye heare the voyce of the Trompet blow, ye shall say: Absalom reygneth kynge in Hebron. And with Absalom went two hundred men out of Jerusalem, that wer called. And they went with pure heartes, not knowyng of any thyng. And Absalom sent also for Ahitophel the Gilonite Dauids counsailer, that he should come oute of his citie Gilo, while he offered sacrifices. And there was wrought strong treson. For the people went and increased with Absalom in multitude. And there came a messenger to Dauid, and saide: The hertes of the men of Israell are turned after Absalom. And Dauid sayde vnto all his seruants that were with hym at Jerusalem: Vp, that we may be gone, for we shal not els escape frō Absalom. Make spede to depart: lest he come sodeinly, & catche vs, & bring some mischief vpon vs, and smyte the citie with the edge of the swerd. And the kynges seruantes sayd vnto hym: Beholde, thy seruants are redy to do whatsoeuer my lorde the kynge shall appoynt. And the kynge and all hys household departed a foote. And he left behynd hym ✱ ten concubines, to kepe the house. And so the kynge and all the people went out a foote, and tarried in a place that was farre of. man cried, and told the king. And the kyng sayd: if he be alone, ther is good tydinges in his mouth. And he came and drewe nie. And the watchmanne sawe another man running, and hee called vnto the porter and sayde: Be-holde, there commeth another manne runnynge alone. And the kinge sayd: He is also a tydynges brynger. And the watchemanne sayde: me thinketh the runninge of the formoost is lyke the running of Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadock. The kyng said: he is a good man, and commeth with good tydin-ges. And Ahimaaz called and sayde vnto the kynge: good tydynges, and he fell downe flat to the earth vppon hys face before the kynge, and sayde: Blessed be the Lord thy God, which hath shut vp the men that lift vp ther hands against my Lord the king. And the kinge saide: is the man Absalom safe? Ahimaaz answered: when Joab G sent (Chusi) the kynges seruant, and me thy seruāt, I saw much a do. But I wot not what it was. And ỹ king said vnto him: turne, and stande here.
And he turned, and stode stil. And be hold, Chusi came also and said: Good tidings my Lord the king, for the lord hath quit the this day out of the hand of al them that rose against thee. And the king said vnto Chusi. Is the yōg man Absalom safe? Chusi answered: The enemies of my Lorde the kinge, and all that ryse agaynste thee, to doe the hurt, be as that yong man is. And the king was moued: and went vp to a chamber ouer the gate, and wepte.
And as he went, thus he said: O my son Absalom, my son, my son Absalō, woulde God I had dyed for thee, O Absalom my sonne, my sonne.

The xix. Chapter.

AND it was tolde Joab: Be- A holde, the kynge wepeth and mourneth for Absalom. And the victorye of that daye was tour-ned into mourning vnto all the people. For the people hearde saye that daye howe the kynge sorowed for his sonne. And the people stale awaye that daye from going into the Cytye, as people confounded, steale awaye when they flee in battayle. But the kynge hyd his face, and cryed with a lowde voyce. O my sonne Absalom, O Absalom my sonne, my sonne. And Joab came into the house to the king and said: Thou hast shamed this daye the faces of all thy seruantes, whiche this daye haue saued thy lyfe, and the lyues of thy sonnes, and of thy daughters, and the lyues of thy wyues, and of thy concubines, in that thou louest thyne enemies, and hatest thy frends.
For thou hast declared this daye, that B thou regardest neyther thy lordes, nor seruauntes. And thys daye I do per-ceiue,

ceyue, that yf Absalom hadde lyued, and all we hasde dyed this daye, that hadde pleased thee well. Nowe ther fore vp, and come out, & speake kindely vnto thy seruantes. For I sweare by the lord, excepte thou comme oute, there will not tary one mā with thee this nyght. And that will be woorse vnto thee, then all the euill that fel on thee from thy youth vnto this houre. Then the kyng arose, and sat downe in the gate. And they told vnto all the people, sayinge: Beholde, the kynge dooth syt in the gate. And all the people came before the king. But Israel fled euery man to his tent. And it fortuned, that all the people wer at strife thorow out all the tribes of Israell, saying: The king saued vs out of the hande of oure ennemies, he deliuered vs out of the hand of the Philistins, and nowe he is fled oute of the lande for Absalom. But Absalom whome we anoynted ouer vs, is dead in battaill. Therefore, why are ye so styll, that ye bring not ỳ king agayn? And king Dauid sēt to Sadok & Abiathar the priests, saying: Speke vnto the elders of Juda, and say: Why are ye behynd to bring the kyng agayn to his house, seyng that such tidings is com from all Israel vnto the kyng, euē to his house? For ỳ king had said: Thus shal ye say vnto the people of Juda:) Ye are my brethern, my bones, & my flesh. wherfore then are ye the last ỳ bring the kyng home agayn? And say ye to Amasa, Art thou not of my bone and of my flesh? God do so and so to me, if thou be not captain of the host to me for euer in the roome of Joab. And he bowed the hertes of al the mē of Juda, euen as the herts of one mā. so that they sent this word to ỳ kyng: Returne thou with all thy seruants. So the kyng returned, and came to Jordan. And Juda came to Gilgal, for to go downe to mete the king, and 2.re.16b to conuey him ouer Jordan. And Simei + the sonne of Gera, the sonne of Jemini, whyche was of Bahurim, hasted, and came with the men of Juda, to mete king Dauid, & there were a thousand mē of Beniamin wt hym, and + Ziba the seruant of the hous of 2.re.16i Saul, and his xv. sonnes, and twenty seruants with him. And they went quickly ouer Jordan before the king. And there went ouer a boate that caried ouer the kynges householde, and they did him pleasure. And Semei ỳ D sonne of Gera fell before the king (as he was come ouer Jordan) and sayde vnto hym, Lette not my lorde impute wyckednesse vnto me, nor remember the things (that thy seruant did wickedly when my Lord the kyng departed out of Jerusalem) that the kyng should take it to hearte. For thy seruant dothe know, howe that I haue doone amysse. And therfore behold, I am the fyrst this daye of all the house of Joseph, that am come to go downe to mete my lord the kynge. But Abisai the sonne of Zeruia answered and sayd: Shall not Semei dye for this, because he cursed the lords anointed? And Dauid said: What matter is betwene you and me ye sonnes of Zeruia? For this daye ye be aduersaries vnto me. Shall there any manne dye this day in Israel? Do not I know that I am this day king ouer Israel? And therfore the king said vnto Semei: Thou shalt not die, & the kynge sware vnto him. And Miphiboleth ỳ G sonne of Saule came also to mete the king, & had neither washed his feete, nor shauen his beard, nor washed hys clothes, from the time the king departed, vntil he came again in peace. And it fortuned that when he was come to Jerusalē, and met the kyng, the kyng said vnto him: Wherfore wentest not thou with me Miphiboleth? He answered: My lord, O kyng, my seruāt deceiued me. For thy seruant said, I would haue mayne asse sadeled to ryde theron, for to go to the kynge, because thy seruant is lame. And Ziba hathe falsly reported of thy seruant vnto my lord the king. And my lorde the kyng is as an angell of God: doo therfore what semeth good in thyne eies. For all my fathers house were but deade men before my lord the kyng: and yet diddest thou put thy seruaunt among them that did eate at thine owne table. What right therfore haue I yet, to crye any more vnto the kinge? And the king sayd vnto him: Why speakest thou yet in thine own cause: It is determined, that I haue saide, thou and Iba deuide the landes betwene you: And Miphiboseth said vnto the king, let him take al: for so muche as my Lord the king is come again in peace vnto his owne house. And Berselai the Gileadite came downe from Roglim, and went ouer Iordan with the king, to conuey him ouer Iordan: Berselai was a very aged man, euen foure score yere olde, and prouided the kinge of sustenaunce, while he laye at Mahanaim: for he was a man of verye great substance. And the king said vnto Berselai: come thou with mee, and I wil fede the with me in Ierusalem. And * Berselai saide vnto the king. I am thus old, and how am I able to go vp with the king vnto Ierusalem? I am thys daye foure score yeare olde: and can I decerne betwen good and euil? Hath thy seruaunt ani taste in that he eateth or drinketh? Can he heare anye more the voyce of syngynge men and women? Wherefore then should thy seruaunt be yet a burthen vnto my Lorde the kinge? Thy seruaunt wil go a litle way ouer Iordan with the king: and why will the kinge recompence it me with suche a reward? O let thy seruaunte tourne backe agayne, that I may die in mine owne city, and be buried in the graue of my father and of my mother. Behold, here is thy seruaunt Chimeam let hym go with my Lord the king, & doo to hym, what shal please the. And the kinge answered: Chimeam shall go with me. And I will do to hym, that thou shalt be content with. And whatsoeuer thou shalt requyre of me, that same will I doe for thee. And all the people went ouer Iordan. And when the king was come ouer Iordan, hee kyssed Berselai, and blessed hym, and he went backe againe vnto his owne place. And then the kynge went to Gilgall, & Chimeam went with him, and so did all the people of Iuda, and brought ouer the king and ther wer but half the men of Israell. And behold, al the men of Israell cam to the king & said vnto him, why haue our brethrē the mē of Iuda stolē thes away, & haue brought the king & his household, and all Dauids men with him ouer Iordan? And al the men of Iuda answered the mē of Israel: the king is nere of kin to vs: wherfore be ye angrye for that matter? thinke ye ỹ we eat of the kinges cost, or that wee take vs any giftes? And the mē of Israel answered the mē of Iuda & said: we haue .x. partes in the king, & haue therto more right to Dauid, then yee. Why then did ye despise vs, ỹ our aduise shuld not be first had in restoring our king again? And the woordes of the men of Iuda wer fearcer then the woordes of the men of Israel.

The .xx. Chapter.

WHan ther came thither a certayne man of Belial (named Seba, the sonne of Bichri, a manne of Gemini) he blewe a trompet and sayde, we haue no part in Dauyd, neyther haue wee inheritaunce in the sonne of Isai: lette the men of Israell depart vnto their tentes. And so euerye manne of Israell went from Dauid, and folowed Seba the sonne of Bichri. But the men of Iuda claue faste vnto their kynge from Iordan to Ierusalem. And Dauyd came to hys house to Ierusalem, and toke the tenne women hys concubynes, that he had lefte behynd him to kepe the house, and putte theym in warde and fed them: but laye no more with theym. And so they were enclosed vnto the day of their death, liuing in widowhode. Then sayde the king to Amasa: call the men of Iuda together against the third day, and be thou here also. And so Amasa went to gather the mē of Iuda together: but tarried longer than the tyme which he hadde appoynted hym. And Dauyd saide to Abisai: nowe shall Seba the sonne of Bychri doe vs more harme, then dyd Absalom. Take thou therefore thy lordes seruantes, and folowe after hym: lest he get hym walled cities, and escape vs. And there wente out after him Joabs men, & the Crethites, and the Phelethites, and al the myghtiest menne. And they departed out of Jerusalem to folow after Seba, the sonne of Bichri. And whenne they were at the great stone in Gibeon, Amasa wente before theim. And C Joabs garmente (that he had aboute hym) was gyrd vnto him, and he had girded theron, a knife, which was ioyned fast to his loynes, in such a sheath that (as he wente) it fell sometymes out. And Joab sayde to Amasa: Art thou in health my brother? And Joab

2.re.2.g And ther was a man, which when he saw that * all the people stode styll, he rolled Amasa out of the way into the field, and cast a clothe vpon hym, because he saw that euery one that cam, stode still by him. And as soone as he was tombled out of the waye, all the

And they gathered together, & went after hym. And they came, and besieged hym in Abel and Bethmaacha. And they cast vp a banke agaynste the citie that stode in the valley. Al the people that was with Joab, thrust at the wall to ouerthrow it. Then cried a wise woman out of ỹ citie, Heare, hear, byd Joab comme hither, ỹ I may speake with him. When Joab was come vnto her the woman sayd: Art thou Joab? He answered: I am he. She sayde vnto hym. Here the woordes of thy handemayde: And he answered: I do here. And she sayde agayne. They spake in F the old tyme, saying: When must aske (peace fyrst, how much rather should they so do to) Abel? For to haue they continued (hytherto:) I am one of them that are peaceable and faithfull in Israell. And thou goest aboute to destroy a citie, and a mother in Israel why wylte thou deuoure the inheritance of the Lord? And Joab answered, and sayd: God forbyd, God forbid it me, ỹ I shold either deuoure or destroy. The matter is not so: but a man of mount Ephraim (Seba the son of Bichri by name) hath lift vp his hād against the kyng, euen against Dauid. Delyuer vs hym onely, and I G wyll depart frome the citie. And the woman said vnto Joab: Behold, his head shal be throwen to thee, ouer the wall. And then the woman went vn to all the people with her wisedome. 1Re.18
And they smote of the head of Seba, the sonne of Bichri, and cast it out to Joab. * And he blewe a trompet, and they scattered frome the Citie, euery man to his tent. And Joab returned to Jerusalem, vnto the kyng. Joab was ouer all the host of Israel. And Banaia the sonne of Jehoiada was ouer the Crethites, and Phelethites. And Aduram was ouer the Tribute. And Jehosaphat the sonne of Ahiud was Recorder. Seua was Scribe. And Sadock and Abiathar were the priestes. And Ira the Jairite was Dauids priest.

The. xxi. Chapter.

THen there felle an hunger in 1 the days of Dauid, thre yeares together. And Dauid enquired of the Lord. And the Lord answered: It is for Saule, and the house of blood, bicause he slew the * Gibaonites. And the kynge called the Gibaonites, and sayd vnto them: (Now the Gibaonites were, not of the the chyldren of Israel, but a rēnant of the Amorites, and the children of Israell sware vnto them: And Saul sought to slay them, for a zele that he had to the chyldren of Israel, and of Juda.) wherfore Dauid sayde vnto them, what shall I do for you, and wherwith shall I make the attonement that ye maye bielle the enherytaunce of the Lord? The Gibaonites answered him: we will haue no syluer nor golde, of Saul nor of hys house: neyther is it oure mynde, that thou shouldest kyll any man in Israel. He sayd: what say ye then that I shal do for you? They answered the kynge: B the man that consumed vs, and ymagined to bryng vs to naught, him will we destroye, that naught of him continue in any of the coastes of Israell. Let seuen men of hys sonnes be deliuered vnto vs, and we wyll hange them vp vnto the Lord, in Gibeah of Saul, whom the Lord dyd chose. And the kyng sayd: I wyl geue them you. But the kyng hadde compassion on Miphiboseth the sonne of Jonathas the son of Saul, because of the Lords othe, that was betwene them: euen betwene Dauyd and Jonathas the sonne of Saul. But he toke the two sonnes of Rizpa the daughter of Aia (whom she bare vnto Saule) euen Armoni and Miphiboseth, and the fyue sonnes of Michol (the daughter of Saul) whom she bare to Adriell the sonne of Berselai, the Meholathite. And he deliuered them vnto the hands of the Gibeonites, which hanged them in the hyll before the Lorde. And they fell all seuen together, and were slayne in the dayes of haruest: euen in the fyrst dayes: and in the beginning of Barly haruest. And Rizpa the daughter of Aia toke sackecloth and hanged it vp for them vppon the Rocke, euen from the beginnynge of haruest, vntyll rayne dropped vppon them out of heauen: and suffered neyther the byrdes of the ayre to fall on C them by daye, nor beastes of the fielde by nyghte. And it was tolde Dauid what Rizpa the daughter of Aia, the concubine of Saul had done: and Dauid went, and toke the bones of Saul and of Jonathas hys sonne, from the men of Jabes in Gilead (whiche had stollen them from the strete of Bethsan, where the Philistines had hanged them, when the Philistines had slayne Saul in Gilboa. And he brought thēce the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathas his sonne, & they toke vp the bones of them that were hanged. And the bones of Saul and Jonathas hys son buryed they in the countreye of Ben Jamin, in Zela: in the sepulchre of Cis his father. And whē they had performed al that the kyng commaunded, God was then at one with the lande. It fortuned, that the Philistines had yet war agayne with Israell. And Dauid wēt down & his seruauntes with him, & fought agaynst the Philistines. And Dauid waxed faynty, and Jesbi of Nob one of the sons of the gyauntes (the yron of whose speare wayed thre hundred sicles, & he being gyrded with a newe D sweard) thought to haue slayne Dauid. 2 Reg. 22 c But Abisai the sōne of Zaruia succoured him, and smote the Philistine and kylled hym. Then the seruauntes of Dauid sware vnto hym: saying: Thou shalt go no more oute with vs to battell, that thou quenche not the light of Israel. And yet after this, ther was a battell with the Philistines at Nob, and then Sibbechai the Husathit slew Saph, which was one of the sonnes of the Gyants. And 1 Pa. 21 a ther was yet another battel in Nob with ỹ Philistines, wher Elhanam the son of Jaere Orgim, a Bethlehemite slue one Goliah a Gethite: The staffe of whose speare was as gret as a weuers cloth beame. And ther was yet another batel in Geth, wher was a man of a gret stature, & had on euery hand. vi. fingers, and on euery fote. vi toes. xxiiij. in all. And was borne also of the kynredde of the gyauntes in Geth. And when he defyed Israell, Jonathas the sōn of Simea the brother of Dauid slewe him. These four gyauntes were borne in Geth, and fell into the hande of Dauid, and into the handes of hys seruauntes.

¶ The .xxii. Chapter.

A And Dauid spake the wordes of thys songe vnto the Lord, what tyme the Lord had deliuered hym oute of the hande of all hys enemyes, and oute of the hande of Saul. And he sayde: the Lorde is my rocke, and my castell, and my deliuerer. In my tribulacion will I call vpon the Lorde, and crye to my GOD. And he shall heare my voyce oute of hys temple, and my crye shal enter into his eares. The earthe trembled and quaked: the foundacions of heauen moued and shoke, when he was angrye. Smoke went vp in hys wrathe, and consuming fire out of his mouth: coles were kyndled thereof. And he bowed heauen, and came downe, and there was darkenes vnder hys fete. And he satte

He shot arowes, and scattered them: he hurled lightnyng, and ouerthrewe them. The flowynges of the sea appeared, and the foundacions of the world were seene, by the reason of the rebukynge of the Lorde, and through the blastynge of the breath of hys nostrelles. He shall sende frome heauen, and fet me: he shall plucke me oute of manye waters. He shall deliuer me from my myghty aduersarye, and fro myne enemyes, for they are to strong for me. ¶ The .xxiij. Chapter.

THese be the last sayinges of Dauid. Dauid the sonne of Isaye sayde: And the manne (whyche was made the anoynted of the God of Jacob, and the noble Psalmist of Israell) sayde: the spirite of the Lorde spake by me, and hys woorde was in my tongue. The God of Israell spake of me, euen the most myghty of Israell, sayde: he that beareth rule ouer men, oughte to rule iustelye in the feare of God. And as the morning light when the sonne is vp, a morning in which are no cloudes to lette the bryghtnes, and as the grasse of the earth is by the vertue of the rayne. Shall not my house bee so with God? For he hath made with me an euerlasting couenaunte, perfect and sure in all poyntes: and thys is truelye all my health and all my desyre that it growe, but not as grasse. But the vngodlye manne of Beliall shall be as a thorne cleane pluckt vp, which can not be taken with handes: But the man that shall touch theym, must haue yron, or a long helue. For els must they be burnte wyth fyre in the same place. These be the names of the myghtye menne, whom Dauyd had: one that sat in the seate of wysedome, beyng chefest amonge thre, pleasaunte was he and stronge: hee slewe eyght hundred at one tyme. After him was Eliazar the sonne of Dodi, the sonne of Ahohi, one of the thre worthyes wyth Dauid, whyche defyed the Philistines that were there gathered together to battell: whan the men of Israell were gone vp. Hee arose, and layed on the Philistines vntill hys hande was werye, and clane vnto the sweard. And the Lorde gaue great victorye the same daye. And the people which had fled, retourned, and went after hym to run to the spoile. After him was Samma the sonne of Agge the Hararyte: and the Philistines gathered together beside a towne. (Where was a parcell of lande ful of ryce) and the people fledde from the Philistins. But he stode in the middes of the grounde, and defended it, and slewe the Philistynes. And the Lorde gaue greate victorye. These three (which were of the thirty chefe captaines) went downe to Dauid in the harueste tyme vnto the caue Adullam, and the hooste of the Philistynes abode in the valley of Gyaunte. And Dauid was then in an holde. And the souldiours of the Philystynes were in Bethlehem.

And Dauid longed and ſaid: Oh that I had of the water that is in the well by the gate of Bethlehē, for to drinke. And the three myghty brake thorowe the hooſte of the Philiſtines, and fet water out of the well of Bethlehem that was by the gate, and toke and brought it to Dauid. Neuertheles he would not drynke therof, but offered it vnto the Lorde, and ſayde: the Lord forbyd that I ſhoulde do ſo. Is not this the blood of the men that wente in ieopardy of their lyues? and therefore he would not drinke it. And theſe thynges dyd theſe three myghty men.

2.re.22g Abiſai the brother of Joab, the ſonne of Saruiah, was cheefe amonge the three, and he lyft vp his ſpeare agaynſt three hundred, and ſlue them, and had the name amonge the three. For he was nobler man then the three, and was their captayne. Howbeit he attayned not vnto (the firſt three. And Banaiahu the ſonne of Jehoiada (the ſonne of a myghty man (valyaunte in actes, of Kabzeel, ſlue two ſtrong lyons, euen lyons of Moab. He wente downe alſo, and ſlue a lyon in a pytte, in tyme of ſnowe. And he ſlue an Egyptian a goodly bygge man, whiche had a ſpeare in his hande. But he D went downe to him with a ſtaffe, and plucked the ſpeare out of the Egyptians hande, and ſlue hym with hys owne ſpeare. Theſe thinges did Banaiahu the ſōne of Jehoiada, and had the name among the three worthyes. He was honorable among thirty, but he attayned not to the (fyrſte) three. And Dauid made him of his councel. Aſahell the brother of Joab alſo was one of the thirty. The. xxiiij. Chapter.

AND agayne, the Lorde was wroth agaynſte Iſraell, and he moued Dauyd agaynſte them, in that he ſayd: go and number Exo.30 Iſrael and Juda. For the kyng ſayd to Joab the captayne of hys hoſte: go thou abrode nowe, thorowoute al the trybes of Iſraell, euen from Dan to Beer Seba, & number ye the people, that I maye knowe the number of them. And Joab ſaide vnto the kyng: I beſeche the Lord thy God, to make thy people as many mo as they be: ye and an hundred tymes ſo many mo, and that the eyes of my Lord the king may ſee them. And what is the cauſe that my Lorde the kynge hath a luſte to thys thynge? Notwithſtandyng the kynges worde preuayled agaynſt Joab, and agaynſte the captaynes of the hoſte. And Joab and the captaynes of the hooſte wente out from the preſence of the kynge, to nomber the people of Iſraell. And they paſſed ouer Jordan, and pytched in Aroer, on the ryght ſyde of the citye, that lyeth in the middes of the baley of Gad, ouer againſte Jazer. And then they came to Gilead, and to the nether land, where was a newe habitacion, and from thence they came to Dan Jaan aboute to Sidon, and came to B the ſtronge holde of Tyre, and to all the cities of the Heuites, and of the Cananites, and then went out to the South of Juda, euen to Beer Seba.

And so, when they had bene abrode throughout all the lande, they returned to Jerusalem agayne, after the ende of nyne monethes and twentye dayes. And Joab delyuered vp the number and summe of the people vnto the kynge. And there were in Israell eyght hundred thousand men of myght that drewe swerdes. And the men of Juda were fiue hundred thousande men. And Dauids herte smote him, after that he had numbred the people. And David sayde vnto the Lorde: I haue synned exceadyngly, in that I haue done. And nowe Lorde take away the trespace of thy seruant for I haue done verye folyshely. And when David was vp in a mornyng, the worde of the Lorde came vnto the prophete Gad Dauyds sear, sayinge: Go and saye vnto David: thus sayth the Lorde: I offer thee three thynges, Chose thee which of them I shall do C vnto thee. So Gad came to David, and shewed hym, and sayd vnto hym: wylte thou haue seuen yeres hunger to come in thy land, or wylt thou flee three monethes before thine enemies, they folowynge thee, or that there be three dayes pestilence in thy lande? Nowe therefore aduyse thee, and see, what answere I shall geue to hym that sente me. And David sayde vnto Eccle. 2 c Gad: I am in extreme trouble. * We wyll fall nowe into the hande of the Lord, for muche is hys mercy, and let me not fall into the hand of man. And so the Lorde sente a pestilence in Israel, from the mornyng vnto the time appoynted. And ther dyed of the people from Dan to Beersleba seuentye thousande men. And when the Aungell stretched oute hys hande vppon Jerusalem to destroye it, the Lorde had compassion to do that euyll, and sayde to the Aungell that destroyed the people: It is nowe sufficient: hold thine hande. And the Aungell of the Lorde was by the threshyng place of Arefna the Jebusite. And Dauyd spake vnto the Lorde (when he sawe the aungel that smote the people) and sayde: lo, it is I that haue synned, and I that haue done wickedlye. But these shepe, what haue they done? let thyne hande (I pray thee) be agaynst me, and agaynste my fathers house. And Gad came the same daye to David, and sayde vnto hym: Go vp and reare an auiter vnto the Lorde in the threshynge flooze of Arefna the Jebusite. And David (accordyng to the D saying of Gad) went vp, as the Lord commaunded. And Arefna loked, and sawe the kynge and his seruauntes commynge towarde hym. And Arefna went out, and bowed hymselfe before the kynge flat on hys face vppon the ground, and Arefna sayd: wherefore is my Lorde the kynge come to hys seruaunt? David answered: To bye the threshynge flooze of thee, and to make an auiter vnto the Lord, that the plague maye cease from the people. And Arefna sayde vnto David: Let my Lord the kynge take and offer what semeth him good in hys eyes: Beholde, here be oxen for burnte sacrifyce, and sleades, and the other instrumentes of the oxen for wood. All these thynges dyd Arefna geue vnto the kynge, and sayde moreouer vnto the kynge: The Lorde thy God accepte thee. And the kynge sayde vnto Arefna: Not so, but I wyll bye it of thee at a pryce, and wyll not offer sacrifyce vnto the Lorde my God of that which doeth coste me nothynge. And so David bought the threshing flooze, and the Oxen for fyftye Sycles of syluer. And David buylt there an auiter vnto the Lorde, and offered burnt sacrifyces and peace offerynges. And so the Lorde was intreated for the land. And the plage ceased from Israel.

The first Chapter.

AND kynge Dauyd was olde and stricken in yeres: so that when they couered hym with clothes, he caught no heate: wherefore hys seruauntes sayde vnto hym: Let there be sought for my lorde the kynge, a yong mayden, to stand before the kinge, and to cherysshe him. And let her lye in thy bosome, that my lorde the kynge may get heate. And so they soughte for a fayre damosell throughoute all the coastes of Israel, and founde one Abisag a Sunamite, and broughte her to the kynge. And the damosell was exceading fayre, and cherished the kyng, and ministred to hym. But the kyng knew her not. And Adonia the sonne of Hagith exalted hym selfe, sayinge: I wyll be kyng. And he gat him charettes and horsemen, and fyftye men to runne before hym. And hys father wolde not displeasse hym at any tyme, nor sayde so muche to hym as: why doest thou so? And he was a goodlye man, and hys mother bare hym nexte after Absalom. And he toke councell at Joab the sonne of Zaruia, and at Abiathar the priestе. And they helped Adonia. But Sadocke the priest, Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, Nathan the prophete, Semei and Rei, and all the men of myght which were with Dauid, fauoured not Adonia. And Adonia sacrificed shepe and oxē, and fat cattell, by the stone of Zoheleth, whiche is faste * by the well of Rogel, and called all his brethren the kinges sonnes, & the men of Juda the kinges seruauntes. But Nathan the prophet and Banaiahu, and the other myghty men, & Salomon his brother he called not. Wherfore, Nathā spake vnto Bethsabe, the mother of Salomon, saying: Hast thou not hard how that Adonia the sonne of Hagith doth reygne, and Dauid our lord knoweth it not? Nowe therefore come, and I wyll geue thee counceil, howe to saue thyne owne lyfe, and the lyfe of thy sonne Salomon. Go and get thee in vnto kyng Dauid, and say vnto hym: Diddest not thou (my lord O kyng) sweare vnto thy handmayde, saying: Salomon thy sonne shall raygne after me, and he shall syt vpon my seate, why is then Adonia kyng? Beholde, while thou yet talkest there with the kyng, I wyll come in after thee, and confyrme thy wordes. And Bethsabe wente in vnto the kynge into the chamber. And the king was very old, and Abisag the Sunamite ministred vnto the kynge. And Bethsabe stouped, and made obeysaunce vnto the kynge. And the kynge sayde: what is the matter? She answered hym: my lorde, thou swarest by the Lorde thy God vnto thyne handmaid: Salomō thy sonne shal raygne after me, and he shall syt vpon my seate. And beholde, nowe is Adonia kynge, and my lorde the king woteth not of it. And he hath offered oxen, fat catel, and many shepe, and hath called all the sonnes of the kynge, and Abiathar the priestе, and Joab the captayne of the hoste. But Salomon thy seruaunte hath he not bydden. And nowe my lord (O kyng) the eies of al Israel wayt on the, that thou shuldest tel them, who ought to syt on the seat of my lord the kyng after him. For eles when my lorde the kyng shall slepe with hys fathers, I and my sonne Salomon shalbe synners. And whyle she yet talked with the kyng, Nathā the prophet came also. And they told the kyng saying: behold, here commeth Nathan the prophet. And when he was come into the kynge, he made obeysaunce before the kynge vpon hys face on the grounde, and Nathan said: My lord (O king) hast thou said: Adonia shal raygne after me, and he shall syt vpon my seate?

For

For he is gone downe this day, and hath slaine many oxen, and fat sheepe, and hath called all the kinges sonnes and the captains of the host, and Abiathar the priest. And behold, they eate and drinke before hym, and say: God saue kinge Adonia. But me thy seruant, and Sadock the priest, and Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, & thy seruant Salomon hath he not called. Is this thyng doone of my lorde the king, and hast not shewed it vnto thy seruaunt, who should syt on the seate E of my lord the kyng after him? Then kyng Dauid answered and said: Call me Bethsabe. And she came into the kynges presence, and stoode before him. And the king sware, saying: As truely as the Lorde liueth (that hath ryddē my soule out of all aduersitie) euen as I sware vnto the by the lord God of Israell, sayinge: Salomon thy sonne shall reygne after me, and he shall sytte vpon my seate for me, so will I doo this day. Then Bethsabe bowed on her face to the earthe, and did reuerence vnto the king, and said: I pray God that my Lord kyng Dauid may lyue euer. And kyng Dauid sayde: Call me Sadocke the priest, and Nathan the Prophete, and Banaiahu, the sonne of Jehoiada. And they came before the king. The kyng also said vnto them: Take with you the seruantes of your lorde, and sette Salomon my sonne vpon myne owen Mule, and cary him down to Gihō. And let Sadoch the priest, and Nathan the prophete anoynt hym there, kynge ouer Israell. And blowe ye with trumpetts, and saye: God saue kynge Salomon. And then come vp after hym that he may come and sytte vpon my seate. For he shalbe kyng in D my stede. And I will command hym to be captain ouer Israell and Juda. And Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada answered the kyng, and said: Amē. I pray God that the Lord God of my lorde the kyng say so to. And as God hath ben wyth my lorde the kyng, euen so be he wyth Salomon also, and make his seate greatter, than the seat of my Lord kyng Dauids hath bene. And so Sadoch the priest, and Nathan the prophete, and Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, and the Crethits, and Phelethites went downe, & set Salomon vpon king Dauids mule, and brought him to Gihon And Sadock the priest toke an horne of oyle out of the tabernacle, & anoynted Salomō. And al they of the people blewe trompettes, and said: God saue kyng Salomon. And al the people came vp after him, piping with pipes & reioysing gretly, so that the erth rang with the sound of them. And Adonia and al the gestes that he had called vnto him hard it, euen as they had made an ende of eatyng. And when Joab harde the sound of the trompet, he sayd: Howe happeneth it that ther is such a noyse in the citye? And as he yet spake: behold, Jonathas the sonne of Abiathar the priest came. And Adonia said vnto him: Come in, for thou art a valyant man, and bryngest good tydynges. And Jonathas answered & said to Adonia: Verily oure lorde king Dauid hath made Salomon kyng. And the king hath sent with him Sadock the priest, & Nathan the prophet, and Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada and the Crethits, and the Phelethites, & thei haue set him vpon the kinges Mule. And Sadock the priest, and Nathan the prophet, haue anointed him kyng in Gihon. And they came vp agayn, & reioyced, that the citie did sound again. And that is the noyse ỳ ye haue herd. And Salomon sytteth on the seate of the kyngdome. And moreouer the kinges seruantes came to blesse our lorde kyng Dauid, saying: Thy God make the name of Salomon more honorable then thy name, & make his seat greter than thy seate. And the kynge bowed hymself vpon the bed. And thus said the kyng: Blessed be the lord god of Israel: which hath made one to sit on my seate this daye, myne eie seyng it. And all the gestes that were with Adonia were afrayd, and rose vp, and went euery man his way. And Adonia fearyng the presence of Salomon arose, and went (into the tabernacle of the Lorde) and caught holde of the hornes of the altar. And one told Salomon, saiyng: Behold, Adonia doth

And Salomon sayd, yf he wyll be a they brought him from the altar. And he came, and dyd obeysance vnto king hym, Get thee to thyne house.

Saye on. And he sayed: Speake, I for he wyll not saye thee nay, that he Bethsabe therfore went vnto kynge Salomon, to speake vnto hym for Adonia. And the kynge rose vppe to-mete her, and bowed hym selfe vnto her, and sate hym downe on his seate.

And

And there was a seate set for the kinges mother, and she sat on hys righte syde. Then she sayde: I desyre a litle petition of thee, I pray thee saye me not naye. And the king said vnto her: Aske on my mother, for I will not say the nay. She sayd: let Abisag the Sunamite be geuen to Adonia thy brother to wyfe. And Kynge Salomon answered and sayde vnto his mother: why doest thou aske Abisag the Sunamyte for Adonia? aske for hym the kyngedome also, for he is myne elder brother, & hath for him Abiathar the priest, and Joab the sonne of Zaruia. Then kyng Salomon sware by the Lorde, sayinge: God doe so, and so to me: yf Adonia haue not spoken thys word agaynst his owne lyfe. Nowe therefore, as truely as the Lord liueth whiche hath ordeyned me, and set me on the seate of Dauid my father, and made me an house, as he promised, Adonia shall dye this daye. And kynge Salomon sente by the hande of Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, and he smote him that he dyed. And vnto Abiathar the priest sayde the kyng: get the to Anatoth vnto thyne owne fieldes: for thou art worthy of death: but I will not at this time kill thee, because thou bearest the arke of the Lord God before Dauid my father, and because thou haste suffred wyth my father in all his afflictions. And so Salamon put awaye Abiathar from beynge Priest vnto the Lorde: that he myght fulfyl the wordes of the Lord: whiche hee spake ouer the house of Eli in Silo. Then tidings came also to Joab: for Joab had tourned after Adonia, though he tourned not after Absalom. And Joab fled vnto the tabernacle of the Lord, and caught hold on the hornes of the altar. And it was tolde kyng Salomon, how that Joab fledde vnto the Tabernacle of the Lorde and stode by the altare. Then Salomon sente Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, sayinge: go and fal vpon hym. And Banaiahu came to the Tabernacle of the Lorde, and saide vnto hym: Thus sayeth the king: com out. And he sayd, nay, but I wyl dye euen here. And Banaiahu brought the kyng worde agayne, saying: thus said Joab, and thus he answered me. And the kynge sayde. Doe euen as he hath sayd: smyte him, and burye hym, that thou mayeste take awaye the bloudde which Joab shed causelesse, from me, and from the house of my father. And the Lorde shal bryng hys bloud vpon hys owne head, for he smote two men ryghteowyser and better then hee, and slue them with the sword, my father Dauyd not knowyng thereof, euen Abner the sonne of Ner, captaine of the host of Israel, and Amasa the son of Jether captayne of the host of Juda. Their bloud shal therfore returne vppon the heade of Joab, and on the heade of his seede for euer. But vpon Dauid, and vpon his seede, and vpon his house, and vpon hys seat shal there be peace for euer of the Lord. So Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada wēt vp and smote him, and slue him, and buried hym in hys owne house in the wildernes. And the kynge putte Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada in his roome ouer the host, and putte Sadocke the Priest in the roome of Abiathar. And the kynge sent and called Semei, and sayd vnto him: build the an house in Jerusalem, and dwel there: and see that thou go not foorthe thence any whether. For be thou sure that the daye that thou goest oute, and passest ouer the riuer of Cedron, thou shalte dye that daye, and thy bloudde shalbe vppon thyne owne head. And Semei sayde vnto the kyng. This is a good thynge: as my Lord the King hath sayde: so wyll hys seruaunte do. And Semei dwelte in Jerusalem manye a daye. And it chaunced after thre yeares, that two of the seruauntes of Semei ranne awaye vnto Achis, son of Maacha King of Geth. And they told Semei, saying: behold thy seruauntes be in Geth. And Semei stode vp, and sadled hys Asse, and gat him to Geth to Achis, to seke his seruauntes, and returned, and brought hys seruauntes agayne from Geth.

And

And it was tolde Salomon, howe that Semei had gone from Ierusalem to Geth, and was come agayne. And the Kynge sente and called Semei, and saide vnto him: Dyd not I charge thee by the Lord wyth an oth, and testifyed vnto the, saying: be sure, that whensoeuer thou goest out, and walkest abroade anye whether, thou shalt dye the death? And thou saydest vnto mee, it is good tydynges that I haue hearde. Why then hast thou not kept the oth of the Lord, and the commaundemente that I charged thee withal? The kyng sayd moreouer to 2Re.16b Semei: • thou remembrest al the wickednesse which thine heart knoweth, that thou dyddest to Dauid my father. The Lorde also shall brynge thy wickednes vpō thine owne head: and kinge Salomon shalbee blessed, and the seate of Dauid stablished before the Lorde for euer. So the kynge commaunded Banaiahu the sonne of Iehoiada: which went out, and smot him that he died. And the kyngdome was stablished in the hand of Salomon.

C The .v. Chapter.

A And Hiram king of Tire sent hys seruauntes vnto Salomon, for he had herd, that they had anointed him kinge in the roome of hys father. • For Hiram was euer a louer of Dauid. • And Salomon sent to Hiram, saying: Thou knowest • howe that Dauid my father coulde not buyld an house vnto the name of the Lorde hys God, for the warres which were about him on euery side, vntyll the Lorde put them vnder the soles of his fete. But nowe the Lorde my God hath geuen me rest on euery syde, so that there is neyther aduersarye, nor any euyl plague. And behold, • I am determined to buyld an house vnto the name of the Lord my God, as the Lorde spake vnto Dauid my father, saying: Thy sonne whom I wyll set vpon thy seat for the, he shall buyld an house vnto my name. Now therefore, commaunde thou that they hewe me Cedar trees oute of Libanon. And my seruauntes shalbe with thyne, and vnto thee wyll I geue the hyre for thy seruauntes, accordyng to all suche thynges as thou shalte appoynt, for thou knowst that there are not amonge vs, that canne skyll to hewe timber, like vnto the Sidones. When Hiram hearde the wordes of Salomon, he reioysed greately, and sayde: Blessed be the Lorde this daye, whyche hath geuen vnto Dauyd a wyse sonne, ouer thys myghtye people. And Hiram sente to Salomon, saying: I haue considred the thynges which thou sentest to me for, and wyl accomplysh all thy desyre, concerning tymber of Cedar trees and firre. My seruauntes shal bryng them from Libanon to the sea. And I will conuey them by shyp vnto the place that thou shalt shewe me, and wyl cause them to be discharged there, and thou shalt receaue them. And thou shalte do me a pleasure agayne, if thou minister fode for myne house. And so Hiram gaue Salomon Cedar trees, and fir trees, accor-

And the Lorde gaue Salomon wysedome as he promised hym. And there was peace betwene Hiram and Salomon and they two were confederate together. And kynge Salomon reysed a 3.re.4.a And Salomon had thre score and ten thousand that bare burdens, and foure score thousande masons in the mountains: besides the Lordes, whom Salomon appointed to ouersee the worke euen thre thousand and thre hundred, which ruled the people (and theym) that wroughte in the worke. And the kyng cōmanded them to bryng greate stones, fre stones, and hewed stones for the foundation of the house. And Salomons masons, and the masons of Hiram dyd hewe theim, with the workmen of the corners. And so they prepared bothe timbre and stones, for the buyldyng of the house.

And in the wall of the house, he made chambers roūd about (euē in the walles of the hous) round about the temple and the quer, and made sydes rounde aboute. The nethermoost chaumber was fiue cubites broade, and the myddle was sixe cubites broade, and the third was seuen cubites broade. For without in the walles of the house, he layde beames rounde aboute, that the beames of the chambers shoulde not be fastened in the walles of the house. And the house was buylte of stone, made perfect alredy, before it was brought thither, soo that there was neyther hammer nor axe, eyther any toole of

The doore of the middle chamber was in the ryght syde of the house: and men went vp with wyndyng staires into the myddle chambre and out of the myddle, into the third. And so he buylte the house, and fynished it, and roofte it with beames of Cedar tymber. And thenne he buylt chambres to all the temple of fiue cubites height, and they were ioyned to the house, wyth beames of Cedar. And the woorde of the Lorde came to Salomon, sayinge: Concernyng the house whyche thou art in buyldyng, if thou wylt walke in myne ordinances, and execute my lawes: and kepe all my commaundementes, to walke in them: then wyll I make good vnto thee, my promyse, *whiche I pro-

And the quier that was wythin the Temple, he prepared, to set there the Ark of the appointment of the Lorde. And the quiere beefore, was twenty cubites long, and twentie cubites in bredth, & twentie cubits in heigth. And he sieled it with pure golde, and boorded the aultare wyth Cedar. And Salomon also sieled the the house wythin with pure golde. And he made golden barres runne along the quiere, whiche he had couered wyth gold. And in all the walles of the house round about, he made figures of carued and sieled woorke: As namely pictures of Cherubs and Paulme trees, and grauen flowres, both within in the quiere, & without in the Temple. And the flooze of the house, he couered with golde, bothe within in the quier, and also without in the temple. And in the entryng of the quiere, he made two doores of olyue tree: And bothe the vpper, & two side postes, were fiue square. The two doores also were of olyue tree, and he graued them with grauynge of Cherubs and paulme trees: and grauen floures, and couered them with gold, and laid thynne plates of golde vpon the Cherubs and palme trees. And in like maner did he in the doore of ỹ temple, sauynge that the postes were of olyue tree foure square. The two doores were of fyrre tree, and eyther doore with two foldyng leaues, hee graued theron Cherubs, palme trees and flowres, and couered them wyth golde, which was laide thynne vpon the carued woorke. And he buylt the inner court with three rowes of hewed stoone, and one rowe of Cedar wodde. In the fourth yeare was the foundation of the house of the Lorde layde: euen in the moneth Zif: And in the leuenthe yeare, in the moneth Bull (whych is the eyght moneth) was the house full fynyshed, throwe out all the partes therof, accordyng to all the fashyon of it. Then he made a porche to syt & iudge in, sieled with Cedar thorow out all the pauementes. And he made two head peces of molten brasse (after the fashion of a crowne) to set on the toppes of the pyllers: The heygth of the one head pece contayned fiue cubites, and the heygth of the other head pece contayned fyue cubites also: he made also net worke and garlands of chaine worke, vpon the head peces that were on the toppe of the pillers euen seuen (rowes) vpon the one head peice, and seuen vpon the other. And so he made the pyllers, and two rowes rounde aboute, in the one wyethen worke, to couer the heade pieces that were vpon the pomgranates. And thus dyd he also for the other headpieces. And the heade peces that were on the toppes of the pyllers, couered he about with a curyous worke of roses, towarde the palace by the space of foure cubites. Lykewyse, vnder the heade pieces in those two pyllers benethe, ouer agaynste the myddes and before the net worke. And in the toppe of the pyllers was a worke of roses, and so was the workemanshyp of the pyllers fynyshed. And he made a molten lauatorye, ten cubites wyde from brym to brymme, round in compasse, and fyue cubites hye. And a stringe of thirty cubites dyd compase it aboute, and vnder the brym of it, there were knoppes rounde aboute, ten in one cubite: and they compassed the lauatorye rounde aboute. And the knoppes were caste with it, in two rowes, when it was cast. And it stode on twelue oxen: of whiche, three loked towarde the north, three towarde the weste, three toward the South, and three toward the Easte, and the lauatorye stode vppon them, and all their hinder partes were inward. It was an hande bredth thicke, and the brim wrought like the brym of a cup with flowres of lylyes. And it contayned two thousande Bates. And he made tenne sokettes of brasse, foure cubites longe, and foure cubites brode a piece, & three cubites hye. And vnder euerye sockette were foure brasen wheles, and bordres of brasse. And in the foure corners therof, were vndersetters (vnder the Lauatory) cast ech ouer against his felow. And the stalk of the Lauatorye was in the myddle of it (where it is sene on the outsyde) one cubit hye, and a cubite and an half round, and in the heigth of it wer grauen workes, whose sides were made foure square, and not round. And vnder the sydes were foure wheles, and ẏ axel trees ioyned fast to the bottom. And the heigth of euery wheele was a cubite and an halfe. And the workmanshyp of the wheles was lyke the worke of a charet whele. And the axeltrees, the nauelles, spokes and shaftes were all moulten. And ther were foure vndersetters in the four corners of one sockette: and the vndersetters wer of the very bottom it self. And in the heyght of the bottom was there a rounde compasse of halfe a cubite hye: and in the heyght of the bottome, ther proceded both ledges and sydes out of the same. For in the borders of the ledges and on the sydes hee had grauen pictures of Cherubins, lions and palme trees, one by another round aboute. Thus made he the ten sockets after thys maner: And they had al one fashion of casting, one measure & one syse. Then made he ten lauers of bras one lauer contayning fourtie Bates: and one lauer was foure cubites, and vpon ueri one of the tenne sockettes, he put one lauer. And he putte fyue of

And Hiram made pottes, & shouels and basens, and so finished all the woorke that hee made kinge Salomon for the house of the Lorde: that is to saye, two pillers and two round head peces that were to be sette on the tops of the two pillers. Two net workes to couer the two rounde hedpeces, set vpon ẏ top of ẏ pillers, foure hundred pomegranates for the two net workes, euen two rowes of pomgranates in one net worke, to couer the twoe headpeces that were to bee sette on the toppes of the pyllers: And the ten sockettes, and ten lauers on the sockettes. The lauatorye, and twelue oxen vnder it, and pottes, shouelles and basens. And all these vessells whiche Hiram made to kynge Salomon for the house of the Lorde, were of brycght brasse. In the plaine & of Jordan did the kinge cast theym, euen in the thicke claye betwene Socoth and Zarthã. And Salomon left all the vessels vnwayed, because they were soe exceadinge manye, neyther founde they oute the weyghte of the brasse. And so Salomon made all the vessels that pertayned vnto the house of the Lorde: the golden auitare, and the golden table, whereon the shewbreade was: And fiue candlesticks, for the ryghte syde, and fyue for the the left before the queer, of pure gold wyth flowres, lampes, and snoffers of golde: and bolles, flat pieces, basõs spones and masoures of pure golde: and hinges made he of golde both for the dores of the queer (the place most 2 Pal.

And when Hadad harde in Egipt, that Dauid was laid to sleepe with his fathers, and that Joab the captaine of the hoost was deade also, he said to Pharao: let me depart, that I may go to mine owne countrye.
Pharao saide vnto him: what haste thou lacked here with me, that thou wouldest thus go to thine owne countrey? He answered: nothing: howbe it, let me go. And God stirred him vp another aduersarye, one Rezon, the sonne of Eliada, whiche fledde from his Lord Hodazerer king of Zoba.
And he gathered men vnto hym, and became captaine ouer the companye, when Dauid slewe them. And they went to Damasco, and dwelte there, and raigned in Damasco. Therefore was he an aduersary to Israell all the daies of Salomon. And this was the mischiefe, in that Hadad did abhorre Israel, and raigned ouer Syria. And

But thys was the cause, that he lifte vp hys hand against the king, Salomon builte Mello, and mended the broken places of the Citye of Dauid hys father. And this fellow Jeroboam was a man of warre. And Salomon sawe the yong man, that he was able to doo the worke: he made hym ruler ouer all the charges of the house of Joseph. The.xiij. Chapter.

AND behold, there came a man I of God oute of Juda (by the worde of the Lord) vnto Bethel, and Jeroboam ſtode by the aulter to putte incenſe. And he cryed agaynſt the aulter in the worde of the Lord and ſayd: O aulter, aulter, thus ſayth the Lord: Behold a chyld ſhalbe borne vnto the houſe of Dauid, (Joſia by name) and vpon thee ſhall he offer the prieſtes of the hyl alters, that burnt incenſe vpon thee, and mennes bones ſhalbe brent vpon thee And he gaue a token the ſame tyme, ſayinge: This is the token, that the Lord hath ſpoken it: Behold, the aulter ſhal rent and the aſhes that are vpon it, ſhal fal out. And when the kynge herde the B ſaying of the man of God (which had cryed agaynſte the aulter in Bethell) he ſtretched oute hys hande from the aulter, ſayinge: holde hym. And hys hande whyche he put foorth agaynſte hym, dryed vp, and he coulde not pull it in agayne to hym: the aulter alſo claue aſunder, and the aſhes fell out from the aulter, accordynge to the token, whyche the man of God hadde geuen by the worde of the Lord. And the kynge aunswered, and sayde vnto the man of God. * Oh pray vnto the Lord thy God, and make intercession for me, that my hande may be restored me agayne. And the man of God besought the Lord, and the kinges hand was restored agayne, and became as it was afore. And the kynge sayde vnto the man of God: Come home with me, that thou mayest dyne, and I wyl geue thee a reward. And the man of God sayde vnto the kynge: If thou wouldest geue me halfe thyne house, I wyll not go in with thee, neyther wyll I eate breade or drynke water in thys place. For so was it charged me, through the worde of the Lorde, saying: eate no breade nor drynke water, nor turne againe by the same way that thou cameit. And so he wente another way, and returned not by the waye that he came to Bethell. And there dwelte an olde prophete in Bethell, and hys sonnes came, and tolde hym all the workes, that the man of God had done that daye in Bethell, and the wordes which he had spoken vnto the kyng, tolde they their father also. And their father sayd vnto them: what way went he? And his sonnes shewed hym what waye the man of God wente, whiche came from Juda. And he sayde vnto hys sonnes: Sadle me the asse. which when they had sadled, he gat him vp thereon, and went after the man of God, and found hym syttynge vnder a tree. And he sayde vnto hym: Arte thou the man of God that cameſt from Juda? And he sayde: I am. He sayde vnto hym: come home with me, and eate bread. He answered: I may not returne with the, to goo in with thee, neyther wyll I eate bread, or drinke water with thee in thys place. For it was sayde to me in the worde of the Lord: Thou shalt eate no bread, nor drynke water ther, nor turne agayne to go by the waye that thou cameſt. He sayde vnto him: I am a prophete also as wel as thou, and an Aungell spake vnto me in the name of the Lorde, sayinge: Bryng him agayn with the into thine house, that he maye eate breade, and drynke water. And he lyed vnto hym. And so he wente agayne with hym, and did eate bread in hys house, and dranke water. And it fortuned, that as they sate at the table, the woorde of the Lorde came vnto the prophete, that brought hym agayne. And he cryed vnto the man of God that came from Juda, sayinge: Thus sayth the Lord: Because thou haſte dysobeyed the mouthe of the Lorde, and haſte not kepte the commaundemente whyche the Lord thy God commaunded thee: but cameſte backe agayne, and haſte eaten breade, and dronke water, in the place (concernynge the whych the Lorde dyd saye vnto thee: Thou shalt eate no breade, nor drynke no water) thy carkasse shall not come vnto the sepulchre of thy fathers. And so it came to paſſe, that when he had eaten bread and dronke, the prophete which brought hym agayne, sadled hym an Asse. And when he was gone, a Lyon mette hym by the waye, and slue hym, and hys carkasse was caſte in the waye, and the asse stode thereby, and the Lyon stode by the corse also. And men that passed by, saw the carkasse caſte in the waye, and the Lyon standynge thereby: and they came and tolde it in the towne, where the olde prophete dwelte. And when the prophete that brought hym backe agayne from the waye, harde thereof, he sayd: It is the man of God: He was dysobedyente vnto the woorde of the Lord, and therfore the Lorde hath deliuered hym vnto the Lyon, which hath rent hym, and slayne hym, accordynge to the woorde of the Lorde, whiche he spake vnto hym. And he spake to hys sonnes, saying: Sadle me an asse: and so they dyd. And he wente and founde hys bodye caſte in the waye, and the Asse and the Lyon stode by the coarse. And the Lyon had not eaten the carkasse, nor hurte the asse. And the prophete toke vp the bodye of the man of God, and layed it vpon the Asse, and brought it agayne: and the olde prophet phet came to the citye to lamente, and to burye hym. And he layde hys body in his owen graue, and they lamented ouer hym. (Alas my brother.) And when he had buried hym, he spake to hys sonnes, saying. When I am dead, see that ye burye me in the sepulchre wherein the man of God is buryed: 4Re.23d laye my bones beside his bones. * For the sayinge whiche he cryed at the worde of the Lord agaynst the aulter in Bethel (and agaynst all the houses of hyll aulters whiche are in the cities of Samarye) shall come to passe. Howbeit, for all that, Jeroboam conuerted not from hys wycked waye: but turned backe, and made of the lowest of the people Prieſtes of the hyl aulters. And who so pleased hym, he fylled hys hande, and became Prieſt of the hyll aulters. And thys thynge turned to synne vnto the house of Jeroboam, euen to destroye hym, and to bringe hym to naught from of the face of the earth.

I

AT that tyme Abia the sonne of Jeroboam fell sicke. And Jeroboam sayde vnto hys wyfe: vp (I praye thee) and disguyse thy selfe, that thou be not knowen to be the wyfe of Jeroboam, and gette 3Re.11f thee to Silo. For there is Ahia the prophet which told me * that I shoulde be kynge ouer thys people. And take with thee ten loues, and crakneles, and a cruse of honey, and go to hym that he maye tell thee what shall become of the chylde. And Jeroboams wyfe did so: and arose, and went to Silo, and came to the house of Ahia. But Ahia coulde not see, for his eyes were waxen dymme for age. And the Lorde sayde vnto Ahia: Beholde, the wyfe of Jeroboam cometh, to aske a thynge of thee for her sonne, for he is B sycke. But thus shalte thou saye vnto her. And when she came in, she fayned her selfe to be another woman. But when Ahia hearde the sounde of her fete as she came in at the doze, he sayd: Come in thou wyfe of Jeroboam, why fayneſt thou thy selfe, to bee another? I am sente to thee to shewe thee heauy thynges. Go tell Jeroboam, thus sayth the Lorde God of Israell. (It repenteth me) forasmuche 3Re.12c as * I exalted thee from amonge the people, and made thee prynce ouer my people Israell, I dyd rente the kingdome away from the house of Dauid and gaue it thee: Neuertheleſſe, thou haſte not bene as my seruaunte Dauid, whiche kepte my commaundementes, and folowed me with all his herte, to do that whiche is ryghte in myne eyes: but haſte done euill, abone all that were before thee: for thou haſt gone, and made thee other goddes, and molten ymages, to prouoke mee, and haſte caſte mee behynde thy backe: therfore beholde, I wyll bringe euill vpon the house of Jeroboam, and wil C roote out from Jeroboam, euen hym 1Re.15d that * pysseth agaynſte the wall, and hym that is in pryson, and forsaken in Israell, and wyll take awaye the remnaunte of the house of Jeroboam, as a man taketh awaye donge, tyll he 3.Re.16 hath caryed oute all. * Whosoeuer (of Jeroboams houſe) dye in the towne, hym shall the dogges eate: and he that dyeth in the fielde, shall the foules of the ayre eate: for the Lorde hath sayde it. Vp therefore and get thee to thyne owne houſe. Behold, when thy foote entreth into the city, the chylde shall D dye. And all they of Israell shall mourne for hym, and burye hym: for he onely of Jeroboam shall come to the sepulchre, because in hym there is founde goodneſſe towarde the Lorde God of Israell in the houſe of Jeroboam. Moreouer, the Lord shal sterre hym vp a kynge ouer Israel, whiche shall destroye the houſe of Jeroboam in that day. But what is it now? For the Lorde shall smyte Israell, as when a reede is shaken in the water, and he shall wede Israell out of thys good land (which he gaue to their fathers) and shall scatter them beyonde the ryuer, because they haue made them groues, and angred the Lorde.

And

And he shall geue Israell vp, because of the sinnes of Ieroboam, which did sinne, and made Israell to sinne. And E Ieroboams wife arose, and departed, and came to Thirzah, and whan she came to the threshold of the dooze, the childe was dead. And all Israell buried him, and lamented him, accozding to the wozde of the Lozde, whiche he spake by the hand of his seruaũt Ahia the prophet. And the rest of the wozdes that concerne Ieroboam, how he warred, and howe he raigned: Behold, they are wzytten in the booke of the chronicles of the kings of Israel. And the dais which Ieroboam raigned, were. xxii. yere. And whē he was layed a slepe with his fathers, Nadab his sonne raigned in his stead. Reho-F boam the sonne of Salomon reigned in Iuda, and Rehoboam was. xli. yere old when he began to raigne, and he raigned. xvii. yere in Ierusalem (the city which the Lozd did chuse oute of all the tribes of Israell, to putte hys name there.) His mothers name was Naama an Ammonite. And Iuda wzought wickednesse in the sight of the Lozd, and angred him in mo thinges then their Fathers did, in theyr sinnes, whiche they sinned. For they also made them hill aultars, images & Idol groues on euery hie hil, and vnder euery thicke tree. And there was a stewes of male childzen in the land, and they did accozding to al the abhominations of the nations, whiche the Lozde caste oute before the childzen of Israell. And it fortuned, that in the fifte yere of king Rehoboam: Sisack king of Egipte came vp against Je-G rusalem, and tooke away the tresures of the house of the Lozde, and the treasures of the kinges house, and spoiled all that was to be had. And he toke away the shieldes of gold, which Sa-3 re. 10 d lomon hadde made. In whose steade king Rehoboam made brasen shields, and committed them vnto the handes of the keepinge of the captaines of the garde, whiche waited at the dooze of the kynges house. And whan ỹ king went into the house of the Lozd, they of the garde bare theim, and broughte them againe into the Garde chambze. The rest of the wozdes that concerne Rehoboam, and all that hee did, are they not wzytten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Iuda? And there was warre betwene Rehoboam and Ieroboam al their lines. And Rehoboam slepte with hys fathers, and was buried beside hys fathers in the citye of Dauid. Hys mothers name was Naama an Ammonite. And Abiam his sonne raygned in his stead.

The. xv. Chapter.

In the. xviii. yeare of kinge Ieroboam, the sonne of Nabat, reigned Abiam ouer Iuda. Three yeare raigned he in Ierusalem, and his mothers name was Maacha, the daughter of Abisalom. And hee walcked in all the sinnes of his father, which he had doone before hym, and his hearte was not perfecte with the Lozd his God, as the harte of Dauid hys father. Neuertheless for Dauids sake did the Lozd his god geue him a lighte in Ierusalem, that he sette vp his sonne after him, and to stablishe Ierusalem: because Dauid did that whyche was righte in the sight of the Lozde, and tourned from nothing that he commaunded him all the dayes of his life, saue only in the matter of Urias the Hethit. And ther B was warre betwene Abiam and Jeroboam as longe as they lyued. The rest of the wozdes that concerne Abiam, and all that hee dyd, are they not wzytten in the booke of the Chronicles of the Kynges of Iuda? And there was warre betweene Abiam and Ieroboam. And Abiam slepte with his Fathers, and they buried him in the Citye of Dauid. And Asa his sonne raigned in his steade. In the twentye yere of Ieroboam kyng of Israell, raigned Asa ouer Iuda, one and foztye yeare raygned hee in Ierusalem, and hys mothers name was was Maacha, the daughter of Abi-salom. And Asa did that semed righte in the eies of the Lorde, as did Dauid his father. * And he tooke awaye the 3.re. 22g whore keepers oute of the lande, and put away all the abhominable Idols that his father had made. And he put 2.pa 15.d downe * Maacha his mother, from bearinge rule, because she had made images in groues. And Asa destroyed her Images, and burnte them by the brooke Cedron. But the hil aultares were not put downe. Neuertheless Asas hearte was perfecte with the Lord all his daies. He brought in the holye vessels of his father, (and that he had dedicate) vnto the house of the Lord: golde and siluer, and Jewelles.

And there was warre betweene Asa, and Baasa kinge of Israell all theyr dayes. And * Baasa kinge of Israell 15.pa.16 a went vp against Juda, and built Rama, so that he would let none go oute or in, to Asa kinge of Juda. Then Asa D toke all the siluer and gold, that was lefte in the treasures of the house of the Lorde, and the Treasures of the kinges house, and deliuered them vnto the handes of his seruauntes, and Asa sent them to * Benhadad the sone 3.re.20 a of Tabrimon, the Sonne of Hezion kinge of Syria, (that dwelte at Da-masco,) sayinge: there is a bonde be-twene me and thee, betweene my father and thy father. And beholde, I haue sent vnto thee a present of siluer and golde, that thou come and breake the bond that thou haste with Baasa kinge of Israell, that he maye departe from me. So Benhadad harkned vnto kinge Asa, and sente the captaines of the hostes (which he had) against the E cities of Israel, and smote Hion, and Dan, and Abell, Beth Maacah, and all the Region of Cineroth, with all the lande of Nephthali. And when Baasa heard therof, he left buildinge of Rama, and dwelt in Thirza. Then kinge Asa made a Proclamation thorowout all Juda, that none should be excused. And so they tooke the stones of Ramah and the timber (wherwith Baasa hadde builded,) and kinge Asa builte with them the hill of Ben Jamin at Mizpa. The remnaunte of all the wordes that concerne Asa, and all his might, and all that he did, and the cities which he builded, are they not wrytten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Juda? Neuer-theless in his olde age, he was diseased in his feete. And Asa slepte with his Fathers, and was buried beside his fathers in the citye of Dauid his F father. And * Jehosaphat hys Sonne 1 pa.17.a raigned in his steade. And Nadab the Mat.1.b sonne of Jeroboam began to raigne vpon Israel, the seconde yeare of Asa king of Juda, and raigned vppon Israell two yere. And he did euel in the sight of the Lord, walking in ỹ waye of his father, and in his sinne, wherwith he made Israel sinne. And Ba-asa the sonne of Ahia (which was of ỹ house of Issachar) conspired against him, and Baasa smote him at Gibbethon, which is a city of ỹ Philistins: for Nadab and all Israell laide siege to Gibbethon. Euen in the third yere of Asa king of Juda, did Baasa slaye him, and raigned in his steade. * And 3.re.14 a it fortuned that whan he was kinge, G he smote all the house of Jeroboam, & lefte him naught that breathed, vntill he had put him cleane oute, accordinge vnto the sayinge of the Lorde, which he spake by his seruaunt Ahia the Selonite: because of the sinnes of Jeroboam, wherwith he sinned, and made Israel sinne, whan he with hys prouocation angred the Lorde God of Israell. The rest of the woordes that concerne Nadab, and all that he dyd, are they not wrytten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Israell? And there was warre betweene Asa and Baasa, kinge of Israel, all theyr daies. So in the thirde yeare of Asa kinge of Juda, began Baasa the sonne of Ahia to raigne ouer al Israell in Thirza. xxiiii. yeare. And he did that which is euil in the sighte of the Lord, walking in the waye of Jeroboam, and in his sinne, whiche made Israell to sinne.

¶ The. xvi. Chapter.

Then

A When the worde of the Lorde came to Jehu the sonne of Hanani agaynst Baasa, saying: forasmuch as I exalted thee oute of the duste, and made thee captayne ouer my people Israell, and thou hast walked in the way of Jeroboam, and haste made my people Israell to synne, to anger me with their syns: Behold, I wyl root outthe posteritie of Baasa, and the posteritie of his house, & wil make his house lyke the house of Jeroboam the sonne of

and. 21. f. dyeth in the citie, him shal the dogges eate: and that man of hym which dyeth in the fieldes, shall the foules of B the ayre eate. The reste of the wordes that concerne Baasa, and what he dyd, and his power, are they not wrytten in the booke of chronicles of the kynges of Israel? And so Baasa slept with his fathers, and was buryed in Thirza. And Ela his sonne raygned in hys steade. And by the hande of the prophet Jehu the sonne of Hanani, came the worde of the Lorde agaynst Baasa, and agaynst his house, and agaynste all the wickednesse that he dyd in the syghte of the Lorde (in angrynge hym with the worke of hys owne handes) that he shoulde be like the house of Jeroboam, and becouse he kylled hym, (that is to saye Jehu the sonne of Hanani the prophete.) The. xxvi. yeare of Asa kynge of Juda, beganne Ela the sonne of Baasa to raygne ouer Israell in Thirza, two yeare. And hys seruaunte Zimri (whiche was captayne of halfe hys charettes conspired agaynste hym, as he was in Thirza drinking: and was dronken in the house of Arza steward of hys house in Thirza. And Zimri came and smote him, and kylled hym in the. xxvii. yeare of Asa kyng of Ju-C da, and raygned in hys steade. And it Exo. 21b fortuned that whē he was kyng, and
1. Re. 2 d sat on his seate, he slue all the house of Baasa, not leauynge thereof, one to pysse agaynste the wall: Yee, he slue hys kynsfolkes and frendes also. And thus dyd Zimri destroy all the house of Baasa, accordynge to the worde of the Lorde, whiche he spake agaynste Baasa by the hand of Jehu, the prophete, for all the synnes of Baasa and synnes of Ela hys sonne, which they synned, and made Israell to synne, and angred the Lorde God of Israell with theyr vanityes. The reste of the woordes that concerne Ela, and all that he dyd, are they not wrten in all the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israell? In the seuen and twentye yeare of Asa kynge of Juda, dyd Zimri raygne seuen dayes in Thirza, and the people was then in the hooste besiegynge Gibbethon, a cytye of the Philistines. And the D people in the hooste heard one saye: Zimri hath conspired, and slayne the kynge: wherefore, all they of Israell made Amri (the captayne of the host) kynge ouer Israell, that same daye euen in the hooste. And Amri departed by from Gibbethon, and all Israell with hym, and they besieged Thirza. And when Zimri sawe that the Cytye muste nedes be taken, he wente into the palace of the kynges house, and brente hym selfe and the kinges house with fire, & so dyed, for his sinnes which he sinned, in doyng that which is euill in the sight of the Lorde, and in walking in the way of Jeroboam, and in his syns which he did, and in that he made Israel to syn. The rest of the wordes that concerne Zimri & the treason that he wrought, are they not wrytten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Is-E raell? Then were the people of Israell deuyded into two partes, for halfe the people folowed Thibni the sonne of Ginath, makyng hym king: and the other halfe folowed Amri. But the people that folowed Amri, preuayled agaynst the people that folowed Thibni the sonne of Ginath. And so Thibni dyed, and Amri raygned. In the. xxxi. yeare of Asa kynge of Juda, began Amri to raygne ouer Israell. xii. yeare. Syxe yeare raygned he in Thirza. He bought the hyll Schomron of one Schemar for two talentes talentes of syluer, and builte in the hyll, and called the name of the Cytie whiche hee builte, after the name of Schemar, whiche had bene owner of the hil Schōron. But Amri wroght that whiche is euyll in the eyes of the Lorde, and dydde worsse then all that were before hym. For hee walked in all the ways of Jeroboam, the sonne of Nabat, and in hys syns, that made Israell synne, to anger the Lord God of Israell wyth theyr vanitytes. The rest of the wordes that concerne Amri, and all that he dyd, and hys strēgth that he shewed, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israell? And so Amri slept with hys fathers, and was buried in Schomron, and Ahab hys son raygned in hys steade. In the thirtie and eyght yeare of Asa kyng of Juda began Ahab the sonne of Amri to reygn ouer Israell, and the same Ahab the sonne of Amri raygned ouer Israell in Samaria twenty and two yeare. And Ahab the sonne of Amri dyd euyll in the syghte of the Lorde, aboue all that were before hym. For it semed vnto hym but a syghte thynge to walke in the sinnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat. He toke Jezabel also the daughter of Ethbaall kynge of the Sidonytes to wyfe, and wente and serued Baall, and worshypped hym. And he reared vp an aultare for Baall in the temple of Baall, which he hadde builded in Schomron. And Ahab made groues, and proceaded further in angringe the Lord God of Israell, then all the kynges of Israell that were before hym. In hys dayes, did Hiel of Bethell builde Jericho. And it coste hym Abyram hys eldest sonne when he layde the foundation, and hys youngest sonne Segub, whē he set vp the gates, accordyng vnto the word of the Lorde, which he spake by Josua the sonne of Nun.

The .xvii. Chapter.

AND Elia the Thesbite (whych was of the inhabiters of Gilead) sayde vnto Ahab: As truely as the Lord God Israell liueth, before whom I stande, there shall be neyther dew nor rayne these yeres but accordyng to my worde. And the woorde of the Lorde came vnto hym, sayinge: get thee hence, and turne thee eastwarde, and hide thy selfe in the brooke Cherith, that is it that lyeth before Jordan: Thou shalte drynke of the ryuer, and I haue commaunded the rauens to fede thee there. And so he wente and dydde accordinge vnto the woorde of the Lord: For he went and dwelt by the broke Cherith, that is before Jordane. And the rauens broughte him breade and flesshe in the mornynge, and lykewyse breade and flesshe in the euenynge, and hee dranke of the brooke. And it chaunced after a while, that the broke dried vp because there fell no rayne vpon the earth. And the woorde of the Lorde cam vnto hym, sayinge: Aryse and get thee to Sarphath, whiche is in Sidon, and dwell there. Beholde I haue commaunded a wydowe there to sustaine thee. So hee arose and went to Sarphath. And when he came to the gate of the Citie, the wydowe was there gatherynge styckes. And hee called to her, and sayde: fet me I praye thee a lyttle water in a vessell, that I maye drynke. And as she was going to fet it, he cryed after her, and sayde: bryng me I praye thee, a morsell of bread also in thyne hande. She sayd: As truly as the Lorde thy God lyueth, I haue no breade readye, but euen an handfull of meale in a barell, and a litle oyle in a cruse. And beholde I am gatherynge of styckes for to go in, and dresse it for me and my sonne, that we maye eate it, and dye. And Elia sayde vnto her, feare not, come and dooe as thou hast sayde: but make me therof a litle cake fyrst of all, and, bryng it vnto me: and afterward make for the and thy sonne. For thus saieth the Lorde God of Israel: the meale in the barell shal not be wasted nether shal the oile in the cruse be mynyshed, vntyll the LORD haue sente rayne vpon the earth. And she wente, and did as Elia saide, And hee and shee and her house did the worde of the Lorde came ſayd vnto Obadia: Go into the lande, graſſe, to ſaue the horſes & the mules, and that we deſtroye not ſome of the beaſtes. And ſo they deuyded the lande Ahab went one way by hym ſelfe, and Obadia went another waye by hym ſelfe. And it chaunced that as Obadia B was in the waye, Elia met him. And Obadia knewe him, and fell on hys face, and ſayd: arte not thou my Lorde Elia? And he anſwered him: I am he.

Go and tell thy Lord: behold, Elia is here. He ſayde: what haue I ſynned, that thou wouldeſt delyuer thy ſer-uaunt into the hande of Ahab, to ſlay me? As truely as the Lorde thy God liueth, ther is no nacion or kingdome, whether my Lorde hath not ſente, to thy lord, that Elias is here. And as ſone as I am gone from the, the ſpyrit of the Lorde ſhall cary thee into ſome place that I do not knowe, & ſo when C I come and tell Ahab, and he can not fynde thee, he ſhall ſlaye me. But I youth vp. Was it not tolde my Lord, what I dyd, when Jezabell ſlue the prophetes of the Lord, howe I hydde an hundred men of the Lordes prophetes, fyfty men in one caue, and fyftye in another, and prouided them of breade and water? And nowe thou ſayeſt: Go thou nowe and ſhewe thy Lorde, Beholde, Elia is here, that he may ſlay me? And Elia ſayd, as truly as the Lorde of hoſtes liueth, before whom I ſtande, I wyll ſhewe my ſelfe vnto him this daye. So Obadia went to mete Ahab, and tolde hym.

And Ahab went to mete Elia. And it fortuned, that when Ahab ſawe Elia he ſayde vnto him: Arte thou he that troubleth Iſrael? He anſwered: I

1 And Benhadad the kynge of Syria gathered all hys hoste together, hauing .xxii. kinges wyth him, and horses and charettes: and went vp and besieged Samaria, and warred agaynste it. And he sente messengers to Ahab kynge of Israell into the Citye, and sayde vnto hym: thus sayeth Benhadad: Thy syluer and thy golde is myne, and the fayrest of thy wyues, and of thy chyldren bee myne. And the kynge of Israel aunswered and sayde: My Lorde kynge accordinge to thy sayinge, I am thine and all that I haue. And whan the messengers came agayne, they sayde: thus sayeth Benhadad. For as much as I haue sent vnto thee, saying: thou shalte delyuer me thy syluer and thy golde, and thy wyues, and thy chyldren: I wyll therefore sende my seruauntes vnto thee to morowe thys

Then the kyng of Israell sente for all the elders of the lande, and sayde: take heede, I praye you and se, how this fellowe goeth about mischefe. For he sente vnto me, for my wiues, for my children, for my syluer & for my gold: and I denied him not. And all the elders & al the people said, harken not vnto hym, nor consēt. Wherfore he saide vnto the messēgers of Benhadad: tel my Lord the kynge, al that thou diddest send for to thy seruaunt at the fyrst time, that I wil do, but this thing I may not do. And the messengers departed, and broughtan swere agayne. And Benhadad sente vnto him agayne, and sayde: thus and thus do the Gods vnto me, if the dust of Samaria be inough for all the people that folow me, to take euerye man an handfull. And the kynge of Israel aunswered, and sayde: tell hym, let not him that putteth on hys harneste bost hym self, as he that putteth it of. And it fortuned, that when Bēhadad hard that tidynges, as hee was wyth the kinges drinking wythin the pauilyons, he sayde vnto his seruaunts, put on your harneste. And they sette them selues in aray againste the citye. And ¶ behold, there came a Prophet vnto Ahab kyng of Israel, saying: thus saith the Lorde, hast thou sene al this great multytude? Beholde, I wyll delyuer it into thine hand thys daye, and thou shalt know, that I am the Lord. And Ahab sayde: By whome? hee sayde: thus sayeth the Lorde: Euen by the seruauntes of the gouernoures of the shyres. He saide againe: who shal order the battayle? And hee answeared: Thou. Then hee noumbred the seruants of the gouerners of the shires: and they wer two hundred and .xxxii. And after them also, he noumbred all the people, all the children of Israell, euen seuen thousand. And they went out at noon: but Benhadad did drink tyll he was droncken in the Pauilyons, bothe hee and the kynges: euen xxxii. kynges, that holpe him. And the seruauntes of the gouernoures of the shires went out first. And Bēhadad sent out, and they shewed him, saying: There are men come out of Samaria. He said, whether they become out for peace, take them aline: or whether they be come oute to fight, take them yet a liue. And so those younge men of the gouernoures of the shires came oute of the citye, and the hooste after them, and they slew euery one his enemye that came in his waye. And the Syrians fledde, and they of Israell followed after them. And Benhadad the kinge of Syria scaped on a horsse, with his horsemenne. And the king of Israell went oute, and smote the horsses and charettes, and wyth a greate slaughter slue he the Syrians. And there came a Prophette to the kinge of Israell, and saide vnto hym: goo forthe and play the man, be wyse and take heede what thou doest: for when the yeare is gonne aboute, the king of Syria will come vp againste thee. And the seruauntes of the kinge of Syria sayde vnto him. The Gods of the hilles are their Goddes, and therfore they had the better of vs: but lette vs fyghte againste them in the plain, & for what ye will, we shal haue the better of them. And this doo: take the kinges away euerye man oute of his place, and putte Dukes in theyr rowmes. And do thou noumbre thee an hooste, like the host that thou hast loste, suche horses and suche charets, and we will fight against them in the plaine, and thou shalt see vs gette the E better of them. And he harkned vnto their voice, and did euen so: and it fortuned, that after the yere was goone aboute, Benhadad numbred the Syrians, and went vp to Ephek to fight againste Israell. And the chyldren of Israel wer numbred, and with theyr whole noumbre wente they agaynste them, and the children of Israell pytched before them, lyke two little flockes of kiddes: but the Syrians fylled the country. And there came a manne of God, and said vnto the king of Israell: thus sayeth the Lorde: Because the Syrians haue sayed: the Lorde is but God of the hilles, and not God of the valeis: therefore will I deliuer this great multitude into thyne hãd, and ye shall knowe, that I am the Lorde. And they pitched one ouer against the other. vii. dayes, and it came to passe, that in the seuenthe daye, the battaile was ioyned. And the children of Israell slewe of the Syrians an hundred thousande foote men in one daye. But the rest fled to Ephek into the city. And there fell a wall vppon xxvii. thousande of the men that were left. And Benhadad fledde, and came into the citye, from chambre to chambre. And his seruauntes sayde vnto him: Beholde, we haue hard say, that the kinges of the house of Israell are mercifull kinges. We will therefore putte sacke cloth aboute oure loynes, and ropes aboute oure neckes, and go out to the kynge of Israel, if happely he will saue thy life. And so they girded sacke clothe aboute theyr loynes, and put roopes aboute theyr heades, and came to the kynge of Israell and said: Thy seruaunt Benhadad saith, I pray thee let me liue. He saide: is he yet a liue? he is my brother. And they tooke that worde for good lucke, and F hastely caughte it out of hys mouth, and saide, yea thy brother Benhadad. He said, go, & bringe him hyther. And Benhadad came out vnto him, and he caused him to come vp into the charret. And he saide vnto him: the cityes which my father toke from thy father I will restore againe. And thou shalt make streates for thee in Damasco, as my father did in Samaria. And I will make an appoyntmente with thee, and sende thee awaye. And so he made an appoyntemente wyth hym, and sent him awaye. And there was a certaine man of the children of the Prophettes, whyche sayde vnto his neighboure in the woorde of the Lorde: smite me I praye thee. And the man would not smite him: Then said he vnto hym. Because thou haste not harkened vnto the voyce of the Lorde: beholde as soone as thou arte departed from me, a Lion shall slay thee. 3. Re. 13. put him selfe out of knowledge wyth ashes, wherby he layed vpon hys face.

And when the kyng came by, he cry-ed vnto the kynge, and sayde: thy ser-uaunt went out in the myddes of the battell. And beholde, ther went a way a man, whom another man brought vnto me, and saide: kepe thys manne.
And yf hee be milled or loste, thy lyfe shall go for hys: or else, thou shalt pay a talente of syluer. And as thy seruant had here and there to do, he was gon.
And the king of Israel said vnto him: euen so shal thy iudgement be as thou hast defined it thy selfe. And he hasted and tooke the ashes away from hys hym, that hee was of the Prophetes.

people. And the kyng of Israel went to hys house, wayworde, and in dyspleasure, and came to Samaria.

And Zedekias the ſonne of Canaana made hornes of yron, and ſayde: Thus ſaith the Lorde: With theſe hornes ſhalte thou puſhe the Syrians, vntyll thou haue made an ende of them. And al the prophetes prophecyed euen ſo, ſaying: Go vp to Ramoth in Gilead, and proſper, for the Lord ſhal deliuer it into the kings hande. And the meſſenger that was gone to call Michea, ſpake vnto him, ſayinge: Beholde the wordes of the prophetes ſpeake good vnto the kyng with one mouth: let thy worde therfore (I praye thee) be lyke the worde of euerye one of them, to ſpeake that which is good. And Michea ſayd: as truely as the Lord liueth, whatſoeuer the Lorde ſayth vnto me, that will I ſpeake. And ſo he came to the kynge, and the kyng ſayd vnto him: Michea, ought we to go agaynſte Ramoth in Gilead to batayle, or to bee ſtyll? He anſwered to hym. * Go and proſper, 2 Par. 28 a.b.c. the Lord ſhall deliuer it into the hand of the kynge. And the kyng ſayd vnto him: So and ſo manye tymes do I charge thee, that thou tel me nothing, but that whiche is true, in the name of the Lorde. He ſayd: I ſawe al them of Iſraell ſcattered vppon the hylles, as ſhepe that haue not a ſhepeherde. And the Lorde ſayde: Theſe haue no maſter, let euery man retourne to his houſe in peace. And the kynge of Iſraell ſayde vnto Jeholaphat: dyd I not tell thee, that he wouldе prophecye no good vnto me, but euyll? And he ſayde agayne: Heare thou therfore the woorde of the Lorde. I ſawe the Lorde ſyt on hys ſeate, and all the hoſt of heauen ſtoode aboute him on hys ryght hand and on his lefte. And the 2. Par. 18b Lorde ſayd: * Who ſhall perſwade Ahab, that he maye go and fall at Ramoth in Gilead, and one ſaide on this maner, and another on that. And there came forth a certayne ſpyrite, and ſtode before the Lord, and ſayde: I wyll perſwade hym. And the Lorde ſayde vnto hym: Wherwith? And he ſayd: I wyll go out, and be a falſe ſpyrite in the mouth of all hys Prophetes. He ſayde: thou ſhalte perſwade hym, and preuayle, go forth then, and do euen ſo. Nowe therfore behold, * the Lord Jer. 14. c hath put a lyinge ſpyrite in the mouth of al theſe thy prophetes, and the Lord hath ſpoken euyll towarde thee. But Zedekia the ſonne of Canaana went to and ſmot Michea on the cheke, and ſaid: Which went the ſpyrit of the Lord from me, to ſpeake vnto thee? And Michea ſayd: behold, thou ſhalt ſe in that day, when thou ſhalt go from chambre to chambre to hyde thee. And the kyng of Iſrael ſayd: take Michea and cary him vnto Amon the gouernoure of the citye, and vnto Joad the kynges ſonne, and ſaye: thus ſayeth the king: Put this felowe in the preſon houſe, and fede hym with bread of affliction, and with water of trouble, vntyll I retourne in peace. And Michea ſayd: If thou retourne in peace, the Lorde hath not ſpoken by me. And he ſayde: herken ye people euerye one of you. And ſo the king of Iſraell and Jehoſaphat the kynge of Juda wente vp to Ramoth in Gilead. And the kyng of Iſraelle ſayde to Jeholaphat: chaunge the, when thou goeſt to war, and put on thyne apparell. And the kynge of Iſraell chaunged him ſelfe, and wente to battell. But the kynge of Syria commaunded the two and thirtye captaynes (that had rule ouer his charettes) ſayinge: fight neyther with ſmall nor greate, ſaue onely agaynſte the kynge of Iſraell. And when the captaynes of the charettes ſawe Jeholaphat, they ſayd: Surely it is the kynge of Iſraell, and they turned to fight agaynſt him. And Jeholaphat cried. And ſo it came to paſſe, that when the captaynes of the charettes ſawe that he was not the kyng of Iſraell, they turned backe frō him. And a certayne man drewe a bowe ignorantely, and (by chaunce) ſmote ỹ kyng of Iſrael betwene the rybbes and his harneis. Wherfore he ſayd vnto the driuer of his charets: turne thy hande, and carye me out of the hoste, for I am (sore) hurt. And the battell encreased that day, and the kyng stode styll in his charet agaynst the Syrians, and dyed at euen. And the blood ranne oute of the wounde into the middes of the charet. And there went a proclamation thorowe out the hoste aboute the goyng downe of the sonne saying: Euery manne to hys Citie, and to hys owne countreye. And so the kynge of Israell dyed, and they came to Samaria, and buryed hym there. And one washed the charet in 3.re.12.f the poole of Samaria, * and the dogges licked vp his bloode (and harlottes washed by the poole syde) accordyng vnto the woorde of the Lorde, which he spake. The rest of the worckes that concerne Ahab, and all that he dyd, and the Iuorie house whiche he made, and al the cities that he builded, are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the Kynges of Israell? And so Ahab slepte wyth hys fathers, and Ahazia hys sonne reygned in hys steade.

2.pa.20. * Iehosaphat the sonne of Asa beganne to reygne vppon Iuda, in the fourthe yeare of Ahab kyng of Israell, and Iehosaphat was.xxxv. yeare olde, whan he beganne to reigne, and reygned .xxv. yeare in Ierusalem. Hys mothers name was Azuba, the daughter of Silhi. And he walked in all the wayes of Asa hys father, and bowed not therfrom: but did that whiche was right in the eyes of the Lorde. Neuertheless, the hylle aultares were not taken out of the way, for the people offered and burnte incense yet in the hyll aulters. And Iehosaphat made peace with the kynge of Israell. * The rest of the worckes that concerne Iehosaphat, and the myghte that hee vsed, and howe he warred, are they not wrytten in the Boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iuda. And the remnaunt of the Sodomytes of the males, whyche remayned in the days of hys father, he putte cleane oute of the lande. There was then no kynge made in Edom. And Iehosaphat made tenne shyppes in the sea, to come out thorow Tharsis to Ophir for golde, but they went not, for the shyppes brake at Ezion Gaber. Then sayd Ahazia, the sonne of Ahab vnto Iehosaphat, Lette my seruauntes goe with thy seruauntes in the shyps. But Iehosaphat wold not. And Iehosaphat dyd slepe with his fathers, and was buried with his father, in the Citie of Dauid hys father. And Iehoram his soonne reigned in his stede. Ahazia the soonne of Ahab, beganne to reygne ouer Israell in Samaria, the seuententh yeare of Iehosaphat king of Iuda, and reigned two yeares ouer Israell. But he dyd euyll in the sight of the Lord, and walked in the way of hys father, and in the waye of his mother, and in the way of Ieroboam the sonne of Nabath, whiche made Israel to syn. For he serued Baal, and worshipped hym, and prouoked the Lorde God of Israel vnto wrath according vnto all that his father hadde doone.

The fyrſte Chapter.

AND Moab did wickedlye agaynſt Iſraell after the death of Ahab. And Ahazia fell throughe a latteſ windowe of his vpper chamber that he had in Samaria. And whyle he was in hys ſickeneſſe, he ſent meſſengers and ſayd vnto them: Go and enquire of Beelzebub the God of Ekrom whether I ſhall recouer of thys my diſeaſe. But the Aungell of the Lorde ſpake vnto Elia the Theſbite: Aryſe, and go vp agaynſt the meſſengers of the kynge of Samaria, and ſay vnto them: Is there not a God in Iſraell, that ye go to aſke councell at Beelzebub the god of Ekrom? wherfore, thus ſayth the Lorde: thou ſhalte not com downe from the bed on which thou art gone vp, but ſhalte dye the B death. And Elia departed. And when the meſſengers turned backe agayne vnto hym, he ſayde vnto them: why are ye nowe come agayne? They anſwered hym: there came a man vp agaynſt vs, and ſayde vnto vs: go and turne agayne vnto the kyng that ſent you, and ſay vnto him: Thus ſaith the Lord: Is there not a God in Iſraell, that thou ſendeſt to enquire of Beelzebub the God of Ekrom? Therfore thou ſhalt not come downe from the bed, on whiche thou art gone vp, but ſhalt dye the death. And he ſayd vnto them: what maner of man was that which came vp in your way, and told Mat.3.b you theſe wordes? And they anſwered him: it was an hearye man, and girde with a girdle of leather about hys loynes. And he ſayde: it is Elia the Theſbite. Then the kynge ſente vnto him a captayne ouer fyfty (with hys fifty men) whiche came to him, & behold, he ſate on the toppe of an hill. And he ſpake vnto him: Thou man of God, the kynge hath ſayde: come downe. Elia anſwered and ſayde to the captayne ouer the fifty: If I be a C man of God, fire come downe from heauen, and conſume thee and thy fifty. And there came fire of God, and Luke.33 conſumed him and his fyfty. And the kyng ſent agayne, and ſent him another captayne ouer fyfty with his fifty. And he anſwered and ſayde vnto him: O man of God, thus hath the king ſayd: make haſt, and come down. Elia anſwered and ſayde vnto them: if I be a man of God, fire come down from heauen, and conſume thee and thy fyfty. And there came fire of God downe from heauen, and conſumed him and his fifty. And the king ſent agayn, and ſente the thirde captayne ouer fyftye with his fyfty men. And the third captaine ouer fifty went vp, and camme and fell on his knees before Elia, & beſoughte him, and ſaide vnto him: O man of God, let my lyfe and the lyfe of the fyfty thy ſeruauntes be precioule in thy ſight. Behold, D there came fire downe from heauen, and burnt vp the two fore captaynes ouer fyfty with their fifties: therfore let my lyfe nowe be precioule in thy ſyghte. And the Aungell of the Lorde ſayd vnto Elia: go downe with him, and be not afrayde of him. And he arose and went downe with him vnto the kyng. And he ſayd vnto him, thus ſayth the Lorde: for as much as thou haſt ſent meſſengers to aſke councell at Beelzebub the God of Ekrom, as though there had bene no God in Iſraell, whoſe worde thou myghteſte ſeke after: therefore thou ſhalte not come down of the bed, on whichthou art gone vp, but ſhalt dye the death. And ſo he dyed according to the worde of the Lorde, which Elia had ſpoken. And Iehoram (his brother) beganne to raygne in hys ſteade, in the ſeconde yeare of Iehoram the ſonne of Iehoſephat kinge of Iuda, becauſe he had no ſonne. The reſt of the wordes that cōcern Ahazia, what things he did, are they not wrytten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Israell?

¶ The.ii. Chapter.

A AND it chaunsed, that when the* Lord would take vp Elia into heauen by a whyrle winde, Elia wente with Elisa from Gilgall. And Elia sayde vnto Elisa, tarye here I praye thee, for the Lorde hathe sente me to Bethel. Elisa sayde vnto him: *as surely as the Lorde liueth, and as thy soule liueth, I wyll not leaue thee. And they came downe to Bethel, and the children of the prophets that were at Bethel, came oute to Elisa, and sayd vnto him: knowest thou not, howe that the Lorde wyll take away thy master from thy heade this daye? He sayde: I know it also, holde ye your peace. And Elia sayde vnto him: Elisa tarye here, I praye thee, for the Lord hath sent me to Jericho. He said: as surely as the Lorde liueth, and as sure as thy soul liueth, I wil not leaue thee, and so they cam to Jericho. And the children of the Prophets that were at Jericho came to Elisa, and sayd vnto him: knowest thou not, that the Lorde wyll take away thy master from thy heade thys day? He aunswered: I knowe it also, hold ye your peace. And Elia said vnto him: tary I praye thee here, for the Lord hath sent me to Jordan. And he said as surely as the Lord liueth, & as thy soule liueth, I wil not leue thee. And so they two wente together.

Gen.5.c. x.re.28 d

B And fiftye menne of the sonnes of the prophets came and stode on the other syde a farre of, and they two stode by Jordan. And Elia toke hys mantell and wrapte it together, and smote the waters, and they were deuyded, parte the one waye, and parte the other, so that they two went ouer thorowe the dry land. And it fortuned, ꝑ as sone as they wer ouer, Elia said vnto Elisa: aske what I shall doo for thee, yer I be taken away from thee. And Elisa sayde: I praye thee let thy spirite bee doubled vpon me. And he saide: thou hast asked an hard thyng. Neuerthelesse, if thou see me whan I am taken away from thee, thou shalt haue it so: if thou doo not, it shall not be. And it fortuned, that as they went walking and talkinge: beholde, there appeared a charet of fyre, and horses of fire, and parted them both a sonder. * And Elia went vp thorow the whyrlewind into heauen. And Elisa saw, and cried: O my Father, O my Father: the charet of Israell, and the horsmenne therof, and he sawe him no more: and he tooke hys owne clothes, and rente them in two peeces. He tooke vp also the mantel of Elia that fel from him, and went backe agayne, and stode by Jordans side, and tooke the mantel of Elia (that fell from hym,) and smote the waters, (and they parted not a sunder,) and hee sayde: where is the Lorde God of Elia, and he hym selfe? And when he hadde smitten the waters, they parted this waye and that way, and Elisa went ouer. And whā the children of the Prophets whiche were at Jericho saw hym from a far, they sayde: the spirite of Elia doothe rest on Elisa, and they came to meete hym, and fell to the grounde before hym, and saide vnto him: See, there be with thy seruauntes fiftye stronge men, lette them goo and seeke thy master: happelye the spirite of the Lorde hathe taken hym vp, and cast him vpon some mountain, or into some valey. And he sayde. Ye shall sende none. And whan they lay vppon him til he was ashamed, he sayde. Send. They sent therfore fifty men, which sought him three dayes and three nyghtes, but founde him not. And whan they came agayne to him, which tarryed at Jericho, he sayde vnto them: dyd I not saye vnto you, that ye shoulde not go? And the men of the city said vnto Elisa, behold Syr, the dwellinge of this city is pleasaunt as thou thy selfe seest: but the water is naughte, & the ground barren. He said. Bring me a newe cruse, & put salt therin. And they brought it to him. And he went vnto ꝑ spring of ꝑ waters, & cast the salt in thither, and said: Thus saith ꝑ lord.

Ec.48.a

I haue healed this water, there shall not come hence forth, either dearthe or barennesse. So the waters wer healed vnto this day, accordinge to ỹ saying of Elizeus, whiche he spake. And he went vp from thence vnto Bethel. And as he was goinge vp the waye, there came litle childrē out of the city, & mocked him, and said vnto hym. Go vp thou bald heade, goo vp thou balde hed. And he turned back, and loked on them, and cursed them in the name of the Lord. And there came .ii. shr Beares oute of that woode, and tare .xlii. children of them. And hee wente from thence to mounte Carmell, and from thence he turned again to Samaria.

¶ The .iii. Chapter.

1 IEhoram the sonne of Ahab began to raigne vpon Israell in Samaria the xviii. yeare of Iehosaphat kynge of Juda, and raigned twelue yeres. And he wroughte euell in the syght of the Lord: but not like his father and like his mother, for he put away the images of Baal, that hys father had made. Neuertheless, hee cleued vnto the sinnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat (whiche made Israel to sinne) and departed not ther frō. And Mesa king of Moab was a lord of shepe, and rendered vnto the kinge of Israel an hundred thousand lābes, and an hundred thousande Rammes with the wol. But whan Ahab was dead, it fortuned that the king of Moab rebelled against the kinge of Israell. And kyng Iehoram went oute of Samaria the same season, & numbred all Israell, and went and sent to Iehosaphat the kyng of Juda, sayinge: ỹ king of Moab hath offended against me, wilt thou come with me agaynst Moab to battel? He answered: I wil come vp, for as I am, so arte thou: and as my people be, so are thy people, & thi horses as mine. And he said: what way shall we go vp? And he answered. The way thorow the wildernes B of Edom. And so the kinge of Israell toke his iourney: and the king of Juda, and the king of Edom. And when they had compassed the way .vii. dais they hadde no water for the hoste, and for the cattell that followed them.
And the kinge of Israell said: Alasse, the Lord hathe called these thre kinges together, to deliuer them ouer into the hande of Moab. But Iehosaphat sayde: Is there not here a Prophet of the Lord, that we may inquire of the Lorde, by hym? And one of the kynge of Israels seruauntes answered and saide: heare is Elisa the sonne of Saphat, whiche powred water on the handes of Elia. And Iehosaphat sayde: Is not the worde of the Lorde wyth hym? And so the kynge of Israell, and Iehosaphat and the king of Edom wente downe to him. And Elisa sayde vnto the kinge of Israell. What haue I to do with thee? Gette thee to the Prophets of thy father, & to the Prophets of thy mother. And the king of Israel said vnto him. Oh naye. For the Lord hathe called these thre kynges together to delyuer them into the hande of Moab. And Elisa sayd: as sure as the Lorde of hoostes lyueth (in whose syght I stande) and it wer not that I regard the presence of Iehosaphat the kynge of Juda, I woulde not looke towarde thee, nor yet see thee. But nowe bringe me a minstrell. And whan the mynstrell playde, the hand of the Lord came vpon hym. And hee sayd: Thus sayeth the Lord, Make thys playne grounde full of diches. For thus sayth ỹ Lord: ¶ ye shall see neyther winde nor raine, and yet the brooke shallbe fylled with water, that ye may dryncke, bothe ye, and your beastes, and your cattell.
And thys is yet but a small thynge in the sighte of the Lorde, for as muche as he wil geue ouer the Moabites also into your hands. And ye shal smite euerye stronge Towne, and euerye goodlye Citye, and shall felle euerye pleasaunt tree, and stoppe euery well of water, and marre euerye good platte of grounde wyth stoanes.
And in the morning, whan the meat offerynge was offered. It fortuned, that there came water by the way frō Edom, and the countrye was fylled with water. And when all the Moabites heard that the kinges wer come vp to fight against them, they gathered all together, from the youngest that was able to put on harnesse, and so vp warde, and stoode in the bozder of the lande. And they were vp early in the mozning, and the Sunne shone vppon the water, that the Moabites sawe the water a farre of, as redde as bloude, and they sayde. Thys is the bloud of the slaughter: the Kyngs ar slayn, and one hath smitten another. Nowe therefoze Moab, gette thee to the spoyle. And when they came to the hoste of Israell, the Israelites stoode vp and smote the Moabites, so that they fledde befoze them, but they followed vpon them, and smote Moab. And they ouerthzewe the Cities, and on euery good parcel of land, caste euery man his stone, and filled it, and they stopte all the welles of waters, and felde all the good trees. Only in the citye of bzicke left they the stones therof, how be it they went aboute it with slinges, and smote it. And when the kinge of Moab sawe, that the battayle was sooze against him, he toke wyth him seuen hundzed menne that dzewe the swearde to haue gone thorowe, euen vnto the kinge of Edom: but they coulde not. And then he toke his eldest sonne (that shoulde haue raigned in his stead) and offered hym foz a burntofferinge vppon the wall. And there was greate indignation against Israel, and they departed from him, and returned to their owne land.

The.iiii. Chapter.

And there cried a certain woman of the wiues of the prophets vnto Elisa, saying: thy seruaunte my husbande is deade, and thou knowest, that thy seruaunte dyd feare the Lozde. And the creditoz is come, to fette my two sonnes, to be his bondmen. Elisa saide vnto her. Tell me what shall I doo foz thee: what haste thou in thine house? She saide, Thyne handmaide hathe nothinge at all in the house, saue a pytcher with oyle. He sayd vnto her: Go and bozowe vessell foz thee, of them that are wythoute, euen of all thy neighbours, emptie vessells, and that not a fewe. And when thou arte come in, thou shalt shutte the dooze after thee, and after thy sonnes, and poure oute in to all those vesselles, and sette a syde that whiche is full. And so the woman went from hym, and shutte the dooze after her, and after her sonnes. And they bzought to her, and she powzed oute. And it came to passe, that when the vesselles were full, she sayde vnto her sonne: bzynge me yet a vessell. And he saide vnto her: I haue no mo. And the oyle ceased. Then she came, and tolde the man of God. And he sayde: goo and sell the oyle, and pay them that thou arte in dette vnto, but liue thou and thy childzē of the rest.

And it fell on a daye, that Elisa came to Sunem, where was a greate woman, that tooke hym in, foz to eate bzeade. And so it came to passe, that from that time foozthe (as ofte as hee came that waye) hee tourned in thyther to eate bzead. And she sayde vnto her husbande. Behoulde, I perceyue, that thys is a holye man of God, that commeth so ofte by oure place. Lette vs make him a chambze (I pzay thee) wyth walles, and let vs set him there a bedde, and a table, a stoole and a candlesticke, that he may turne in thither when he commeth to vs. And it foztuned on a daye, that he came thyther, and turned into the chambze, and laye there in, and sayde to Gehezi hys seruant: call this Sunamite. And whan he called her, she presented her self befozehim. And again he said vnto him: Tel her. Behold, thou hast ben careful foz vs, and hast made all this prouision: what shal we now do foz thee? wouldest þ be spoken foz to the king oz to the captaine of the hoste? She answered: I dwel amōg mine owen people. And he said againe, what is to be don foz her? Gehezi answered, verely she hath no child, & her husbād is old.

And

And he saide: call her. And whan hee had called her, she stode in the dooze.
And he saide * by suche a time, and as soone as the frute can liue, thou shalte embzace a sonne. And she said: oh naye my Lozde, thou man of God, doo not lie vnto thine handmaide. And the wife conceaued, and bare a sonne that same season that Elizeus had said vnto her: as sone as the fruit could haue life. And whē the childe was grown, it fell on a daye, that he wente oute to his father, and to the reapers. And he saide vnto his Father: my heade, my head. And he said to a lad: Carye him to his mother. And whan hee had taken him, and brought him to his mother, he sate on her knees till noone, and then died. And she wente vp, and laid him on the bedde of the manne of God, and shutte the dooze about him, and went out, and called vnto her husbande and said: send with me (I pzay thee) one of the younge men, and one of the Asses. Foz I will runne to the man of God, and come agayn. And he said: wherfoze wilt thou goo to him, seinge that to daye is neyther newe moone noz Saboth day. She answered: Foz health. Then she sadelled an Asse, and saide to hir seruaunte: leade away the Asse, and make her not to go slowly (because I ride vpon her) but whan I bid thee. ✠ And so she wente and came vnto the man of GOD, to mount Carmell. And it foztuned: that when the man of God sawe her farre of, he said to Gehezi his seruaunte.
Behoolde, ponder is the Sunamite. Runne therfoze to mete her, and saye vnto her: Is all well with thee, and with thy husbande, and with the lad. And she answered. All is well. And when she came to the man of God vp to the hil, she caught him by the feete. But Gehezi wente to her, to thruste her away. And the man of God sayd: let her alone, foz her soule is vexed within her, and the Lozde hath hid it from me, and hath not told it me. Thē thee saide: did I desire a sonne of my Lozde: did I not require thee, that thou shouldeste not disceiue mee?

Then he saide to Gehezi: * gyzde vp thy loyns, and take my staffe in thine hand, and go thy way. * If thou mete anye man saiute him not. And if anye saiute thee, answere him not againe. And lay my staffe vpon the face of the childe. And the mother of the chylde sayd: * as sure as the Lozd liueth, and as thy soule liueth, I will not leaue thee. And he arose and followed her. Gehezi went befoze them, and layeth the staffe vppon the face of the childe. But there was nether voyce, noz any feeling. Wherefoze he went againe to meete him, and tolde him, sayinge: the childe is not awaked. And when Elisa was come into the house: Beholde, the childe was deade, and layde vpon his bedde. He went in therfoze, and shut the dooze to the lad and him, and pzayed vnto the Lozd. * And went vp and laye vpon the ladde, and putte his mouth on his mouth, and his eies vpon his eies, and his handes vppon his handes, and whan he so lay vpon the childe, the flesh of the childe waxed warme. And he wente agayne, and walcked once vp and downe in the house, and then wente vp, and layde himselfe vppon him againe. And then the childe gasped. vii. times, and opened his eyes. And hee called Gehezi, and sayde: Call foz this Sunamite. So he called her: whiche when shee was come in vnto him, he sayde vnto her: * take thy sonne. Therefoze she went in, and fell at his fete, and bowed her selfe to the grounde, and tooke vp her sonne, and went oute. ✠ Elisa came againe to Gilgal, and ther was a dearthe in the land, and the childzen of the Pzophetes dwelte with hym. And he saide vnto his seruaunt. Set a great pot on the fyze, and make potage foz the childzen of the Pzophets. And one wente oute into the fielde to gather herbes, and found (as it wer) a wilde vine, and gathered therof wilde Coloquintidas his lappe full, and came, and shzedde them into the potte of potage: foz they knew it not. So they poured out foz the menne to eate. And it foztuned, that when they tasted of the pottage, they cryed oute, and sayde: O thou man of God, there is death in the pot: and they could not eate therof. But he sayd: bring meale. And he cast it into the pot, and sayde: fill for the people, that they may eate, and there was no more harme in the pot. There came a manne from Baal Salisa, and brought the man of God breade of the fyrste fruites, euen. xx. loaues of barly, and newe corne which was yet in hys bagges. And he sayd: Geue vnto the people that they maye eate. And his minister answered: why shall I sette this before an hundreth men? Hee sayde agayne: geue it vnto the people that they mai eat. For thus Ioh. 6. a sayeth the Lorde: they shall eate, and ther shalbe left ouer. And so he did set it before them, and they did eate, & left ouer, according to ỳ word of the Lord.

NAaman, captaine of the hoste of the kinge of Siria, was a greate man, and honorable in the sight of his master: because that by him the Lorde had geuen health vnto Siria. He was also a myghty manne and experte in war, but hee was a leper. And the Sirians had gone oute by companyes, and had brought oute of the countrey of Israel a litle maid, and she was wyth Naamans wyfe. And she saide vnto her ladye: I wold to God my Lorde were wyth the prophet that is in Samaria: for he wold deliuer hym of his leprosie. And hee went in, and tolde his Lorde, saying: Thus and thus sayde the mayd, that is of the land of Israel, and the kyng of Siria, sayde: Comme and enter in, and I wyll send a letter vnto the kynge of Israell. And he came, and toke wyth hym tenne talentes of siluer, and. vi. thousand pieces of gold, and tenne chaunge of rayments, and brought the letter to the kyng of Israell conteynyng this tenour: Nowe when this letter is come vnto thee: Behold, I haue therwith sent Naaman my seruaunt to thee, that thou mayst rydde hym of hys leprosy: and it fortuned, that when the kynge of Israel: hadde redde the letter, he rent hys clothes, and sayd: • Am I God, Deu. 32

Naaman came with his horses, and with his charettes, and stoode at the doore of the house of Elisa. And Elisa sent a messenger vnto hym, saying: Go and washe thee in Iordane seuen tymes, and thy flesshe shal come again to thee, and thou shalt be clensed. But Naaman was wrothe, and wente awaye, and sayd: Behold, I thought wyth my selfe: he would surely come out, and stande and call on the name of the Lorde his GOD, and put his hande on the place, that he maye heale the leprosye. Are not Abana and Paraphar, Ryuers of Damasco, better than all the waters of Israell? If I washe me also in them, shal I not be clensed? And so he turned hym, & departed with displeasure. And his seruantes came, and cõmoned with him, and said: Father, If the prophet had byd thee doo some great thyng, oughtest thou not to haue doone it? Howe ℘

The.vi. Chapter.

THe chyldren of the prophetes sayde vnto Elisa: Beholde, the place where wee dwell with thee, is to lytle for vs, we wyl therfore go vnto Iordan, and take thence euerye man a beame and buylde vs a place to dwell in. And he answered: go. And one said: be content I praye thee, and come with thy seruauntes. And he answered: I will come, and so he went with them. And when they came to Iordan, they cut downe woode. But it fortuned, that as one was fellynge downe of a tree, the axe head fell into the water. And he cried, and said: Alas master, it was lente me. And the man of God sayde: Where fell it? and he shewed him the place. And he cut downe a stycke, and caste it in thyther, and immediatly the yron did swim. Therfore said he: take it vp. And he stretched out his hande, and toke it vp. But the kyng of Syria warred agaynst Israell, and toke counceil with his seruauntes, & sayd: In yonder secrete place shalbe my remaynyng. And the man of God sente vnto the kyng of Israell, saying: Beware, that thou go not ouer to such a place, for there the Syrians are lurkyng. Therfore the kynge of Israell sent to the place which the man of god tolde him, and warned him of, and saued hym selfe frome it, not once or twyse. And the herte of the kynge of Syria was troubled for this thynge: and he called for hys seruauntes, and sayde vnto them: Wyll ye not shewe me, which of our men (betrayeth me) to the kyng of Israel? And one of his seruantes sayde: None my Lorde, O kyng. But Elisa the prophet, that is

And one tolde him, sayinge: Beholde, he is in Dothan. Therfore sente he thyther horses and charettes, and a myghty Hoste. And they came by nyghte, and compassed the citie about. And when the seruant of the man of God rose vp early to go oute: Beholde, there was an Hoste round aboute the towne with horses and charettes. And his seruaunt sayde

And he answered: Thou shalte not smyte them. But smite those that thou hast taken with thyne owne sweard, and with thyne owne bowe. But rather sette breade and water before them, that they may eate and drynke, and go to their master. And he prepared a great refection for them. And when they had eaten and dronke, he sente them awaye and they went to their master. And so the soudiours of Syria came no more in-

And so the man called vnto the porters, and they tolde the kinges house wythin. And the kinge arose in the nyght, and sayd vnto hys seruauntes. And one of hys seruauntes answered and sayd: Let men take (I pray you) fiue of the horses that remaine, and ar left in the multitude. And they went after them, euen vnto Iordan: and lo, al the way was ful of clothes and vessels which the Sirias had cast from them in their hast. And the messengers retourned, and tolde the kyng. ¶ The .x. Chapter.

A Josu. 8 g Ahab had .lxx. sonnes in Samaria. And Jehu wrote letters, & sente to Samaria vnto the rulers of Jezraell, to the elders, and to them that brought vp Ahabs children, saying: nowe whan this letter commeth to you, yre that haue with you youre masters sonnes, yee haue with you, both charettes and horses: a stronge citie haue ye also: and harnes: loke which of youre masters sonnes is best and most meete, and set him on his fathers seate, and fight for your lordes house. But they wer exceedingly afrayd, and sayd: se, two kinges were not able to stand before him howe shall we then be able to stand? And he that was gouerner of Ahabs house, and hee that ruled the citie, the elders also, and the tutoures sente to Jehu, saying: we are thy seruauntes: and wyll do al that thou shalt bid vs: we will make no man kyng therfore, do thou what semeth good in thyne eyes. Then hee wrote another letter to them saynge: Yf yee bee myne, and wyll herken vnto my voyce, then take the heades of the men that are youre masters sonnes, and comme to mee to Jezrahell by to morowe thys tyme. And the kynges sonnes were .lxx. persons, and they were with the greate men of the citie, which brought them vp. And whē the letter cam to them, they toke the kinges children, and slu theym, euen .lxx. personnes, and layed theyr heades in baskettes, and sente them to hym to Jezrahell. And there came a messenger, and tolde hym, saying: they haue brought the heades of the kynges sonnes. And he sayde, let them laye them on two heapes in the entryng in of the gate, vntyll the morning. And whan it was day, he went out, and stode, and said to all the folke: ye be righteous. Behold, I conspired C against my master, and slue him. But who slue all these? Learne here, that there shall fal vnto the earth nothing of the worde of the Lorde, whiche he spake concerning the house of Ahab. For the Lorde hath brought to passe the thynges that he spake by the hand of hys seruaunt Elia. And so Jehu 3 Re. 21 f slue all that remayned of the house of Ahab, in Jezrahell: and all that were great with hym, and hys kinsfolkes, and his prestes, so that he let nothing of hym remain. And he arose, and departed, and came to Samaria. And whanne Jehu was in the way to the house where the shepherdes bid shere theyr shepe, he met with the brethren of Ahaziahu kyng of Juda, and said, what are ye? They answered: the brethren of Ahaziahu are wee, and goe downe to salute the childrenne of the king and of the quene. And he sayde: take thē alyue. Whom when they had takē them alyue, they slue thē at the well, whiche was beside the house where the shepe are shoren, euen two and fortie menne, neyther lefte he any of them. And when he was departed D thence, he mette with Jehonadab, the Jer. 25. a son of Rechab comyng againste him. And he blessed him and said to him, is thine hert ryght, as mine hert is true with thine. And Jehonadab answered: yea that it is, (yf it be saieth hee) then geue me thyne hand. And when he had giuē him his hand he toke him vp to him into the charette, and sayde: come with me, and se the zeale that I haue for the Lord: and soo they made hym ryde in his charet. And when he camme to Samaria, he slewe all that 2 Re. 16, remayned vnto Ahab, in Samaria, tyll he hadde wyped hym oute, according to the sayinge of the Lorde, whiche hee spake to Elia. And Jehu gathered all the people together, and said vnto them: • Ahab serued Baal a little: But Jehu shal serue him more Nowe therefore call vnto me all the E prophetes of Baal, all suche as serue hym, and al hys prestes, and let none be lacking. For I haue a great sacrykice to Baal, and therfore whosoeuer is mysled, he shal not liue. But Jehu dyd it for subtiltye, to the intent that he myghte destroye the seruauntes of Baal. And Jehu said: Proclaime an holy conuocation for Baal, and Jehu sente vnto all Israel. And all the seruauntes of Baall camme, that there was not a manne lefte behynde, that cam not. And they cam into the house of Baal, & the house of Baal was ful from one ende to another. And he sayd vnto hym that was the keper of the vestrye: bryng forth garmentes for all the seruauntes of Baal. And he brought them out garments. And when Jehu wente with Jehonadab the sone of Rechab into the house of Baall, he sayde vnto the seruauntes of Baal: search, and loke, that there bee here with you, none of the seruauntes of the Lorde, but the seruauntes of Baal onely. And when they went in to offer sacrifyce, and burnteoffe-rynge: Jehu appoynted foure score men without, and sayd: If any of the men, whom I haue brought vnder your hande escape, he that letteth him go, shall dye for hym. And it fortuned, that assone as he had made an ende of offerynge the burntesacrifyce, Jehu sayde to the men of warre, and to the captaynes: Go in, and sley them, lette none come out. And they smote them with the edge of the sweard. And the men of warre, and the captaynes caste them out, and went vnto the citye of the temple of Baal, and set the ymages oute of the temple of Baall, and burnt them. And they brake the image of Baal, and brake the house of Baal, and made a draft house of it vnto this daye. And so Jehu destroyed Baall out of Israell. But from the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, whiche made Israell to synne: Jehu departed not, neyther from folowyng of them (neyther forsoke he) the golden calues that were in Bethel and in Dan. And the Lord saide vnto Jehu, because thou hast done ryght wel, in bryngyng to passe the thynge that is ryght in myne eyes, and hast done vnto the house of Ahab accordynge to al thinges that are in myne hert, therfore shal thy childzen vnto the fourth generacion syt on the seate of Israell. 4Re.15 But Jehu cared not for this, to walk in the lawe of the Lorde God of Israell with all hys herte: for he departed not from the sinnes of Jeroboam, whiche made Israell to synne. In G

The reste of the wordes that concerne Jehu, and all that he dyd, and all hys power, are they not wrytten in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israell? And Jehu slept with his fathers, and they buryed hym in Samaria: and Jehoahaz his sonne reigned in hys steade. And the tyme that Jehu reygned vpon Israell in Samaria, is. xxviii. yeres.

The. xi. Chapter.

AND Athalia the mother of Ahaziahu when she saw that her sonne was dead, she arose, and destroyed al the kinges sede. But Jehosaba the daughter of kynge Joram, and sister of Ahaziahu, toke Joas the sonne of Ahaziahu, and stale hym from among the kynges sonnes that were slayne, and hys nource with him, out of a sleping chamber, and hid hym from Athalia, that he was not slayne. And he was with her hyd in the house of the Lorde sixe yere. And Athalia dyd reigne ouer the land. And the. vii. yere Jehoiada sent and fette the rulers ouer ỹ hundzeds, with the captaynes and them of the garde, and toke them to him into the house of the Lorde, and made a bonde with them, and toke an oth of them in the house of the Lord, and shewed them the kings sonne. And commaunded them saying: Thys is it that ye muste do, one thyrde parte of you, whose dewtye is to come on the Sabboth daye, shall kepe Sabboth day, with them that should go out on the Sabboth, and came to Jehoiada the priest. And to the captaynes ouer hundredes, dyd the priest they of the garde stode, and euery man and sayde: God saue the kynge. And when Athalia heard the noyse of the runnyng of the people, she came to the people into the temple of the Lorde.

And when she loked, behold, the king stode by a pyllar as the maner was, ℰ the syngers, and the trompets by the kynge, and all the people of the lande reioyced, and blewe with trompettes.
And Athalia rent her clothes, ℰ cryed: Treason, treason. But Jehoiada the priest commaunded the captaynes of the hundredes that had the rule of the hoost, and saide vnto them: Haue her oute without the temple, that shee may be within the ranges, and yf any folowe her, kyl him with the sword: for the priest had sayde: she maye not be slayne in the house of the Lorde.
And they layd handes on her, till she came into the way, by the which the horses went into the kynges palace: D and there was she slayne. And Je- 2.pa.23c hoiada made a bond betwene the lord and the king, and the people, that they should be the Lordes people, and also betweene the kynge and the people.
And all the people of the lande went into the house of Baal, and destroyde it, his aultars also, and his images brake they downe lustily, and slewe Mathan the priest of Baal before the aulters. And the priest set watche ouer the house of the Lorde, and tooke the rulers ouer hundreds, the captai-nes, and them of the garde, and all the people of the lande. And they brought the kynge frome the howse of the Lorde: and came by the waye of the gate of them of the garde to the kynges palace. And he satte hym downe on the Seate of the kynges. And all the people of the lãde reioyced, and the citie was in quiete. And they slewe Athalia with the swearde, beside the kynges palace. Seuen yere olde was not taken away, for the people offred

Priestes: all the syluer of the dedicate thynges that be brought vnto the house of the Lorde in currant money, that is to say, the moneye that euery man is set at, and all the money that euery man with a willyng heart geueth and bringeth into the house of ỹ the broken places of the house, where so euer any decay is founde. And so it came to passe, that vnto the .xxiii. yere of kinge Iehoas, the Priestes hadde mended nothynge, that was decayed in the temple. Then kynge Iehoas B called for Iehoiada the bishop, and ỹ priestes, and sayde vnto them: Whye repayre ye not the brokē places of the temple? Now therfore, see that ye receyue no more mony of your acquaintaunce, except ye deliuer it to repayre the temple wythall. And the priestes consented to receiue no more mony of the people: except to repair the decayed places of the temple. But Iehoiada the priest tooke a chest, and bored a whole in the lid of it, and set it beside the altare on the righte side, as euerye man commeth into the Temple of the Lorde. And the priestes that kept the vessels, put there in all the mony that was broughte into the house of the Lord. And it fortuned, that whē they sawe there was muche money in the chest, the kynges scribe and the hye 4.re.22.a priest came vp, and told the mony that C was found in the house of the Lorde, and put it into a bag. And they gaue the monye sealed, into the handes of them that executed the woorke, and that had the ouer syghte of the house of the Lord: and they broughte it oute to the carpenters and builders (that wrought vpon the house of the Lord) and to masons, and hewers of stone: And they bought timbre and fre stone to repayre the decaye in the house of the Lord, and to all that went oute to mende the temple: how be it ther was not made for the house of the Lorde, bolles of syluer, instrumentes of musicke, basens, trompettes or anye vesselles of golde: or vessellles of siluer, of the money that was brought into the house of the Lorde: But they gaue that to the woorke men, and repayred therwith the house of the Lord. Moreouer, they reckened not with the men into whose handes they deliuered the money to be bestowed on worckemen: for they did theyr businesse faithfully. Howbe it, trespasse mony, and sinne mony was not brought into ỹ house of the Lorde, for it was the priestes. Then came Hazaell kinge of Syria vp, and foughte agaynste Geth, and tooke it, and Hazael set his face to goe vp to Ierusalem. And Iehoas kyng D of Juda toke all the halowed things that Iehosaphat, Iehoram and Haziahu his fathers kinges of Juda had dedicate, and that he hymselfe had dedicated, & all the golde that was fōud in the Treasures of the house of the Lorde, and in the kinges house, and sente it to Hazael kinge of Syria, and so he departed from Ierusalem. The remnaunte of the woordes that concerne Iehoas, and all that hee dydde, are they not wrytten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Juda? And hys owne seruauntes arose, and wrought treason, and slewe Iehoas in the house of Millo, whan he came downe to Silla. Iehozabar the sonne of Semeath & Iehozabad, the sonne of Somer his seruaunts, smote him, and he died. And they buried him with his fathers in the Citye of Dauid. And Amaziahu his sonne raigned in his stede.

¶ The .xiii. Chapter.

IN the .xxiii. yere of Ioas the sōne of Ahaziahu kynge of Juda, Ie- I hoahaz the sonne of Iehu, began to raigne ouer Israell in Samaria .xvii. yere. And he wrought ỹ whiche was euel in the syghte of the Lorde, and followed the sinnes of Ieroboam the sonne of Nabat, which made Israell to sinne, and departed not therfrom. And the Lord was angry with Israell, and deliuered them into the hand of Hazael king of Syria, and into the hande of Benhadad the sonne of Hazael all theyr daies. And Hosea the sonne of Ela conspired treason againſt Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu, and smote hym, and slew him: and reigned in his stede in the xx. yeare of Jotham the sonne of Uziahu. And he dyd that which is ryghte in the syght of the Lozde: euen accozdynge to all as dyd his father Uziahu, so dyd he. And he offered, and burnt incense in the hyll aulters, and on the hylles, and vnder euerye thycke tree. Then Rezin kynge of Siria, and Pekah sonne of Remaliahu kyng of Israel came vp to Jerusalem, to fyghte. And they fought agaynst Ahaz, but coulde not ouercome hym. At the same tyme Rezin king of Siria, bzought Elath agayn to Siria, and ryd the Jewes thence, And the Sirians came to Elath, and dwelte therein vnto thys daye. So Ahaz sente messengers to Thiglath Peleser kyng of Assiria, saying: I am thy seruant and thy sonne, come vp and deliuer me out of the hād of the kinge of Siria, and out of the hande of the kyng of Israel, whiche

In the. xii. yeare of Ahaz kynge of Iuda, began Hosea the sonne of Ela to reigne in Samaria vpon Israel. ix. yere, & dyd that which was euyll in the syght of the Lorde, but not as the kynges of Israel, that were before hym. And Salmanasar kyng of Assiria came vp agaynst him, and Hosea became his seruaunte, and gaue hym presentes. And the kyng of Assiria found treason in Hosea: for he hadde sent messangers to Sua kyng of Egypt, and brought no present vnto the kyng of Assiria frome yeare to yeare: and therfore the king of Assiria

For it came to passe, that the chyldren of Israel synned agaynst the Lorde theyr God, whyche had brought them out of the lande of Egypte, frome vnder the hande of Pharao kynge of Egypt, and feared other goddes, and they walked in the ceremonies of the Heathen, whome the Lorde cast out before the children of Israel, and in the ceremonies whiche the kynges of Israell, had made. And the chyldren of Israell wente aboute to hyde those thinges that were not well, from the Lorde theyr God. And they buylte the hylle aulters in all theyr cities, bothe in the towres,

And the Lorde testifyed in Israell and in Juda by all the prophetes, and by all the sears sayinge: * Turne from youre wycked wayes, and keepe my commaundementes and my statutes, accordynge to all the lawe whiche I commaũded your fathers, and which I sente to you by my seruauntes the prophetes. For Israell deuided them selues from the house of Dauyd, and made them a kynge, euen Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat. Then the kyng of Assiria commanded saying: Carye thither one or twayne of the Priestes, whom ye brought thẽce, and let them go, and dwell ther, and teach them the fashion howe to serue the God of the countrey. For I wyll defend this citye, to saue it, for myne owne sake, and for Dauid my seruantes sake. And so it came to passe, that the selfe same night, the angell of the Lorde went out, and smote in the hooste of the Assirians an hundred, foure score and fyue thousande. And they escaped into the land of Armenia, and Asarhaddon his sonne raygned in his steade.

And Hezekia turned his face to the wall, and prayed vnto the Lord, saying: I beseech the nowe, O Lord: remember how I haue walked before thee in the trueth, and with a perfect hert, & haue done that whiche is good in thy syghte, and Hezekia wept sore. And it fortuned that afore Isay was gone out into the middle of the court, the worde of the Lord came to hym, sayinge: Turne agayne, and tell Hezekia the captaine of my people: Thus saith the Lorde God of Dauid thy father: I haue herde thy prayer, and sene thy teares. And Isay sayde: Take a lompe of fygges. And they toke and layed it on the sore, and he recouered. Hezekia answered: all the thynges that are in my house, haue they sene: there is nothynge among my treasures, that I haue not shewed thē. And he red in the 2 Esd.8a eares of them * all the wozdes of the booke of the couenaunt, whiche was founde in the house of the Lozde. And the kynge commaunded Helkia the hye Priest, and the inferiour Priestes and the kepers of the ornamentes, to bringe out of the temple of the Lorde, all the vessels that were made for Baall, for the ydole groues, and for all the hoost of heauen. And he burnt them without Jerusalem in the fieldes of Cedron, and caryed the asshes of theym into Bethel. And he put downe the ministers of Baal, whom the kynges of Juda had founded to burne incense in the + hill aulters and cities of Juda, that were rounde aboute Jerusalem, and also them that burnte incense vnto Baall, to the sunne, to the moone, to the planettes, and to all the host of heuen. And he brought out the ydols groue from the temple of the Lorde without Jerusalem vnto the brooke Cedron, & burnte it there at the broke Cedron, and stampt it to pouder, and cast the duste therof vpon the graues of the childzen of the people. And he brake downe the celles of the male stues that were by the house of the Lorde, where the women woue hangyngs for the ydoles groue. And hee brought all the priestes oute of the cityes of Juda, and defyled the hyl aulters, where the priestes had burnt incense, euen from Geba to Beersheba, and destroied the aulters of the gates, that were in the enterynge in of the gate of Josia, the gouerner of the citye whiche were (as a man goeth in) on the left hand of the gate of the citie. And the aulters that were on the toppe of the parlour of Ahaz (whiche the kynges of Juda had made) and the + aulters whiche Manasse hadde made in the two courtes of the house of the Lorde, dyd the kynge breake downe, and ranne thence, and cast the duste of them into the broke Cedron. And as Josia turned hym selfe, he spyed the graues that were in the mount, and sent and fette the bones out of the graues, & burnte them vpon the aulter, to polute it, according to the woorde of the Lorde that the man of GOD pzoclaymed, + whyche tolde the same woordes. And he sayd: let him be: see that no man moue hys bones. And so hys bones were saued, with the bones of a Prophete that came out of Samaria. ¶ The .xii. Chapter.

A THese are they that came to Dauid to Zikleg, whyle he yet kept hymselfe close, because of Saule the son of Cis, and they were very stronge helpers in battell. They were weaponed with bowes, and coulde hurle stones with the ryghte hande, and wyth the lefte, and shoote arowes oute of a bowe, and were of Sauls brethren euen of Ben Jamin. The chiefest were Abiezer, and Joas the sonnes of Simaa, a Gibeonite, and Jeziel and Pelet the sonnes of Asmaneth. Beracah and Jehu of Anathoth, and Ismaia, a Gibeonite, a myghty man among thirtie, and more then the thirty, Jeremiah, Jehaziel, Johanan, and Josabad of Gedor. Eleusal, Jerimoth, Bealia, Semaria, and Seaphatia, the Haraphites, Elcana, Jesia, Azarael, Joezer, Josebeam, Hakyzim, Joela and Zebadiah the sonnes of Jeroam of Gedud. And of the Gadites there separated them selues, some vnto Dauyd into the holde of the wilderues, men of might and men apt for warre. and that could handle shylde and speare, whose faces were like the faces of Lions, and they were as swifte as the Roes in the mountaynes, Ezer the firste, Obdia the second, and Eliab the third, Masmana the fourth, Jeremia the fyfth, Atthai the syxte, Eliell the seuenth, Johanan the eyghte, Elsabath the ninth, Jeremia the tenth, and Machbanai the eleuenth. These were of the sonnes of Gad, and were captaynes ouer the men of warre, the smale pursued an hundred, and the greatte a thousand. These are they that went ouer Jordan in the firste moneth, whē he had fylled ouer all hys banckes. And they put to flyght all them of the baley, bothe towarde the Eastc and weste. And there came of the childzen of Beniamin and Juda to the holde vnto Dauid. And Dauid went oute to mete them, and answered, and sayd vnto them: if ye be come peasably vnto me, to helpe me, myne herte shalbe knyt vnto you. But and if you come to betraye me to myne aduersaryes, (seynge there is no wyckednesse in myne handes) the God of our fathers loke theron, and rebuke it. And the spirite came vppon Amasai, whiche was the chiefe amonge thirtye, and he said, Thyne are we Dauid, and on thy syde thou sonne of Jsai: Peace, peace be vnto thee, & peace be to thine healpers, for thy God is thyne helpe. Then Dauyd receyued theym, and made them heades of companyes of the men of warre. And there fell some of Manasse to Dauid, when he came with the Philistines agaynst Saul to battell, but they helped them not. For the Lordes of the Philistines toke aduisement, and sent hym away agayne, sayinge: he wyll fall to hys master Saul, to the ieopardy of oure heades. As he went to Zikleg, there fell to hym of Manasseh: Adna, Jozadad, Jediel, Michael, Jozabad, Elihu and Zilthai, heades of the thousandes that were of Manasse. And they holp Dauid agaynst the rouers. For they were all myghtye men of warre, and captaynes in the hoost. For at that tyme there came one or other to Dauid, daye by daye, to helpe hym: vntyl it was a great host, like the host of God. And thys is the nūber of the chief captains that wer prepared to battayle, and came to Dauid to Hebron, to tourne the kyngdome of Saul to hym, accordyng to the word of the Lorde. The chyldzen of Juda that bare shylde and speare, were sixe thousande and eyghte hundred ready prepared to the war. Of the childzen of Simeon, men of myght to warre, seuen Thousande and one hundred. Of the chyldzen of Leui, foure thousand and sixe hundred. And Jehoiada was the chiefe of them of Aaron, and with hym three thousande and seuen hundred. The heades of them were two hundred, and all their brethren were at their wyll. And of Zabulon that went out to the battaile, and proceeded forth to the warre, with all maner of instrumentes of warre, fifty thousande ỳ were prepared to the warre, without any doublenes of hert. Moreouer, they that were nye them, vntyl Jlachar, Zabulō, & Nephthali, brought bread on asses, camels, mules, and oxen, and meate, flowre, figges, reasyngs, wyne, and oyle, oxen, and sheepe aboundauntly. For there was ioye in Jlrael.

AND Dauid counsailed with the captaynes of thousandes and hundredes, and with all the lordes, and said vnto all the congregation of Jlrael: If it seeme you good and to be of the lord our God, we will take and send vnto oure brethren that are lefte in all the lande of Jlrael, and with theym also, to the prieftes and Leuites, whiche are in their cities and subburbes, to gather theym togyther vnto vs. And wee wyll bryng agayne the Arke of the lorde to vs: for wee regarded it not in the days of Saul. And all the congregation was content that he should do so, for the thyng semed good in the eyes of all the people. So Dauid gathered all Jlrael togyther frō Sihor in Egipt, vnto ỳ entring of Hemath, to bryng the arke of the lord from Kariath Jarim. And Dauid wente vp, and all Jlrael to an hye place toward Kyriath Jarim, that was in Juda, to fette thence the arke of the lorde God, that dwelleth betwene the Cherubes: where his name is called on. And they caryed the Arke of God in a newe carte, out of the houle of Abinadab. And Uza and hys brother guyded the carte. And Dauid and all Jlrael plaied before the ark of god with all their might, with syngyng & harpes, psalteries, and timbrels, and trōpets. And when they cam to the threshynge flooze of Chidon, Uza putte forth his hand to holde the Arke, for the oxen (being a lyttle wylde) stombled. And the Lord was wrothe with Uza, & smote hym, because he put his hand to the Arke. And there he died before God. And Dauid was oute of quiete, because the Lord had rent a rēt in Uza, and he called the name of that place, the rentynge of Uza vnto this day. And Dauid was afrayd of God that day, saying: How shal I bring ỳ Arke of God home to me? And so Dauid brought not ỳ ark home to him to the citie of Dauid: But caried it into the houle of Obed Edom, a Gethyte. And the Arke of God remained with Obed Edom, euen in his houle three

A SO Hyram the king of Tire sent messengers to Dauid, and timbre of Cedre trees, with masons and carpēters, to build him an house. And Dauid perceiued that the Lorde had confirmed him king vpon Israel, and that his kingdom was lyft vp on hie, because of his people Israell. And Dauid tooke yet mo wiues at Jerusalem, and begat mo sonnes and daughters. Theese are the names of his children, whiche were borne vnto him at Jerusalem: Samua, Sobab, Nathan and Salomon Jibhar, Elisua, and Eliphalet, Noga, Nepheg, & Japhia, Elisama, Beeliada, and Eliphalet. And whē the Philistins hard that Dauid was annoynted king vpon al Israel, all the Philistins wēt vp to seke Dauid. And Dauid heard of it, and went out against them. And the Philistines came in, and praūsed thorowe the valey of Rephaim. And Dauid asked counsaile at God, saying: shall I go against ỳ Philistines, and wilte thou deliuer thē into myne hand? And the Lorde saide vnto hym: goo vp, for I will deliuer them into thyne hande. And so they came vpto Baal Perazim, and Dauid smote thē there. And Dauid said: God hath deuided mine enemies with mine hād, as a man woulde deuide water. And therefore they called the name of that place Baal Perazim. And when they had lefte theyr Goddes there, Dauid gaue a commaundement, & they were burnt with fire. And the Philistines came together againe, and rushed into the valley. And Dauid asked agayne at God. And God sayd to him: go not vp after them, but turne awaye from them, that thou mayest come vppon them, ouer against the peartrees. And when thou hearest a sound goo in the toppes of the peretrees, then goo oute to battaile: for God is gone forthe before thee, to smite the hoost of the Philistines. Dauid therefore did as God commaunded hym, & they smote the host of the Philistines, from Gibeon to Gazer. And the fame of Dauid went oute into all landes, and the Lord made all nacions fear him.

¶ The. xv. Chapter.

AND Dauid made him houses in the city of Dauid, and prepared a place for the Arke of God, and pitched for it a tente. Then Dauid sayde: The arke of God ought not to be caried but of the Leuites. For them hathe the Lorde chosen to beare the Arke of the Lorde, and to minyster vnto hym for euer. And Dauid gathered all Israell together to Jerusalem, to fetche the Arcke of the Lorde, vnto his place, which he hadde ordayned for it. And Dauid brought together the children of Aaron and the Leuites. Of the sonnes of Cahath was Uziel the chiefe, and of his brethren there were an hundred and. xx. For because ye were not there at the first, the Lord our God made a rent among vs for that we sought him not, as the fashion ought to be. So the priests and the Leuites sanctified them selues: to fette the Arke of the Lord GOD of Israel. And the children of the Leui-

And so, he lefte there before the Arcke of the Lordes couenaunte, Asaph and hys brethren to minyster before the arcke contynually, in suche thynges as were to be doone daye by day, (and that by theyr courses.) And Obed Edom and hys brethren, three score and eight, and Obed Edom the son of Jeduthun, and Hosa were appoynted to bee porters. And all the people departed, euery manne to his house, and Dauid returned to bidde his house.

¶ The .xvii. Chapter.

AND it fortuned that whē Dauid dwelt in hys house, he sayd to Nathan the prophet: loe, I dwel in an house of Cedar tree: but 2.Re.7.a. the Arcke of the Lordes couenaunte remayneth vnder curtayns. And Nathan sayde vnto Dauid: doo all that is in thyn hart, for God is wyth thee. And the same nyght it fortuned, that the woorde of GOD came to Nathan, sayinge: goo and tell Dauyd my seruaunte, thus sayeth the Lorde: Thou shalt not buylde me an house to dwell in. For I haue dwelt in no house sence the daye that I brought out the chyldren of Israell, vnto this daye: but haue gone from tent to tent, and from one habitacion to another.

And where soeuer I haue walked with all Israell, spake I euer one word to any of the Iudges of Israel, (whom I commaunded to fede my people) saying: why haue ye not built me an house of Ceder tree? Nowe therfore, thus shalt thou saye vnto my seruaunt Dauid: thus sayth the Lord B of Hostes: I toke the out of the pastures whē thou wentest after shepe, that thou shouldest be captayne ouer my people Israell. And I haue bene with thee whether soeuer thou haste walked, and haue weded out all thine enemyes oute of thy syghte, and haue made thee a name, lyke the name (of one) of the greatest men that are in the earth. And I haue ordeined a place for my people Israel, and made it fast: so that nowe they may dwell in their place, and moue no more. Nether shal the chyldren of wickednes vexe them any more as at the begynnyng. And sence the tyme that I commaunded Iudges to be ouer my people Israel, I haue subdued all thyne enemyes, and I tolde thee, that the Lord wolde C buylde thee an house. C This also shall came to passe: when thy dayes be expired, that thou muste go vnto thy fathers, I wyll rayse vp thy seade after thee, which shalbe of thy sonnes, and I wyll prepare for hym the kynge-dome. He shall buyld me an house, and I wyll stablyshe hys seate for euer. I wylbe hys father, and he shall be my sonne, and I wyll not take my mercy away from him, as I toke it frō hym that was before thee. But I will set him in myne house and in my kynge-dome for euer: and hys seate shalbe sure for euermore. Accordynge to all these wordes: and according to al this vision, dyd Nathan tell kynge Da-uid. And Dauid the kynge came and sat before the Lorde, & sayd: what am I (O Lord God,) and what is mine housholde, that thou haste promoted me thus farre? And yet thys semed litle in thine eyes, O God: But thou haste spoken also of thy seruauntes house for a great whyle to come: and haste loked vppon me as vpon a man of hye degree (O Lorde God.) What shal Dauid desire more of thee for the honoure of thy seruaunte? For thou haste knowen thy seruaunt: O Lord, for thy seruauntes sake, euen accordynge to thyne owne herte haste thou done all this magnificence, to shewe all great thynges. Lord, there is none D lyke thee, neither is ther any god saue thou, accordynge to all that we haue heard with our eares. Moreouer, what nacion on the earth is lyke the people Israell, to whom God hath vouchsafed to come and redeme them to be his owne people, and to make thee a name of excellencye and terribienes, with castyng out nacions frō before the people, whom thou haste de-liuered out of Egypt? Thy people of Israell diddest thou make thyne own people for euer, and thou becamest their God. Therfore nowe Lorde, let the thyng that thou haste spoken concernyng thy seruaunt, and his house, be true for euer, that thou do as thou haste sayde: let it come to passe, that thy name may be magnified for euer, that it maye be sayde: the Lorde of Hostes is the God of Israell (euen the God of Israell) and the house of Dauid thy seruaunte endureth stable before thee. For thou (O my God) haste told thy seruaunt, that thou wylte builde hym an house. And therfore thy seruaunte hath founde in hys herte to praye before thee. And nowe Lorde, thou art God, and haste promysed this goodnes vnto thy seruaunte. Nowe therfore, let it be thy pleasure to bless the house of thy seruaunt, that it may continue before thee for euer. For whō thou blessest (O Lord) the same is blessed for euer.

C The. xviij. Chapter.

And after this it fortuned, that Dauid smote the Philistines, out of the handes of the Philistines. And he smote Moab, & the Moabits became Dauids seruauntes, and paid him tribute. And from Tebhath, and from Chun (cities of Hadarezer) brought Dauid exceding much brasse. wherwith Salomon made ỹ 3.re.7.b. brasen lauatorye: - the pillers, and the Je.52.c. vessels of bras. And king Dauid dedicated them vnto the Lord, with the siluer and gold that he brought from all nations: from Edom, from Moab, from the childzen of Ammon, from the Philistines and from Amelec. And Ibisai the sonne of zeruia slew of the Edomits in the salt valley. xviii. M. and putte souldiers in Edom, and all D the Edomites became Dauyds seruauntes. Thus the Lord kept Dauid in all that he tooke in hand. And Dauid raigned ouer al Israel, & executed iudgement and righteousnesse among all his people. And Joab the sonne of Zaruia was ouer the host, and Iehosaphat the sonne of Ahiud Recorder, & zadock the son of Ahitob and Abimelech the sonne of Abiathar wer the priestes: and Sauesa was scribe, and Banaiahu the sone of Iehoiada was ouer the Crethites, & the Phelethites and the eldest sonnes of Dauid were next vnto the king.

And Dauid sayde: I wil shewe kindnesse vnto Hanon the sonne of Nahas: because hys father dealt kyndelye wyth me. And Dauid sente messengers to comforte him ouer the deathe of hys father. And the seruauntes of Dauid came into the lande of the chyldzen of Ammon to Hanon, to comforte hym. But the Lordes of the chyldzen of Ammon sayd to Hanon: thinkest thou that Dauid doeth honoure thy father in thy sight: that hee hathe sente comforters vnto thee: Are not his seruāts come to searche, to looke and espy oute B the land. Wherfore Hanon toke Dauids seruauntes, (and polde them,) & shaued them, and cut of theyr coates hard by theyr buttockes, and sent thē away. And there wēt certayn, & tolde Dauid, how the mē wer serued. And the king sent to mete them (for the mē wer excedingly ashamed) & the kyng said: tary at Iericho, vntil your berds be grown: and then return. And whē the childzen of Ammon saw that they stanke in the sight of Dauid: Hanon, & the childzen of Ammon sente a. M. talentes of siluer to hire them charets & horsmen, oute of Mesopotamia, and out of Siria, Maacha and out of zoba. And they hired. xxxii. M. charets, and the king of Maacha and his people, whyche came and pitched before Medeba. And the chyldzen of Ammon gathered them selues together from theyr cityes, and came to battayl. And when Dauid hearde of it, he sent Joab and all the people of stronge men.

And

And the childrē of Ammon came out, and putte them selues in aray to battayle before the gate of the citye. And the kings that were come: kept them by them selues backe in the fyelde.

¶ When Joab also sawe that the fronte of the battaile was agaynste hym before and behinde: he chose oute of all the chosen menne of Israel, and putte them in aray against the Sirians.

And the reast of the people he delyuered vnto ẏ hād of Abisai his brother, and they putte them selues in aray agaynst the chyldren of Ammon. And he sayde: If the Sirians be to strong for me, thou shalt succoure me: and if the chyldren of Ammon preuayle agaynst thee: I will help thee. Plucke vp thyne hearte, and lette vs play the men: for our peoples sake, and for the cities of our God, and the Lorde shall doo that whiche is good in his owne syghte. So Joab and the people that were wyth hym, drewe nie before the Sirians vnto the battayle, and they fledde before hym. And when the children of Ammon sawe that the Syrians were fled, they ranne away likewise before Abisai hys brother, and gate them into the citye. And Joab came to Jerusalem. And when ẏ Sirians sawe that they were put to the worse before Israell, they sent messēgers and fet out the Siriās that were beyonde the riuer, and Sophach the captaine of the host of Hadarezer wēt before theym. And it was tolde Dauid: and he gathered all Israell, and wente together ouer Jordan, & came and set vppon them. And when Dauid had put hym selfe in aray againste the Sirians: they foughte with him. But the Sirians fled before Israell. And Dauid destroyed of the Sirians seuen thousand charets, and .xl. thousande footemen, and killed Sophach the captayne of the hoste. And when the seruants of Hadarezer, sawe ẏ they were put to the worse before them of Israell: they made peace with Dauid: and became his seruauntes. Neither wold the Sirians help the children of Ammon any more.

And it came to passe, that after the yere was expyred, (• about the tyme that kynges go oute a warrefare:) Joab caryed out the armye of the hooste: and • destroyed the countrye of the childrē of Ammon, & cam and besieged Rabba, and destroied it. • But Dauid taryed at Jerusalem, whyle Joab smote Rabba, & destroied it. And Dauid toke the crowne of their kynge, from of his heade, and founde that it hadde the wayghte of a talent of golde, and there were precyous stones in it: and it was ordayned for Dauids head. And he brought also excedynge muche spoyle oute of the citye. And he brought oute the people that were in it: and tormented them with sawes and harrowes of yron, ¶ and wyth other sharpe instruments, and so dealt Dauid with all the cities of the childrē of Ammon. And Dauid and all the people came agayne to Jerusalem. • After this it fortuned, ẏ there arose warre at Gazer with the Philistines. At whiche time Sobokai the Husathite slewe Sappai, that was of the childrē of • Rephaim: and they were subdued. And there was a battaile again with the Philistines: & Elhanam the sonne of Jair, slewe Lahemi: the brother of Goliah the Gethite, wyose spere was like a wеuers beame. And there chanced yet agayne warre at Geth, whereas was a man of a greate stature, with .xxiiii. fyngers and toes, fyue on euery hand, and fyue on euery foote, & was the son of Raphah. But when he defied Israell, Jehonathan the sonne of Simea, Dauids brother slue him. These were borne vnder Raphah at Geth, and were ouerthrowen in the hande of Dauid: and in the hande of his seruauntes.

¶ The .xxi. Chapter.

And Satan stode vp agaynste Israel, and prouoked Dauid to noumbre Israel. And Dauid sayd to Joab, and to the rulers of the people: Go ye and numbre Israel from Beer Seba to Dan, and bringe it

it to me, that I may knowe the numbre of them. And Ioab answered: the Lord make his people an. C. times so manye mo as they be. But my Lorde, O kynge, are they not all my Lordes seruauntes? why then doth my Lorde require thys thinge? whye will my Lord be a cause of trespasse to Israel? Neuertheless, the kynges word preuayled agaynste Ioab. And Ioab departed and walcked thorowoute all them of Israell, and came to Ierusalem agayne, and gaue the numbre of ꝑ count of the people vnto Dauid.

And all they of Israell were a thousand thousande, and a hundred thousand men that drue sweard: and Iuda was. cccc. lxx. thousande menne that drue sweard: But the Leuites & Ben Iamin counted he not amonge them. For the kynges word was abhominable to Ioab. And the Lord was displeased wyth this thynge: and smote Israel. And Dauid sayd vnto God: I haue synned exceedingly e in doynge thys thing. And now (I beseche the) do away the wickednesse of thy seruaunt, for I haue done very folishly.

¶ And the Lorde spake vnto Gad Dauids sear, saying: goo, and tell Dauid, saying. Thus sayth the Lord: I geue thee the chopse of thre thinges: chose the one of them, that I maye do vnto thee. And Gad came to Dauid, & sayd vnto hym: Thus sayeth the Lorde: Chose thee, either thre yeres fampishment, or thre monthes to be destroyed before thyne aduersaryes, and that the sword of thine enemies may ouertake the, or els the sweard of the Lord, and pestilence in the lande thre dayes: and the aungell of the Lorde destroyinge thorowout all the coastes of Israell. And now aduise thy self, what worde I shal bringe againe to him that sente me. And Dauid sayde vnto Gad, I am in an exceding strait: Lette me fall nowe into the hande of the Lorde, for passynge greate are his mercyes: but let me not fall into the hande of men.

¶ So the Lord sent pestilence vpon Israell, and there were ouerthrowen of Israel, lxx. thousande men. And God sent the aungel into Ierusalem to destroy in it. And as he was about to destroy, the Lorde beheelde, and had compassion on the euil, and sayd to the angell that destroyed: it is inough, lette nowe thyne hande cease. And the aungel of the Lord stode by the threshing floze of Ornā the Iebusite. And Dauid lift vp his eies, and saw the angel of the lord stand betwene the earth & heauen, hauing a drawen sweard in his hand, stretched out toward Ierusalem. Then Dauid and the elders of Israel which wer clothed in sack, fel vpon their faces. And Dauid said vnto God: is it not I that cōmaunded ꝑ people to be noumbred? It is not I ꝑ haue sinned and done euil in dede, and what haue these shepe done? let thyne hand (O lord my God) be on me and on my fathers house, but not on thy people, that they should be punished.

And the aungel of the Lord cōmaunded Gad to say to Dauid, that Dauid shuld go vp, and set vp an aulter vnto the Lord, in the threshing floze of Ornan the Iebusite. And Dauid wente vp, accordinge to the sayinge of Gad, whiche hee spake in the name of the Lord. And Ornan turned aboute, and saw the aungel, and hys foure sonnes were with hym, and hid them selues: But Ornan, was threshing wheate. And as Dauid came to Ornan, Ornan loked and saw Dauid, and went out of the threshinge floze, and bowed hym self to Dauid, wyth hys face to the ground. And Dauid said to Ornā geue mee the place of the threshynge floze, that I may build an aulter therin vnto the Lord. Thou shalt geue it me for as much monye as it is worth, ꝑ the plage may cesse from the people. And Ornan said vnto Dauid: take it to thee, and let my Lorde the kyng do that whyche semeth good in his eyes. Lo, I geue thee Oxen also for burntsacrifyces, and the threshinge sleades for woode, and wheate for meate offerynge: I geue it all. And kynge Dauid sayde to Ornan: not so, but I will bye it for as muche moneye as it is worth. For I wil not take ꝑ whych is is thine for the Lord, nor offre burnt-D offerynges without cost. And so Da-uid gaue to Ornan for that place sy-cles of golde. vi. hundred by wayght.

And Dauid built ther an aulter vnto the Lorde and offred burntofferinges and peaceofferinges, and called vppon the Lord, and he heard him from heauen in fyre vpon the aulter of burntoffrtng. And when the Lorde had spoken to the angel, he put vp hys swerd againe into the sheath of it. At that time when Dauid saw that the Lord had heard him in the threshing floore of Ornan the Jebusyte, he vsed to of-fre there. For the Tabernacle of the Lord, which Moses made in the wil-dernesse, and the aulter of burntoffe-ryng were at that season in the hyll of Gibeon. And Dauid coulde not go before it, to aske counsayle at God, for he was afrayd of the swearde of the aungell of the Lord.

¶ The. xxii. Chapter.

A And Dauid sayde: thys is the house of the Lorde God, and B this is the altar for the burntofferynge of Israell: And Dauyd commaunded to gather together the strangers that were in the land of Israell, and hee set masons to hewe free stone for the building of the house of God. And Dauid prepared plentie of iron for nailes: and dores of the gates, and to ioyne wythall, and aboun-daunce of brasse without waight, and Cedre trees wythoute numbre: For the zidons and they of Tyre brought muche Cedre woodde to Dauid. And Dauyd sayde: Salomon my sonne is ponge and tender, and the house that is to be built for the LORDE, must excede in greatnes, that it may be spoken of and praysed in all lands. I wyl therefore make ordeynaunce for it.
And so Dauyd prepared manye thin-ges before hys death. And hee called Salomon hys son, and charged him to builde an house for the Lorde God C of Israell. And Dauid sayde to Sa-2 Re. 7. b lomō: my son, I thought (as it was 2 Re. 4. a in myne heart) to build an house vnto the name of the Lorde my God.
But the worde of the Lorde came to me, saying: Thou haste shed muche blood, and haste made greate battayles: thou shalt therfore not buylde an house vnto my name: for thou haste shed much blood vpon the earth in my sight. Behold, a sonne is born to thee, and he shalbe a man of reste, for I wyll geue hym rest from all hys enemies rounde about. For his name is Salomon, and I will sende reste and peace vpon Israell in his dayes. He shall buyld an house for my name, and he shalbe my sonne, and I wylbe hys father, and wyll prepare the seate of hys kyngdome vpon Israell for euer.
Nowe therfore my sonne, the Lorde be with the, and prosper the, and thou shalt buylde the house to the name of the Lorde thy God, as he hath sayd of thee. And the Lorde shall geue thee C wisedome and vnderstandynge, and shal geue thee commaundementes for Israell, that ye maye kepe the lawe of the Lorde thy God. For then thou shalt prosper: euen when thou takeste hede and fulfyllest the statutes and lawes, which the Lord charged Moses with for Israel. Plucke vp thyne herte therefore, and be stronge, dreade not, nor be discouraged. Beholde, in myne aduersitye haue I also prepared for the house of the Lorde, an hundred thousande talentes of golde, and a thousande thousande talentes of syluer, and as for brasse and yron, it cannot be numbred, for it is very muche.
And I haue prepared tymber & stone, and thou mayest prouide more therto.
Moreouer, thou hast workmen with thee ynowe, and masons, and carpenters to worke in stone and tymber: and many men that be actiue for euery worke. And of gold, syluer, brasse and yron, ther is no number. Up therfore and be doynge, and the Lorde shalbe with thee. And Dauid commaunded all the Lordes of Israel to helpe Salomon hys sonne, saying: Is not the Lorde your God with you? and hath he not geuen you reste on euery syde? for he hath geuen the enhabitoures of

the lande into my hande, and the land is subdued before the Lord, and before his people. Nowe therefore set your hertes & your soules to seke the Lord your God. Up, and buyld ye the temple of the Lord God, to bring the arke of the couenaunt of the Lord, and the holy vessels of God into the house, so built for the name of the Lord.

1.Re.5a

AND Dauid the kynge sayde vnto all the congregacton: * God hath specially chosen Salomon my son which is yet yonge and tender, and the wozke is great: foz the house shall not be foz man, but foz the Lozde God. Mozeouer I haue prepared with all my myghte, foz the house of God, golde foz vessellies of golde, syluer foz them of syluer, bzasse foz thynges of bzasse, yzon foz thynges of yzon, & wood foz thynges of wood, and Onix stones, and stones to be set, glysterynge stones and of dyuerse colloures, and all maner of pzecioule stones, and marble stones in greatte aboundaunce. And because I haue luste to the house of my God: I haue of myne owne proper good, of golde and syluer whiche I haue seueralye geuen to the house of my God, besyde all that I haue pzepared foz the holye heuse, euen thzee thousande Talentes of golde, of Ophiz, and seuen B thousande talentes of tryed syluer to ouerlaye the walles of the house with all: the golde foz thynges of gold, syluer foz things of syluer, and foz all maner of wozke by the handes of artificers. And whosoeuer is wyllynge, may this day consecrate his hand vnto the Lozde. And so the auncient fathers, and the lozdes of the trybes of Israell, the captaynes of thousandes and hundzedes, with the lozdes that were rulers ouer the kynges wozke, were wyllyng, and gaue foz the seruyce of the house of God, fyue thousande talentes of golde, and ten thousande peces of gold, and ten thousand talentes of syluer, and .xviii. thouland talentes of Bzasse, and one hundzede thousande talentes of yzon. And they with whom pzecious stones were founde, gaue them to the treasure of the house of the Lozde, by the hand of Iehiel the Gersonite. And the people C reioysed, when they were so wyllyng to geue their goodes, & with a perfect herte they offered vnto the Lozd. And Dauid the kyng reioysed with great gladnes. And Dauid blessed the Lozd before all the congregacton, and sayd: Blessed be thou Lozde God of Israel oure father, from euer and foz euer. Thyne (O Lozde) is greatnesse, and power, glozy, victozye, and pzayse: foz all that is in heauen and in earthe is thine, and thine is the kyngdome (O Lozde) and thou excellest aboue all, euen as the heade of all. And rychesse and honoure come of thee, and thou reygnest ouer all, and in thyne hande is power and strength, and in thyne hand it is to make greate, and to geue strength vnto al. And now our God, we thanke thee, & pzayse thy glozious name. But who am I? & what is my people: ỹ we should enforce ourselues to geue these thynges so wyllyngly?

the Lorde God of their fathers, and bowed downe theyr heades, and worshypped the LORD, and the king.
And they offered offerynges vnto the theyr drynke Offerynges. Many ſa-

¶ The first Chapter.

AND Salomon the sone of Dauid waxed stronge in hys kyngdome: and the * Lord his god was 3 Re.3.a with him, and magnified him in the dignitye. And Salomon spake vnto all Israel, to the captains ouer thousandes, and to the captaynes ouer hundredes, to the Iudges, and to euerye officer in all Israell, and to the auncient fathers. And so Salomon and 3 Re.3.a all the congregacion with him * went to the hye place that was at Gibeon: 1.pa.21d * for there was the tabernacle of wit- *Ex.36. nesse of God * which Moyses the ser- 37.38. uaunte of the Lorde made in the wil- *2.re.6.a dernesse. But the Arke of God * had Dauid brought from Kiriath Iearim, into the place which Dauid had prepared therfore. For he had pytched a tent for it at Ierusalem. Moreouer Ex.38.a the brasen aulter * that Bezaleel the sonne of Uri, the sonne of Hur had made was there, before the tabernacle of the Lorde. And Salomon and the congregacion went to visite it. And Salomon gate vp there before the Lorde to the brasen aulter, that was 3.Re.3.c before the tabernacle of witnesse, and * offered a thousande burntsacrifices vpon it. And the same nyght dyd God appeare vnto Salomon, and sayd vnto hym: Aske what I shall geue thee. And Salomon sayde vnto God: thou haste shewed greate mercy vnto Da- Deu. 9.a uyd my father, and * haste made me to *3.re.3.a reygne in his steade. * Now therfore, O Lord God, let thy promysse which thou madest vnto Dauid my father, 3 Re.3.a be true. * For thou haste made me kynge ouer a people, whiche is lyke the dust of the earthe in multitude: Wherefore, geue me nowe wisdome and knowledge, that I maye be hable to go in and oute before this people: for who els (worthelye) can iudge thys people that is so greate? * And 3 Re.3.b God sayd to Salomon: Because this C was in thyne herte, and because thou haste not asked treasure and rychesse, and honoure, and the lyues of thyne enemyes, neyther yet longe lyfe: but haste asked wisdome and knowledge for thy selfe, to iudge my people, ouer which I haue made thee kynge: wisdome and knowledge is graunted vnto thee, and I wyll geue thee treasure and rychesse, and glory: so that amonge the kynges that haue bene before thee, or after thee, none was or shall be lyke thee. And so Salomon came from the hylauiter (that was at Gibeon) to Ierusalem, from the tabernacle of witnesse, and reigned ouer 3.re.10.b Israell. * And Salomon gathered D charettes, and horsemen: and he had a thousand and foure hundred charets: and twelue thousande horsemen, whom he bestowed in the charet Cytyes, and with the kynge at Ierusalem. * And the kynge made syluer and 3.re.10.d golde at Ierusalem as plenteous as stones: and Cedre trees made he as plentye as the mulberye trees, that growe in the valleyes. And the horses whyche Salomon hadde, were brought hym oute of Egypte by the kynges marchauntes, that were together, whiche beynge of one companye, toke them oute at a pryce. They came also and brought out of Egypte a charet for sixe hundred peces of syluer: euen an horse for an hundred and fiftye. And so brought they horses for all the kynges of the Hethites, and for the kynges of Siria, by theyr owne hande.

¶ The.ii. Chapter.

AND Salomon determined to B builde an house for the name of the Lorde, and an house for his kyngdome: And Salomon tolde oute threescore and ten thousande men to beare burthens, and foure score thousand men to hewe stones in the mountayne tayne: and thre thousand and six hun-sent to Hirom the kynge of Tyre, say-2 Re. 5 yng: As thou dyddest deale with Da-uid my father, and dyddest send hym Cedar wood, to build him an house to dwel in, euen so deale with me. For I am about to builde an house for the name of the Lord my God, to offre vn to him holye thinges, and to burne sweete incense, and to set shewbreade before him continually: to offre burnt sacrifyce of the mornynge and eue-ninge: on the Sabboth daies, in the first day of euerye newe moone, and in the solempne feastes of the Lorde oure God: for it is an ordinaunce to be con-B tinually kept of Israel. And the house which I build shalbe great: for great is oure God aboue all Goddes. But whoe is able to builde him an house: seyng that heauen, and heauen aboue all heuens is not able to receiue him: what am I then that I shold builde him an house: nay, but euen to burne sacrifice before hym, shall this buyld-ing be: send me nowe therfore a cunning man, that can worke in gold and siluer, in brasse and yron, in purple cre mosin and yealowe silke, and that can skil to graue, with the cunning men, that are wyth me in Juda and Jerusalem, whom Dauid my father didde prepare. Sende me also Cedar trees, Pyne trees, and Almuge trees, out of Libanon. For I wotte that thy seruauntes can skill to hewe tymbre in Libanon. And beholde my men shalbe with thine, that they may prepare me tymbre inough. For the house which I am determined to build, shalbe wōderfull great. And beholde, for the vse of thy seruantes, the cutters and hew-ers of timbre: I haue geuen. xx. thousande quarters of beaten wheate, and . xx. thousande quartes of barley, and C. xx. thousande bates of wyne, and. xx. thousande bates of oyle. And Hiram the king of Tyre aunswered in wrytinge, whiche hee sente to Salomon: Because the Lord hath loued his peo ple; therefore hath he made thee kyng ouer them. And Hiram sayde moreo-uer: blessed be the Lorde God of Israel, whiche made heauen and earth, and that hath geuen Dauid the kyng a wyse sonne, and one that hath discre tion, prudence and vnderstanding, to build an house for the Lord, and a palace for hymselfe. And nowe I haue sent a wyse man, and a man of vnderstandinge (whom my father Hiram did vse) * the sonne of a woman of the 3 Re. 7.b daughters of Dan, and hys father was a man of Tyre, and hee can skyll to worke in gold and siluer, in brasse, and yron, in stone and timbre, in purple, and yealowe silke, in fyne whyte and cremosin: and can graue sondrye maner of grauynges, and to find oute diuerse maner of subtil woorke that shalbe set before hym, with thy cunning men, and with ỹ cunning mē of my Lorde Dauid thy father. Nowe therefore, the wheat, and barley, oile, and wine, whych my Lorde hath spoken of, let hym sende vnto his seruan-tes. And we wyll cut wood in Libanon, as much as thou shalt nede, and we wil bring it to thee, in shyps by sea to Japho from whence thou mayest carie them to Jerusalem. And Salomon numbred all the straungers that were in the land of Israell, after the numbre of theym, whom hys father Dauid had numbred. And they were found an hundred and three and fyftie thousand and fyue hundred. And he set lxx. thousand of them to bear burthēs and. lxxx. thousande to hewe stones, in the mountaine: and thre thousand, and fyue hundred officers, to sette the people a worke.

¶ The. iii. Chapter.

AND Salomon began to build A the house of the Lord at Jeru- 1 par. 21 salē in mount Moria * where (the Lorde) appeared vnto Dauid his father, euen in the place that Da-of Ornan the Jebusite. And he begā 2 Re. 6.a to builde in the seconde daye of the second month the fourth yeare of hys rygne. And these are the patternes where-whereby Salomon was instructe to builde the house of God. The lengthe was three score cubites after the olde measure, and the breadthe .xx. cubites. The porche, that was in bredthe as large as the temple, hadde .xx. cubites: and the heigthe was an hundred and B xx. cubites: And he overlayde it on the inner syde with pure golde. And the greater house he siled with firre tree, which he overlaid with the best gold, and graued therto Palme trees and chaynes. And he overlayde the house with precious stone beautifully. And the gold was gold of Paruaim. The house (I saye) the beames, poostes, walles and doores therof, overlayde he with golde, and made grauen worke vppon the walles. And hee made the house moste holy, whose length was twenty cubites, like to the breadthe of the house, and the bredthe thereof, was also twenty cubytes. And hee overlayd it with good gold, euen with vi. hundred talentes. And the waight of the nayles of golde was fiftye sycles. And he overlayd the vpper chambers with golde. * And in the house moost holy, he made two Cherubins C of ymage worke, like children, and o-

The one wynge was fyue cubites, reachinge to the wall of the house, and the other wynge was lykewise fiue cubites reaching to ỹ wyng of the other Cherub. And euen so the one winge of the other Cherub was fiue cubites reachinge to the wall of the house, and the other wynge was fiue cubites also, and reached to the wynge of the other Cherub. So that the wynges of the sayde Cherubes were stretched oute twentye cubites. And they stode on theyr feete, and loked inwardes. And hee made a fore hanginge of yelowe silke, purple, cremosin, and fine white, and caused the pictures of Cherubs to be broudered theron. And he made before ỹ house, two Pyllers of .xxv. cubites hyghe. And the heade that was aboue on the toppe of euery one of them was fyue cubites, and he made chaines of wrethen wooorke for the quere, and putte them on the heades of the pyllers, and made an hundred pomegranates, and put them on the chaynes. And he reared vp the pillers before the Temple: one on the ryght hande: and the other on the left: and called the right Jachin and the left, Boaz.

¶ The .iiii. Chapter.

AND he made an alter of brasse A xx. cubites long, and .xx. cubites broade and ten cubytes hie. * And he caste a brasen Lauatorye 3.re.7.d. of ten cubits from brim to brym, roūd in compasse, and fiue cubites hie: and a line of thirty cubits did compasse it rounde aboute. And vnder it was the fashyon of Oxen which did compasse it round about: with ten cubites dyd they compasse the Lauatorye rounde about, and there were .ii. rowes of oxen whiche were caste of lyke molten worke. And it stode also vpon twelue oxen: thre loked towarde the Northe, thre toward the West, three towarde the South, and thre toward the East: and the Lauatory was set vpon them, and all theyr backes were toward the Lauatory. And the thickest of it was an hand bredth, and the brym lyke the brim of a cuppe with floures of lilies. And it receyued and held three thousand bates. * And he made ten lauers,

And hee made two bottomes, and lauers made he vppon the bottomes: the greate Lauatorye, and twelue Oxen vnder it. Pottes also and shouelles, flesshokes, and all these vessels did Hiram (hys father) make to kynge Salomon for the house of the Lorde of bryghte brasse. In the playne of Jordan did the kynge caste them, euen in the clay ground that is betwene Socoth and zaredatha. And Salomon D made all theese vessellesin greate aboundaunce, for the wayght of brasse could not be reckned. And Salomon made all the vessels that were for the house of God: the golden aulter also & the tables to set the shewbread vpon. Moreouer, the Candelstickes wyth their lampes (to burne after the manner before the queere) and that of precyous golde: and the flowres and the lampes, and the snoffers made hee of golde, and that perfecte golde: and the drestinge knynes, basens, spones, and sencers of pure golde. And (he made) the doore of the temple, and the inner dores wythin the place mooste holye, and the inner dores of the temple wer gylted. 8.Reg.7 * Salomon brought in al the thinges that Dauid hys father had dedicated, wyth the syluer and golde, and all the iewels, and put them among the treasures of the house of God. Then Salomon * gathered the elders of Israell together, and al the heades of the tribes and auncient fathers of the chyldren of Israell, vnto Jerusalem: to bryng the Arke of the couenaunte of the Lorde oute of the citye of Dauid: whiche is in Zion. Wherefore, all the men of Israel resorted vnto the king in the feaste, euen in the seuenth moneth. And all the elders of Israell came, and the Leuites tooke vppe the Arke. And the priestes and the Leuites broughte awaye the Arke and the tabernacle of witnesse, and all the holy vessels that were in the tabernacle, E and they bare them. And kinge Salomon, and all the congregation of Israell that were assembled vnto hym before the Arke, offred shepe and Oxen, so manye, that they coulde not bee tolde nor noumbred for multitude.

And the priestes brought the Arke of the appoyntmente of the Lorde vnto hys place, euen into the queere of the Temple, wythin the place moste holy, and set it vnder the wynges of the Cherubs, that the Cherubs stretched out theyr wynges ouer the place of the Arke, and the Cherubs couered bothe the Arcke and her barres aboue on hye. And the barres of the Arcke were so longe, that the heades of the barres were seene wythout the Arke wythin the queere, but not wythout. And there the Arcke remayned vnto thys day. But there was nothyng in C the Arcke, * saue the twoo Tables 3.Reg.8 whiche Moses put therein at Horeb, when the Lorde made a couenaunte with the chyldren of Israel, after they were come out of Egypte. But of the chyldren of Israel did Salomon make no bondmen for hys worke: but they wer men of warre, and rulers, and greate Lordes with him, and captaines ouer hys charets and horsemen. And king Salomons officers that ouersaw and ruled the people, were two hundred and fifty. AND when the Queene of Saba herd of the fame of Salomon, she cam to proue hym in hard questions at Jerusalem with a very greate companye wyth camels that bare spyces and plentie of golde, and precious stones. And when shee was come to Salomon, she communed with him of al that she had in her hearte. And Salomon soyled her all her questions, and there was not one word hyd from Salomon, which he tolde her not. And when the Queene of Saba had sene the wisdom of Salomō: and the house that he had built: and the meate of his table: the sittyng of his seruauntes, and the standing of his wayters, theyr apparell, his butlars, their apparell, his goinge vp, by the whych he wente into the house of the Lorde, there was no more spirite in her. And she said to ꝑ king: the saiinge, whiche I heard in myne owne lande, of thine actes, and of thy wisedome, is true. I beleued not the wordes of them, vntill I came, and myne eyes had sene it. And beholde, the one halfe of thy wysedome was not tolde me: for thou exceadest the fame that I herd. Happy are thy men, and happye are these thy seruauntes which stand before thee alway, and heare thy wisdome. Blessed be the Lorde thy God, which had lust to thee, to set the king on his seate, that thou myghtest bee king: ordeined by the Lorde thy God: Because thy God loueth Israel, and hath delite to make them continue euer: therfore made he thee king ouer theim: to doe ryghte and equitie. And she gaue the king an hundred and .xx. talentes of golde, and of spyces exceading great aboundance, and precious stones: neither was there anye more such spice, as the quene of Saba gaue kyng Salomon. And the seruauntes of Hiram and the seruauntes of Salomon which brought gold from Ophir brought also almuge wood and precious stones. And the kinge made of the almudge wood steppes in the house of the Lorde, and in the kinges palace, and harpes and psalteryes for singers. And ther was no such wood sene before in the lande of Juda. And kynge Salomon gaue to the Quene of Saba euery pleasaunte thing that shee asked, but not soo muche as shee brought vnto the Kynge. And so shee turned and went awaye to her owne land with her seruātes. The weight of golde that cam to Salomon in one yeare, was syxe hundred. lxbi. talentes of golde, beseydes that which chapmen and marchauntes brought, and al the kinges of Arabia, and rulers of that countrey brought gold and siluer to Salomon. And Kynge Salomon made two hundred buckelers of beaten golde, and syxe hundred sicles of beaten golde were spente vppon one buckler, and three hundred shieldes made he of beaten gold, and one shield cost three hundred peces of golde: and the kinge put theym in the house that was in the forest of Libanon. And the kynge made a greate seate of Iuorye: and ouerlayed it with pure gold. And there were syxe steppes to the seate, wyth a fotestole of golde fastened to the seate: and pommelles on eche syde of the sittting place, and twoe Lyons standing by the pōmels. And twelue lions stoode on the one side and on the other vppon the sixe steppes, soo that there was no suche worke made in any kyngdome. And all the drynking vesselles of kynge Salomon were of gold, and al the vesselles of the house that was in the forest of Libanon were of precious gold: for siluer was counted nothyng worth, in the daies of Salomon. And thei toke the strong cities in Juda, and came to Jerusalẽ. Then came Semeia the Prophete to Rehoboam, and to the lordes of Juda, that were gathered together within

And when the Lord sawe that they submitted them selues, the worde of the Lorde came to Semeia, saying: They submit thẽ selues, therfore I will not destroy them. And the chyldren of Israel fled before Juda, and God deliuered them into their hande. And Abia and hys people slue a great slaughter of them: there fell downe wounded of Israell fyue hundred thousande chosen men. Iud so the chyldren of Israell were brought vnder at that tyme, and the chyldren of Juda preuayled: because they leaned vnto the Lorde God of

A SO Abia slept with his fathers, and they buryed him in the citye of Dauid, and * Asa hys sonne Mat.1.b reygned in his stead. In whose dayes the lande was in quietnes ten yeare.
3 Re.15a And * Asa dyd that was good and right in the eyes of the Lord his God: for he toke awaye straunge aulters, and the hyaulters, and brake downe the images, and cut down the groues, and commaunded Juda to seke the Lorde God of their fathers, and to do accordyng to the lawe and commandement. And he put awaye out of all the cities of Juda the hyaulters and the ymages: and the kyngedome was quiet before hym. And he buylt strong cityes in Juda: because the lande was in reste, and he had no warre in those yeres. For the Lord had geuen him B reste. Therfore he sayde vnto Juda: let vs buyld these cityes, and make about them walles, towres, gates, and barres, for the lande is yet in reste before vs, because we haue sought the Lorde our God: we haue sought him, and he hath geuen vs reste on euerye syde: and so they buylte, and it prospered with them. And Asa had an armye of menne that bare shyldes and speares, oute of Juda, three hundred thousande: and oute of Ben Jamin that bare shyldes, and drue bowes, two hundred and foure score thousand, all these were valiant men. And there cam out against them Zarah, the blacke C Mozian, • with an hoost of. x. hundred thousande, and three hundred charettes, and came as farre as Maresa. 2.pa.16 c And Asa went out before him, & they ioyned the battell in the valey of Zephata beside Maresa. And Asa cried 1.re.14 b vnto the Lord his god, and said: Lord • It is no harde thynge with thee to helpe, either many, or them that haue no power, helpe vs therfore, O Lord our God: for we truste to thee, and in thy name we go agaynst this multitude. Thou art the Lord our God, & no man shall preuaile agaynste thee. D So the Lord smote the blacke Moores before Asa and Juda, & the blacke Moores fled. And Asa and the people that was with hym, folowed after them vnto Gerar. And the blacke Moores host was ouerthrowen, that there was none of them left, but wer destroyde before the Lord, and before hys hoste. And they caryed awaye a myghty great praye. And they smote all the cities round about Gerar. For the feare of the Lorde cam vpon them And they spoyled all the Cities, and ther was exceding much spoil in thē. They smote alse the tentes of cattel, and caryed away plentie of shepe and camels, and returned to Jerusalem.

The. xv. Chapter.

A And the spirite of God cam on Azaria the sonne of Obed. And he went out to mete Asa and sayde vnto hym: Heare me Asa, and all Juda, and Ben Jamin. The Lord is with you, while ye be with hym, and when ye seke hym, he wyll be founde of you: and agayne when ye forsake hym, he also wyll forsake you. And truely for a long season in Israell no man sought the true God, no mā regarded the priest that taught them, no man cared for the lawe. And when any man in hys trouble dydde turne vnto the Lord God of Israell, and sought him, he was found of them And in that tyme there was no peace to hym, that dydde go out and in: but great sedition was there amonge all the inhabiters of the earth. And nation was destroyed of nation, and citie of citie: for God dyd moue all aduersitie amōg them. Play ye therfore the men, and let not your handes slacke for youre woorke shall be rewarded. B And when Asa heard those woordes, and the prophecy of Azaria the sonne of Obed the Prophete, he tooke courage, and put away the abhominable ydoles out of all the lande of Juda and Ben Jamin, and out of the cities whyche he wanne in mount Ephraim, and renued the aultar of the Lorde, that was before the porche of the Lord. And he gathered all Juda and Ben Jamin, and the strangers with them oute of Ephraim, Manasse, and Simeon. For there fell many to hym out of Israell, whenne they sawe that the Lorde hys God was wyth hym. So they assembled C at Jerusalem the thirde moneth, the fiftenthe yeare of the reigne of Asa. And they offered vnto the Lorde the same tyme of the spoyle whych they hadde brought. vii. C. oxen, and. vii. thousande sheepe. And they made a couenaunt to seke the Lorde God of their fathers, with all their hart, and and all their soule. And who so euer would not seke the Lorde God of Israel, shuld dye for it: whether he wer small or greate, man or woman. And they sware vnto the Lorde wyth a loude voyce, shouting and blowynge with trompets and shaulmes. And al they in Juda reioyced at the othe, for they had sworne vnto the Lord wyth all their hart, and soughte hym with all their luste, and he was founde of them. And the Lord gaue them reste D rounde aboute on euerye syde. And kynge Asa put Maacha hys mother out of auctoritie, because she had made an abhominable ydol (of Priapus) in a grone: and Asa brake downe her ydoll, and stamped it, and burnte it at the brooke Cedron. But all the hyll aulters were not taken awaye out of Israell, though the herte of Asa was per-perfect all his dayes. And he brought into the house of God, the things that hys father had dedicate, and that hee hym selfe had dedicate: euen syluer, and gold, and Jewels. And ther was

And after certen yeres he wēt downe to Ahab to Samaria. and Ahab ſlue many ſhepe and oxen for him, and for the people that hee had with him, and entreated him to go vp with him vnto Ramoth in Gilead. And Ahab kyng of Iſraell ſayde vnto Iehosaphat Kinge of Juda: wilte thou goe with me to Ramoth in Gilead? And he aunſwered him: I will be as thou, B and my people ſhall bee as thyne, and we wil go with thee to the war. And Iehosaphat ſaid vnto the king of Iſrael: aſke councel I praye thee, at the woorde of the Lorde, this ſame daye. Therefore the kyng of Iſrael gathered together of prophetes. iiii. But Iehosaphat ſaid: is there yet here neuer a prophete more of the Lordes that we mighte aſke of hym? And the king of Iſrael ſayd vnto Iehosaphat: there is yet one manne, by whom we maye aſke the Lorde. But I hate him: for he neuer prophecieth me good, but alwaye euell, & the ſame is Michea the ſon of Jimla. And Iehosaphat ſayde: let not the kinge ſaye ſo. And the king of Iſrael called one of his chamberlaines, and ſaid: fetche hether quickely Michea the ſonne of Jimla. And the kyng of Iſrael and Iehosaphat king of Juda ſate either of them on his ſeate in theyr apparell, in a threſhyng flooze beſyde the gate of Samaria, and all the Prophetes prophecied before them. And one Zedekia the ſonne of Chanana had made him hornes of yron, and ſayde: thus ſaieth the Lord: wyth theſe ſhalt thou ouerthrowe Siria, vntill they bee brought to naught. And all the prophetes prophecied euen ſoo, ſaynge: Go vp to Ramoth in Gilead, and it C ſhall proſpere wyth thee: for the Lord ſhall delyuer it into the hande of the kynge. And the kinge sayde to him: So and so many times do I charge thee that thou saye nothinge but the truthe to me, in the D name of the Lord. Then he said: I did see all them of Israell scattered in the mountaines, as sheepe that haue no shepherd. And the Lorde sayde: theese haue no mayster, let thē returne euery manne therfore to his house in peace. And there came oute a E spyrite, and stode before the Lorde, and said: I wil deceiue him. And the Lord sayd vnto him: wherin? And Michea said: thou shalt se the day when thou shalt goo from chambre to chambre, for to hide thy self. And the king of Israell said, take ye Michea, and bryngе hym to Amon the gouerner of the city, and to Joas the kinges sonne, and ye shal say, thus sayeth the king: put this fe-low in the prison house, and fede hym with bryeade of affliction, and water of trouble, vntill I come agayne in peace. But the king of Siria had commaunded the Captaynes of the charets that were with hym, saying: see that ye fight not againste small or great, saue against the kyng of Israel only. And when the captaines of the charettes saw Iehosaphat, they said: G It is the kyng of Israel, and therfore they compassed aboute him to fyghte. But Iehosaphat cried oute, and the Lord deliuered him, & God chased thē away from him. For it came to passe that when the captaynes of the charettes perceiued, that it was not the kinge of Israell, they returned backe agayne from hym. And a certain man drew a bowe with all hys might, and smote the kynge of Israell betweene the ioyntes of his habergin. And hee sayde to hys charet man: tourne thine hand, that thou mayest cary me out of the hoste: for I am wounded. And the battel ceased that day. Howe be it the kinge of Israell caused his charette to stand stil against the Sirians vntyll euen. And about the time of the Sun goinge downe, he died.

AND Iehosaphat the kynge of Juda, came home agayne in peace to Jerusalem. And Jehu the sonne of Hanani the sear, wente oute to meete hym, and sayde to kyng Iehosaphat. Wouldest thou helpe the vngodlye, and loue them that hate the Lorde? Therefore is wrathe come downe vppon thee, from before the Lorde, Neuertheless there are some good actes found in thee, in that thou went out to the people from Beersathem agayne vnto the Lorde God of theyr fathers. And hee sette iudges in the land throwout all the stronge cities of Iuda, citye by citye: and sayde to the iudges: take heede what ye doo, for ye execute not the iudgementes of man but of God, whiche is with you in the iudgement. Wherfore nowe, let the feare of the Lorde bee vppon you: and take hede, and be doing the thyng

Eph. 6.b in Ierusalem did Iehosaphat sette of the aunciente fathers ouer Israell, in the iudgement and cause of the Lorde.

And they returned againe to Ierusa-

Thus shall ye doo in the feare of the Lord, with the truth and a pure hart: What cause so euer comme to you of your brethren that dwel in theyr Cibetwene statutes and ordinaunces, ye Thus do, and ye shal not offende. And beholde Amaria the hie priest is among the house of Iuda, hee is ouer suche and be doing manfully: and the Lorde

The. xx. Chapter.

After this also, it fortuned that the chyldren of Moab and the children of Ammon, and with them other of the Ammonites came a-came some that told Iehosaphat, say-and set himselfe to seeke the Lord, and proclaymed fastynge throwoute all Iuda. And they that were in Iuda, gathered themselues together, to aske counsell of the Lorde. And they came oute of all the cities of Iuda, to make intercession to the Lord. And Iehosa-phat stode betwene the congregatyon of the Lord before the newe court, and said: O Lord God of our fathers, art not thou God in heauen, and raignest not thou on all the kyngdomes of the able to wythstande thee. Art not thou

And all Iuda stoode before the Lorde of Mathania, a Leuyte of the sonnes of Asaph, and vpon him came the spirite of the Lorde, euen in the myddes of the congregacion. And hee sayde, herken all Juda, and yee inhabiters of Jerusalem, and thou king Iehosaphat: Thus saith the Lord vnto you: be not afrayd, nor faynte hearted by reason of this greate multitude: for the battell is not youres but Gods.

D To morow go ye downe against thē: for they come vp at Ziz, & ye shal finde them at the ende of the brooke before the wyldernes of Jeruel. Ye shal not nede to fighte in this battell: but stey forth and stand, and behold the helpe of the Lord which is wyth you: feare not, nor let your heartes fayle you: O ye of Juda and of Jerusalem. To morow go out against them: for the Lord wyl bee wyth you. And Iehosaphat bowed hys face to the earthe, and all Juda and the inhabiters of Jerusalem fel before the Lorde worshipping the Lord. And the Leuites of the childrenne of the Cahathytes, and of the childrē of the Corathytes stode vp, to prayse the Lorde God of Israell wyth a loude voyce on hye. And whā they arose early in the morning, they gat them out vnto the wildernesse of Thekoa. And as they went out, Je-E hosaphat stoode and sayd: heare me, O Juda, and yee inhabiters of Jerusalem. Put your trust in the Lord your God, that ye maye be founde faithful. Geue credence to his prophetes, and so shall ye prosper. And hee gaue the people councell, and set some to synge vnto the Lorde, and to praise him in the bewtie of holines, and to goe oute before the armie, as they went, and to say: praise the Lorde for his mercye lasteth euer. And what time as they beganne to laude and praise, then the Lorde stered vp certaine of the childrē of Ammon and Moab, whiche layed waite for thē that wer of mount Seir which wer come against Juda. And thei wer ouerthrowē with strokes among thē selues. For the childrē of Ammon & Moab rose against the inhabiters of mount Seir. And they slue and destroyed them. And when they had made an ende of the inhabiters of Seir, euery one helped to destroye another among them selues. And whē F Juda came to the edge of the wilderne, they loked vnto the multitude. And behold, they were dead carcalles fallē to the erth, and none escaped. And whē Iehosaphat and his people came to take away the spoyle of them, they founde amonge them aboundaunce of goods, rayment and pleasant iewels, which they toke for them selues, more then they coulde carye awaye: so that they were thre dayes in gatheryng of the spoyle, it was so muche. And the fourth daye they assembled in the valley of blessing: for ther they blessed the Lorde. And therfore they called the name of the same place, the valey of blessyng vnto thys day. And so all the men of Juda and Jerusalem returned with Iehosaphat their heade, for to go agayne to Jerusalem with gladnesse: for the Lord had made them to reioyce ouer their enemyes. And they came to Jerusalē with psalteries and harpes, and shawmes, euen vnto the house of the lord. And the fear of god. fell on the kyngdomes of all landes, when they had harde that the Lorde fought against the enemies of Israel.
And so the realme of Iehosaphat was G

And hee walked in the waye of Asa his father, and bowed not there from, doynge that whiche was ryghte in the syghte of the Lord. How be it the hyll aultares were not taken awaye, for the people had not yet prepared theyr hartes vnto the God of theyr fathers. The rest of the actes of Iehosaphat fyrst and last: beholde, they are wrytten among the sayinges of Jehu the sonne of Hanani, whyche noted them in the booke of the kynges of Israell. After thys dyd Iehosaphat kynge of Juda ioyne hym selfe wyth Ahaziahu kynge of

Israel,

Israel whose minde was to do wickedly. He coupled himself with him, to make shyps to goo to Tharsis, and they made the shippes in Ezion Gaber. And Elieser the sonne of Dodanah of Maresa prophecyed agaynste Iehosaphat, saying: because thou hast ioyned thy selfe with Ahaziahu, the Lord hath broken thy workes. And the shyps were broken that they were not able to go to Tharsis.

A 3.re.2.g. IEhosaphat also ✱ slepte wyth hys fathers, and was buried with hys fathers in the cityе of Dauid, and Iehozam his sonne raigned in hys stede: and he had brethren which were the sōnes of Iehosaphat, Azaria, Iethiel, Zacharia, Asaria, Michael, and Sephatiahu All these wer the sōnes of Iehosaphat kynge of Juda. And theyr father gaue them manye greate gyftes of golde, and siluer, and other specyal substaunce, with strong cities in Juda: but the kyngdome gaue hee to Iehozam, for he was the eldest.

But Edom rebelled stil, so that they wold not be vnder the hande of Juda vnto this daye. That same tyme also dyd Libna departe from being vnder hys hande, because Iehozam had forsaken the Lorde God of his fathers. Moreouer, he made hil aulters in the cities of Juda, and caused the enhabiters of Ierusalem to committe fornicatyon, and prouoked Juda to Idolatry. And there came a wrytinge to hym from Elia the prophet, saying: Thus sayth the Lorde God of Dauid thy father: because thou haste not walcked in the wayes of Iehosaphat thy father, and in the wayes of Asa kynge of Juda, but walkedst in the waies of the kinges of Israell, and haste made Juda and the dwellers of Ierusalem to goe a whoringe, lyke to the whordome of the house of Ahab, and haste slayne thy brethren, euen thy fathers house, whyche were better then thou: Beholde, wyth a greate plague wyll the Lorde smite thy folke, thy childrenne, thy wiues, and thy goodes. And thou shalte suffer greate payne: euen a dysease of thy bowels, vntill thy guttes fall out by reason of thy sickneslе, day by day. And so the Lord stirred vp against Iehozam the spryte of the Philistines, and the Arabians that were beside the blacke Moores. And they came vp into Juda, and wasted it, and caried away all the substaunce that was founde in the kynges house, and hys sonne, and his wyues: so that there was neuer a sonne left him, saue Iehohahas, which was the yongest among his sonnes. And the Leuites and all Juda dyd accordyng vnto all thinges that Jehoiada the priest had commanded, and toke euery man his men, that cam in on the Sabboth, with thē that went out on the Sabboth daye: neyther dyd Jehoiada the priest lette the companies depart. And Jehoiada the priest deliuered to the captains of hūdredes, speares, shieldes, and bucklers that had pertayned to kynge Dauid, and were in the house of God. And he set al the people euery man hauing hys weapon in hys hande frome the ryghte syde of the temple, to the lefte syde of the temple, along by the aulter and the temple, rounde aboute the kyng. And Jehoiada and his sonnes annoynted hym, and sayde: God saue the kyng. When Athaliahu heard the noyse of the people, runnyng and praising the kyng, she came to the people into the house of the Lorde. And she looked, and beholde, the kyng stoode in his place at the entryng in, and the Lordes and the trompettes were by the Kynge: and all the people of the lande reioyced, blowyng with trompets, and dyd playe with instrumentes of musyke, and taught to syng and prayse. But Athaliahu rent her clothes, and sayd: Treason, treason. And Jehoiada the priest went oute to the captains of hundredes, that were gouerners of the host, and sayd vnto thē: Haue her oute without the dooze of the temple: and who so folowyth her, let hym be slayne with the swearde. For the priest sayde, that they shoulde not slea her in the house of the Lord. And all the people went to the house of Baal, and destroyed it, and brake his aulters, and his ymages, and slewe Mathan the priest of Baal before the aulters. And Jehoiada put the offices for the house of the Lord vnder the hād of the prieste and Leuites, * as Dauid hadde distributed theim in the house of the Lorde, to offer burnte offerynges vnto the Lorde, * as it is written in the lawe of Moyses, with reioycyng and syngyng, as it was ordeyned of Dauid. For wycked Athaliahu and her chyldren brake vp the house of God, and all the thynges that were dedycate for the house of the Lorde dyd they bestowe for Bealim. And at the kynges commaundement, * they made a chest, and set it without at the gate of the house of the Lorde: and made a proclamacion throughe Juda and Jerusalem, to bryngе into the Lorde * the taxacion of money, that Moyses the seruaunte of God set vpon Israell in the wyldernesse. And the lordes and all the people reioyced, and brought in, and caste into the chest, vntyll it was ful.

And it fortuned, that at the same time they brought in the chest (vnto them which were in the kynges busynesse) by the hande of the Leuites. And whē they saw that ther was much money, the kynges scribe (and one appoynted by the hye prieste) came, and emptyed the chest, and toke it, and caryed it to his place agayne: thus they dyd daye by daye, and gathered muche money.

And the kynge and Jehoiada gaue it to such as dyd the laboure and worke in the house of the Lorde, and hyred masons and carpenters to repayre the house of the Lord, and so dyd they artificers in yron and brasse, to mende the house of the Lorde. And so the workemen wrought, and the worke mended throughe their handes, and they made the house of god as it ought to bee, and strengthed it. And when they had finished it, they brought the reste of the money before the king, and Jehoiada: and therwith were made vesselles for the house of the Lorde, euen vesselles to minister withal, and to serue for burntofferings, chargers, and spones, vessels of golde and syluer. And they offered burntofferinges in the house of the Lorde continually all the dayes of Jehoiada. But Jehoiada waxed olde, and dyed full of dayes. For an hundred and thirtye yere olde was he when he dyed. And they buryed him in the citie of Dauid E amonge the kynges, because he delte well with Israel, and with God, and with his house. And after the death of Jehoiada, came the Lordes of Juda, and made obeisaunce to the king. And the kyng herkened vnto them. And so they lefte the house of the Lorde God of their fathers, and serued groues and ydoles. And then came the wrath of God vpon Juda and Jerusalem, for thys their trespaces sake. And he sent prophetes to them, to bryng them agayne vnto the Lord. And they testified vnto them: But they would not heare. And the spyrete of God came vpon F Zacharia the sonne of Jehoiada the prieste, which stode by the people, and sayde vnto them: Thus sayeth God: why transgresse ye the cōmaundementes of the Lord, that ye can not prosper? For because ye haue forsaken the Lorde, he also hath forsaken you.

And they conspired against him, and stoned hym with stones at the com- mat.23.d maundement of the kyng: euen in the court of the house of the Lorde. And so Joas the kynge remembred not the kindnes which Jehoiada his father had done to him, but slue his son. And when he died, he sayde: the Lord loke vpon it, and require it. And when the G yere was out, it fortuned, that the host of Syria came vp agaynst him: & they came agaynst Juda and Jerusalem, & destroyed all the Lordes of the people from amonge the people, and sente all the spoyle of them vnto the kynge to Damasco: for the Syrians came with a small company of men, and the Lord deliuered a very great hoste into their hand, because they had forsakē the lord God of their fathers. And moreouer they serued Joas accordynge to hys dedes. And he dydde that whyche is ryght in the sight of the Lord, but not with a perfecte hearte. And as soone as he was settled in the kyngedome, he slewe hys seruauntes, that hadde kylled the kynge his father. But he slue not their chyldren, because it is wr tten thus in the law and boke of Moses, where the Lord commaunded, saying: * The fathers shall not dye for the children, neither shall the children dye for the fathers, but euery man shall dye for his owne sin. And Amaziahu gathered Juda together, and made them captaines ouer thousandes and ouer hundredes, accordyng to the houses of theyr fathers, throweout all Juda and Beniamin. And he numbred theym frome twentie yeare olde, and aboue, and found among theym, thre hundred thousand chosen men able to go to battell, and that could handle speare and shield. He hyred also an hundred thousand stronge fyghtyng men out of Israell, for an hundred talentes of syluer. And there came a man of God to hym, and sayd: O kyng, let not the armye of Israell come with thee: for the Lord is not with Israel, neyther with al the house of Ephraim. But if thou wylt nedes be faithlesse, come on, and take the battell in hand, & god shal make thee fall before the ennemy. For God hath power to helpe, and to cast downe. And Amaziahu sayd to the man of God: what shall we doo then, for the hundred talentes, whiche I haue geuen for the host of Israel? The man of GOD answered: the Lorde is able to gene the muche more then they bee. And Amaziahu seuered theim to the army that was com to him out of Ephraim to goe home agayne. Wherefore they were excedynge wrothe wyth Juda, and returned home in greate angre. And Amaziahu toke heart, and caried out his people, and went to the saite valley, and * smote of the chyldren of Seir ten thousand. And it chaunced, after that Amaziahu was come from the slaughter of the Edomites, he broughte the Gods of the children of Seir, and set them vp to be his gods and bowed hym self before them: and burned incense vnto them. Wherfore the Lord was wrothe with Amaziahu, and sente vnto hym a Prophete, whiche sayde vnto hym: why haste thou sought the Gods of the people, which were not able to deliuer their owne people out of thyne hand? And it chaunced, that as the Prophet talked with hym, the kynge sayde vnto hym: Haue men made thee of the kinges counsell, Ceasse, why wylt thou be beaten? And the Prophete ceassed, and said: I am sure that God is mynded to destroye thee, because thou hast doone thys, and agreest not vnto my counsell. * Then Amaziahu kyng of Juda tooke aduise, and sent to Joas the sonne of Jehoahaz, the soonne of Jehu kyng of Israel, and sayd, Com that we may se either other. And he wente to battell against the

And his name spred farre abroade, because he was helped so excellently, so that he became very mightie. But in his strength, his heart arose to his destructiõ: For he trangressed against the Lorde hys God, and went into the temple of the Lord, to burne cense vpon the altar of incense. whiche ye haue taken of your bzethzē: for else shall the great wzath of God that, the mē of armes left the captiues

Thimna with the townes of the same: Gimso, and the Townes thereof, and dwelte there. For the Lozde brought Juda lowe, because of Phaz kynge of Juda, whiche made Juda naked, and transgressed sore againste the Lozde.
And Thilgath Pilneser kynge of the Assirians came vppon him, and trou-

For Phaz toke away a portion out of

And they gathered their brethren, and purified them selues, and came accordynge to the commaundement of the king and the words of the Lorde, for to cleanse the house of the Lord. And the priestes went into the inner partes of the house of the Lorde to cleanse it, and broughte oute all the vnclennesse that they found in the tēple of the Lorde into the courte of the house of the Lorde. And Hezekia commaunded to offer the burntofferinge vpon the aulter. And when the burntoffering began, the songe of the Lorde began also, and the trompettes wyth the instruments that wer ordained by the hand of Dauid king of Israel. And al the cōgregation worshipped, singing a songe, and blowyng with the trompets, and all this continued, vntill the burnt offeringe was fynyshed. And when they hadde made an end of offerynge, the king and al that were presente wyth him, bowed them selues, and worshipped. And Hezekia the king, and the Lordes spake to the Leuites to praise the LORDE wyth the wordes of Dauid, and of Asaph the seer. And Hezekia answered, and said: now ye haue consecrate your handes to the Lorde: go to therfore, & bring in the sacrifices and thanckeofferinges into the house of the Lorde. And there to, the burntofferynges were manye, with the fatte of the peaceofferynges and the drynkeofferinges that belonge to the burntoffring. And Hezekia went to lustely, and buylte vp all the wall where it was broken, and made ordinaunce vppon the towres, and to the other wall without, and repayred Hyllo in the citye of Dauid, & made manye dartes and ſhyldes. And Sēnacherib also wrote a letter to raile on the Lorde God of Israell, and spake agaynst hym, sayeng: As the gods of the nations of other landes, haue not ben able to deliuer theyr people out of myne hande: Euen so shall not the god of Hezekia delyuer his people out of myne hand. And they cried with a loude voyce in the Iewes speache vnto the people of Ierusalem that were on the wall to feare them, and to make them fayntehearted, and that they myghte so take the citie. And they spake agaynste the god of Ierusalē, as against the gods of the nations of the earthe, whiche were the woorkes of the handes of men. But Hezekia the kyng and the Prophete Isai, the sonne of Amoz, prayed agaynst that blasphemie, and cried vp to heauen. And the Lord sent an angell, which destroyed al the mē of war, and the lords and captains of ꝑ host of the kynge of Assur, that he turned his face agayn with shame toward his owne land. And when he was come into the house of his god, they that came of his owne body, slue hym there with his swearde. And so the Lorde saued Hezechia, and the inhabiters of Ierusalem, out of the hād of Sennacherib kyng of Assur, and from the hand of all other, and mayntayned theim on euery syde. And many brought offerynges vnto the Lord to Ierusalem, and presentes to Hezekia king of Juda: so that he was magnified in the syght of al natiōs from thens foorthe. In those days Hezekia was sycke vnto the deathe, and prayed vnto the Lord, which answered hym, and shewed hym a wonderfull myracle. But Hezekia did not agayne vnto God accordynge to it that he had shewed hym: for his hearte arose, and there camme wrathe vppon hym, and vpon Juda and Ierusalem. Notwithstandyng Hezekia submitted hym self (after that his heart was rysen vp) he and the inhabiters of Ierusalem: and the wrathe of the Lorde came not vppon them in the dayes of Hezekia. And Hezekia had exceadynge muche richesse and honoure. And he gate hym treasures of siluer and gold, precious stones, and spices, shieldes, and of all maner of pleasant Iewels: and made store houses for the fruytes of corne, for wine and oyle: and stalles for all manner of beastes, and foldes for shepe. This same Hezekia stopped ꝑ vpper water sprynges of Gihon, and brought thē downe to the westside of the citye of Dauid. And Hezekia prospered in all hys woorkes. And when the Prynces of Babilon sent vnto him ambassadors, to enquire of the wondre that chaunced in the lande: God lefte him to trye him, and that all that was in his hart, myghte be knowen. The reaste of the dedes of Hezekia, and his goodnesse. Behold, they are wrytten in the vision of Isay the Prophet, the sonne of Amoz, in the boke of the kings of Juda and Israell. And Hezekia slepte with his fathers, and they buried him in the most worthy place of the sepulchres of the sonnes of Dauid: and all Juda, and the enhabiters of Ierusalem dyd hym worshippe at his death. And Manasse hys sonne raigned in hys stead.

¶ The .xxxiii. Chapter.

MAnasse was .xii. yeare olde, * whan he began to raygne: and he raigned .lv. yere in Ierusalem, but did euil in the sight of the Lord, like vnto the abhominations of the Heathen, whome the Lorde caste out before the childzen of Israell. For he went to and builte the hill aultare * whych Hezekia his father had broken downe. And he reared vp altares for Baalim, and made groues, and worshipped all the hoost of heauen, and serued them, and he buylt aulters in the house of the Lord, where as the 2.Re.7 b 2 par.6.a and.7.c Lord yet had said: In Jerusalem shal my name be for euer. And he buylded aulters for all the hoost of heauen in the two courtes of the house of the Lorde. And he burnte his chyldren in fire, in they valley of the sone of Hinnon. He was a sorcerer: he regarded the cryinge of byrdes, vsed inchauntments, and maintcined workers with spretes, and sears of fortunes: and wrought muche euell in the syght of B the Lorde to anger him withall. And he put the kerued ymage and an ydol which he had made in the house of God. Of which house, God had sayd to Dauid and to Salomon his sone: in this house and in Jerusalē, which I haue chosen afore all the trybes of 2.reg.7 b 3.Re.8 d 2 Pa.6.a and.7.c Israell, will I put my name for euer, and will nomore bryng the seate of Israell, from the lande whiche I haue ordeyned for your fathers. Yf so be that they will be diligente, and do all that I haue commaunded them in all the lawe, and statutes, and ordeynaunces by the hande of Moyses.

And so Manasse made Juda and the enhabyters of Jerusalem to erre, and to do worse then the Heathen, whom the Lorde destroyed before the chyldren of Israell. And the Lorde spake to Manasse, and to hys people, but they wolde not regard. Wherfore, the C Lorde brought hppon them the captaynes of the hoost of the kyng of the Assirians, whiche tooke Manasse in holde, and bounde him with cheynes, and caryed him to Babilon. And whē he was in tribulacion, he besoughte the Lorde his God, and humbled him selfe exceadyngly before the God of hys fathers, and made intercession to him, and God was intreated of him, and hearde hys prayer, and broughte hym agayne to Jerusalem into hys kingdome. And then Manasse knew, that the Lorde was God. After thys he buylte a wall without the citye of Dauid on the weste syde of Gion in the valleye, as they came to the fyshe gate, and round about Ophel, and brought it vp of a verye great heygth, and put captains of warre in al the strong cities of Juda. And he toke awai strāge goddes, and Jmages out of the house 3.pa.11 and.31.d
of God, and * all the aulters that he had buylte in the mounte of the house of God, & in Jerusalem, and cast them out of the citye. And he prepared the auiter of the Lord and sacrificed theron: peaceofferynges and thankeofferyngs, and charged Juda to serue the Lorde God of Jsraell. Neuertheles the people dyd offer styll in the hyl-D aulters, howbeit vnto the Lord their God onely. The reste of the actes of Manasse, and his prayer vnto hys God, and the wordes of the sears, and of them that spake to him in the name of the Lorde God of Jsraell: behold, they are wrytten in the sayings of the kynges of Jsraell. And hys prayer, and howe that he was hearde, and all hys synnes, and hys trespasse and the places where he made hylaulters, and set vp groues, and ymages (before he was mekened) behold, they are wrytten amonge the sayinges of the sears.
And Manasse slepte with hys fathers, and they buryed hym in hys owne house: and Amon hys sonne reygned in hys roome. Amon was two and twentye yere olde, when he beganne to reygne, and reygned two yeare in Jerusalem. But he did euyl in the syght of the Lorde, lyke as dyd Manasse his father: for Amon sacrifyced to all the kerued images, which Manasseh hys father had made, and serued theym, and submitted not hym selfe before the Lorde: as Manasseh hys father had mekened hym selfe. But Amon trespassed greately. And hys owne seruauntes conspired agaynst him, and slue him in hys owne house. But the people of the land slue all them that had conspired agaynste kynge Amon. And the same people of the lande made Josia his sonne kyng in hys roome.

A 4.Re.22.a IOsia was viii. yere old when he beganne to reygne, and he reygned in Ierusalem. xxxi. yere, & he did that which was righte in the sighte of the Lorde, and walked in the waies of Dauid hys father, and bowed nether to the right hande nor to the lefte. In the eyghte yere of his reygne (when he was yet a childe) he beganne to seeke after the God of Dauyd hys father. And in the xii. yeare, hee began to pourge Iuda and Ierusalem from hyaulters, grones, kerued ymages, and ymages of mettall: and they brake down the aulters of Baalim euen in hys presence: and other Images that were in greater honoure then they, he caused to be destroyed. And the groues, kerued Images, and images of metal, he brake and made dust of them and strawed it vpon the graues of them, that had offered vnto them. And he burnt the bones of the priestes vpon the aulters of them, and clensed Iuda and Ierusalem. And euen so dyd he in the cyties of Manasse, Ephraim, Simeon, vnto Nephthali. And in the wyldernesses of them round about, he plucked adonder the alters and the groues, and dyd beate them and stampe theim to pouder, and beate downe all the Images throughoute all the lande of Israell: and returned to Ierusalem againe.

In the. xviii. yere of hys reygne whē he had pourged the land and the temple. B He sente Saphan the sonne of 4.Re.22.b Amaziahu, and Maasiah the gouernoure of the citie, and Joah the sonne of Joahaz the recorder, to repaire the house of the Lord hys God. And whē they came to Helkiah the hie Priest, they deliuered theym the money that was broughte into the house of God, which the Leuytes that kepte the entries, had gathered of the hand of Manasse, and Ephraim, and of al that yet remayned in Israel, & of al Iuda and Ben Iamin, and of the inhabiters of Ierusalem. And they putte it in the handes of the woorkemen, that hadde the ouersight of the house of the Lord: and they gaue it to the labourers that wroughte in the house of the Lorde, to repayre and amend the house. Euē to masons and carpenters gaue they it, to get stone and tymbre for coulpes and for beames of the houses, whiche the Kinges of Iuda hadde destroied: And the menne dyd the worke faithfullye. And ouer the bearers of burthēs and ouer al that wrought in what soeuer woorkemanshyppe it were, were there Scrybes, officers, and porters of the Leuytes. And when they broughte oute the money that was broughte into the house of the LORDE, Helkia the Priest founde the Booke of the lawe of the LORDE, geuen by Moyses. And Helkia aunswered and sayde to Saphan the Scrybe: I haue founde the Booke of the law in the house of 4Re.22b the LORDE, and Helkia gaue the booke to Saphan. And Saphan caried the Booke to the Kynge, and broughte the Kynge woorde agayne, sayinge: all that was committed to thy seruantes, that do they. And they haue gathered together the money that was founde in the house of the LORD, and haue deliuered it into the handes of the ouerseear of the woorke, and to the hands of the woorkmen. And then Saphan the Scrybe shewed the Kynge sayinge: Helkia the Priest hath geuen me a boke, and Saphā red in it before the king. And it fortuned that when the king hadde heard the wordes of the lawe, he tare hys clothes: and the king commaunded Helkia & Ahikam the son of Saphan, and Abidon the son of Micah, and Saphan the Scribe, and Asaia a seruant of the kings, saying: go and enquire of the Lorde for me, and for them that are lefte in Israel and Iuda concerning the wordes of the boke

And so Manasse made Juda and the enhabyters of Ierusalem to erre, and to do worse then the heathen, whom the Lorde destroyed before the chyldren of Israell. And the Lorde spake to Manasse, and to hys people, but they wolde not regard. Wherfore, the C Lorde brought hppon them the captaynes of the hoost of the kyng of the Assirians, whiche tooke Manasse in holde, and bounde him with cheynes, and caryed him to Babilon. And whẽ he was in tribulacion, he besoughte the Lorde his God, and humbled him selfe exceadyngly before the God of hys fathers, and made intercession to him, and God was intreated of him, and hearde hys prayer, and broughte hym agayne to Ierusalem into hys kingdome. And then Manasse knew, that the Lorde was God. After thys he buylte a wall without the citye of Dauid on the weste syde of Gion in the valleye, as they came to the fyshe gate, and round about Ophel, and brought it vp of a verye great heygth, and put captains of warre in al the strong cities of Juda. And he toke awai strãge goddes, and Images out of the house 3.pa.18 had buylte in the mounte of the house of God, & in Ierusalem, and cast them out of the citye. And he prepared the auiter of the Lord and sacrificed theron: peaceofferynges and thankeofferyngs, and charged Juda to serue the Lorde God of Israell. Neuertheles the people dyd offer styll in the hyl-aulters, howbeit vnto the Lord their D God onely. The reste of the actes of Manasse, and his prayer vnto hys God, and the wordes of the sears, and of them that spake to him in the name of the Lorde God of Israell: behold, they are writtẽ in the sayings of the kynges of Israell. And hys prayer, and howe that he was hearde, and all hys synnes, and hys trespasse and the places where he made hylaulters, and set vp groues, and ymages (before he was mekened) behold, they are written amonge the sayinges of the sears. And Manasse slepte with hys fathers, and they buryed hym in hys owne house: and Amon hys sonne reygned in hys roome. Amon was two and twentye yere olde, when he beganne to reygne, and reygned two yeare in Ierusalem. But he did euyl in the syght of the Lorde, lyke as dyd Manasse his father: for Amon sacrifyced to all the kerued images, which Manasseh hys father had made, and serued theym, and submitted not hym selfe before the Lorde: as Manasseh hys father had mekened hym selfe. But Amon trespalled greately. And hys owne seruauntes conspired agaynst him, and slue him in hys owne house. But the people of the lande slue all them that had conspired agaynste kynge Amon. And the same people of the lande made Josia his sonne kyng in hys roome.

¶ The .xxxiiii. Chapter.

Josia

A 4.R.22.a

JOsia was viii. yere old when he beganne to reygne, and he reygned in Jerusalem. xxxi. yere, & he did that which was righte in the sighte of the Lorde, and walked in the waies of Dauid hys father, and bowed nether to the right hande nor to the lefte. In the eyghte yere of his reygne (when he was yet a childe) he beganne to seeke after the God of Dauyd hys father. And in the xii. yeare, hee began to pourge Juda and Jerusalem from hylaulters, groues, kerued ymages, and ymages of mettall: and they brake down the aulters of Baalim euen in hys presence: and other Images that were in greater honoure then they, he caused to be destroyed. And the groues, kerued Images, and images of metal, he brake and made dust of them and strawed it vpon the graues of them, that had offered vnto them. And he burnt the bones of the priestes vpon the aulters of them, and clensed Juda and Jerusalem. And euen so dyd he in the cyties of Manasse, Ephraim, Simeon, vnto Nephthali. And in the wyldernesses of them round about, he plucked asonder the alters and the groues, and dyd beate them and stampe theim to pouder, and beate downe all the Images throughoute all the lande of Israell: and returned to Jerusalem againe.

In the. xviii. yere of hys reygne whē he had pourged the land and the temple, he sente Saphan the sonne of 4.R.22. Amaziahu, and Maasiah the gouernoure of the citie, and Joah the sonne of Joahaz the recorder, to repaire the house of the Lord hys God. And whē they came to Helkiah the hie Priest, they deliuered theym the money that was brought into the house of God, which the Leuytes that kepte the entries, had gathered of the hand of Manasse, and Ephraim, and of al that yet remayned in Israel, & of al Juda and Ben Jamin, and of the inhabiters of Jerusalem. And they putte it in the handes of the woorkemen, that hadde the ouersight of the house of the Lord: and they gaue it to the labourers that wrought in the house of the Lorde, to repayre and amend the house. Euē to masons and carpenters gaue they it, to get stone and tymbre for coulpes and for beames of the houses, whiche the Kinges of Juda hadde destroied: And the menne dyd the worke faithfullye. And the ouerseers of theym to C; courage them forwarde, wer Jahath and Obadiahu Leuytes of the childrenne of Merari and Secharia, and Mesullam, of the children of the Cahathites and other of the Leuytes: which all couide skyl of instrumentes of musicke. And ouer the bearers of burthēs and ouer al that wrought in what soeuer woorkemanshyppe it were, were there Scrybes, officers, and porters of the Leuytes. And when they brought oute the money that was brought into the house of the LORDE, Helkia the Priest founde the Booke of the lawe of the LORDE, geuen by Moyses. And Helkia aunswered and sayde to Saphan the Scrybe: I haue founde the Booke of the law in the house of 4.R.22.b the LORDE, and Helkia gaue the booke to Saphan. And Saphan caried the Booke to the Kynge, and brought the Kynge woorde agayne, sayinge: all that was committed to thy seruantes, that do they. And they haue gathered together the money that was founde in the house of the LORD, and haue deliuered it into the handes of the ouerseear of the woorke, and to the hands of the woorkmen. And then Saphan the Scrybe shewed the Kynge sayinge: Helkia the Priest hath geuen me a boke, and Saphā red in it before the king. And it forturned that when the king hadde heard the wordes of the lawe, he tare hys clothes: and the king commaunded Helkia & Ahikam the son of Saphan, and Abidon the son of Micah, and Saphan the Scribe, and Asaia a seruant of the kinges, sayinge: go and enquire of the Lorde for me, and for them that are lefte in Israel and Juda concerninge the wordes of the boke that that is found. For great is the wrath of the Lorde that is fallen vpon vs, because our fathers haue not kept the worde of the Lorde, to do after al that is written in this booke. And Helkia and they that the kyng had apoynted, went to Hulda a prophetesse the wife of Sallum: the sonne of Tokhath, the sonne of Hasra keper of the wardrope (for shee dwelte in Jerusalem within the seconde wall) and so they communed with her. Shee answered them: thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israell, tell ye the manne that sent you to me: Euen thus sayth the Lord: beholde, I will bring euil vpon this place, and vpon the inhabiters therof (euen all the curses that are wrytten in the boke which they haue read before the king of Juda) because they haue forsaken me, and haue offred vnto other goddes, to angre me with all maner workes of their handes, therfore is my wrath set on fyre againste this place: and shall not be quenched. And as for the kyng of Juda whiche sent you to enquire of the lord, so shalye sai vnto him, thus saith the Lord god of Israell, concerninge the woordes which thou hast hard: Because thine heart did melt, and thou diddest meke thy self before God when thou hardest hys wordes againste this place, and againste the inhabiters therof, and humbledst thy self before me, & tarest thy clothes, & wepedst before me, that haue I hearde also, sayeth the Lorde. Beholde, I will take thee to thy fathers, and thou shalte be putte in thy graue in peace, and thine eies shal not see all the myschefe that I wil bring vpon this place, and vpon the inhabiters of the same. And thei brought the kyng word againe. * Then the king sent and gathered together all the elders of Juda and Jerusalē. And the kinge went vp into the house of the Lorde, and all the men of Juda, and the inhabiters of Jerusalem, and the priestes and Leuytes and all the people great and small: and the king did reade in their eares all the woordes of the boke of the couenaunte that was founde in the house of the Lorde. And the kinge stode at his standynge, and made a couenaunt before the Lord, to folowe the Lorde, and to kepe his cōmaundementes, and hys wytnesses, and hys statutes with all hys heart, and with all hys soule, and to fulfyll the woordes of the appointment wrytten in the sayde boke. And hee sette in theyr roume all them that wer found in Jerusalem: and Ben Jamin and the inhabiters of Jerusalem didde accordynge to the couenaunt of the Lord GOD of theyr fathers. And Josia putte awaye all maner of abhominacions oute of all landes that pertayned to the childzenne of Israell, and broughte in all that were founde in Israell, to worshippe and to serue the LORDE theyr GOD. And they turned not aside from after the Lorde God of theyr fathers, as longe as hee lined.

The .xxxv. Chapter.

And he settte the Priestes in their Offices: and ayded them in the seruice of the house of the Lord. And he sayd vnto the Leuytes (that taught all Israel, and wer sanctified vnto the Lorde:) Put the holy Arke in the house, which Salomon the sonne of Dauid kyng of Israell, dyd buylde, there shall no other burdeyn be layde vpon youre shoulders. But nowe serue the LORDE youre GOD, and hys people Israell. And prepare your selues by your auncyente householdes and companyes, accordynge to the writynge of Dauyd, kynge of Israell, and the writynge of Salomon hys soonne. THen commaunded king Darius, and they made search in the library, euen in the place wher they layed vp the treasure at Babilon. And there was founde in a coffer (in the place that is in the lād of the Medes) a volume: and therein was it thus wrytten, and suche a memoriall: In the first yere of king Cirus, gaue the same king Cirus commaundemēt concerninge the house of God at Jerusalem, that the same house shoulde bee builded in the place where they offer the Sacrifices, and to ioyne the walles together of three score cubites height, and three score cubites bredth. Thre rowes of rough stones, and one rowe of timbre, and the expenses shall be geuen of the kinges house. And let the golde, and siluer vessel of the house of GOD, which (Nabuchodonozor B tooke out of the temple at Jerusalem, and brought vnto Babilon) be restored, and brought againe vnto the temple at Jerusalem to theyr place in the house of God. Get you far from them therefore, thou Thahnai captaine beyonde the water, and Starbozanai, and your cōsailers and Aphersechei, which are beyond the water, get ye away from them. Let the worcke of the house of this God alone, that the captaine of the Jewes and theyr elders maye builde the house of God in hys place. Watche ye, and kepe it, for ye shall way it downe before the chiefe prīestes and Leuites, and auncient fathers of Israell at Ierusalem in the Treasuries of the house of the Lorde. ¶ The. vii. Chapter.

AFter these actes, there was in the reigne of Artaxerses kyng of Persia, one Esdras the sone of Saraiah, the sonne of Asaria, the sonne of Helkia, the sonne of Sallum the sonne of Sadoc, the sonne of Ahitob, the sonne of Amaria, the sonne of Asaria, the sonne of Meraioth, the son of Zeraia, ꝑ son of Asi, the son of Bucki, the sonne of Abisua, the son of Phinehes, ꝑ son of Eleazar, the son of Arō the chiefe priest. This Esdras also went vp from Babilon, and was a perfecte scrybe in the lawe of Moyses, Exo. 20a and which the Lord God of Israell dyd geue. And the kynge gaue hym all that he required, because the hande of the Lorde hys God was vpon hym. And ther went vp certayne of the chyldren of Israell: of the priestes, Leuites, syngers, porters, and of the Nethinims vnto Ierusalem, in the seuenth yere of kyng Artharerses. And he came to Ierusalem in the fyfth month, euen in the seuenth yere of the kynge. For vpon the firste daye of the firste moneth, beganne he to go vp from Babylon: and on the fyfte daye of the fifthe moneth came he to Ierusalem, because the good hande of God was vpon hym. For Esdras prepared his herte to seke the lawe of the Lord, and to do it, and to teach the precept and iudgement in Israel. And thys is the coppe of the letter, that kyng Artharerses gaue vnto Esdras the priest and scrybe: whiche was a wryter of the wordes and commaundements of the Lord, and of his statutes ouer Israell. Artharerses a kyng of kynges: Vnto Esdras the priest and scrybe of the lawe of the God of heauen, peace and salutacion. I haue commaunded that all they of the people of Israell, and of the priestes, and Leuites in my realme (which are minded of their owne good wyll to go vp to Ierusalem) go with thee: and therfore arte thou sente of the kynge and of his seuen counsailers, to vysit Iuda and Ierusalem, accordynge to the lawe of thy God, whiche is in thy hande: And that thou shouldest take with thee syluer and golde, which the kynge and hys counsaylers offer of theyr owne good wyll, vnto the God of Israell (whose habitacions is at Ierusalem) and all the syluer & golde that thou canst fynde in all the countrey of Babilon, with it that the people offer of theyr owne good wyl, and the priestes geue for the house of their God whyche is at Ierusalem. Take ¶ thou the same, and bye diligentlye with the same money, oxen, rammes and lambes, with theyr meatoffrynges and drynkoffrynges, and thou shalte offer them vppon the aulter of the house of youre God, whiche is at Ierusalem. And looke what it lyketh thee, and thy brethren to do with the remnaunte of the money, that do after the wyll of youre God. And the vesselles that are geuen thee for the ministracion in the house of thy God, those delyuer thou before God at Ierusalem. And whatsoeuer thing more shalbe nedefull for the house of thy God, which is necessarie for to spend, thou shalte receaue the charges oute of the kynges treasure house. I kyng Artharerses haue commaunded all the treasures beyonde the water, that loke whatsoeuer Esdras the priest and scrybe, in the lawe of the God of heauen, requireth of you, that ye fulfyl the same spedelye, vntyll an hundred

And we certify you: that ye haue no auctoritie to requyre taxinge and custome, and yearly rentes vpon anye of the prieستes, Leuytes, singers, porters, Nethinims and ministers in the house of hys God. And thou Esdras (after the wisedome of thy God, that is in thy hande) set iudges and arbytrers (by my auctoritie) to iudge all the people that is beyonde the water, euen all suche as knowe the lawe of thy God: and them that know it not, those see that yee teache. And I was comforted (euen as the hande of the Lord my God was vpon mee) and so gathered I the heads of Israel together, that they might go vp with me.

Of the childzen of the captayne of Moab, Elionai, the sonne of Zerahia, and wyth him two hundzed men. Of the childzen of Zechania the sonne of Jahaziel: and wyth him thze hundzed men. Of the childzen of Adin Abed the soonne of Jonathan, and wyth hym fyftie menne. Of the chyldzen of Elam, Isai the sonne of Athalia, and wyth hym seuentye men. Of the childzenne of Saphatia, Zebadia B the sonne of Michaell, and wyth hym foure score men. Of the childzenne of Joab, Obadia the soonne of Jehiel, and with him two hundzed and eightene men. Of the childzen of Selomith the sonne of Josophia, and with him an hundzed and thzee score men. Of the childzen of Bebai, zachari the sonne of Bebai, and wyth him eyght and twentie men. Of the chyldzen of Asgad, Johanan the sonne of Hakathan, and wyth him an hundzed and ten men. Of the childzen of Adonicam that were the laste, whose names are these: Eliphelet, Jehiel and Samaiah, and wyth them thzee score menne. Of the chyldzen of Biguai, Uthai, and Zabud, and with theym seuentie men. And I gathered theim together by the water that runneth towarde Ahaua, & there abode we thze dayes. And I looked amonge the people and the Pryestes, and founde there none of the childzenne of Leui. Then sente I to Eliezer, to Ariell, Semeia, Elnachan, Jarib, Elnathan, Nathan, Zacharye: and to Mesullam the rulers, and to Joiarib and Elna-

And (through the good hande of our God vppon vs) they brought vs a wyse manne from amonge the childzen of Moholi the sonne of Leui, the sonne of Israel: & Sarabia with his sonnes and his brethren, euen eightene. And Hasabia, and with him Isai of the childre of Merari, with his brethre, and their sonnes twenty. And of the Nethinims, whome Dauid and the princes gaue to minister vnto the Leuites, two hundred and twentye of Nethinims, whyche all were named D by name. And euen ther at the water, beside Ahaua I proclaimed a faste, that we might humble our selues before our God, and seke of him a ryght waye for vs, and for our children, and for all oure substaunce. For I was ashamed to require of the king, souldiers and horsemen, to helpe vs against the ennemy in the way: but we sayde vnto the kinge: The hande of our god is vppon all theym that seeke hym, in goodnesse, and (his dominyon,) hys violéce and wrath, is against all them that forsake hym. So wee fasted, and besonghte oure God for this, and hee heard vs. And I tooke out twelue of the chiefe priestes: Sarabia, and Hasabia, and ten of their brethren with them, and waped them the syluer and golde, and vessels that were appoynted for the house of oure God, whyche the king and his counsailers, and his Lordes, and all Israel that wer there at hande, had geuen together. And I waped vnto their hande sixe hundred and fifty talentes of siluer, and in siluer vessels an hundred talents, and in golde an hundred talentes, twentye basens of golde, of a thousande peces: and two costlye ornamentes of good brasse, as cleare as golde: and I sayde

E vnto them: Ye are consecrate vnto the Lord, like as the vessels are holy also, and the golde and siluer are geuen of a good wyll vnto the Lorde God of your fathers. Watche ye, and keepe it, for ye shall way it downe before the chiefe priestes and Leuites, and auncient fathers of Israell at Jerusalem in the Treasuries of the house of the Lorde. Then tooke the Priestes and Leuites the waped siluer and golde, and vessell, to bring it to Jerusalem, vnto the house of oure God. And we brake vp, from the water of Ahaua on the .xii. day of the firste month, to goo vnto Jerusalem: and the hand of our God was vpon vs, and deliuered vs from the hande of the enemyes, and of suche as laid wait for vs by the way. And we cam to Jerusalem, and abode there .iii. daies. But on the .iiii. daye was the siluer and golde, and vessell, waped in the house of our god, by the hand of Merimoth, the sonne of Uria the priest, and with him was Eleazar the son of Phinehes, & with thē was Josabad the sonne of Jesua, & Noadia the sonne of Benoz the Leuites. Accoding to the numbre and waypht of euery one, was the weight all wrytte vp at the same time. And the children of the captiuity, which wer come out of prison, offred burntofferinges vnto the God of Israell, twelue bullockes for al Israel .xcvi. rammes, seuen and seuenty lambes, twelue he goates for a sinneofferinge, all to the burntoffering of the Lorde. And they deliuered the kinges commission vnto the kinges officer, and to the captains ẏ wer on this side the water. And they promoted the people, and ẏ house of god.

I made my prayer also to the God of heauen, and sayde vnto the kynge: if it please the kynge, and if thy seruaunt haue found fauoure in thy syght, sende me vnto B Juda vnto the city of my fathers buryall, that I maye buylde it. And the kynge sayde vnto me (the quene hys wyfe syttyng by hym) how longe shal thy iourney continue, and when wilt thou come agayne? And it pleased the kynge to sende me: and I sette hym a tyme, and sayde vnto the kynge: Yf it please the kynge, let hym geue me letters to the captaynes whiche are beyonde the water, that they maye conuaye me ouer, tyll I come into Juda: and letters vnto Asaph the lord of the kynges wood, that he maye geue me tymber to make beames for the gates of the palace (whiche is harde by the house) & for the walls of the citie, & for ỳ house ỳ I shall enter into. And the kyng gaue me accordynge to the hand of my God, which was good vpō me. And when I came to the captaynes beyonde the water, I gaue them the C kynges letters. And the kynge dyd sent captaynes and horsemē with me. Sanabalat also the Horonite, & Tobia a seruaunt (the Ammonite) harde of it, and it greued them sore, that ther was come a man, whiche soughte the welth of the children of Israel. And I came to Jerusalem, and was there three dayes, and I gatte me vp in the night season, and a few men with me, neyther tolde I any man, what God had geuen me in my herte to do at Jerusalem: and there was not one beaste with me, saue it that I rode vppon. And I departed in the nighte by the valley porte, before the dragon well, and to the donge porte, and considred the walles of Jerusalem, howe they were broken downe, and the portes thereof consumed with the fire. And I went ouer vnto the well porte, and to the kynges condite, & there was no roome for the beaste that was vnder me to passe. Then went I on in the night by the broke syde, and considred the wall, and turned backe, and came home agayne by the valley porte. And the rulers knew not whither I went or what I dyd: neyther dyd I as yet tel it vnto the Jewes, to the priestes, to the noble men, to the rulers, and to the other that laboured in the worke.
D Then sayde I vnto them: ye see the miserie that we are in, howe Jerusalem lieth waste, & how the gates therof are brent with fire: come therfore, that we may buyld vp the wal of Jerusalem, and that we be no more a rebuke. And I tolde them of the hand of my God, that it was gracious ouer me) and the kynges wordes that he had spoken vnto me. And they sayde: Let vs get vp & build: and they streng thed their hande to good. But when Sanabalat the Horonite, and Tobia the seruaunt (an Ammonite) and Gesem the Arabian herd it: they laughed vs to scorne, and mocked vs, and sayd: what is this that ye do? wyll ye fall waye from the kynge? Then answered I them, and sayd: the God of heauen, he it is that hath graunted vs prosperitie, and we be hys seruantes. Let vs get vp and buyld: As for you, ye haue no portion, nor righte, nor remembraunce in Jerusalem.

1 BVt whē Sanabalat herd that we buylded the wall, hee was wroth in hym selfe, and tooke greate indignation, and mocked the Jewes, and sayde before his brethren and the souldiers of Samaria, what do these impotente Jewes? wyll the hethen suffer thē? shal they offre? shal they perfourme it in one daye? shall they make the stones whole agayne, that are broughte to dust and brente? And Tobiah the Ammonite was beside him, and said: Though they build yet if a fore goo vppe, hee shall breake dowue theyr stonye wall. Heare (O thou oure God) for we are despysed turne theyr shame vppon theyr owne headde, and gyue theym ouer into the despysynge in the lande of theyr captiuitie. Couer not theyr wickednesse, and let not theyr sinne be put oute in thy presence: for they haue prouoked the builders. And so buylded wee the wall, and it was ioyned whole together, vnto the half height therof. And the people were minded to labour.

2 And it fortuned that when Sanabalat, and Tobiath and the Arabians, Ammonytes: and Asdodytes hearde, that the walles of Jerusalem were made vp, and that the gappes beganne to be stopped, they were very wroth, and conspyred all together to come and fight against Jerusalem, and to make the people an hynderaunce ther in. Neuertheless, we made our prayer vnto our god, and set watchmenne by them which buylded day and night ouer agaynst them. And Jud asayde: the strength of the bearers is so feble: and there is yet muche more moter, and wee are not able to builde on the wall. And oure aduersaries said: they shall not knowe neyther see: tyll wee come in the myds among them, & slay them & hinder the worke. But it fortuned ẏ when the Jewes (whych dwelt beside theym) came, they tolde vs as good as tenne times: that in all places wher ye go vnto, they are apointed to fall vpon vs. Therfore set I the people after their kinredes wyth theyr swoordes, speares, and bowes beneth in the lowe places behynde the wall, and I loked, and gat me vp: and saide vnto the chefe menne: to the rulers: and to the other people, bee not ye afraide of them: but thinke rather vpon the great Lorde, which ought to be feared and fighte for your brethren your sonnes, youre daughters: youre wyues, and your houses. Neuertheless, it chaunced that when your enemies heard, that we had gotten word of it, God brought theyr councell to nought: and we tourned all againe to the wall: euery one vnto hys labour. And from that time forthe it came to passe that the halfe parte of the yong men dyd the labour, and the other half part of them held the speares, sheldes, bowes: and brestplates and the rulers stoode behynde all the house of Juda, whiche builded on the wall, and bare burthens from those that laded them. With one hand did euery one worke, and wyth the other held he hys weapon: And euery one that builded: had hys swoorde, gyrde by his thigh, and soo builded they. And the trompette blewe beside me. And I said vnto the principall menne, to the rulers, and to the other people: the worke is greate and large, and we are seperated vpon the wal one farre from an other. Loke in what place therefore yee heare the noyse of the trompette: resorte ye thither vnto vs, and oure GOD shall fyght for vs: and we wylbe labouringe in the worke. And the halfe part of thē held the speares from the morninge spryng:

spring: til the starres came forthe. And at the same time said I vnto the people: euery one abide with his seruaũt at Jerusalem, that in the night season we maye watche, and laboure on the day time. As for me and my brethren, my seruauntes, and the menne of the watch (whiche were behinde me) we put neuer of our clothes, no more thē the other did their harnesse, saue only because of the water.
